ACCORDING to the Philadelphia Times, they at least have one Governor in Maine whose title is not disputed. It is His Excellency, Soebesin Swassin, Governor of the Penobscot Indians.

Mr. Le Duc, Commissioner of Agriculture at Washington, wants his Bureau converted into an Executive Department, and its official head dignified as a cabinet officer.

THE New York World pertinently remarks that in electing Garfield to the United States Senate the Ohio Republicans "have chosen the ablest man and cleverest politician entered by them for the prize."

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

From our regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 12, 1880.

Congress drags its slow length along. Neither House has got warmed up to its work as yet, and beyond the introduction of bills and transaction of routine business, has not made much of a record.

The members and Senators dropped into their seats on the 6th as quietly as if at labor on the 5th, and, as usual, consumed the morning hour with routine matters.

The agency which has exercised the faithful who wanted to serve the country as our city postmaster, with $1,000 a year attached, has been ended by the appointment of an Ohio man to the position.

A Veteran of the Navy and Army.

THE OLDEST OF THE LITTLE SQUAD OF 1812 MEN DIES AT NINETY THREE.

Major Charles K. Crowley, a veteran of the war of 1812, was buried in New York on last Saturday morning.

A Chip Out of the Old Block.

Danger Commercial.

Our readers have noticed by our despatches that Emmons Blaine, son of James G. Blaine, a youth of remarkable precocity and conceit, on the day of the organization of the House, attempted to wrench the gavel from Clerk Gibbs's hand in defiance of the assembled members of the House.
