—Mr. William Laurie, Bellefonte's tall and graceful contribution to the young gentlemen inhabitants of Phillipsburg, spent Sunday last at his home in this place, numerous young ladies joining with his relatives in their joy at his presence.

—To-day is known in the Episcopal church as Ascension Day, and in observance of it, the week-day meeting, usually held on Wednesday evening, was postponed until 7½ o'clock p. m. to-day. The services will be accompanied by an appropriate sermon.

—D. G. Bush, Esq., has been in town during the past week. Although Mr. B. owns a beautiful residence and other extensive properties in town, he and his family spend most of their time in other parts of the country. We hope the presence of the honored sire is but a precursor that his family will soon follow.

—The Phillipsburg Journal informs us that the efforts of State Secretary Taggart, in connection with Mr. W. A. Magee, of Morrisdale Mines, to form a Young Men's Christian Association at Phillipsburg, were entirely successful, and that the first devotional services of the organization were held in the lecture room of the M. E. church last Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

—Hoover, Hughes & Co., of Phillipsburg, have recently opened a store at Houtzdale, and in order to make the new enterprise a success, have transferred our young friend, Mr. Edward Humes, from the former establishment to the latter. To render a certainty yet more sure, the services of Mr. Mahlon Fryberger have been secured as manager of the Houtzdale store.

—Centre county fared well enough in the Democratic State Convention last week, receiving one of the district delegates to the National Convention to nominate candidates for President and Vice President, and also the district elector, the former in the person of Mr. J. N. Cassanova and the latter in the person of our fellow townsman, Calvin M. Bower, Esq. In each case the compliment is well bestowed.

—The Democratic sheriff of Bedford county was a visitor in town on Thursday of last week. His name is Mr. W. G. Eicholtz, and he was accompanied in his tour of calls while here by Mr. Calvin Smith, the competent baker in the Bush Arcade building, who is also a former resident of Bedford county. Mr. Smith has our thanks for not allowing his handsome Democratic friend to pass us by.

—A magnolia tree, bearing the weight of several hundred fair and fragrant blossoms, now adorns the yard before the residence of Mrs. Mary Moran on Allegheny street. It is one of the first and most beautiful floral visitors of spring time, blossoming before the leaves are developed, and rivaling in its beauty the luxuriant flowers of summer and fall. This beautiful specimen of the floral world is a fair representative of the refined taste of its fair owner.

—Gen. Grant, it is reported, will remain at his home in Galena, Ill., all summer, except a short time during the hot season. Where he expects to go during his absence from Galena is not known, but as the General has visited almost all the other attractive places in the world, it is possible that he will come here to examine into the workings of Sechler & Co's grocery store. He has often heard of this wonderful grocery store, and will not rest satisfied until he sees it.

—"Heller," the magician, was programmed to give an exhibition of his magical skill in this place on Friday evening last, but when he discovered that an entertainment so excellent as the Anglo-American Marionettes failed to attract an audience, he knew it was useless for him to attempt to do so, and gave up the experiment in disgust. He paid his printing bills, however, with a promptness worthy of better success.

NOTHING TO LEGISLATE UPON.—The usual number of borough councilmen met last Monday night, but it was found that there is little business of importance at present demanding their attention. Requests were received for the erection of two gas lamps—one on High street near Mr. Patrick Dooley's new residence and one in the vicinity of the Friends' meeting house on Pike street; also a request that the water pipes be extended along Linn street to Mr. Morris Cowdick's residence. Then the Market committee went through the form of submitting a report, showing that the market fees had reached $2.50. The Finance committee reported a small amount paid on tax duplicates. All the legislation pending was speedily dispatched and council adjourned to meet again on May 17th.

—Although the Constitution asserts that all men are endowed with equal rights, it is, nevertheless, true that they are not gifted with equal capabilities. Some men have capabilities for one pursuit in life and some for another, and they are given these in a greater or less degree. No observing mind can doubt that Sechler & Co. are exactly the men to keep a first-class grocery store. Their success in the past and their prosperity in the present inspire confidence, and are attracting to them a large part of Centre county's patronage.

—Every season witnesses the perfecting of some new art in the preservation in a pure state of fruits, meats, &c. New vessels are patented in which to safely keep and conveniently measure syrups and oils. Then there are instruments for cutting the exact amount wanted of dried meats, cheese and articles of a similar nature. These all add to the complicity of the grocery business, as every enterprising grocer must have his store well supplied with modern appliances. Among the groceries which excel in this respect is the store of S. A. Brew & Son. They provide in every possible manner for the comfort and convenience of their customers.

—Mr. John Wolf, a worthy citizen of this place, was the victim of a serious accident on Wednesday morning of last week. As he was engaged in painting the residence of Mr. Nicholas Bower, on Bishop street, he attempted to step from the ladder to the roof of the house, and in doing so slipped and fell to the ground, a distance of twenty feet. His left arm was fractured in several places, with a very serious break at the elbow. It is feared that he will never regain the use of his arm, although hopes are entertained that the skill of the attending physician may avert such an unhappy result. At present, he is getting along very well.

—The Anglo-American Marionettes, who visited this place on Wednesday and Thursday last, gave a most charming and moral entertainment. The large amount of scenery introduced to set off the performance was of the most elegant description, and in combination with the brilliant toilets adorning the bodies of the little wooden figures, created an agreeable stage effect. But the attendance on Thursday was so small that it was hardly worthy a performance. The company were not disheartened, however, as they receive well-merited support in other places they visit, and travel with a well-filled exchequer. They paid their bills "like a man." But they will not be apt to repeat their visit to this place.

—"Advance and Retreat" is the title of the posthumous book of General J. B. Hood, whose modest personal bravery was the admiration of every one during the late war. It is a narrative of his personal experiences in the Armies of the United States and the Confederate States. It is very handsomely printed, octavo size, containing 360 pages, with a handsome heliographic portrait in full military costume, and a fine line engraving of the warrior in citizen's dress. Both are excellent likenesses. The book also has four lithographic maps of battle fields. The price of the book, handsomely bound in gray English cloth, is only three dollars, and a copy will be sent by mail, registered, postage free, on the receipt of that amount, by General G. T. Beauregard, New Orleans, La.

—The second week of court began on Monday, and brought quite a number of strangers to town on legal business. On the register of the Brockerhoff House we notice the names of Hon. George R. Barrett, of Clearfield county, and Messrs. William Gerod, Dorr Russell and Felix McCloskey, of New York, who are interested in business before the court.

—We are greatly indebted to Mrs. M. E. Campbell, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, for a package of newspapers—three in number—published at that place. We derived much pleasure from a perusal of them and judge that Grand Rapids must be a thriving and prosperous city. To our friend we return our sincere thanks for her kindness.

—Next Friday evening is the regular time for the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association. The presence of all the committee is desired.

—David L. Krebs, Esq., of Clearfield, and Mr. J. N. Cassanova, of Phillipsburg, are registered at the Bush House this week. They are attending court.

—We advise all persons to order fall and winter clothing early. Our heavy weights will be on sale May 1st. 19-1f. MONTGOMERY & Co., Tailors.

NOTES FROM HOWARD.—Death seems to have found a field ripe for his sickle in our good old neighborhood and is gathering his harvest with unrelenting energy. Within a few months an unusually large number of our old citizens have answered to his summons. Within ten days no less than three who have lived long, useful and respected lives among us have gone down into the "deep dark valley," and as we write we hear of others who are "only waiting." On Sunday of last week, April 25, Michael Schenck, Sr., who had lived the allotted "three score years and ten," in this community, departed, following closely his life-long companion, and leaving behind him the fragrant memory of a well-spent life. Mr. Schenck was a member of one of the oldest families on the Bald Eagle, and was "laid beside his fathers," in the family burying ground a short distance below the village. Old as Michael Schenck was he left behind an uncle, Daniel Schenck, who was a voter before Michael was born, but who followed him to the same resting place, but a few days after, at the ripe age of ninety-two years. Daniel Schenck was born in Lancaster county, April 2, 1788, and removed with his parents to his late home on the Bald Eagle in 1796. This was then a wilderness, and was a part of Millin county, compelling the very few inhabitants of these parts to journey all the way to Lewistown to attend court.

From a point of time at which the Nineteenth century, now rapidly nearing its close, was yet spoken of as in the future, until within a few days back, Daniel Schenck has toiled and labored on the same farm, on the banks of the beautiful Bald Eagle; and now calmly rests in his last home on a portion of the land from which, as a boy, he helped remove the grand old oaks which had held it in undisputed possession for centuries. Mr. Schenck's life was one of honest toil, and unpretentious piety. For more than sixty years he was a consistent member of the Mennonite church, and lived in strict observance of all its ordinances. Mr. Schenck was in no sense a politician at any period of his life, but esteemed highly the privilege of franchise, and made a conscience of voting at every election, first with the Whigs and afterward with the Republicans. His laborious and prudent life was rewarded with abundant success, and he leaves four farms, now occupied by his two sons. His funeral, conducted by Rev. Mr. Carrs of this place, and Rev. Jno. Brubaker, a venerable preacher of the Mennonite faith, was very largely attended by the relatives and friends, to whom he had been "Uncle Daniel" for so many years.

Scarcely had our community recovered from the shock occasioned by the death of so old and well known a citizen, before it received another in the announcement, by telegraph, of the death of Miss Susan C. Montgomery, daughter of the late Joseph Montgomery. Miss Montgomery had for some time been a sufferer from cancer, and after seeking relief in vain from repeated surgical operations, visited a sister, Mrs. Campbell, living near Belleville, Millin county, for the purpose of undergoing special treatment there. This also proved futile, and on Monday last, she gave up the unequal struggle, and calmly yielded to the great last enemy, in the fifty-sixth year of her age. For near twenty-five years Miss Montgomery had been an active and zealous member of the Lick Run Presbyterian church, and her loss in this relation will prove only less irreparable than that sustained by the family in which she was held in such affectionate esteem. Possessed of a religious character of great purity; much more than ordinary intelligence; great vivacity, and a never ceasing flow of spirits, Miss Montgomery was not only the life of the home circle, but so pleasing a social companion that her death will leave a void in the community that can never be filled. She was buried yesterday morning, and as her relationship was very extensive, her funeral was largely attended.

These deaths, so rapidly succeeding each other, and following so close upon others which have already been noticed in your paper, cast a shade of quiet over our community, and yet the busy hum of life goes on. Mr. Lauth's improvements of the old Howard Iron Works make rapid progress. The new church built by him approaches completion, and before many weeks will be ready for dedication. New houses, barns and fences, are being erected on all sides, and changes intended to facilitate the business of the establishment seem to be of daily occurrence. A couple of young ladies, daughter and granddaughter of the late Squire Sperring, have taken steps to improve what seems to be a good business opening, by starting a fancy store in connection with a millinery and dressmaking establishment. The young ladies deserve to succeed, and we hope they may. Our farmers are as busy as usual at this season, and it is gratifying to notice that they seem to be improving in their methods. Land is tilled more carefully, and more attention is paid to the prime necessity of keeping it in good condition than formerly. We learn that tobacco will be tried to a considerable extent in this neighborhood this season.

A man named Lamsin, who came from Clinton county to this neighborhood this spring, seems to have been sorely afflicted by ill health in his family. He brought with him a lad of some fifteen years for a full third of his life had suffered from a diseased leg. Dr. Henzel learned of it, and of the father's inability to meet the heavy expenses of proper treatment, and in the kindness of his big heart called to see the lad. He found him in a terrible condition, and decided that amputation alone could save his life, and with the chances against him even then. The Doctor took prompt measures to make the boy a public charge, so far as expenses for proper food and medicine were concerned, and after some weeks of nourishment and medication to get the little fellow's system in condition to endure the operation, amputated the leg, above the knee, on Monday last, being assisted by Dr. Dobbins of your town. It is needless to say that the operation was a skillful and successful one. The Doctors agreed that the patient could not have lived many months with the leg on. The only chance for life he had was in amputation, and this was by no means a promising one. The poor little fellow bore the shock of the operation quite as well as it was expected he would, and if he should get on the next two or three days as well as he has so far, he may yet have a long and measurably useful life. Dr. Henzel deserves and receives much credit for the humanity and energy as well as skill, displayed in the case.

[The above communication was written on Tuesday evening, and as we go to press we learn that the poor boy died Wednesday morning.]

DEATH OF AN OLD CITIZEN.—Mr. Joseph Green, one of the most aged citizens of Milesburg, died at his home in that place on Sunday morning last after a long illness. He was father of our respected townsman, Mr. F. P. Green, of Edward A. Green, of Mill Creek, Huntingdon county, and of J. Miles Green, of Milesburg. Mr. Green was born in Milesburg on November 30, 1800, and was therefore about eighty years of age. For many years he was manager of the iron works at Centre Furnace. When 32 years of age he united with the Baptist church, of which he has ever since been a faithful member. On the 31st of January, 1828, he was married to Catherine Miles, granddaughter of Col. Samuel Miles, who preceded him to the heavenly home. His funeral services were held at Milesburg on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. J. Green Miles, a cousin of the deceased, officiating. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and all his pall-bearers were chosen from that Order. The deceased was a highly esteemed gentleman, and will be long mourned for by a numerous circle of friends and acquaintances.

BRIEF SYNOPSIS OF COURT PROCEEDINGS.—The following cases were disposed of in the Court of Common Pleas, up to the time of going to press:

David Keller vs. S. H. Stover. Verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $5.

Wm. Iddings vs. Joseph Iddings. Verdict for plaintiff of $79.54.

Joe Tibbens vs. Overseers of Poor of Snow Shoe township. Plaintiff suffers non-suit.

R. F. Clow use of Yncoseno Cassanova vs. The Derby Coal Company of Pennsylvania et al. was tried, but judgment has not been entered yet.

The case of John Hoy for the use of his wife vs. Harper Brothers and John Gingrich is now on trial, but is not yet disposed of.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR.—We refer to Hon. George A. Crawford, of Fort Scott, Kansas, who paid this place a visit last week on his way to New York City. He is a valued friend and did not neglect to call. He was once a prominent citizen of Lock Haven, this State, and was the youngest man on the Democratic electoral ticket of Pennsylvania in 1856. The following year he went to Kansas, where he has ever since been prominent in Democratic politics, being chosen Governor of the State by a large majority in 1861. While in New York City he will represent his State in a conference of commissioners from all the States regarding the World's Fair to take place in that city in 1883. Kansas has in Mr. Crawford an able representative.

REPOSING IN HIS LAST, LONG SLEEP.—Mr. John Musser, an aged gentleman residing with his son, John J. Musser, in Spring township, was found dead in bed last Thursday evening. After dinner he had retired for his usual nap, and as he did not appear at supper time, a member of the family went to call him, only to discover that he was reposing in that sleep which has its waking beyond the grave. He was eighty-eight years of age. His sudden death is lamented by all who knew him, as he was much esteemed. His funeral, which took place on Sunday, was attended by an immense concourse of people.

DECORATION DAY.—Having been appointed Marshall by Gregg Post, No. 95, G. A. R., and as it has been decided to decorate the graves of our deceased soldiers in fitting manner, the Marshall most respectfully requests all soldiers and fire companies and citizens generally, to report to him the number of men they expect to parade in their various organizations, so that all details may be properly made and a programme arranged. The societies and companies will report to him at the Diamond, on Saturday, May 29, at four o'clock p. m., where the line will be formed, and their position assigned them. JOHN I. CURTIN, Marshall.

THE LAST AND BEST.—Is it strange that the remarkable feats in marksmanship of Bogardus, or any of the other champion shots of the age, have ceased to electrify the world, when there are in our midst gentlemen who can, in ordinary practice, make a score so excellent as the one given below? The trial of skill occurred on the Fair ground last Tuesday afternoon. The score is as follows:

J. S. Hale.....1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 9—9
W. L. Malt.....1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 9—9
H. C. Valentini.....1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 9—9
W. Williams.....1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 9—9
T. Deschner.....1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 9—9

TO CENTRE COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOLS.—It is quite well known that I have manifested some zeal, the past two or three years, in repeated efforts to secure the services of Rev. J. H. Vincent, D. D., for an annual convention of the Centre county Sunday-school association.

It was hoped that we could have at least one day of instruction from this eminent man.

Arrangements were closed with him last month, and other arrangements are maturing for a centenary convention to be held in Bellefonte the first of June. Our disappointment is fully realized as will be seen from the letter below:

ON THE WING, April 22, 1880.

My Dear Brother: I am afraid I must disappoint you and your County Sunday-School Convention. I have been so strongly urged, as chairman of the International S. S. Committee, that I have finally been prevailed upon to attend the S. S. Centenary Celebration, and expect to leave New York for London some time in May. Express my regrets to the brethren. Write for Dr. Schaffner, or Worden, or Pelts, and you will not be disappointed. Yours, &c., J. H. VINCENT.

TO REV. R. CRITTENDEN, Bellefonte, Pa.

What the officers of the County Association will now do for its next convention I cannot say.

I am ready to assist in any thing further that may be advisable and that I may be able to do consistent with my work in other counties. All who know the facts will testify that our yearly gatherings of Sabbath-school workers in Centre county have been among the most enjoyable assemblies that Christian people are permitted to attend. The Lord so direct the work and workers in Centre county that all may contribute to His glory.

R. CRITTENDEN, Bellefonte, Pa., April 25, 1880.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE MOST APPROPRIATELY BESTOWED.—As per previous announcement, the Centre County Medical Society held its last regular session at the Brockerhoff House on Wednesday morning, April 28. Dr. Thomas R. Hayes, the Secretary, gave to the Society official notice of the death of the late Dr. P. D. Neff, of Centre Hall, accompanying his notice with the motion that a committee of three be appointed to draft resolutions expressing the sentiment of the Society upon the death of their esteemed brother physician, and also to prepare a biographical sketch of his life, to be published in the "Transactions" of the State Medical Society. The committee prepared the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, Death has again suddenly visited our society and taken away one of the oldest of our members;

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to this dispensation of Divine will in removing from our midst our late associate in medicine and honored member of this society, we feel that his death is sincerely mourned by the entire community to whom he has devoted a long and active life of usefulness.

Resolved, That we offer the members of his bereaved family our sympathy and condolence in their great sorrow and affliction.

Resolved, That the secretary forward a copy of these proceedings to the family of the deceased and also to the county papers for publication. Signed,

J. D. SMITH, M. D., F. H. VANVALZAH, M. D., W. A. JACOBS, M. D.

THOMAS R. HAYES, M. D., Secretary.
