New moon again yesterday. Gauze underwear, at Lyon & Co's. New shades of dress silks, at Lyon & Co's. Mr. William Laurie spent last Sunday at home. Miss Nellie Orbison has returned home from school. Mr. John Blanchard has returned from school. A splendid child's suit for $1.65, at Lyon & Co's. Fine straw hats for men and children, at Lyon & Co's. Mr. Levi Straub spent the Fourth with his family in this place. Mr. John Ludwig, of Philipsburg, spent the Fourth in this place. A summer suit can be purchased at $3.50 at the Philadelphia Branch. Mr. George Boal is in town, after a continuous absence of many months. Mr. Frank P. Blair is out-doors again, and don't expect to have a glass eye, either. One of Harry Green's cigars is worth a dozen of those coming from other places. Try them. It is astonishing to see with what wonderful rapidity Day's Kidney Pad has come into favor. To gain the great enjoyment derived from smoking, see that all your cigars come from Harry Green's. Miss Adele Clare is at present at her home in Philipsburg, but we hear that she anticipates soon embarking on a European tour. Rev. John Howitt is entertaining his father and brother—the former from Ridgeway, Pa., and the latter from the State of Kansas. Mr. Thad. Longwell, who was assistant to telegraph operator Malin, has now been promoted to the position of night operator at Milesburg. Spring Mills is rapidly assuming the proportions of a town. According to the enumeration made by Mr. Jamison, it now contains 278 inhabitants. Only two months remain before the summer will be over. Summer clothing is now very cheap at the Philadelphia Branch, as the stock must be sold. "Cheap, cheaper, cheapest," is the adjective they are now "declining" at the Philadelphia Branch store. Summer clothing has now reached the superlative degree. Now is the time for merchants to lower the price of their summer clothing and sell off the stock. Lewin, at the Philadelphia Branch, is the first to set the example. A leather purse containing a small sum of money was picked up Tuesday morning on Allegheny street. The owner may gain possession of it by calling at the DEMOCRAT office. The members of the Philipsburg Cornet Band recently arrayed themselves in new suits, and will give an entertainment in Potter's Hall next Saturday evening to defray the debt thus incurred. There were so many events to notice in regard to the Hancock-English ratification meeting on Saturday night, that we omitted the beautiful fireworks at the residence of Mrs. Lane. They were exceedingly opportune in adding to the enthusiasm at that end of town. The Presbyterian services will be held in Humes' Hall next Sunday morning, and in the "Wigwam" at night. During the following week, the pastor, Rev. William Laurie, will depart for his summer vacation, after which, we suppose, services may be expected only semi-occasionally. One after another, the young ladies and gentlemen continue coming home from school, anticipating a happy time during vacation. Miss Ida and Mr. John Furey, of Pleasant Gap, arrived home from Lewisburg on Saturday. Well, after a school year well spent all the young folks deserve a few weeks' recreation. Our eminent grocers, Sechler & Co., have again inserted one of their attractive advertisements in the DEMOCRAT. By consulting it, our readers can learn of the advantages gained by trading at that store. Their stock of groceries is very complete. They kill stall-fed steers weighing from 1200 to 1400 lbs., supplying their meat market with the best of beef. Their other meats are correspondingly fine. One of the neatest properties on Water street is that of Mr. Olewine. We notice with pleasure that he has planted a large number of fruit trees which are just about coming into bearing condition. He who plants a tree confers a favor not only on himself but those who shall survive him. The tomato and other vines growing in Mr. Olewine's garden also seem exceptionally luxuriant. May he live long to enjoy the fruits of his industry. The hop held at the Brockerhoff House last Thursday night was a delightful affair, affording much pleasure to all present. There were eighty persons in attendance. Repas' orchestra furnished the music, which was considered par excellence. Superb refreshments were served. The merry company did not separate until three o'clock on Friday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Teller were entering in their efforts to make their guests happy.

Sugar, coffee, tea and spice, Cheese, hominy, fruit and rice, Dried beef that is superb to savor Are surely sufficient to entice every person in Centre county to patronize the grocery store of Sechler & Co., where all these articles may be procured. We see that our old friend James Gilliland, Esq., formerly of this county, but now resident near the National Capital, is prosecuting claims before the Department, at Washington—such as pension, bounty and war claims. Col. Gilliland, has had large experience, and our people who need an agent or correspondent cannot find one more reliable and deserving. His address is Lock Box 681, Washington, D. C. The excitement prevailing in this place during the celebration of the Fourth did not exceed that of other days. There were no events of interest to call the people together. Indeed, on almost any day scenes of equal excitement are common occurrences in the vicinity of S. A. Brew & Son's store. People consider the purchase of good groceries among the most important objects in life, and go in crowds to Brew's store every day, each anxious to be the first served. One of the prettiest objects it has been our pleasure to see was an elaborately carved clock frame exhibited to us on Monday by Mr. Jack Helmes. It was executed by himself. He shows remarkable skill in handling the scroll saw. This piece of workmanship was manufactured to the order of Gen. James A. Beaver, and is worth $3. But Jack also manufactures brackets, picture frames, &c., in a very neat manner, and at lower prices. Persons desiring any articles of the kind will do well to consult Jack. The Daily News of Friday last reported that the residence of Miss Casey Rishel, of Spring Mills, had been entered by a thief, who departed, bearing with him $90 in gold and silver coin. He was a more costly caller than Miss Rishel cares to entertain. The same issue of the News says that one night, recently, the store of Mr. H. W. Hoover, at Unionville, was entered through one of the front windows and relieved of one dozen buckskin purses, three dozen hose, two dozen silk handkerchiefs and two pairs of shoes. The party of young gentlemen who go into out-door encampment in the woods every summer, are making unusually elaborate preparations for their expedition this year. They expect to depart on Friday, the 16th instant, to remain in encampment for about one week. Fourteen young gentlemen will accompany the expedition this time. Every article of diet and all things that can administer to their comfort have been provided. A professional cook will accompany the party, whose energy and skill will be taxed to the utmost in preparing a sufficient amount of food to appease the demands of their sharpened appetites. We predict for them a pleasant time. Coup's show is an innovation; everything is entirely new; every act is the freshest ever seen, and the general verdict is, that it is the best performance ever given in this city. It is a show where you can with propriety take your children; we noticed the most respectable citizens in attendance; there was not a stale act to-day; Mr. Coup stands at the head of arenic amusements, and his campaign ought to be one of deserved success, as it will be of professional honor. We found no loafers, every employee seemed a gentleman. "That," exclaimed Mr. Coup, "is good enough to make one feel proud of himself."—Lancaster Courier and Express. We have been informed that a strolling vendor of quack medicines, named Waliser, last heard of in Boggs township, varies the monotony of an occupation of doubtful usefulness by circulating lies about Gen. Hancock. One of his stories is that Hancock is a Catholic, and currency is given to the lie for the purpose of creating prejudice against him on that ground. Of course if the story was correct it would be the General's own business, and no one but a fool or a bigot would think of voting against him for any such reason. But it is not correct, and the lie may as well be met now as at any other time. It would be well for people, wherever the above named fellow appears, to beware, not only of his vile politics, but also of his vile no-truism. The faithfulness of a friendship existing between companions-in-arms, is shown by General Beaugard in publishing the book left behind him ready for publication by the late General J. B. Hood, whose sudden death of yellow fever, at New Orleans, left his ten little babes without any provision against the future. General Beaugard has had the book handsomely printed and beautifully bound and gives his entire time to its publication, free of charge, as the entire proceeds of the book are given to "The Hood Memorial Fund," the monies of which are invested in the United States Registered Loan, to be devoted to the nurture, care, support and education of the little babes left without father or mother. General Hood made an investment of all his fortune (over $100,000) in Louisiana State securities which turned out disastrously just before his death. The book is advertised in another column. Everybody is invited to come and inspect the clothing at the Philadelphia Branch.

We much regretted to hear of the sad errand which drew Gen. James A. Beaver from home the latter part of last week. He went to Lewisburg to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. McDonald, who died on the 29th ult. The General returned home on Friday evening last. His was one of the saddest duties humanity is called upon to perform, and knowing in what affectionate esteem the General always held his mother, we can sympathize with him in his great affliction. Concerning Mrs. McDonald, the Lewisburg Chronicle, in its last issue, contained the following notice: "Mrs. Ann E. McDonald, whose death is recorded in this paper, was a lady of singular ability, force of character, and faithfulness in the discharge of her duties. She raised a family of children of whom any mother might be proud. Among them are Gen. James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte; J. Gilbert Beaver, a noble youth who was shot through the heart while bravely fighting for his country at Antietam, and the McDonald children so favorably known in this vicinity. The Presbyterian church has, during life, been her beloved place of worship; and she was at her place in church and Sunday-school whenever her health would permit." From the Pittsburg Critic, of last week, we clip the following notice of Coup's shows, which will exhibit here on next Wednesday: The Circus, Hippodrome and Menagerie, owned and directed by W. C. Couper, the well-known amusement manager, was calculated, from its comprehensive strength and general excellence, to draw the crowd, and it fully succeeded in doing so. All the features announced were carried out to the letter of the programme. Especial mention must be made of the famous Broncho stallions which have for the past two years challenged admiration wherever they have been exhibited. Another novel feature is found in the performances of the Japanese acrobats and gymnasts, who certainly exceed in their remarkable performances anything ever attempted by a similar troupe in this country. The American Indian act is an additional feature of interest, and their war dances, scalp hunt and victory dance, constituted a novelty in the ring which was certainly appreciated by the immense audience, to judge from the ringing applause which greeted their exploits. The performance in the arena was varied and excellent, and introduced many popular and new features. Particularly noticeable were the acts participated in by James Melville, the admirable bareback rider, Miss Emma Stokes, in her double tandem act, and Mme. Belmont, in her trapeze sensation. One of the wonders of this show is the baby sea lion, the only one ever born out its native element. It is now a little over two weeks old, measures about twenty inches in length, and is the greatest novelty in the world. For this wonder Mr. Coup has been offered $50,000. We wish to direct the attention of our readers to the two advertisements which appear in the DEMOCRAT entitled respectively "A Literary Revolution" and "Chambers's Encyclopaedia." They each give the details of a wonderful reduction which has recently been made in the price of standard literature. "Chambers's Encyclopaedia" is one of the most desirable works extant. The fifteen volumes, in neat cloth binding, can be purchased for the small sum of $6.25, or the same work included in the "Library of Universal Knowledge"—twenty-one volumes—$10.50. Other works of similar excellence in proportion. Perhaps more wonderful still is another series of such works as "Macaulay's Life of Frederick the Great," "Baron Munchausen," &c., printed in plain type, and sold for the ridiculously small sum of five cents each. The high price of standard literature is no longer an impediment in the way of those who would become well-read scholars. Mr. H. Y. Stitzer is agent for all the works described in the advertisements and will be happy to have those interested call and inspect the books. WARM WEATHER TO-MORROW NIGHT. We hope that to-morrow and Saturday evenings may be among the warmest yet experienced this summer—and, at the same time, free from rain. We express this evil wish for the sake of the ladies who are so busily employed in preparing for the cake and ice cream festival to be held in the basement of the M. E. church Friday and Saturday evenings. Oh, for weather that will make ice cream and lemonade a physical necessity! Go, one and all; it will be a fine affair. Bellefonte is at present alive with strangers, among whom are the usual quota of pretty girls. Among those who are entertaining, in addition to some already noticed, we may mention the family of ex-Governor Curtin, whose list of visitors, rumor says, will be still further increased on the arrival home of Miss Kate; also Mrs. Lane, Cyrus Alexander, Esq., Mr. P. G. Meek and Mr. Frank P. Green. May all the guests carry away good impressions of Bellefonte and her people. A Sunday-school convention of the African M. E. church convened in this place on Saturday and closed on Tuesday. The presence of a large number of strange faces of a dusky hue upon our streets indicated that the expected number of delegates were present. Rev. Palmer, brother of the pastor loci, was the only visiting ministerial delegate. The sessions were quite numerous and the convention was doubtless pleasant and profitable. J. W. Gephart, Esq., conducted the Young Men's Christian Association services on Sunday last. Mr. Gephart shows great ability for conducting such meetings, and made the occasion one of unusual interest.

SCENES AND INCIDENTS OF THE GLORIOUS "FOURTH."—The celebration of this holiday occupied three days—Saturday, Sunday and Monday—though the latter was the day recognized as the legal anniversary of the nation's birth. It was in every respect—save in the flow of liquor and the long processions of intoxicated persons—the dullest season of the kind ever experienced in this place. No attempt at demonstration took place until 12 o'clock, on Saturday, when a large number of persons sat down to an elegant dinner at the Bush House, and were afterwards invited to inspect the interior of the hotel. Vast improvements have recently been made upon its interior. It is certainly as elegant in all its appointments as any hotel situated in a town of the size of Bellefonte. It has been repaired throughout in dark gold paper of the most modern style. Every room on the second floor has been carpeted with Brussels, while upon the third floor have been placed ingrain carpets of a tasteful design. As all the apartments upon the second and third floors are furnished, all the strangers who may ever visit Bellefonte can be entertained in an elegant manner. About 2 o'clock the Pleasant Gap band, stationed in front of the Bush House, began a lively air, calling the people together. Chief Burgess Dale, from the balcony of the hotel, announced that the orators of the day had failed to put in an appearance, and introduced Mr. James Rankin, who read the Declaration of Independence. He was followed in a short speech by Mr. Morrison. After another selection from the band, the crowd dispersed, but not until after two of their number had been placed in the "cooler." About 8 o'clock P. M. people took positions upon the most prominent places about town, and awaited the expected explosion of fireworks from Half Moon hill. These began as soon as the evening was sufficiently dark to make an advantageous display, and continued for over an hour. Although quite numerous, they were all of the Roman candle, rocket or spinning wheel description, without any elaborate pieces. Their explosion afforded a very diverting and pleasant entertainment to the many who witnessed it, and Mr. D. P. Peters, to whose kindness the people are indebted for the display, deserves the thanks of the community. Of course, allusion was made to the great National anniversary in many of the church services on Sunday, but otherwise the real Fourth passed in the usual Sabbath quiet. Monday, July 5, was as unlike the great National holiday as any day could be. The temperature was on the descending scale, and for four hours a heavy rain fell, succeeded afterward by a light rain. Early in the morning the Mountain City Band and the Logan Hose Company paraded through a few streets, and then boarded the train for Altoona, where, if the rain fell as it did here, no temptation existed to drink any stronger liquid than water. About half the stores and, of course, the banks and post-office were closed, presenting a Sabbath-like aspect. During the day, for lack of more profitable amusement, the crowds on the streets employed themselves in placing cannon-crackers beneath empty boxes, and, in some instances, paying boys to sit on them until after the explosion. In the evening, however, great excitement prevailed among the "small boys." Several stores had a large surplus stock of fireworks, and, as they are a dangerous stock to keep over, the proprietors doled them out to the crowd cheap. Then, amid the buzz of spinning wheels, the ascent of rockets, candles and hot air balloons, and the cheers of the crowds, the closing hours of July 5, 1880, were as noisy as could be desired. The celebration passed without accident or adventure. MEETING OF POLICY HOLDERS.—In response to previous notice, a large number of the policy holders in the Lycoming Mutual Fire Insurance Company gathered in the Court House on Tuesday afternoon, to take action in regard to the recent large assessment of 25 per cent. on premiums. Hon. John Irwin, Jr., was made president of the meeting. Figures were produced to show that the last balance of the company's accounts represented the cash assets at $359,000. Only a short time ago a 6 per cent. assessment on premiums was laid, amounting to $165,000, and this was followed, recently, by a 25 per cent. assessment, or $450,000, the cash assets and two assessments amounting to $974,000. The debt paid by the company was shown to be but $340,000. Why the assessment was so disproportionately greater than the debt, constituted the subject of inquiry, and was discussed by Adam Hoy and A. O. Furst, Esq's. On motion of Mr. Edward Humes, Messrs. A. O. Furst, Wm. P. Duncan, D. S. Keller and Adam Hoy were appointed a committee to proceed to Muncy, institute an investigation of the affairs of the company and report the result to a future meeting. It was understood that the committee would start to Muncy last evening, and in the future action of the policy holders in this section of the country will be governed by the character of the report they shall make. TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The friends of temperance are requested to meet to-morrow evening at half-past seven o'clock, in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association. The object of the meeting is to organize for future work. It is hoped that all interested will attend.

MR. DUNCAN'S SCHOOL EXHIBITION.—An audience of about two hundred persons gathered in Reynolds' Hall last Friday evening to witness the concluding exercises of Mr. Duncan's school. The interior decorations of the hall were quite profuse and very tasteful. The sides of the stage were trimmed with ferns, lovely columns of laurel hung suspended from the ceiling, numerous house plants in pots and urns were stationed on the stage, and the "stars and stripes" appeared in various places about the room. The exercises were simple, though instructive, and, considering that the majority of the pupils are quite young, were rendered in an admirable manner. Lack of space deprives us the privilege of noticing each performance. Three songs were rendered by Misses Bradley, McGinley and McCalmont, respectively, and were among the most pleasing exercises of the evening. Perhaps the most noticeable of the essays and recitations were the essay of Miss Shortlidge, entitled, "Silently sat the artist alone Carving a Christ of ivory tone," and Miss Power's recitation, "De Profundis," which was delivered in a highly artistic manner, and elicited applause. A pleasant variety, because of its mirth-provoking qualities, was "The Masterpiece," a dialogue, in which Miss Graham and Messrs. Dare, Richards and Sternberg bore the principal parts. A seven-part recitation, entitled "Songs of Seven," was beautifully impressive. Master Willie Woodward made the concluding address in well-chosen words. The piano accompaniments were rendered by Miss Ohnmacht. The exercises merited a more encouraging support than they received. STATE COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES FOR 1880.—The Commencement exercises of State College began Sunday, June 27, and those who had the pleasure of attending pronounce that throughout they were equal to the usual elevated standard always maintained by the faculty of that institution. The Baccalaureate sermon was delivered on Sunday morning by Rev. J. F. DeLong, of the Reformed church, this place, from Philippians 3: 12, 13. It was a scholarly and eloquent effort. An able and highly entertaining address was delivered before the Young Men's Christian Association in the evening by Mr. J. M. Duncan, of this place. It was the occasion of the anniversary of the Association, which is said to be in a prosperous condition. Monday evening brought the Senior class day exercises—a new feature in the Commencement programme. There was an opening prayer by Rev. G. A. Landis, of the class of '77, succeeded by the following programme: Music.....Quartette Class History.....G. P. Bishel Essay—"Voice, Word and Tense,".....Miss E. Hunter Music.....Prof. Garwood Oration—"Mind Moves Matter,".....J. F. Robb Music.....J. L. Hamill, Oak Hill Quartette Class Prophecy.....J. F. Hickman Mantle Oration.....L. Hamill Response to Mantle Oration.....E. O. Eilers Music.....Quartette Benediction.....Rev. Dr. Hamill The "Quartette" consisted of the Misses McGinley, Mr. Frank Keller and another gentleman whose name we did not learn. A large portion of Tuesday was devoted to special exercises by the Washington and Cresson Literary societies. The Cresson exercises consisted of addresses, orations, essays, declamations and vocal music. The Washington gathering—in the society hall—began with instrumental music. The President of the society—C. G. Campbell, of Johnstown—delivered an address of welcome and introduced the orator of the occasion, M. S. Lytle, Esq., of Huntingdon. Tuesday evening brought the meeting of the Alumni in the Chapel. Dr. G. A. Caldwell, of Cornell University, N. Y., and a former member of the College Faculty, delivered an elaborate address on "Invention and Investigation as Agents in the Improvement of the Condition of the Race." The Doctor compared the inventor and the investigator, demonstrating that the mission of the latter is always successful, while the former is often a failure. The large audience listened to the address with the deepest attention. The Alumni then adjourned to the residence of Prof. C. A. Smith, President of the Association, where delicious refreshments were partaken of, new members initiated and officers elected for the year 1880. The exercises of Wednesday opened at 9 o'clock A. M., with a salute of thirteen guns, in honor of the arrival of the trustees and delegates. The Board of Trustees held meetings for the transaction of business at 10 A. M. and 3 P. M. Mr. S. W. Starkweather, of Williamsport, and Gen. Jacob M. Campbell, of Johnstown, were elected as members of the Board. The terms of Messrs. William F. Hildrup and James Kelley having expired, Leonard Rhone, Esq., and Thos. J. Edge, Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, were elected to fill the places thus vacated. To many persons the next exercise was the most welcome of any incident to Commencement. It was the Alumni dinner, prepared under the superintendence of Mr. D. P. Peters, the new proprietor of the Bush House. It was considered very creditable to Mr. Peters, and must have been enjoyable to those who partook of it. That well known citizen of Bradford county, Victor E. Piolet, presided, and about the table were gathered many distinguished guests. Speeches were made in response to requests by Prof. Joseph Shortlidge, A. M., the newly elected President of the College; Dr. Calder, the retiring President; Prof. Helges, of York; Major Wood, of Williamsport; Prof. J. Y. McKee; Mr. Roardon; Dr. G. C.

Caldwell, of Cornell University; Prof. John Hamilton and Col. Piolet. The prize in oratory offered by General James A. Beaver always awakens a lively competition among the members of the Junior class. The Junior Oratorical Contest was programmed for Wednesday evening, and elicited the usual interest. Prof. Campbell opened with prayer, and Mrs. Wm. Thompson and Prof. Garwood furnished beautiful music. There were five contestants, whose names and orations were as follows: "Reserved Power," N. C. Davison, Pittsburg; "A Hero of the First Century," J. G. White, Milroy; "Decision of Character," E. R. Chambers, Half Moon; "Montezuma," W. C. Calder, State College; "Self Help," D. O. Eilers, Lemont. The effort of Mr. Chambers was considered as possessing most of the elements of true oratory, and was awarded the prize. The concluding day of Commencement is always the most important, because of the graduation exercises, about which the most intense interest centres. Then the crowds gather armed with bouquets and books to present to the successful orators or essayists. The commodious chapel was thronged on this occasion. Professor Garwood favored the assembly with choice music, and Rev. James Calder supplicated the throne of grace. The six orations and the essay are said to have ranked with the best ever delivered in the College chapel, and were listened to with interest. The following is the programme: Salutatory Oration—"The Founder of a Great Empire," J. G. Robb, Washington, D. C. Oration—"Importance of an Early Choice," J. L. Hamill, Oak Hill. Oration—"The Hope of Reward," J. F. Hickman, East Liverpool, Pa. Essay—"Light and Shade," Esther E. Hunter, Half Moon. Oration—"God in History," J. K. McComb, Williamsburg, Pa. Oration—"Individuality," G. P. Bishel, Bellefonte. Valedictory Oration—"Vocality of Silence," E. L. Reber, Mill Hill. The degrees and diplomas were conferred, and the school year ended. Students and teachers parted—some for a short time, some forever. The next school year of State College is looked forward to with anticipations that it will be the most successful ever experienced. IMPROVEMENTS IN THE PROTHONOTARY'S OFFICE.—Every one visiting the Court House is pleased to notice and commend the improvements that have recently been introduced into the Prothonotary's office under the supervision of that obliging and efficient officer, Mr. J. C. Harper, the Prothonotary of the county. The vault has received a thorough overhauling and the files have been re-arranged in neat and convenient file boxes and closed cases. Everything about the office is in first-class order, and Mr. Harpe is entitled to great credit for the completeness of his work. BUSINESS NOTICES. Ladies' hats trimmed to order, at Lyon & Co's.
