The Congressional Question of 1878 Contrasted with 1880.

From the Lewistown Free Press

The campaign of 1878 was a phenomenal one in Pennsylvania politics. For the first time in many years a disturbing element entered into the contest which threatened destruction to the calculations of the most astute leaders in both the old parties. A third ticket was in the field for State, and, in most cases, for congressional, legislative and county officers. The strength of this third party was the unknown quantity which confused the judgment of old political managers and made them more than anxious to propitiate as far as possible those of their own households who had gathered under the new banner. Under the lead of mistaken men the campaign of the Greenback organization became a crusade against property, the obligations of the government and particularly the National Banks It was the misfortune of ex Gov. Curtin to be a candidate for Congress at this juncture in a district in which the feeling against men of wealth was lashed ed Representative. into white heat. From every portion of his district was heard the most virulent denunciation of those who were financially interested in National Banks, or who were holders of the bonds of our government. It was a time when men's reason was overthrown and their passions cunningly played upon. The men who composed this new party and who were in the fore-front of the fight remembered nothing but that Governor Curtin was a stock holder in a National Bank and a man of large means, and therefore the legitimate prey of those who were clamorous for nothing more or less than the annihilation of all who were even remotely connected with the banking institutions which they hated with so cordial a hate. The magnificent services of Governor Curtin to his State and country; his matchless devotion and patriotic self-sacrifice in the dark hours of civil war; the unfaded lustre honor, all these things were forgotten profession. in 1878 and Governor Curtin's connection with a National Bank was sufficient to efface a past that is glorious with noble deeds. Looking back dispassionately at the surroundings of the congressional campaign of 1878, the passions evoked and aroused, the prejudices appealed to and all the influence at work, it will be conceded that Gov. Curtin had much to contend with. And yet with all this weight to carry he received the suffrages of 13,381 voters in the district, only 500 less than the Democratic candidate for Supreme Judge received at the same election, and only 624 below the Democratic vote cast for Lieut. Governor, which is, perhaps, the fairest test of party strength at that time in the counties composing the 20th congressional district. Mr. Dill's vote was 14,245, only 864 in ex-

How different will be the canvass of 1880! With Winfield Scott Hancock as the Democratic candidate for President, it seems most appropriate that Andrew G. Curtin should accompany him on the ticket for Congress in the the illustrious War Governor, was nerving his arm and lending strength to his blows. The issues of 1878 are laid at rest, and now in this year of grace the great questions of national unity and reconciliation, honesty and economy in administration, and the purification of the civil service are the pregnant issues of the contest of 1880. These are the questions of the hour, and with Hanock as our leader there can be no more fitting nomination made than that of Andrew G. Curtin for Congress.

The recollections of the past in which Hancock and Curtin both bore such conspicuous parts, will make the success of one the triumph of the other. Appeals to soldiers to rally to the support of Hancock would come with a bad grace from men who had just taken part in the slaughter of Pennsylvania's great War Governor. The hollowness and hypocrisy of such appeals especially to Republican soldiers, would be apparent after striking down the "soldiers' friend," the projector of the magnificent charity which provided comfortable homes for the children of the dead heroes of the war. We commend these reflections to the deliberate judgment and conscience of the people of the 20th district and particularly to the friends of General Hancock through out the state. UNION

The Pinchbeck Nominee of Pinchbeck Politicians.

The pinchbeck Buckeye politicians who have seized the National Government have forfeited all claims to respect and confidence by their shallowness, selfishness and treachery. Garfield is an embodiment of their vices and weaknesses, and the people will exhibit their usual sagacity in penetrating his mask of pretensions and hypoc-risy. By emphatic and incontrovertible testimony he stands convicted of the flagrant crime of selling his potential influence as Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives to modern pavement speculators. This hideous wrong, per-petrated by the trusted custodian of petrated by the trusted custodian of the purse-strings of the American peo-ple, displays ineffable baseness, and is analogous in infamy to Benedict Ar-nold's betrayal of the cause of the Bayolytican To understand falls the Revolution. To understand fully the De Golyer transaction, the essential features of the charge and Garfield's Pecksniffian defence should be carefully examined by every citizen who de-sires to protect the republic from the perils and disgrace involved in the elevation to the Presidency of a dishonor-

The code of political morality by which Garfield's conduct in relation to the De Golyer pavement and the Credit Mobilier stock is palliated is a pinchbeck code. If what he did is just, honest and creditable, it will be useless to oppose the election of any cormorant who has grown rich by corruption, inasmuch as it is impossible to conceive of any betrayal of a public trust susceptible of direct proof for which a defence cannot be invented as valid as that now made by the champions of the Chicago nominee. The clatter about civil service represents another form of pinchbeck Buckeye statesmanship. The contrast between promise and performance is strong enough to recall the saying that there is only a single step between the sublimd ane the ridiculous. The nomination of Arthur as Vice Pesident by Ohio influences, after he had been ostentatiously removed from the New ostentatiously removed from the New York collectorship on the express ground that his official management grossly violated the sublime Ohio standard, makes a material addition to the long catalogue of civil service absurdities, and Garfield's letter of acceptance he shed upon the great commonwealth completed the circuit of hypocritical whose Chief Executive he was, laboring charlatanism by the covert announcement which is interpreted as a formal surrender of the appointing power to as they flocked around him at his call the influential machine managers who ready to do battle for their country's have converted politics into a lucrative profession.

The chief claim to public support advanced on behalf of the pinchbeck nominee of pinchbeck politicians hinges on the audacious and insulting assertion that the revival of American proservity the preservation of American perity, the preservation of American institutions, and the continued great-ness of the Republic is due to their valor, their sagacity, their patriotism and their statesmanship. Tweed might as well have claimed that the continued growth of the city of New York was due to of the city of New York was due to his rapacity. It is the people who have borne the burden of war, debt, and the restoration of specie payments. It is the sturdy labors of millions of It is the sturdy labors of millions of industrious citizens, the ingenuity of thousands of skillful inventors, the enterprise of many adventurous business men that have expanded the fields of productive industry, rather in spite of governmental neglect and oppression than in consequence of governmental assistance. Macaulay enunciated truths as applicable to the modern history of the United States as to the ancient history of England, when he said that "no ordinary misfortune, no said that "no ordinary misfortune, no ordinary misgovernment, will do so much to make a nation wretched as the constant progress of physical knowledge and the constant effort of every man to better himself will do to make a nation prosperous. It has often been found that profuse expenditure, heavy taxa-tion, absurd commercial restrictions, corrupt tribunals, disastrous wars, sedi-tions, persecutions, conflagrations, in-undatious have not been able to destroy capital so fast as the exertions of private citizens have been able to create it."

"It is a vital principle in our system 20th district. Every plea made for Hancock applies with equal force to Curtin. While Hancock was striking heavy blows against armed rebellion on the battlefields of the Union, Curtin, Hancock's Letter of Acceptance.

GAINING GROUND.

The Impression that Garfield is a Goner.

LIST OF A FEW OF THOSE WHO ARE TURN NUMBERS OF THE PROSELYTES ARE SWELLING-A BIG DEFECTION

ALONG THE HUDSON. The impression gains ground among Republicans that Garfield is not "the coming man." Every day bears witness that desertions are taking place from the ranks, and that Hancock is gaining. Read this list:

GENERALS, COLONELS, CAPTAINS, EDITORS,

Dr. L. W Read, surgeon general of Pennsylvania, says: "I am a Republi-can but Hancock will get my vote, and there are thousands more like me. Why here, sitting beside me, is C. L. Nyce, a Republican. Now what are you going to do, Nyce?" "I shall vote for Han-

General C. S. Hamilton, late United States marshal for Wisconsin, has written a letter predicting the election of Hancock, and announcing his purpose to support him.

Captain Fiskom was an old soldier of the Fifth Wisconsin Volunteers. S. W. Lewis Loveless, a prominent Republican of Pike county, Indiana, and formerly a candidate of his party for Congress, has renounced his connection with the Republican organization, and is out for Hancock and English. Peter Wilson, a prominent Republi-can lawyer, heads the call for a Han-cock club at Streater, Ill.

The editor of the Edmore (Michigan) Gazette, which now supports Hancock was a supporter of Hayes in 1876.

CEDAR RAPIDS SURPRISED. A Hancock and English club with almost 400 members has been organized in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The Hon. Jno. W. Henderson, heretofore an independent republican, was elected president, amid much enthusiasm. This is the first Democratic club organized in that city for many years, and the large num ber who joined caused surprise to all.

TWO REPUBLICAN COMMITTEEMEN. Judge Stevens, of Humboldt, and the Hon. J. D. Baldwin, of Storey county, Nevada, have resigned their positions on the Republican State central committee of that State, and have pronounced for Hancock and English.

FIFTEEN RELIABLE REPUBLICANS COME OVER. A gentleman residing at Long Swamp, Berks county, Pennsylvania, writes to his brother in Norristown as follows:

"The Hancock boom is gradually gaining ground here. A life-long Republican, Captain James Weida, late of the one hundred and fifty first Pennsylvania volunteers, who was severely wound ed at the battle of Gettysburg, is going to make a speech at Hancock station, E. P. R. R., in favor of Hanoock. Thus far we can count fifteen reliable Republicans who will support Hancock—ten of whom have come out openly. I do not know a single Democrat who will vote for Garfield."

A REPUBLICAN FAMILY OF EIGHT. The Washington County Democrat says that Isaac Gilmore, of Connellsville, Fayette county, Pa., and his seven sons, all voters, heretofore staunch Republi-cans, have all come out for Hancock. The boys were in the war with Hancock, and know all about him.

THIRTY-TWO MORE REPUBLICANS. THIRTY-TWO MORE REPUBLICANS.

To the Editor of the New York Sun—
Sir: There are twenty-five Republicans and seven Greenbackers employed in my piano and organ works, who will vote for Hancock and English.

BIG DEFECTION ALONG THE HUDSON, The Syracuse (N. Y.) Courier says: The Republican defection to Hancock is assuming large proportions along the Hudson. A dispatch from Kingston says: "The work of organizing for the campaign is well under way here. Throughout Ulster, Greene, Delaware, Throughout Ulster, Greene, Delaware, Schoharie and Orange counties Hancock and English clubs have been formed in every town. The excitement and enthusiasm have reached a height not known in many years. Many heretofore stalwart Republicans openly avow their intention to not only vote but work for the election of the Democratic candidates. * * * On the regular Democratic campaign club of this city are the names of nine Republicans. At Rosendale Mr. Warren K. Atkinson, a prominent business man, but recently prominent business man, but recently a delegate from that town to the Republican county convention, is out-spoken for Hancock and English." The river counties may be counted on to roll up handsome Democratic ma-jorities.

"The army should have nothing to do with the election or inauguration of presidents."—Hancock to Sherman.

JUDGE DAVIS FOR HANCOCK.

THE INDEPENDENT MAN OF THE SENATE WARMLY SUPPORTS THE DEMOCRATIC

WASHINGTON, August 8.—In view of the independent position of Senator David Davis, of Illinois, there has been considerable curiosity to know his prefconsiderable curiosity to know his pre-evence in the pending campaign. The following letter from Senator Davis has been received by the Hon. James D. Harvey, of this city:

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., August 4, 1880. My DEAR SIR: The training and habits of my life naturally lead me to prefer civilians to soldiers for the great civil trusts. But as parties are organized voters must choose between the candidates they represent or stand aloof, indifferent or neutral, which no good citizen ought to do at a Presidential election. I have no hesitation in supporting General Hancock, for the best of all reasons to my mind, because his elec-tion will put an end to sectional strife and to sectional parties, and will revive a patriotic sentiment all over the land, which political leaders and factions, for sinister ends, have sought to prevent. There can be no permanent prosperity without pacification.

Great as were the achievements of General Hancock in war, his conduct in peace, when in command of Louisiana and Texas in 1867, was still greater and and lexas in 1807, was still greater and justly commends him to the confidence of the country. That was a time when passion ruled in the public councils and military power was exerted to silence civil authority. The temptation was strong to sail with the rushing current for an inflamed partisan opinion rent, for an inflamed partisan opinion was too ready to condone excesses and to applaud oppression.

General Hancock's order No. 40 in assuming charge of the Fifth Military District announced "the right of trial by jury, the habeas corpus, the liberty of the press, the freedom of speech, of the press, the freedom of speech, the natural rights of persons and the rights of property must be respected." These principles are the basis of free government and the proclamation of them by General Hancock stands out in striking contrast with the action of his superior, who soon after rebuked and drove him from that command for utter-ing sentiments worthy of all honor. The soldier clothed with extraordinary power voluntarily uncovered before the civil authority, sheathed his sword, tes-tified his fidelity to the Constitution and set an example of obedience to law which will pass into history as his proudest claim to distinction.

The man who in the midst of the ex-citements of that stormy period was cool enough to see his duty clearly, and courageous enough to execute it firmly may be well trusted in any crisis. His letter to General Sherman, recently brought to light, lifts General Hancock far above the past appreciation of his civil ability. It makes him as one of the wisest of his time, with a statesman's grasp of mind and with the integrity of a patriot whom no sense of expediency could swerve from his honest convictions. Long and unchecked posconvictions. Long and unchecked pos-session of power by any party leads to extravagance, corruption and loose practices. After twenty years of domi-nation by the Republicans, chronic abuses have become fastened upon the public service like barnacles on the bottom of a stranded ship. There is no hope of a reform by lead-ers who have created a system of malad-ministration and who are interested in ministration and who are interested in perpetuating its evils. Nothing short of the sternest remedy gives any prom-ise of effective reform, and the first step towards it is in change of rulers. The government must be got out of the ruts in which it has too long been run. New blood must be infused into the management of public affairs before relief can be expected. The people demand change, and being in earnest they are likely to be gratified. Very sincerely.

DAVID DAVIS. Hon. Jas. E. HARVEY, Washington City.
