Local Department.

-Go to John Powers for the best boots and shoes.

-Already entries are being made for the fair.

-Complete suits of underwear at the Philadelphia Branch.

-All the Sabbath-schools now hold their sessions in the afternoon.

-Show your good sense by spending a few cents for Harry Green's cigars.

-Sufferers from nervous debility will find a relief and cure in Day's Kidney

-There's plenty of time to smoke a few of Harry Green's cigars before the Centre county fair begins.

-Prevent a cold by wearing thick underclothing, which can be obtained at the Philadelphia Branch. -Twelve persons were admitted to full membership in the Spring Mills M. E. church on Sunday, the 5th inst.

-Archery contest, rifle target shooting at 150 yards and glass ball shooting will be among the features of the coming fair.

-The Veterans of Centre county will hold their annual picnic in McEwen's Grove, near Unionville, on Saturday, the 25th instant, and as they are veterans not only of the war but also in the art of giving picnics, it will surely be a pleasant affair.

-There are plenty of men in this county who might secure for themselves a comfortable competence in their old age, if they would adopt a uniform practice of buying their groceries at Sechler & Co's store. It is a carefully conducted, firstclass establishment.

-Our young friend Mr. J. R. Van Ormer, will please accept our sincere thanks for a copy of Forney's Life of Hancock. It is a book that should be in every Democratic household of Centre county, and we are gratified to know that Mr. Van Ormer is meeting with great success in canvassing for it.

-The Hancock Legion, arrayed in their beautiful uniforms, paraded through the principal streets of this borough last Friday evening and elicited comments of admiration from all beholders as they passed along. They are a superb body of men, and march with admirable precision. No finer political organization can be found in the State.

-The Hancock Legion-fully two hundred strong-accompanied by a very large delegation of other citizens of this borough and vicinity, proceeded to the city of Lock Haven on a special train last Tuesday evening to participate in the large and enthusiastic demonstration in favor of Hancock and English announced to take place in that city. As the vast torchlight procession moved through the thoroughfares of Lock Haven, the most prominent and superb body of men among them all was the Bellefonte Hancock Legion. Their every appearance elicited comments of undmiration. We were pleased to see such a grand demonstration in favor of ocracy, and more than pleased that the Hancock Legion bore such a conspicuous part in it. Bellefonte's gallant Loys were given the post of honor. They head-

-Fair, October 6, 7 and 8. Everybody s coming.

-For a nobby hat or cap go to the Philadelphia Branch.

-Mr. Christian Bender, father of Mr E. C. Bender, proprietor of the Philipsburg Journal, died at his home in York, Pa., on the 6th instant.

-The Amusement Department of the fair will be in charge of Dr. J. D. Geissinger and S. D. Ray, and they will make t the feature of the coming fair.

-We are under obligations to Gen Jas. A. Beaver for an invitation to attend the formal opening of the Warren Asylum

-We learn with regret of the death on Thursday last at Middleburg, Snyder county, of Mrs. Berger, the mother of Mrs. Sheriff Spangler, of this place. She was 77 years of age.

-Lewin, of the Philadelphia Branch surchased a beautiful new stock of clothng while in the city last week.

-Now a New York man named Livingstone has begun to fast a la Tanner. Although his name is Livingstone, we'll bet he'll not be a living man very long unless he sends to S. A. Brew & Son's grocery store, this place, for some of the pure, fresh groceries for which that store has become famous. All persons who wish to know what good groceries are should patronize S. A. Brew & Son.

-The Penns Valley Normal Class, conducted by Prof. J. Mason Duncan, closed on Thursday evening last with a successful exhibition. A large delegation from this place, interested in education and educators, honored the occasion with their pres ence. The evening was extremely dark for a drive from town to the scene of the exhibition, but owing to the brilliancy of the exercises, that fact was not considered a detriment.

-The Terpsichorean Society, an organization composed of many good looking young gentlemen of this place, is preparing to give a grand ball in the Armory Hall, on the 7th of October. The famous Repasz Orchestra, of Williamsport, will be present, and judging by the material of which the Terpsichorean Society is composed, all the details of the affair will be arranged on a style exceeding in elegance anything that the ball-going people of this place are accustomed to.

-The fall meeting of the Convocation of Williamsport, assembled in the Protestant Episcopal church at Philipsburg on Tuesday evening and terminated its sessions last night. The gathering consists of clerical and lay delegates from a large number of the surrounding parishes and is a talented and able assembly. The exercises are always of engrossing interest. The parish in Philipsburg, of which Rev. Dr. Clare is rector, is fortunate in having this representation of the church in its midst.

-One of those religious assemblies termed "bush meetings" took pace in the vicinity of Pleasant Gap last Sunday. As the day was particularly propitious for out-door gatherings, it attracted an unusually large crowd. We hope that when the balance sheet was struck at the close of place, took a trip to Philadelphia last week the day's labor the good impression left upon the minds of the hearers as a result of the religious exercises far outweighed any of the evil effects which sometimes attend such meetings. -Yesterday at 61 o'clock P. M. terminated the most important Jewish holy day of the year-the Day of Atonement. All devout Hebrews not only refrain from any business transactions during the twenty-four hours included in that period, but it is with them a season of most profound meditation upon the sins they have committed. Services of a deeply solemu and religious character are held. We were pleased to notice that all the Hebrew itizens of this place united in o the day, indicating that they are all of the higher class of the Hebrew faith.

-On Saturday evening, September 9, Unionville was the scene of one of those delightful occurrences which are always sources of pleasant recollection to those who engage in them. Mr. James Alexander has been a leader in the M. E. church, at that place for many years. On the occasion mentioned his class assembled and presented him with a pair of gold spectacles and a finely-bound copy of the Methodist Church Hymnal, as a slight token of their regard. Mrs. William D. Smith was chosen the medium for presenting the hymnal and Mrs. A. J. St. Clair the spectacles, which duties the ladies performed in a graceful manner.

-The unwelcome news of war between the President and students of the State College was received last week. The seasion began only two weeks ago and the early rumors of contention between forces that should be acting in concert in the cause of education augured ill for the present session. We know nothing of the propriety of the positions taken by either the President or students, but understand that when the former attempted to expel one or two of the latter, a general rupture ensued, which was attended by several of the unpleasant varieties of College life. There was the storied "barring out," the students confining themselves in an upper story. This was followed by a temporary departure of the students from the Col lege, with a threat to make it permanent unless concessions were made. But we are equally pleased to state that the storm is over. Perfect reconciliation prevails between the President and students, and ceace once again reigns supreme. May the future days of the session be ful'as the past have been stormy.

PERSONAL MENTION .- Mr. Levi Straub, f Altoona, spent Sunday last at his home in this place.

-Mr. Jacob Adams, of Altoona, was in town on Sunday attending to his interests in this part of the country. His "interests" are of a very pleasant character.

-Mr. John Lyon paid a visit to his home in this place during the beginning of this week

-Mr. Michael Shields, formerly of this place, but more recently filling a position at Berwick, pleased his old companions in Bellefonte by re-appearing among them last Saturday. They were sorry, however, to perceive by his appearance that he is the victim of ill-health.

-Mr. Harry Sayre is spending this week in Indiana county, where he was summoned on business of importance.

-Mr. and Mrs. Bond Valentine. Curtin street, are entertaining Mrs. D. H. Bates, wife of the President of the American Union Telegraph Company, and Mrs. Dr. Kenmout, of Ashbury Park, New

-On Tuesday last Dr. J. W. Rhone accompanied his daughter, Miss Ella, to Luthersburg, Md., where she will attend school during the coming winter.

-Prof. J. Mason Duncan will not leave this place to accept the position offered him in Montoursville, but is now acting as Professor of the Classics and English Literature in the Bellefonte Academy. That important department will be filled with much ability.

-Miss Linn, of Stormstown, has been visiting at the residence of Mr. James Alexander, in this place. She is a sister of Mr. John Linn, of the Watchman office.

-Francis Murphy will begin a series of temperance meetings in Philipsburg next Sunday.

-Messrs. W. A. Magee, George W. Gance and John H. Huffington, members of the Philipsburg Y. M. C. A., have been selected to represent that organization at the State Convention to be held in Wilkesbarre on the 23d instant. Mr. J. Mason Duncan will probably represent the Bellefonte Association.

-Mr. George Potter, formerly of this place, but recently of the Renovo machine shops, is now firing on a locomotive between Renovo and Kane.

-The many friends of Miss Maggie Snowden, Bellefonte's fair musical instructress, are delighted at her return from her summer vacation to resume her musical

-Miss Ella Hendricks is visiting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Valentine, of this place.

-Mr. Peters, of the Bush House, is tarting a restaurant in connection with the hotel. He supplies a tempting bill-offare at very low rates.

-Miss Annie B. Lyon, daughter of ex-Mayor S. S. Lyon, has returned from a visit to Muncy and is re-organizing her music class. -Mrs. John Moore, in company with Mrs. John Dawson and other ladies of this to interview the State Fair. -Miss Schroeder, of Reading, sister of Mrs. D. S. Keller, of this place, returned to her home last Saturday, after a long and enjoyable visit. -Mr. Cyrus Weaver boarded the train last Saturday morning and was conveyed to Philadelphia, of course glancing at the State Fair and ladies fair now so numerous in that city. -Mr. W. R. Teller, proprietor of the Brockerhoff House, has returned from his southern trip, apparently greatly benefited by the change of climate he experienced. Mr. McKeever, who took charge of the hotel during Mr. Teller's absence, is visiting his home at Harrish -Miss Kate Shriner's select school, which has been in operation in Millheim during the summer months, closed last Saturday evening with public exercises held in the Town Hall. -Miss Bessie Allen, one of Bellefonte's fair daughters, has recently been paying a visit to her friends in Nittany Valley.

-Mr. George W. Peters and his ephew, Mr. Lawrence Peters, are now paying their first visit to their former nome in Unionville since their departure to the far West fifteen years ago.

-Mr. William Keller arrived in this place from the Territory of New Mexico, on Monday, and is now visiting friends in Penns Valley, who are doubtless glad to see one who has been separated from them by so many hundred miles.

-This, we believe, is our first reference to the generous action of Major William F. Reynolds in his recent splendid donation to the Hancock Legion. But he has become so well known of late for unreserved liberality towards deserving organizations that it is but in keeping with nany other similar actions which are never made public. When the Legion was soliciting aid toward purchasing new uniforms they called on the Major for his contribution. To their delight he told them to order fifty suits and send the bill to him. Nothing more appropriate or more highly satisfactory could have been performed by the Major, and a few evenings after the event the Hancock Legion went in a body to his residence on Linn street and tendered their heartfelt thanks. Such examples of liberality are worthy of imi-

DEATH OF MRS. MUFFLEY .- The subject of this notice, Mrs. Nancy D. Muflley, died at her home at Snow Shoe Intersec tion, on Thursday, the 2d instant. She formerly resided in this borough, and had numerous friends in both places. Her affliction was heart disease, from which she had suffered for a long time, and of which the most strenuous efforts had been made to cure her. Last winter, her son, Joseph R. Muffley, accompanied her to Philadelphia, where she remained until May in consultation, with the most experienced physicians without any permanent beneficial results. Mrs. Muffley was the mother of eleven children, eight of whom survive her. Her husband passed away from earth twenty-three years ago, and since then she has remained a widow. For more than forty years she has been a member of the M. E. church. At the time of her death she was over seventy years of age. She was interred in the cemetery at Milesburg, Rev. Woodcock conducting the funeral ceremonies.

-The Bellefonte Fencibles, Company B. N. G. Pa., will not be likely to soon forget the handsome manner in which they were received upon their return from Camp Alexander Hayes on last Monday evening. Mr. D. P. Peters, the genial and wide awake proprietor of the Bush House, had prepared for them a magnificent supper and had invited Ex-Gov. A. G. Curtin and Senator Alexander to be present and welcome the boys home. Mr. Peters had modestly bidden the company to partake of a lunch, but when they were marched into the large and handsomely decorated dining room of the Bush House, they were astonished to find a table running the full length of the room which actually groaned beneath the weight of the good things which the public spirited and hospitable proprietor of Bellefonte's big hotel had placed there for the delectation of the almost famished soldiers. Senator Alexander made a neat speech of welcome and on behalf of Mr. Peters tendered company B the hospitalities of his hotel. The best and most appropriate reply the boys could make at that time was to address themselves to the good cheer be-fore them, which they proceeded to do with a will. Spring chicken, ham and eggs and unnumbered substantials and delicacies disappeared like magic. When all had made up for a week's abstinence from the fare of civilized people, J. L. Spangler and Geo. R. Barrett, Jr., Esq's, returned appropriate thanks upon the part of the Fencibles for the generous, free-hearted liberality which had prompted this splendid welcome. All the officers and members of Company B are delighted with Mr. Peters' kindness and can find no words too warm in which to thank him. After giving their genial host three rousing cheers the veterans quietly dispersed to their homes with happy recollections of Mr. Peters and his generous hospitality.

Declinations.

CENTRE HALL, Sept. 14, 1880.

MESSES. EDITORS OF THE DEMOCRAT: GENTS-In your paper of the 2d and 9th instants I see communications signed "Gregg" and "Potter," recommending me as a suitable person to represent the people of Centre county in the Legislature. The suggestion therein made was a surprise to me, as I had not thought of such a step at this time. I did not intend to take any notice of it at first, but find I must make my intentions known to my friends. I am not a candidate, for the reason that circumstances over which I have no concircumstances over which I have no con-trol prevent my candidacy for that high position. With many thanks to my friends for their friendly notice of me, and wish-ing a triumphant election to the candidates the people may choose to represent them, I remain yours truly,

JOHN SHANNON.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Sept. 15, 1880. To THE EDITORS OF THE DEMOCRAT.

GENTLEMEN: In reply to the personal solicitation and letters of a great many Democrats of the county and for the information of those to whom I have spoken about the matter, I desire to say that I will not be a candidate for re-election to the office of District Attorney.

DAVID F. FORTNEY.

FROM HOWARD.-The following paragraph contains the ruminations of a traveler upon the past and present of the pretty little borough of Howard, expressed in his own quaint language:

MESSES. EDITORS .- In traveling, I ob-Mesers. Editors.—In traveling, I observe the manners, habits and customs of the people. Bald Eagle Valley was once attractive and inviting, on account of its beautiful streams, and the beautiful fish with which the streams abounded. In Bald Eagle creek were caught the minnow, the chub, mullet, fall fish, pike, perch, salmon, cel, sunfish, cat-fish, and shad as far from the mouth of the creek as this place. (Howard), et al. The original prosalmon, eel, sunfish, cat-fish, and shad as far from the mouth of the creek as this place, (Howard), et al. The original proprietors of this valley—the Indians—were greatly attached to this little "neck of the woods." but they were compelled to leave, being driven away by the invasion of civilization, which came from the East, with its rifles, powder, ball and fiints with which to capture the deer, bear, elk, wild turkey and other game, with which the "grand old woods" abounded. It came also with its hooks, lines, dipnets and seines to gather in and convert to use the finny tribes that live in the streams. The diminution of game and fish, and the increase of population have caused, successfully, the present generation to turn their attention to agriculture. They succeed very well, and are getting along finely. I saw four potatoes taken from a single stalk (not a hill, but a single stalk) in R. C. Leathers' potato patch, at Mount Eagle, that weighed as follows; The four together weighed 4 lbs. and 9 oz.; the largest weighed 1 lb. and 15 oz. So you see the lababitants are doing well in agriculture. Who can beat R. C. Leathers in the large potato line?

CAMP ALEXANDER HAYES, SEPTEMBER 13, 1880.

Lieut. Col. Hastings directing us to break camp at 8 o'clock this morning. I cannot ay that we heard this official death sentence of our term of camp service with any great degree of satisfaction. Although we have been absent a week and have been subjected to the most rigorous discipline, yet we have found it far from unpleasant and this morning we bid adieu to the good old tents that have stood by us through sunshine and storm with lively feelings of regret. There is nothing that brings out in bolder relief either the latent good or bad which every man possesses to a greater or less degree, than this enforced companionship with his fellows under the restrictions which all must undergo as citizen soldiers. The man who voluntarily dons the blue and enrolls himself among the defenders of his State must understand that he at that moment resigns many of the privileges and immunities which he enjoys as a simple citizen. He who fails to appreciate this disappoints his friends and makes for himself an unenviable name among men. The Commonwealth does not expend vast sums of money upon her National Guard without expecting some return in kind. She exacts obedience and faithfulness as well as unceasing endeavor to reach the full measure of a trained and capable soldiery. To do this entails work, care and implicit and unreserved submission to the will of your superior officers, to the end that the thorough discipline, without which the National Guard would be a mob, may be maintained and enforced The man who fails to hold these truths for his guidance only courts disgrace and discomfiture. The only real unpleasant memory that remains to us of our week in camp is tracable directly to a failure to understand these truths and the young man who in the arrogance of youth and an utter disregard of the will of his superiors invoked a humiliation that will cling to him for life, can now in sack cloth and ashes reflect upon what might have been his record at Camp Hayes had he but remembered that the most beautiful and fragrant flowers in the garden of life are those that bloom over a duty conscientiously performed. I have no wish to follow this offender with harsh words, his punishment has already been great indeed, and I allude to this circumstance merely for the purpose of indicating the only path a soldier can follow with honor. Let it never again be said of a member of Company B, that he failed to do his whole duty. This morning was ushered in by the dull, dreary beating of fast falling rain drops upon our tents, and soon the voice of our cook was heard calling us to our last breakfast in Camp Hayes. A hasty cup of coffee, plentifully diluted from the dripping trees under which we stood, was soon disposed of, and then we addressed ourselves to the work of packing. Nine o'clock found us fully equipped and ready for an onward movement. We were quickly formed and marched in review before brigade headquarters, and then took up our line of march to the train. It was terrible under foot and soon the boys had dubbed it, "Hastings' Muddy March to the Sea." On we went through the drenching rain until at last we reached our Mecca, the waiting train. The work satisfied with this our first encampment. The commissary was fully as good as we expected, and there were few complaints heard except from chronic growlers, without whom we presume no well regulated community can be happy. The success of the encampment was obvious and the work accomplished by the men was semething prodigious. I am safe in saying that our home company made great progress in efficiency in the difficult evolutions in which they were drilled. With few exceptions the men were prompt and faithful in the discharge of their multiform duties. One of the most pleasant features about Company B is the good understanding which exists between the officers and men. Capt. Mullen and Lieuts. Potter and Hale have the respect and confidence of the men, and in return the men receive at the hands of their officers every attention which it is possible for these thoroughly trained gentlemen to show. In the grand review, which took place on Saturday afternoon, in the presence of Gov. Hoyt, Gen. Hartranft and many other distinguish ed military men from the regular army, the 5th Regiment bore a conspicuous part, and so well pleased was the Governor with the bearing and splendid appearance of the men, that he sent his especial con-gratulations to Col. Hastings, in which he spoke with great warmth of the manner in which the 5th had borne itself in the

This was gratifying to us all and when on Sunday evening after dress parade in the presence of thousands of strangers, Company B was loudly applaud. ed for the skill with which they executed Yesterday evening as the 5th Regiment an intricate movement, our cup was filled stood at parade rest, in the presence of to overflowing, and we were more than the brigade commander, his brilliant staff satisfied that we had not been learning and a vast concourse of visitors, Acting backward. Gen. Beaver, Cols. They well deserve the honors they wear so modestly.

MEMORANDA

The stillness of camp on Saturday even. ng was broken by a loud voice proclaim. ing that two young ladies from Pittsburg wished to see Corporal "Spowers." The blushing Ed. had to come out and acknowledge that he was the lad. Ed. kept his mustache carefully waxed with soap all the time he was in camp.

Jack Hinckle was orderly at head. uarters for several days.

When the guard ordered the lights to be put out of a certain tent in Company B voice was heard from within saying. Just wait a few minutes we are playing $2 freezeout and are not quite through.

W. A. Morrison confidentialy informed the Captain that mud looked much better piled up in the street than it did after being carried to the woods.

Siney Hoffer was so much pleased with the music at the cathedral in Pittsburg that it was with difficulty that he could be kept in camp. When asked whether the cathedral was built of stone or brick he looked wise and said he stopped at the Monongehala House.

Sergeant Burnside was complimented for the ability he displayed in putting a refractory private in the guard house
