Table listing names and addresses of members of the Centre County Democratic Committee for 1880, including districts like Bellefonte, Unionville, and Philipsburg.

Hancock Legion, Attention.

All members of the Hancock Legion are requested to be at the Club Rooms, uniformed and equipped for parade, at half-past six o'clock, sharp.

On Saturday Evening next. The new uniforms have been received and will be distributed at the regular meeting on Friday evening. By order of L. T. MUNSON, President.

Local Department.

This is the last day of September. Go to Powers & Son for the best boots and shoes. Buy your underclothing at the Philadelphia Branch. There are attractions about Harry Green's cigars that the ordinary man cannot resist. The pumpkins at the Fair will appear twice their ordinary size if you look at them through the fumes of Harry Green's cigars. Next Sunday evening the services in the Episcopal church in this place will begin at 7 o'clock, and continue to begin at that hour throughout the winter. It is surprising that sensible men will continue to suffer from kidney trouble when there is a cheap and effective remedy within their reach. Use Day's Kidney Pad. The members of the Executive Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association are requested to meet in the Association audience room to-morrow evening at 7 1/2 o'clock. The thermometer marked 24° at Mt. Washington on Wednesday of last week. This is a conclusive evidence that winter is approaching, and that this is the best month in the year to buy groceries at S. A. Brew & Son's elegant grocery store. Mr. B. F. Shaffer, of Nittany, has a pair of heavy draught horses and a small family driving horse which he desires to sell and advertizes them in these columns. Those interested should call on or correspond with him and they will secure a bargain. Col. Jacob Sallade, former editor of the Williamsport Sun, has been succeeded in that position by Mr. H. M. Wolf, Jr., who announces his intention to make that paper more thoroughly Democratic and able than ever before. May the Sun shine brightly under his guidance. On Monday evening about 6 o'clock a kerosene lamp exploded in the rear end of Lyon & Co.'s store, and for a short time the flames threatened serious results. They were subdued, however, before the arrival of the fire company. Overcoats and other clothing were damaged to the amount of about $160. It is said that there were 70,000 men in the great Democratic torchlight procession in New York City last Thursday night. Verily, this is an age in which people do not intend to hide their lights under a bushel, and, therefore, all the people of Centre county buy their groceries of Sechler & Co. The Inman steamer, City of Richmond, containing Madame Etelka Gerster, "the siren-voiced queen of the opera," left London on Friday and will arrive at New York in a few days. We hope the noble ship will bear her precious form in safety to our shores. Meanwhile, people can buy their groceries of Sechler & Co., as of yore. Mitchell Cunningham, a young son of Mr. Mert Cunningham, of this place, received a forcible reminder of the attraction of gravitation on Monday morning when a heavy bar of pig iron fell from a car which he was unloading, upon his right foot. It was an unfortunate accident, and its effects will be felt for some time. Williamsport rejoices in the possession of a new Democratic hebdomadical newspaper called the Locomotive Chronicle, and edited by that veteran Democratic journalist, Col. Levi L. Tate. It is creditable in appearance and strong in Democratic sentiment, and will doubtless receive the encouraging success that has greeted the Colonel's former efforts in the same direction.

Mr. Falken B. Williams, of Julian Furnace, Huston township, died at his home at that place last Friday morning, of dropsy of the heart. Mr. Williams was a prominent citizen and a highly respected gentleman. During the rebellion he served his country bravely as a member of Company A, 45th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers. He was only 33 years of age and leaves a widow and five children to mourn his decease. The death of one so brave and good, in the years of early manhood, and the anguish of the desolate widow and children must draw forth the deepest sympathy. Mr. Williams was interred at Martha Furnace, on Sunday, Rev. J. A. Woodcock officiating at the funeral ceremony. A delegation of Gregg Post, No. 95, of this place, and the Unionville drum corps were present, and the Post ceremony was performed over his grave.

Among the numerous specimens of superior painting and paper hanging found in many of the principal buildings of this county none approach nearer perfection than that which now adorns the laboratory at State College. To beautify this apartment, where professors and students must necessarily pass so large a portion of their time, the best services of the chief artists have been called into requisition. The wood-work has been exquisitely finished in dark walnut graining, and fine paper of an attractive pattern has been placed on the walls. The excellence of this work is due to Mr. James Houser, of Pleasant Gap, to whose skill it was entrusted, and all similar work submitted to him receives his careful attention.

Excursion tickets to and from this place will be sold during the continuance of the fair, as appears by the following letter:

Wilbur F. Reeder, Esq., Bellefonte, Pa. DEAR SIR: Yours of the 24th in regard to the Centre county fair is received. We will sell excursion tickets to Bellefonte on October 6, 7 and 8, good to return until October 9, from all stations on the main line, between Huntingdon and Altoona, both places inclusive, and from all stations on the Tyrone division, as requested. Yours truly, J. R. ERRINGER, General Ticket Agent.

The top of a large derrick erected by Valentines & Co., for the purpose of sinking an artesian well at their ore banks below town, broke on Tuesday evening of last week, and some of the workmen narrowly escaped being struck by the falling timber. To add to the misfortune of this occurrence, the heavy tools of the workmen, weighing over one thousand pounds, were precipitated down one hundred feet to the bottom of the well. It was a tedious and laborious operation to elevate them again to their proper level.

Of making newspapers in the City of Williamsport there seems to be no end, and just now one family, apparently, enjoys a monopoly of it. The latest visitor to this office is the Williamsport Chronicle--typographically quite pretty, politically independent, and edited by Allen W. Tate. We suppose the editor is of the same family as the editors of the Star of Hope and the Locomotive Chronicle. We extend to the new venture our best wishes. How many more of this journalistic family are there yet to hear from?

The discourse of Rev. John Hewitt, last Sunday evening, on "The Rock that is Higher than I," was eloquent and impressive. It accorded perfectly in words and sentiment with the lofty subject upon which it treated. The audience that listened to it was larger than usual. No more appropriate sequel to it could have been chosen than the closing hymn, "Rock of Ages," as well for the sentiment which it contained as the charming manner in which it was rendered.

The nuptial ceremony between Mr. Adam Heifner, of Shirleysburg, and Miss Mary Geisinger, of Huntingdon, sister of our handsome dental friend, Dr. J. D. Geisinger, was celebrated at the home of the bride last Thursday. The wedded pair received numerous elegant and valuable presents. They immediately departed for the home of the groom, at Shirleysburg, where a brilliant reception was tendered them.

The Clearfield papers inform us that Mr. David Johnson and ex-Sheriff Pentz have together assumed control of the Shaw House at that place. During his connection with the Brockerhoff House in this place, Mr. Johnson made many friends, who will doubtless be glad that they can meet with a familiar face when stopping in Clearfield.

Next Sunday afternoon brings the regular monthly meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association. It begins at 4 o'clock and lasts for one hour. Rev. James P. Hughes, the efficient principal of the Bellefonte Academy, will conduct the exercises. Under his leadership they will certainly be of unusual interest, and all are earnestly invited to attend.

Mrs. Diana Billet, wife of Mr. William Billet, of Nittany Hall, and daughter of Mr. A. Snyder, of this place, died quite suddenly on Tuesday of last week of heart disease. She was about thirty-six years of age and leaves a husband and four small children.

A handsome head should wear a handsome hat--such as are kept at the Philadelphia Branch.

THE VETERANS' RE-UNION--FOUR THOUSAND PEOPLE MEET WITH THEM IN THE GROVE, AND PASS A DAY WHICH SHALL FOREVER BE FULL OF PLEASANT MEMORIES.--The morning of Saturday last dawned dark and threatening. The dull, leaden clouds overhead and the damp atmosphere indicated rain, and it seemed as though the long-expected equinoctial storm was about to burst. It carried a chill to the hearts of many of those who had looked forward to the day as one of pleasure in celebrating the seventh annual re-union of the veterans of Centre county. But, notwithstanding a few persons were deterred from joining the hundreds who departed from this place to the scene of the picnic, many started on the early train, and every seat in the twelve passenger coaches which composed the special train that started at 9 o'clock was filled when it left this place. Some went armed with umbrellas and gum coats. The scene around the depot before the departure of the special train was one of delightful animation. Ladies were present in gay and varied costumes, the Pleasant Gap band joined the throng, breathing delightful melody, the drum and sife of the Spring Mills delegation was a pleasant variation, and the squad of twenty from Company B, Bellefonte Fencibles, gave the scene a military air. Passengers were gathered up all along the route, and when it reached Unionville even standing room was at a premium. Nor did the scene around the depot complete all that gave life and animation to Bellefonte in this pleasant occurrence. The Zion Band with their handsome wagon and eight horses passed along Allegheny street playing a lively air, while in front and behind them were turnouts of every description, all en route to McEwen's Grove.

But as the train was whirled along to its destination what a change came over the face of nature. As if ashamed of its gloomy aspect in the presence of the sunny smiles of the picnickers, the clouds withdrew and Old Sol beamed forth in all his glory. The cool chill changed to a warm glow. Never did a more perfect day for a picnic succeed such an unpleasant morning. For several days previous the good people of Unionville had been vying with one another to do their utmost to make the occasion, so far as they were concerned, a glorious success. Beautiful arches of spruce and bunting spanned the streets, residences were tastefully and elaborately decorated with flags and evergreens, and, as will afterwards appear, extensive preparations were made to feed those who should come unprovided. Thus, a scene of great beauty and activity greeted the eyes of those who alighted from the train at Unionville, and as they mingled with the throngs who had assembled from all portions of the county, there was a concourse of people, which in numbers, animation and gaiety has rarely if ever been equalled in the annals of Centre county picnics.

The military and musical organizations formed in procession and took up a line of march beneath the beautiful arches and along the gaily ornamented thoroughfares. Their course lay through Allegheny street to Union, thence to Chestnut street, and then to McEwen's beautiful grove. Within this cool and shady retreat were more evidences of the extreme care and foresight displayed by the people of Unionville. All underbrush and stones had been hauled away, long tables erected and a grand stand constructed for the accommodation of the speakers. When all had assembled, Rev. J. A. Woodcock, of Milesburg, spoke the words of welcome to the veterans and their friends in behalf of the people of Unionville, but it needed not formal words to tell what the ample preparations around them so fully attested. Col. D. S. Keller, the Secretary of the Club, responded in a feeling manner. For the purpose of organization, Colonel Keller nominated Dr. G. F. Harris for presiding officer, and a prayer was offered by Rev. H. Lundy, of Snow Shoe. President Harris appointed a committee of nine on place of next meeting, with Col. Andrew Gregg chairman, and a similar committee on officers for the ensuing year, of which Lieut. John W. Stewart was chairman. After the roll of veterans was called recess was announced until 2 o'clock p. m.

The people separated from the speaker's stand and hastened in all directions. Lunch baskets and boxes were produced and soon the ground was dotted with snowy tablecloths. Then came bread and biscuits, celery and coldmeats, jellies and marmalades, pies and cakes and perhaps bottles of sweet cream and cold coffee--nothing stronger. Around these young ladies and gentlemen, old folks and children grouped themselves in genuine picturesque picnic attitudes, and the contents of the tablecloths quickly vanished--not by magic--but in that manner which all who have ever been blessed with a picnic appetite so well understand. What if a few of those crawling inhabitants of the trees overhead did fall down and mingle with the delicious viands beneath, they were all partaken of with equal relish. And now the utility of the long tables to which we have alluded became apparent. Upon them the kind ladies of Unionville heaped the rich treasure of cookery which must have cost them days of labor, and when the tables were laden with all they would contain, bade those not otherwise provided for to gather around and partake. None could resist so earnest an invitation.

With full stomachs and happy hearts the people once more drew near to the grand stand. The Zion and Pleasant Gap bands discoursed delightful music. The committee on next meeting named Spring Mills, and the committee on officers were of opinion that the present efficient list of officers should be retained. Treasurer Curtin submitted his financial report. All the reports were adopted. After being regaled with music by the Pine Hall Band, speeches were in order. Ex-Governor Curtin led off with one of his touching and graceful tributes to the nation's heroes, which are always filled with so much earnestness and ardor on such occasions. He was succeeded by the following gentlemen in five-minute talks: Rev. W. A. Ridge, of Eagleville; D. F. Fortney, Esq., Major R. H. Forster and Col. D. H. Hastings, of this place, and Col. Jas. F. Weaver, of Milesburg. Capt. Austin Curtin moved that thanks be extended to the citizens of Unionville for their royal entertainment, to the several local committees for their untiring efforts, to the bands for their sweet music, and to the Bellefonte Fencibles for important services rendered. Capt. John Hamilton seconded the motion and it was carried amid much enthusiasm. The exercises closed with the Benediction by Rev. J. A. Woodcock.

As the hour was growing late the people now began to clamber into their vehicles and start on their dusty journey home. A large number of persons who started to the picnic in private conveyances after they were assured that the day would be fine arrived only in time to turn about and go home again, so that a larger number visited the picnic during the day than was at first estimated. After some delay, the special passenger coaches with their burden of human freight, departed from the pleasant town where such a happy day had been passed, and depositing part of their contents at the stations on the route, drew into Bellefonte just as the sun retired for the night. The tired and dusty picnickers, as a rule, followed the sun's example.

A "LOVE" OF AN ENGINE.--The firm of Gordon & Landis always submit the engines which they sell to a severe test before trusting them to the care of the parties for whom they are intended, and during last week started a pretty little farm engine in operation. The senior member of the firm remarked that from first to last the engine had given him more satisfaction than any he ever had anything to do with (and that is speaking volumes), as at the first trial it started off with an ease and regularity quite wonderful. The sound of its movement is soft and musical, and, apparently, might be stopped by a touch of the finger, and not until we know that it is ten-horse power do we realize its importance. A special feature about the engine is that, owing to a new and ingenious arrangement attached to its safety valve, it will never start in operation of itself, and is entirely safe in the hands of inexperienced parties. Its name is "Paxson," and it is intended for Mr. Philip Gephart, of Zion, to whom it will be both ornamental and useful.

BUSINESS AT THE "BEE HIVE."--As may be seen by reference to our advertisements, the firm of Bauland & Newman announce their grand fall opening. The members of the firm have been spending a long time in the large cities selecting goods and are confident that no establishment in this town contains a stock so complete in all its departments. It includes dry goods, carpets, notions, yarns, boots and shoes, &c. In another room is an elegant assortment of men's furnishing goods, and special attention will be given to custom-made clothing. Those who call early, of course, secure the best bargains.

On Tuesday evening last a handsome flag was presented by the Republican ladies of this place to the organization known as the Garfield Guards. The affair was a feeble imitation of a meeting held in the Court House a few weeks ago when the Democratic ladies presented a banner to the Hancock Legion. The speeches of presentation and acceptance, however, made by A. O. Furst and D. H. Hastings, Esqs., respectively, were not by any means as eloquent or able as those delivered by Hon. C. T. Alexander and J. W. Gephart, Esq., on the former occasion. The proceedings were exceedingly tame, and the only merit shown was in the accuracy with which the Republican ladies imitated the example set by their Democratic sisters.

When you come to the fair call at Lyon & Co.'s and see the largest and finest stock of overcoats that can be found outside of Philadelphia. We have them at $2.75 and $3.75. We have brown beaver overcoats at $5.25 and $6.50. You can't beat them anywhere else at $7.50 and $8. We have the finest blue and black beaver overcoats. We have a reversible overcoat, two sides to wear out, or two coats in one. We have the best chinchilla overcoats at $6.00 you ever saw; they are worth $8 to $10. We can show you over $1,000 worth of overcoats. LYON & CO.

Mr. W. A. Sweeney, proprietor of the Allegheny street billiard parlors, has been improving the interior appearance of his elegant establishment by an application of paint.

In dry goods, dress goods, shoes and ladies' millinery, we can show you the largest and best stock in the county. LYON & CO.

Always obey the law of the land and buy your clothes at the Philadelphia Branch.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.--Mr. Fisher, a nephew of Mrs. Harry Teats, of this place, arrived in town from his home in the State of Indiana on Tuesday, and will visit for a short time among his friends in this vicinity.

Miss Lizzie Morrison, of this place, is receiving a visit from her graceful and attractive friend, Miss Sylvia Mayes, of Emporium, whom she has had the pleasure of entertaining on previous occasions.

Miss Sarah Benner and her niece, Miss Mary Morris, are visiting in Philadelphia.

Mr. John Mullen, who has so long been serving in the capacity of clerk in Guggenheimer's store, has severed his connection with that establishment, and will hereafter be found at Wolf's store in Centre hall.

Messrs. Wm. L. Kurtz and John Booser represented the Centre Hall Young Men's Christian Association at the State Convention which met in Wilkesbarre, last week.

Mrs. Adam Hoy was among the distinguished people from this place attracted to Philadelphia last week to witness the proceedings of the Presbyterian Council.

Mr. William Curtin, son of Ex-Gov. A. G. Curtin, arrived in town last Saturday. He is as handsome as ever in appearance and seems to be in excellent health.

Mr. John Condo, of Eldorado, California, was visiting at the home and among the friends of his youth in Pennsylvania Valley, last week. Twenty-five years ago he went to California, and during his residence in that State has become greatly attached to it, and expresses the opinion that it offers superior inducements to the agriculturist. He, however, is engaged in the gold quartz mining, and finds it profitable.

We learn that Mr. Harry Green is in Philadelphia attending a college of pharmacy.

Rev. William Laurie departed last week for Philadelphia to attend the Presbyterian Council, and, consequently, both the morning and evening services of that denomination were dispensed with.

Rev. J. F. Delong, of the Reformed church, will deliver a sermon before the faculty and students of State College next Sunday.

Miss Jennie Dare, of this place, has, for several weeks past, been suffering the affliction of a sprained ankle.

Miss Belle Willower is at present visiting in town at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Dr. Hibler.

Dr. Thomas R. Hayes and lady, who have recently been making an extended tour through the West, will return on Saturday next, the 2d of October. Both the tourists have found their journey very delightful.

The numerous friends of Mr. Augustus Schnell will now find him officiating as clerk in Wilson, McFarlane & Co.'s hardware store. In such a busy firm there is abundant compass for him to demonstrate his superior skill as a salesman.

McEwen's grove, Unionville, was full of nicely dressed people last Saturday who bought their clothing at the Philadelphia Branch.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING AT MT. EAGLE.--The meeting held in the school house at Mt. Eagle on Saturday night last was organized by making Philip Barntan president, after which it was addressed by District Attorney Fortney and Joseph L. Neff. The house was well filled by an enthusiastic and appreciative audience, among which were quite a number of Republicans who had come to listen to the truth as expounded by an earnest and effective speaker, as we are bound to admit is the case when our friend Fortney makes a speech. It is not often the pleasure of the writer to listen to a speech made by a stump speaker of either party, wherein the speaker's enthusiasm does not run riot with his argument and good sense, and thereby frequently fails to make a single point which might be calculated to elucidate and more firmly establish the principles he advocates, or refute and annihilate the doctrine of the opposition; but the speech of Mr. Fortney, on this occasion, was one that the most bitter partisan could take no exceptions to. It was lucid as well as terse, forcible as well as convincing. He paid little attention to the abuse of the Republican party; but on the other hand rather complimented members of it by referring to the neat and glowing tribute which one of the Republican orators of this county paid at the Veterans' reunion at Unionville, "to the peaceful and prosperous condition of the whole country," by saying that all Republicans were willing to admit of the stump, that there was no sectional strife, but that peace and harmony prevailed; but whenever they stepped out to make a political speech, all sectionalism must be revived; the remembrances of the late war, which have been buried for fifteen years in the bosom of time, must be resurrected by digging up the graves of the late war, and dragging therefrom the ghastly skeleton of the rebellion for the purpose of arousing sectional hatred and engendering bitter feelings against neighbors and friends. He demonstrated conclusively that these were false issues, and one after another he took up the various issues of the campaign and handled them in a spirited and masterly manner. The Democrats here were well pleased with the manner in which the issues of the campaign were discussed, as it was not a harangue of idle words of abuse showered upon the members of the Republican party, but a dispassionate and forcible argument, which undoubtedly has its effects on an unprejudiced mind. It has done the Democrats of this section good, and has done much to explode the theories upon which Republicans base their belief. Mr. Neff followed Mr. Fortney in an enthusiastic arraignment of the Republican party for its many crimes and misdemeanors while in power, and passed judgment on them in his usual vigorous style. Meetings such as this are fruitful of good. CINCINNATI.

TRIBUTE OF BENNER GRANGE TO THE LATE RICHARD CONLEY.--WHEREAS, The Allwise Master, in His Providence, has seen fit to visit us by death for the first time, and take to his reward Brother Richard Conley, (aged 71 years), a charter member and past master of Benner Grange, No. 107, also ex-Sheriff of Centre county, Pa. Knowing with pleasure that Brother Conley was prepared to the time when his spirit should be freed of the tenement of clay and go to his "Father's house" of "many mansions," while visiting him in his illness, these lines of Young came to our mind: "The chamber where the good man meets his fate, Is privileged beyond the common walk, Of virtuous men, 'twixt the verge of heaven."

In view of this event, it is eminently proper that Benner Grange should give public expression to its feelings. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Conley Benner Grange has sustained a loss of one of its most earnest, faithful and unselfish workers, the community a good, charitable and warm hearted neighbor, and the church a devout, humble and praiseworthy member.

Resolved, That we, the members of Benner Grange, sincerely sympathize with Sister Conley and family in this heavy affliction.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the bereaved family, and be published in the Farmer's Friend and the county papers.
