A Fatal Mining Accident.

NEARLY FIFTY MEN BURIED ALIVE BY AN EXPLOSION IN THE FORD PIT AT STELLARTON, N. S.

From Special Dispatch to the World.

STELLARTON, N. S., Nov. 12.—About 6:30 o'clock this morning an explosion of gas occurred on the south side of the Ford Pit. All the miners were at work in different parts of the mine. The explosion was so terrible as to sweep quite across to the other side of the pit, killing the men and horses within reach. As far as known forty-three men and boys were in the pit and are supposed to be lost. Thirty-three of these were married men, some with large families. Searching parties cannot get in very far on account of masses of coal blocking up the way in all directions. Messrs. J. Hudson, of the Albion mines; Greene, of the Vale, and H. S. Poole, of the Acadia, went down the pit this morning. One boy was recovered and two were seen by explorers. Several dead horses were found. None of the miners on the north side were injured, and quite a number of them were surprised at the crowds around the mouth of the pit when they came up for dinner, not having any idea that such a terrible fate had befallen their fellow-workmen.

Messrs. Hudson, Greene, Simpson and Poole, with other volunteers, who have been down in the pit, found it impossible to explore the south side for any distance on account of the after-damp, there being no air through the side, as all the doors had been blown down by the blast. They found some bodies but could not identify them. All the horses in the pit, twenty-nine in number, are dead.

The following are the names of the missing men, of whom there is no hope of recovery: James Mitchell Overman, Angus McKay, sheetfitter; James Lenman, John Carr, Edward Savage, Thomas Rogers, John Morrison, William Murdock, Edward Roberts, Sr.; Edward Roberts, Jr., John Roberts, Thomas McKay, John Cumming, Job Stainer, William Lewis, Daniel Southerland, John McLaughlan, John McNaughton, Robert McLeod, Rory McKinnon, John Craford, Charles Dunbar, Joseph Hain, Thomas Sullivan, John Johnson, Murdock McDonald, Henry Hadden, Wm. Ross, John McInnis, Peter McInnis, Peter McNeil, Thomas McKay, Hector McLean.

Others are in the pit but their names cannot yet be ascertained.

The following are injured so badly that very little hope is entertained for their recovery: Mathew McPherson, William Dunbar, Sr., George Burden, W. McCly, Reuben Dunbar.

The number still in the pit is said to be forty-four. It is feared another explosion will occur when the pit gathers gas again. Work is totally suspended at all the collieries in the county and miners have come to the scene of the accident in great numbers but altogether powerless to render any assistance on account of the precarious condition of the pit. It is not known how the fire originated, as none from the side where the accident occurred are alive to tell the tale.

There is no appearance on the surface of any damage from the explosion. The hoisting shaft is all right and still in working order. The cover was blown off the ventilating fan but was again restored and the fan is now in good condition and freeing the mine of damp. As the boxes containing the tools for the men had not gone into the workings it is believed the men and boys will be found together on the main level, about half-way in, where they were accustomed to wait until the tools came before separating to the different working places.

(Stellarton is a village in Pictou county, Nova Scotia, on East River and on the Inter-Colonial Railway, 100 miles northeast of Halifax, and six miles from Pictou harbor. The place often goes by the name of the Albion Mines. Great quantities of coal are raised from these mines. The village contains numerous stores and a telegraph office. It has a population of 2,000. Coal is very abundant in Nova Scotia, and much attention has been paid to mining of late years. The capital invested in coal mining is estimated at $12,000,000, and the number of mines worked is twenty-five. Pictou, the principal town in the coal region and the one next in importance in the country, was founded in 1767 by some emigrants from Philadelphia.)

All the Nihilists tried for being implicated in plots against the life of the Czar of Russia have been found guilty. Five of them have been sentenced to death and eleven to hard labor in the mines, their terms of punishment ranging from life to fifty years. Three women were sentenced to fifteen years' penal servitude. The Court announced that it would intercede for mitigation of sentences in the cases of the women and in the case of one of the men condemned to the mines.

The tobacco crop of Lehigh county was badly damaged by worms.

Hanlan Wins. THE GREAT BOAT RACE DECIDED IN FAVOR OF THE AMERICAN.

LONDON, November 15.—The sculling match between Edward Hanlan, of Toronto, and Edward Trickett, of Sydney, N. S. W., over the Thames championship course, from Putney to Mortlake, for the championship of the world, the Sportsman's Challenge Cup and £400 sterling, came off to-day, and was won by Hanlan in his usual style.

The start took place at 12:14 o'clock, at which time the tide was nearly smooth, and the water slack and smooth throughout. Hanlan had the Surrey side of the river, and a very even start was effected, Hanlan striking the water at the rate of thirty-five strokes to the minute and Trickett at the rate of forty-one. Hanlan rowed easily and in perfect style, showing his superiority from the first stroke.

The crab tree was passed in six minutes and four seconds from the starting point. Here Trickett began to labor and look ill, and by the time the soap works were reached the race was absolutely over. Occasionally Hanlan stopped rowing until Trickett came up, when a few powerful strokes would send him ahead again. Between Hamersmith bridge and Chiswick, Hanlan laid down twice. He stopped entirely once, and again paddled along first with one scull then with the other. He leaned over to wash his face and chat with Elliott, who was rowing alongside, and finally won by about three lengths, which he could have made half a mile if he had so chosen. Time of the race, 29 minutes and 9 seconds. Trickett's form created great disappointment. He was much distressed at the finish, while Hanlan was perfectly fresh.

The Huntingdon News says that the barn of Philip Zook, located one mile west of Allenville, Mifflin county, was totally destroyed by fire about 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon last. The fire originated in a blacksmith shop adjoining the barn during the absence of a workman and before he returned the flames spread so rapidly that they were beyond control. Mr. Zook lost all of his last summer's crop, consisting of twelve hundred bushels of grain, hay, etc. A grain drill and buggy were saved. The loss is several thousand dollars, partially insured in a local company.
