Canary birds and cages at Zeller's. Holiday goods at Zeller's drug store. See the "Bee Hive's" new advertisement.

The shooting of deer closes next Wednesday, the 15th instant.

Parents should go to the Philadelphia Branch for their boys' clothing.

For fragrance of flavor and perfect aroma Harry Green's cigars always win the diploma.

Handsome, neat-fitting suits of the finest fabrics at the Philadelphia Branch.

Arrest the sufferings of your friends by advising the use of the Day Kidney Pad.

The reading room of the Young Men's Christian Association is now open every night.

The first theatre of the season will exhibit in Reynolds' Opera House, this place, to-night.

The African M. E. church, of this place, is holding a series of protracted meetings.

You are respectfully invited to call and examine the holiday goods at Zeller's. No trouble to show goods.

Young lady, does your sweetheart smoke? If so, buy him a box of Harry Green's cigars for a Christmas gift.

Last Monday night the council adopted the proper measures to stop the leaks existing in the water pipes on Allegheny street.

Suits at law are unprofitable; those sold at the Philadelphia Branch pay the customer 200 per cent. on the money invested.

The regular monthly meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association, on Sunday afternoon, was an exceedingly pleasant gathering.

Knights, Agar & Co., of Lock Haven, have just finished a 120-horse power engine to be placed in the iron works of Bernard Lauth & Co., of Howard.

Garments woven in the loom of nature may be nice enough, but those for sale at the Philadelphia Branch are much more comfortable this cold weather.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad will be held at Lock Haven on Monday, January 10. See advertisement.

Nothing would be more acceptable to a gentleman for a Christmas gift than a pair of warm gloves or a cap such as are sold at the Philadelphia Branch.

The vacancy made by the falling of stone from the main tower of the Presbyterian church has been filled in with brick, which adds immensely to the beauty of the structure.

At its regular monthly meeting last Monday night, the borough council decided to meet only once a month hereafter.

The first Monday night of each month instead of the first and third as heretofore.

All old ladies who are well versed in herbs can give sage advice, and their best counsel will be to tell their friends and neighbors to go to Sechler & Co's grocery store for coffee, sugar, raisins, nutmegs and all other articles in the grocery line.

Young ladies, especially, will be interested in Rev. Dr. Vincent's lecture on "That Boy." Many of them have long been perplexed as to how to win the affections of "That Boy," and the Doctor's discourse will shed some light on the subject.

A reference to our advertisements will show that the Presbyterian congregation of this place desire their annual business meeting to be held on the second Tuesday instead of the first day of January, and are instituting legal proceedings accordingly.

No one should fail to visit Frank Blair's jewelry store when making their holiday purchases. His stock is larger, finer and better than ever before. You will find many choice articles there that you will see nowhere else outside of the large cities.

The Secretary of the State Grange of Patrons of Husbandry has effected a reduction of rates on the railroads for all who intend to be present at the annual meeting to be held at Greensburg, Westmoreland county, next Tuesday, the 14th instant.

A barn located in the mountain beyond the Loop, owned by Mr. Michael Lingle, was destroyed by fire with all of its contents, consisting of a large amount of hay and straw, between the hours of eight and nine o'clock on Thursday night, the 25th of November. It was not insured.

Fortunately for the faith of humanity, it is seldom we hear of such sore affliction as that which has recently visited Mr. and Mrs. McClellan Hunter, of Tyrone. Within a week all of their children—four in number—have sickened and died of that scourge of childhood, diphtheria. The last death occurred on Thursday, and the interment took place on Friday. Mrs. Hunter is just recovering from an attack of the same disease. She was Miss Kate Furey, daughter of James and Ellen Furey, formerly of this place, and her numerous relatives and friends in this section will be pained to hear of her sorrow. Mr. Hunter is baggage master on the Tyrone and Lock Haven and Clearfield branches of the Pennsylvania railroad. They are entitled to the sympathy of their friends.

Our readers will recollect the fine stock and large sales last Christmas of mustache caps and fine china at Frank Blair's. This induced him this year to make large purchases in this line and he has now in stock the finest goods in this line that is manufactured. Anything more elegant than he has is not made.

Ex-Mayor R. R. Bridgens, of Lock Haven, and Mr. William H. Snyder, of Eagleville, have contracted for grading nine miles of the prospective addition to the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad through Penns Valley. These gentlemen will accomplish the work with their accustomed energy and celerity. When the work upon this contract is completed there will be nearly eight more miles to grade.

A fine assortment of Christmas tree ornaments at Wilson's, Brockerhoff House block.

Nine converts were received into one of the churches at Woodward on Sunday morning of last week.

Zeller's are closing out their fine stock of pocket books at reduced rates. They intend to quit dealing in them.

There is no "diversity in creeds" so far as clothing is concerned, for all believe that the clothing sold at the Philadelphia Branch is the cheapest and best.

Oranges! oranges!! at Wilson's, Brockerhoff House block. Will receive within the next two weeks 10,000 oranges. Just the thing for festivals and Sunday-school celebrations.

The Daily News announces the death of Mr. Joseph Lewis, the oldest resident of Bald Eagle Valley. His death occurred on Sunday last, at the age of 88 years, 5 months and 19 days. His direct descendants are six children, eleven grandchildren and sixty-nine great-grandchildren.

Entertainment will be provided for preachers and delegates to the Sabbath-school Convention whose names are received by J. Wesley Gephart, Esq., Chairman of Committee on Entertainment, not later than Tuesday, December 14. The committee cannot engage to entertain any whose names are received after that date.

It is a subject of deep concern with many parents as to how they shall train their daughters. It is certain that a train of either silk velvet or satin would please any young lady, but, above all, fathers should never neglect to train their daughters to buy groceries of S. A. Brew & Son.

An English maxim is "After dinner sit a while; after supper walk a mile." This is good advice, and your health will be perfect if you take your evening walks in the direction of Sechler & Co's grocery store, where you can get the best groceries with which to compound breakfast, lunch, dinner, supper or any other meal.

The good people of Millheim had the rare fortune on Sunday last week to hear a sermon from the lips of Rev. Father Anspach, of Millheimburg. He is called "Father" because he is almost eighty years of age and has been in the Gospel ministry for fifty years. If confidence can be placed in the words of any mere man it is in those spoken by one whose life for nearly a century has been a living example of the sweet old story which he yet so loves to repeat.

Mr. Perry Cole, fireman at the Phoenix Planing Mill, was instrumental in preventing an explosion of the boiler in the engine room of that establishment on Friday last. He detected steam escaping from beneath the boiler, and on examination discovered that, owing to the collection of a quantity of solids at that spot, it was burned entirely through. He quickly drew off steam and prevented what might have been a disastrous accident. In consequence of the defect in the boiler, work at the mill was delayed for a few days.

The firm of Liveright, Greenwald & Co., of Philadelphia, manufacturers of boys' clothing, met with a loss of $20,000 last Friday night in the destruction of their establishment by fire. This is an especial cause of regret to many of our readers, as "Max" Liveright, the senior member of the firm, was once a resident of this place, clerking in S. A. Loeb's store. He was also engaged in mercantile business at Snow Shoe for a short time, and has many personal friends in our midst who will regret his mishap.

Frank Blair informs us that the sale of gold watches and fine jewelry has opened very satisfactory for the holiday trade. The disposition seems this year to be to buy fine goods and articles of artistic and intrinsic value. His plan of keeping no gold watches of less than 14 K. and of making his lowest cash prices in plain figures on each article is having its desired effect, as his experience has invariably been that the buying and selling of 10 K. watches is neither profitable or satisfactory to the buyer or seller.

On Friday evening last shortly before six o'clock smoke was discovered issuing from one of the second-story windows of ex-Governor Curtin's elegant residence. It was discovered that the flames had attained considerable headway and that a sofa, a mirror and a picture had been ruined, and that one of the window casements was considerably scorched. The alarm was sounded outside, but the crowd was prevented from entering the house and by the speedy and energetic measures of the inmates the flames were quickly subdued. The origin of the fire is not certainly known, but it is thought to have proceeded from the explosion of a parlor match lying on the floor.

PERSONAL.—Mr. C. J. Shaffer, of Potter's Mills, has accepted a clerkship in Dr. Pierce's store at Phillipsburg.

Mr. William Lyon, the proprietor of the well known meat market on Bishop street, was in Phillipsburg last week completing arrangements for a branch establishment in that place. His meat market here, however, will continue on as usual, and we have no objection if the Phillipsburgers do have an opportunity to buy some of the fine meat sold by Mr. Lyon, so that they don't get it all. Mr. Lyon has always been known to kill first-class cattle, and in this specialty promises to continue unrivaled in the future.

Mr. A. J. Cruse has recently made several important improvements in his cigar and tobacco store. By the new arrangement he can keep six workmen constantly employed, and at the same time devote the usual space to the transaction of his large business.

Mr. J. N. Cassanova, of Phillipsburg, we learn will start to Havana to-day to be absent during the winter. He will be welcome on his return next spring.

Gen. Jesse Merrill, one of Lock Haven's handsome and distinguished inhabitants, was in town last week, giving us the pleasure of his presence for a short time.

Mr. D. M. Peters, the genial proprietor of the Bush House, was in Philadelphia last week. It is probable that he will soon depart permanently with his family to that city to assume the proprietorship of one of its largest and most flourishing hotels.

Rev. S. A. Taggart, State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., is attending a district convention in Tioga county, which begins to-morrow and ends on Sunday.

Mr. James McCafferty, formerly of Guggenheimer's store, has severed his connection with that establishment and is now one of the active, busy bees at Bauland's "Bee Hive" store.

Willie and Mattie Keller, children of D. S. Keller, Esq., while coasting near their father's residence on Spring street, last week, ran into a tree, and each had the extreme ill fortune to sprain an ankle.

Mrs. Hiram Hoffer and children, of Tyrone, spent a few days of last week in town at the residence of Mr. Edward Tyson.

Miss Annie Swartz, the accomplished daughter of Dr. Swartz, of this place, is now in Phillipsburg, clerking in one of the dry goods stores of that place. She will be absent until after the holidays.

William P. Furey, late editor of the Altoona Sun, is in declining health, and his physician recommends a sojourn in the "Sunny South" as the only panacea. He will therefore start to San Antonio, Texas, as soon as possible, where we hope he will find the fountain of health for which he seeks.

Eli Perkins will appear before a Phillipsburg audience, Tuesday evening, December 21st.

The Rt. Rev. Dr. Howe, D. D., Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church in Central Pennsylvania, is announced to be in Phillipsburg next Sunday, where he will preach and administer the rite of confirmation to all persons who may present themselves for that purpose.

Our handsome young friend, Mr. Edward Gorman departed last Tuesday morning for Coatsville, Chester county, where there are attractions sufficiently strong to cause him to linger for about a week. He will then proceed to Philadelphia, to spend the gay holiday season in the City of Brotherly Love. It is unnecessary to say that Edward will be missed at home, and it is equally evident that he will be supremely happy as he basks in the bright sunshine of the smiles of those soft-eyed Quaker maidens.

DR. VINCENT'S LECTURE.—Thursday evening, December 16, promises to be an occasion of unusual interest to all lovers of rich thought and sentiment expressed in eloquent plenary oratory. Rev. Dr. Vincent will deliver his most admired lecture entitled "That Boy," in the Court House, in this place. The proceeds of the lecture—over and above, of course, a stipulated sum to be given the lecturer—will be devoted to furnishing newspapers and magazines for the Y. M. C. A. reading room. Thus the object is commendable and the lecture is one the equal of which the stay-at-home residents of our town seldom have an opportunity to hear. Delegates and others desiring to be present at the Convention of the Centre County Sabbath-school Association on the following day will do well to come to town on Thursday and thus have the opportunity of attending this lecture. It will be a compliment to the lecturer and to the intelligence of our community to greet Dr. Vincent with a tremendous audience. The price of admission will be placed at the low price of 50 cents to all parts of the Court House.

The following strong declaration from the eminent Bishop Simpson, of the M. E. church, will doubtless bear much weight with his friends in this community:

I have heard with great pleasure Dr. J. H. Vincent's lecture on "That Boy." It abounds in clear, sharp points, that both interest and instruct, as it is enlivened with many touches of wit and humor. I can most heartily commend this lecture to lecture committees who are arranging a course to profit the people.

Gregg Post, G. A. R., and the Post of that organization located at Phillipsburg, together with ten other Posts of the G. A. R., are ordered to meet for inspection at Altoona next Tuesday, December 14.

EXPLORING A CAVE.—Almost everybody has the pleasure of an acquaintance with Francis Speer, and almost everybody is equally well aware that a sweet, innocent, romantic young gentleman he is. His father, Mr. William Speer, now resides at his country seat near the village of Pleasant Gap, and Francis roams over the broad domain following the inclination of his own sweet will. His natural propensity to unearth and expose all that is evil and to investigate the hidden mysteries of nature and revelation have grown with his growth and strengthened with his increase of understanding since his residence at the Gap, until they have attained such wondrous development as to lead him, a few days ago, to institute a search into the hidden underground recesses of a cavern, which has been located on his father's farm from time immemorial and has for an indefinite period been a source of curiosity to Francis' enquiring mind. He was unable to summon to his command Aladdin's wonderful lamp, so he provided himself with a splendid lantern of improved pattern with which to guide his steps as he went on his dangerous errand into the bowels of the earth. Like the wise virgins, he filled his lantern with that liquid which oil merchants assert to be absolutely non-explosive petroleum, polished the glass until its crystal surface rivaled the sun in brilliancy, and struck a light so strong and bright as to put all the owls to instant flight. Francis is of tender age, and some boys would have hesitated before undertaking such a project, but our valiant hero proceeded on his mission with brave heart and undaunted mien. As he took his course through the frosty ether of that bright December day, he was a hero whose equal has not been known since the days when "the boy stood on the burning deck." Visions of hobgoblins, genii and evil spirits failed to make his heart quail or to disturb his equanimity of mind. He exulted in his prospective triumph over the powers of darkness. At last he reached the cavern's open mouth, and boldly lowered his lantern into the gloomy depths never before illumined by the light of day. He was just prepared to follow, when a noise—quick, sharp and terrible—proceeded from the interior of the cavern and caused his face to blanch with fear. Francis started back, thoroughly frightened. As he drew forth the lantern he found the glass shattered into a thousand fragments. The foul influences of the lower world had gained an easy victory. Francis owns himself defeated and has renounced his investigation for the present, but his fertile mind is planning a fresh attack, and woe to the powers of the nether world when he tries it again.

REV. W. O. WRIGHT.—According to appointment, says the Phillipsburg Journal, Rev. W. O. Wright, of Milesburg, preached in the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning. Although the morning was quite unpleasant, a fair congregation was in attendance. The reverend gentleman preached a very earnest gospel sermon and endeavored to impress his hearers with the important fact, that his mission was to preach Christ the crucified Saviour of the world. Mr. Wright has received the unanimous call from Phillipsburg and Morrisdale Mines congregations, to become their pastor, which he accepts, conditioned, that the Huntingdon Presbytery, to which these belong, will transfer him from Milesburg, his present charge, to Phillipsburg. In that event, he expects to enter upon this field of work, about the beginning of the New Year. Mr. Wright is a very earnest and energetic worker, and will, without doubt, work up this field in the interests of the Presbyterian church, greatly to its advancement, so that in a few years' time it may become an independent charge. He enjoys the confidence and best wishes of this people in his new field of labor.

A bridal couple hailing from Warriors Mark arrived at the Brockerhoff House on a late train one day last week and were assigned to room No. "Letter B," just above the office. Shortly after these "two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one" had retired, Clerk McKeever, who was passing through the hall, discovered that a strong odor of gas pervaded the whole of the upper portion of the hotel. He immediately commenced an examination and was soon convinced that the gas was escaping through the transom of "Letter B." He knocked at the door and was greeted with an impatient, "What do you want?" "How did you put the gas out?" asked Mac. "Blew it out, of course. How else would I put it out?" It was explained to him that unless he found some other means of summoning darkness his honeymoon would be of short duration. After repeated failures with the chandelier, the door was opened and McKeever, overcoming his natural modesty, was compelled to enter and turn off the gas. Silence brooded over "Letter B" from that until morning.

TRUTH AND HONOR.—Query: What is the best family medicine in the world to regulate the bowels, purify the blood, remove costiveness and biliousness, aid digestion and tone up the whole system? BELEFONTE'S BLADENBURG—A RESORT TO ARMS.—THE DUETTO IN OUR MIDST—HALF MOON HILL THE SCENE OF A MYSTERIOUS RENCONTRE.—On last Monday morning about 6 o'clock as a soft silvery light was chasing away the sombre remnants of night from the dusky brow of Half Moon hill, a strange procession, composed of seven heavily ulstered and decorously quiet gentlemen, could be seen laboriously wending its way to the summit. The moon had disappeared, the stars were waning, the fleecy clouds were rolling back from the mountain tops, as the golden light grew stronger and increased in splendor around the bare, rugged crags and spurs of weather beaten rocks. Down through the needled pines, the dark forbidding oaks, around the moss grown boulders, danced the rosy dawn, nearing Bellefonte, our beautiful Mountain City, as she lay peaceful and quiet below. It was an unusual, weird and ominous scene. What brought these gentlemen together, at this spot at this most unconventional hour? What was the meaning of the studied melancholy and subdued mien which characterized the bearing of all composing the mysterious party? Arriving at the top of the hill they lost no time in at once indicating the purpose which brought them there. One gentleman proceeded to step off ten paces, another of the party produced from the voluminous folds of his last winter's ulster a box from which he removed two pistols. The silence at this time was oppressive. The ugly looking weapons were, without remark, placed in the hands of two nervous looking individuals, who were placed back to back. Now for the first time, a clear, sonorous voice cleft the morning air. "You will walk until the drop of this handkerchief, then turn and fire." At this moment one of the party who up to this juncture had given unmistakable signs of great distress retreated behind the protecting trunk of an enormous tree. The portentous handkerchief fell to the ground. Two men hurriedly confronted each other. Two shots disturbed the solemn stillness as they rang out as one. Two arms were flung convulsively into space and a manly form lay prone upon the earth with a crimson tide rushing in torrents over his face. The silent figure left the protecting embrace of the friendly tree and started over the brow of the hill at a terrific pace. His career was suddenly checked by a cry from the crowd surrounding the "lay" figure. He returned, took his disabled friend by the hand and disappeared with the stealth and swiftness of the panther. After this the deluge. In a moment, Half Moon hill, so recently a human pandemonium where deadly passions were running riot—where bloodshed reigned triumphant, was now silent and calm as the grave. The curtain has been rung down. The mystery is unexplained, and one of the participants is hunting in vain for the waters of Lethe that he may drink forgetfulness of the tragic events of last Monday morning.

EXAMINATION AT THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—Prof. Meyer spent last Friday afternoon in making a thorough examination into the workings and efficiency of the public schools of Bellefonte. He had previously announced that he would conduct a minute and comprehensive examination of all the scholars over fourteen years of age. As these are all found in the principal's room, Prof. Meyer devoted the greater portion of his time to this department. The pupils were on the qui vive and had evidently determined to do their very best. The examination covered the entire range of studies taught the most advanced scholars and was eminently satisfactory, reflecting much credit upon the management and ability of the principal, Mr. Leib. Prof. Meyer seemed perfectly at home as he made frequent drafts upon the knowledge of the pupils and was highly pleased throughout. Among those who deserve especial mention as having passed really brilliant examinations were Miss Mary Bradley, Miss Belle Weaver, Miss Kate Powers, niece of Mr. John Powers, and Harry and Willie Keller, sons of D. S. Keller, Esq. Willie Keller especially demands more than passing notice. He is only twelve years of age but his acquisitions are of such a character as to place him in the highest department of the schools. After concluding the examination in Principal Leib's room Prof. Meyer visited the Senior Grammar school conducted by Mr. Wetzel where he heard several of the classes. He then visited the Junior Grammar school presided over by Miss Rosie Wood and heard the mental arithmetic and geography classes in their recitations. Prof. Meyer expressed himself as well satisfied with the proficiency and deportment of the scholars in this excellently conducted department. He afterwards visited the primary and intermediate departments and heard the reading classes, which concluded his labors. It was a pleasant occasion for both the Professor, the teachers and the scholars. Prof. Meyer says that all the schools are in excellent condition and the pupils show the result of careful and conscientious training.

When you come to Bellefonte call at Lyon & Co.'s and see the largest and finest stock of overcoats that can be found outside of Philadelphia. We have them at $2.75 and $3.75. We have brown beaver overcoats at $5.25 and $6.50. You can't beat them anywhere else at $7.50 and $8. We have the finest blue and black beaver overcoats. We have a reversible overcoat, two sides to wear out, or two coats in one. We have the best chinchilla overcoats at $6.00 you ever saw; they are worth $8 to $10. We can show you over $1,000 worth of overcoats.

ANOTHER FIRE IN THE SOUTH WARD.—Yesterday morning about half-past six o'clock the alarm of fire was again sounded, and the flames were discovered issuing from the roof of a small frame dwelling house on the north side of Logan street, a short distance east of Allegheny. The Logan hose company was promptly on hand and, with the aid of the Undine boys, who also soon arrived, worked very effectively in combatting the flames. The building was saved from total destruction, although it seems to be damaged beyond the hope of repair. The fire doubtless originated from a spark from the kitchen-stove, the fire in which had just been lighted. The house was owned by Mr. Jacob Manasse, who now resides in Philadelphia, and was occupied by Mrs. Wells, a widow lady, with quite a large family. We believe the building was insured. The few articles of furniture belonging to Mrs. Wells were removed to a place of safety. Mrs. Wells is an invalid, and in quite destitute circumstances, and the position of herself and family is now more disagreeable than ever. As they are very worthy people and have seen better days, it would seem that they are entitled to the speedy aid of all philanthropic persons.

CHURCH DEDICATION.—The Fairview Evangelical church, recently erected near Howard, was dedicated last Sunday, December 5, Bishop Thomas Bowman being present and officiating at the service. A correspondent sends us the following account of the proceedings on that occasion:

On account of the inclemency of the weather we felt rather discouraged, but soon the friends began to come in from all parts of the neighborhood, and when the time for morning service had arrived a respectable congregation was present. The congregation was favored with an excellent sermon by the Bishop, after which a statement was made of the finances—five hundred dollars being necessary to liquidate the debt. A subscription was then circulated and the amount immediately raised. In the evening the church was solemnly dedicated to the Triune God, by the Bishop, after which an able sermon was preached by Rev. C. L. Reaser, P. E., followed by the administration of the Lord's Supper.

The church is a neat frame building, 45x30 ft., tastefully furnished, and reflects credit upon the entire community. The following persons constituted the building committee: Messrs. Jonathan Schenck, Dr. L. R. Hensyl, Daniel Schenck, Michael Holter and Joseph Holter. Much credit is due to the committee for carrying the enterprise to a successful completion.

"THE RAILROADS AND THE PEOPLE."—Mr. F. B. Thurber, of New York, furnishes to the December Scribner a paper which will be widely read, and which bids fair to create considerable excitement. It is entitled "The Railroads and the People," and it presents most forcibly the recent exposures of corruption in the great railroad monopolies of this country. The December number of Scribner contains also many striking illustrations as well as literary features. The November issue was the largest number ever printed; it contained one hundred and seventy pages, and was crowded with brilliant pictures and articles of more than usual interest.

We hear of the death, yesterday morning at eight o'clock, at the residence of Mr. Houpp near Valentines' forge, of Mr. Harry C. Brooks, who has for some time been making his home in this place. His friends in Lancaster have been telegraphed and his body will probably be taken there for interment.

DEATHS.

JOHNSTON.—In Phillipsburg, November 13th, Mrs. E. wife of Thomas W. Johnston, aged 29 years, 2 months and 9 days.

IRVIN.—On Monday, November 23, at Keokuk, Iowa, of pneumonia, Mrs. Isabella, wife of John Irvin, formerly of Oak Hill, Centre county.

The deceased was a sister of James H. Rankin, Esq. of this place. Her age was 74 years. She lived and died a Christian.
