LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Jan. 17, 1881.

The debate in the Senate on the question of franking privileges has elicited the singular fact, as stated by Mr. Edmunds, that the only public servants unsafe to be trusted with franking official matter are the men who make the laws. This permits every man, woman and child in the Post Office Department, to determine what is "official business," and so in every other Department of the government, and yet a Senator may not enjoy the privilege as the law now stands. It is more than likely that the existing laws will be repealed and return made to the old order of things, under which our legislators sent all kinds of matter through the mails, though it is possible the repealing act may contain a clause prohibiting some impecunious Solon from sending his clothes home to be washed and patched as was done in ante-bellum times. Gen'l Logan is warmly advocating his bill to restore General Grant to his old rank of General and then retiring him on the corresponding pay. It seems that the Senate will pass it, but inasmuch as the House Military Committee have by a vote of 6 to 3 killed a similar measure, there is no probability of its becoming a law during this Congress. Mr. Blaine is strongly in favor of it, and has so put himself on record in the N. Y. Tribune, yet his advocacy will not avail, for it cannot be carried through the House. A Mr. Sparks, from Boston, is urging upon Congress his scheme for lighting the Capitol and its grounds by electricity and meets with a favorable reception from the House committee, controlling the Capitol. Though the hold of our Gas company is as strong here as elsewhere and it has all the requisite sleight of hand for disposing of competitors which all cities find to their sorrow it possesses, yet we believe it possible for an electric light company to succeed here if persistent and sagacious. The fact that this system may cost the Government one-half less than gas is not the issue, for economy does not enter into this question at all. How to defeat the gas company's machinations is the only rub. We lately inspected the New York post-office building and were delighted with the working of the electric light in it, and we sincerely trust that the same undoubted improvement may be introduced into and around the Capitol. It is queer how soon a legislator's interest in a change for the better may cease when some moneyed monopoly enters the lists against it. A bill has just been introduced into the House which looks to an organization in favor of cheap telegraphy as against the exactions of the recent consolidations of telegraph companies, but we fancy it will sleep the sleep of death, under the manipulations of the committees by the existing monopoly. We have in mind an honorable Senator who will not act or permit action upon a certain measure which has been referred to him. Yet his motives cannot be impugned though he is the paid attorney for the railroad which this particular bill antagonizes. Still it would seem better if these infamous monopolies could not secure such staunch advocates among our legislators. The nation is under deep obligations to Senator Thurman for the earnest fight he made against the Union Pacific Railroad. This bill, which under his able advocacy became a law and saves the nation millions of dollars yearly, will stand as a monument to mark the first step taken by Congress against a powerful and unscrupulous monopoly.

School Teachers and School Teachers' Hopes.

School teachers are the potters, the children the clay; they can mould their impressible minds almost at will. It was Napoleon, if I remember rightly, who said the greatest want of France was "good teachers," and good school teachers are to day the greatest want of ours and every other nation in the world.

A teacher's knowledge should be much beyond the range of science to which actual teaching is confined. There should be something higher than this, something more, even, than an acquaintance with particular branches for transcending that line. There must be an initiation, at least, into what may be called the science of sciences—the knowledge of knowledges— the sound and healthy mind capable of distinguishing in respect, not only to the quantity, but the quality of different kinds of knowledge—of determining what truly enters into the idea of education, and what belongs to the partial, the sectional or the emphemeral. It is just such a class of minds as are now most needed to perfect our common school system—a class of thinkers who shall gradually create a philosophical and learned interest, which will steadily increase the demand for the article they represent, elevating the profession of the teacher, and in this way, the common mind, to support in a most liberal manner all our institutions, the highest as well as the lowest.

Put a well qualified teacher into every school and give him all the appliances needed to enable him to work in the most effective manner; provide a supervision constant, close and careful; make each one concerned in the administration individually liable for the success of the part assigned him, and every year will witness the improvement in our social structure.

Who can estimate the power of a teacher upon the young minds about him, who is constantly pushing them onward and upward. Could the hopes, the feelings, the aspirations, which invigorate the efforts of the teachers of youth, be attended with similar successful results, with which the pursuits and aspirations of other men, in the different avocations of life, are attended, how brilliant would be the prestige? How pure and hallowed would be the apotheosis to which, while living, or when dead, they would be exalted? The "tears which tell a nation's woe"—instead of bewailing the demise of the heroic chieftain of a hundred victorious battles, or wasting their means in lavish expenditures upon costly monuments which would preserve his or her name and brilliant achievements for the contemplation of future generations,—would be wept for the fall of those pillars of society—the teachers of youth—who by their lives of unremitting toil, of ceaseless application, and frequently unrequited services, had fallen amid the scenes of their labors, while striving to instill into the minds of the youth the imperishable principles of science, of virtue and religion, which would serve them as invincible bulwarks against the ignorance, the corruptions and vices of the world upon, whose tempestuous bosom the frail barque of their hopes would in later years be cast, to seek amid its breakers and shoals a haven of secure repose.

It might, perhaps, be thought—and thought even by those who are not disposed to underrate their services as teachers—that we have placed too high an estimate upon the vocation of the teacher. They may, perhaps, consider themselves as merely secondary links in the great work of enlightened civilization and refinement. But is this true? Does not the history of the world and particularly of this portion of the world, prove that wherever happiness, refinement, wealth and industry most flourished, that there school houses and school teachers—the benignant dispensers of those blessings—have been primarily established? Yes! "'Tis education forms the common mind," it enobles man, it fits him to wield the sceptre of State and the sword of the soldier; it fits him to repel aggression; to repel wrongs; to still the troubled elements of anarchical confusion; it makes him a wise and order-loving citizen of the State or community in which he resides; in fine, it makes him a man.

What constitutes the prosperous elements of a State? I answer in the grandly beautiful language of Sir Wm. Jones:—

"Not high raised battlements or labored mounds,
Thick wall or moated gate,
Not cities, proud, with spires and turrets crowned—
Not bays and broad-arm'd ports,
Where laughing at the storm, rich navies ride,
Not starred and spangled courts,
Where low-born baseness wafts perfume to pride.

No! Men, high-minded men,
With power as far above dull brutes imbued
In forest, brake or den,
As beasts excel cold rocks, and brambles rude;—
Men, who their duties know,
But know their rights, and knowing, dare maintain,
Prevent the long-aimed blow,
And crush the tyrant while they rend the chain.
These constitute a State!

If such, then, are the legitimate results of education, to whom are mankind indebted for those great blessings? To the school teacher.

Behold the teacher in the school-room surrounded by the young hopes of future eminence—the embryo great men of this great Republic.

They are destined to perform important parts in the great drama of life. How beautiful! How suggestive of noble aspirations, is the scene here presented to our gaze!

There amid that vast throng of diligent and happy children, stands the teacher. They seem, while thus encircled by the fruits of his or her intellectual labors, to look prospectively to the great events of coming years; their mind penetrates through the gloomy vista of futurity, and vivid colorings which fancy there portrays take the impress of reality. They see the youths—who now surround them—their minds having become enriched with all the varied lore of ancient and modern sciences, and their forms having become expanded into perfect manhood and womanhood. They see them step forth into the world, and with laudible ambition commence the struggle for eminence and fame. They soon reach the ultimatum of their desires, for here in this great Republic "no pent up Utica contracts their powers"—their voices are heard pleading, in noble efforts of forensic eloquence, in behalf of injured innocence and the bereaved, wronged and helpless widow. Or, choosing the facinating arena and political contests, political preferment soon places them in offices of power and emolument. The vast and complicated machinery of Government is placed in their hands, and they prove how nobly fitted they are for the fulfillment of their arduous duties.

Thus are the hopes of the teachers rewarded and realized. They hope not for wealth; they hope not for fame and eminence. No; their only hope—and this hope is the beacon-light which cheers the poor, weary teacher through many long years of painful anxiety—is that those tender plants which they foster and cherish with such wonderful care—those children into whose minds they are instilling the eternal principles of science and truth may, when they come to years of maturity, be not only loved, respected and honored by their fellow men, but that they, while living, may be identified with all the great events of this nation's glory, or dying and "leaving their foot-prints on the sands of time," may be wept for as the nation's loss.

Rapid Railway Progress.

SEVENTY FIVE HUNDRED MILES OF NEW TRACK LAID LAST YEAR.

The Railway Age, in the forthcoming number, presents a summary showing the mileage of track actually laid down in the United States during the year 1880. The footings are astonishing, showing as they do that no less than 7,207 miles of new track were laid during the last twelve months on at least 234 different lines. These figures are greater than any year since 1871, and the mileage is greater by fifty-four per cent. than that of 1879. The Age anticipates that the final figures will increase the grand total to 7,500 miles, a mileage greater than has been constructed in the United States or any other country in any previous year. The only State in which no work has been done is Mississippi, and the only Territories Idaho, Wyoming and Indian, from which railways are kept although eager to enter, and Alaska. Another year will see large additions in these territories. Dakota leads the country with 680 miles of new track; Texas comes next with 659; then Ohio, 525; New Mexico, 519; Iowa, 445; Colorado, 401; Nebraska, 285; Illinois and Kansas, 340 each. The total mileage in the United States is 92,704, against 60,283 in 1871 and 74,096 in 1875.

Farm for Sale.

HAVING determined to "Farm less land, and farm it better," the subscriber offers for sale one of the two farms he now occupies

IN HOWARD TOWNSHIP.

This farm is located on the north side of the Bald Eagle creek, nearly opposite the Borough of Howard. It has a frontage of 90 rods on the creek, with a high bank which never overflows

It contains 200 acres of land, more or less, about 140 of which is cleared. The remainder is woodland.

It is well watered, having besides the creek frontage, a well at the house, a spring run traversing the whole length of the place, and several springs in the fields, at least two of which are very fine ones, and so situated as to be easily piped to the buildings.

The buildings are beautifully located upon a roll of land, a few rods from the creek, upon the public road leading up and down the creek, and within ten minutes walk of the post office, depot, stores and churches of Howard Borough.

The house is frame, and nearly new. It is 30x36 ft. in size, two full stories high, containing eight large rooms, with hall both up stairs and down, beside a first-class cellar and attic, both of which are the full size of the house.

Conveniently near this is a good bank barn, also nearly new. It is 45 by 80 feet, containing two excellently finished thrashing floors, a good granary, first rate stabling, and has attached to it a large corn crib, and a wagon shed, 16x45 feet, with a mow overhead.

A portion of the land is well adapted to timothy, and has yielded, for its present owner, as high as three tons first-class hay per acre. A good P. K. Dederick hay baling machine, and Fairbank's scales for weighing the bales are now in the barn, and will be sold with the farm, if desired.

Other parts of the land are well suited to tobacco culture, and yielded a number one crop last season.

Farms with so many advantages as this are rarely offered for sale. It will be sold at a fair price, and on reasonable terms.

If not sold soon it will be

For Rent to a Good Tenant

for the coming year.
