Senator Hoar yesterday asked the Senate to instruct the Judiciary Committee to inquire whether the assembly of large numbers of armed troops, in the city, on Inauguration Day, not under command of United States Army officers, be not likely to become dangerous. I believe the Greenback Gov. ernor of Maine, in his late annual message, was the first to suggest this idea. It is not believed the Senate will take any action. Indeed there seems to be no sound reason for doing so. The Senator should remember that the danger and the fraud of 1878-the only time that danger or fraud ever attended the Inauguration of a President or any of the preliminary proceedings-was the pended during the year on the building. work of Congress, and not of the people.

Mr. Tucker, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported resolutions adopted by that committee expressing their regret at his death and aid like New York harbor, the Mississippi River and its tributaries, etc. The fight against the bill is led this year by Mr. Cox. It is so far successful, but Mr.

Cox himself admits of the certainty of the ultimate passage of the bill. He and Hutchins were appointed as the finds to-day, too, that his bitter three days' fight against the measure has materially impaired his ability to push his Re-apportionment bill. By a resolution passed May 30, 1870, Congress authorized the Northern Pacific Railway company to issue bonds by mortgage on its property, and it put out $40,000,000 on lands granted by the government as a conditional subsidy. Since that time the right to do so has been seriously called into question. A bill has recently been introduced into the House declaring these lands forfeited the House declaring these lands for feited by reason of non-completion of the road according to contract. The extent of the lands granted is as follows: In Wis-consin, 1,408,0000 acres; Minnesota, 3,392,000; Dakota, 11.520,000; Montana, 20,480,000; Idaho, 1,720,000; Washing-ton, 19,200,000, the aggregate being 57, 750,000 acres. According to govern-ment estimate the value of these lands is $99,750,000, and according to Audicomplete cost $75,000,000. To-day the sub-committee on railroads resolved to report in favor of the right of the road to issue the bonds. The chairman of the whole committee was present, and is said to take the same view. There is some doubt, however, as to the report being accepted by the full committee.

Death from Hydrophobia.

Little Minnie Lee, who was bitten by a mad dog last week, died of hydropho bia at noon on Thursday, in her father's home at 42 Blum street, Newark. On Wednesday night she grew much worse. She had more violent convulsions than before and three or four times snapped her teeth like a dog. Her nurses and men who were called in to hold her wore thick gloves to save themselves from a fatal scratch or bite by the child At last her convulsions became so hard that it required the strength of four persons to hold her. No more ice was given to her, because even this brought

The marriage of Baroness Burdett-Coutts and William Ashmead Bartlett took place on Saturday morning last, at Christ church, Down street, Piccadilly, London. The ceremony was strictly private, only a dozen or so of the nearest relatives being present. Mr. LaCaita acted as Mr. Bartlett's best man, and Sci Francis Burdett, uncle of the Baro-ness, gave away the bride, who appeared in the best of health and spirts. Pre-vious to the ceremony, Mr. Bartlett as-sumed the name of Burdett-Coutts, in order, it is understood, to comply with the provisions of the will, through the provisions of the will, through which the Baroness inherits her proper-The marriage was legalized by a special license from the Archbisho Canterbury and performed by Rev.
