LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C., May 9, 1881. In the two or three previous difficulties of the Republican party, the fight has been of a few against many. Republicans were almost solid against President Johnson. The bulk of the party stood by Grant when men like Sumner and Shurz attacked him. In the Hayes matter the administration received little support from the party leaders. Men like Blaine and Conkling in the East, Logan and others in the West, united in a general contempt for the position and methods of the administration. All is changed now. However the question of confirming Robertson may be decided there is no assurance of final victory for what may be called the Blaine faction or for the Conkling faction. About all that is certain is, that the contest will be long, bitter and destructive. The ablest men of the party-those which have a following which cannot be coaxed or bribed away from them-are opposing each other. I believed after the course Mr. Hayes took that Senator Conkling would never support a man not of his own friends for the Presidency. He would not have supported Hayes for reelection or Blaine if Blaine had been nominated, or Garfield if he had known Blaine was to be Secretary of State. He did support Garfield, however, and did as much to elect him as any man did. He is now learning a lesson he began to learn under Hayes. So with Blaine. He and Conkling, if they live, will be the leading Republican politicians in 1884 as they were in 1876 and 1880, and the victims of the recent ferry scow disaster at Elgin, Ill., the coroner's jury has rendered a verdict censuring the each of them for fear of what may take place after the 4th of March, 1885, will have a Republican candidate he can re-

The course taken by President Garfield in withdrawing the names of Conkling's friends is variously commented on. I find very few persons who fully sustain him in resorting to that method of warfare. He has weakened himself -lowered himself in the estimation of the best class of Republicans as well as Democrats. It is fully admitted that Conkling's ways are enough to provoke a saint, but it is agreed that what a partisan or a member of the Senate might do without complaint, is hardly befitting the President of a great country.

ly on or he will have none. The quarrel is no ordinary one.

It is believed now that enough Democratic and Republican Senators will ing figures are obtained; vote with the President to confirm all his nominations except that of Wm. E. which includes 80 dailies which were Chandler. Gen. Brady's paper, the National Republican, is extremly bitter in its treatment of the President. It says editorially this morning, in relation to the money squeezed out of the "Star" route contractors for the Republican campaign fund, that "what Gan" lican campaign fund, that "what Gen'l Brady shrunk from doing, Gen. Garfield pushed him on to do." The Republicans admit now that Garfield's letter on this subject was a very grave mistake. If it had been made public prior to his election, it would have defeated him.

The colored Republicans of North Carolina are making ready to follow the example of their brothers of Maryland in demanding some fair share of the government patronage. They will hold a State convention at Raleigh on the 17th of this month to consider this subject. It is a matter which it is understood is also agitating the minds of the colored voters in Virginia and other States besides Maryland and North Carolina. Southern Republicans now here fear that this dissatisfaction among the colored people will eventually have the than a sectional organization, and not very much of a one at that. Considering the natural shrewdness that pertains to the colored race, it seems marvelous that contributing so large a per cent. of the capital of the Republican party they have been content with such an infinitesimal proportion of the profits.

A prominent physician of Pittsburgh said jokingly to a lady patient who was complaining of her continued ill health, and of his inability to cure her, "try Hop Bitters!" The lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters, from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for his joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient,—Harrisburg Patriot. effect to weaken the Republican party.

Walter Bullock, a lawyer and old citizen of El Paso, Illinois, was shot dead in that city one day last week, by P. C. Ransom, who had been "badly defeated in the recent election for Mayor." It appears that Bullock was talking to a friend on the street and made some reference to the election, which Ranom, who was passing at the time, over-neard. Bullock refusing to retract the remark at Ransom's bidding, the latter drew a pistol and shot the former dead. The murderer was arrested and followed the jail by an infuriated crowd, who threatened to lynch him.
