LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20, 1881.

In the present condition of things any Republican may wake any morning and find himself infamous. What Democrats have been saying to an unbelieving generation about Republican leaders for years, Republicans themselves are now testifying to. It is one of the mysteries of the world that for many years intelligent Republican voters have gone on electing to office men whose records were notoriously bad, and have refused to listen to the truth when it was told them.

A year ago if Sessions had been the Republican candidate for Governor of New York, and Seymour the Democratic candidate the chances are that Sessions, the most corrupt of politicians, would have been elected. The one certain good result of Conkling's investigating committee at Albany will be the making of general corruption among Republican leaders so certain that honest men will never support them again.

The attempt to connect President Garfield with an offer to a man that if he would vote against Conkling he should receive an important appointment will probably not succeed. The offer was made, it is alleged, through John I. Davenport. This unmitigated scamp, who has done more to prevent a fair vote and a full count than all the rifle clubs and bulldozers that ever haunted a Radical imagination, no doubt made the offer.

He would offer anything. But that he was distinctly authorized to do so by the President, I don't believe. He was here however and saw the President after the trouble between the New York Senators and the President commenced, and, in view of the depth of iniquity recently revealed among Republicans, there is a possibility that the President authorized the offer.

A delegation of straight Republicans from Virginia, saw the President yesterday and were made happy. They were assured that the administration's sympathy was with them and against any union with the Readjusters. The first authentic announcement of the President's intentions in this matter, was made through the Petersburg, Virginia Appeal, a week ago, and the statements then made were almost identical in language and ideas with what he said yesterday to the Virginia Republicans.

In previous letters I have devoted considerable space to this subject, for it is one on which there has been almost as much interest as in the New York contest. The decision of the President is accepted generally as putting an end forever to the proposed alliance in the Southern States between Republicans and disaffected Democrats.

The Methodist gives the following figures showing the number of that denomination—Methodist Episcopal church, 1,743,000; Methodist Episcopal church, South, 828,300; African Methodist Episcopal church, 215,000; African Methodist Episcopal Zion church, 191,000; United Brethren in Christ, 157,800; Methodist Protestant church, 113,400; Col'd Methodist Episcopal church, 112,800; Evangelical association, 112,200; American Wesleyan connection, 25,000; Free Methodist church, 12,600; Congregational Methodist church, 10,000; Primitive Methodist church, 3,000; African Union Methodist Protestant church, 2,500; Independent Methodist churches, 2,500; Union American Methodist Episcopal church, 2,000; total 3,521,600.

It is believed in military circles that the court-martial in the case of the famous colored cadet, Whittaker, has found the cadet guilty of perpetrating an assault upon himself, and recommends that he be dismissed from the Military Academy.

"Progress" on False Premises.

From the Washington Post.

The "progressive element" in the politics of the South is rather an uncertain quantity. It is more demonstrative than demonstrable, and in one way or another, especially through correspondents detailed for the purpose, it contrives to get a large amount of ostentatious advertising.

We have heard, and are still hearing, a good deal about it in Virginia, where Mahone is marshaling his cohorts for another onslaught upon the State treasury and the public credit. More recently, also, it has cropped out in Georgia, where a "movement" is in contemplation.

To judge by the arguments employed in furtherance of this project, an unsophisticated reader would infer that in neither of these States is there a free ballot or a free school, excepting as these blessings have been wrenched by force from under the heel of the Democratic party. The "progressive element" depends for its sustenance, in fact, on the specious plea that the Southern Democracy are at deadly war with education and liberty.

A correspondent of the New York Times, for instance, writing from Rome, Ga., says, "Ignorance is the stronghold of the Bourbons," meaning the Democrats of that State; "education is their foe"—and there are, no doubt, thousands of persons in the Republican party who put full faith, in such trash, and whose sympathies with Mahonism and all that the name implies, are enlisted on the strength of this "glittering generality" of falsehood.

On the same day, however, in which the Rome letter appears in the Times, we find the following consolatory paragraph in the Tribune:

The Southern States are now providing through taxation over a million dollars annually for the support of negro schools. The position and influence of Northern teachers in the South are improving every year.

In another Republican paper is the following reference to the report of Dr. Mayo, one of the editors of the Journal of Education, who for several months past has been making an examination of the schools of the South:

As he expresses it, the educational line has advanced from the North fully 500 miles within a few years, and, while the South has not yet the good schools to be found here, the public school idea has got such a popular hold that only time is needed to produce the best results. Dr. Mayo's opinion on educational matters is entitled to great weight, and his belief that the South is in this matter rapidly working out its own salvation is most significant.

All these statements are more than substantiated by statistics from the Census Office, which may be considered an authoritative and conclusive tribute to the wholesome condition of public sentiment in the South, on the subject of universal education. Yet in the face and eyes of such irrefragable facts, we are still confronted with the stereotyped and stupid cry that "ignorance is the stronghold" of the party which holds political control in the Southern States.

Such a charge is simply suggestive of a denser degree of ignorance on the part of those who, at the North and elsewhere, are depicted into the formation of opinions on such a false and frivolous basis.

The Forty-Seventh Congress.

HOW SPEAKER RANDALL CLASSIFIES THE NEXT HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Philadelphia Correspondence of the N. Y. Sun.

Newspaper correspondents at Washington and elsewhere assert that the Hon. Samuel J. Randall is vigorously engaged in an effort to form a political combination intended to prevent the Republicans from organizing the House of Representatives in December. These statements do Mr. Randall injustice. He is engaged in no such effort, nor has he entered into any "arrangements," as stated, "whereby the Greenback members of the House are to name the Clerk or Sergeant-at-Arms, and to receive certain committee chairmanships in consideration of joining the coalition."

It will, however, interest citizens of all parties to know how Speaker Randall classifies the members of the next House:

"A full House consists of 293 members, and of this number the Republicans elected 147; Democrats, 136; Republican Greenbackers, Hazelton, Rice and Burroughs, of Sixth, Seventh and Eleventh Missouri districts, and Brumm, of the Schuylkill district, Pennsylvania; Democratic Greenbackers, Ladd and Murch, of Maine, and Mosgrove, of Pennsylvania; two Readjuster Democrats, Paul and Fulkerson, of the Seventh and Ninth districts of Virginia, and one Independent, J. Hyatt Smith, Third district of New York. Three vacancies yet remain unfilled, one caused by the death of the Hon. Fernando Wood, of New York, and two owing to the resignations of the Hon. Levi P. Morton, of New York, and William F. Frye, of Maine."

Assuming that the Democrats will elect a successor to Morton, that will reduce the regular Republican vote to 146, which they hope to increase to 151 by the votes of four Republican Greenbackers and the Independent, the Rev. J. Hyatt Smith. But while it is possible that these Greenback and the Independent members may vote with the Republicans, it is also highly probable that Judge Kelley, of this city, Jorgensen and Desendorf, of Virginia, will not vote for the candidate of the Republican caucus. Under any circumstances it is not believed by those who have canvassed this matter that the candidate of the caucus, even if acceptable to the Administration and anti-Administration Republicans, can obtain more than 149 votes, or two more than necessary to elect; while, upon the other hand, if the fight between Blaine and Conkling continues, the chances are that Mr. Randall may be pretty nearly the unanimous choice of the House.

A man in Canada was engaged last week in building a "Noah's Ark," in anticipation of a great flood on the 19th of June. His wife spent an entire week in cooking and preparing for the voyage to their "Ararat."

STATE NEWS.

Mayor Lyon, of Pittsburgh, has been warmly complimented by leading citizens for his successful efforts in enforcing the laws, especially with reference to the observance of the Sabbath.

Oswell Beigley, a young married man, aged twenty-two years, while engaged in an ore mine in Upper Macungie township, Lehigh county, was instantly killed by a bank of earth caving in.

Edward Murphy, son of Francis, the temperance lecturer, has brought suit against a correspondent of the Titusville Herald for libel, on account of an article charging Edward with insulting a school teacher.

The coal miners who recently struck near Mahanoy City, in the works of Fisher, Hazard and others, for the same wages as are paid by the railroad company, have resumed work upon the promise that their demand will be complied with.

Four thousand dollars has been contributed by the citizens of Titusville towards the erection of monument in memory of Colonel Drake, who bore the first oil well. Ten thousand dollars is the sum proposed for the monument.

A Duke Centre justice of the peace visited the county jail at Smethport the other day, and during his chat with the prisoners had his pocket picked of thirty dollars. A close examination failed to discover the missing money.

A prominent party of capitalists reached Scranton on last Thursday night to make a prospecting tour in connection with the Consolidated New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad. The party is headed by Frederick A. Potts, of New Jersey, the president of the new company.

Twenty-five Indian girls and boys from the Carlisle Training School left on Saturday morning for the Delaware Valley, Bucks county, to be placed on farms, mostly among the Friends, during vacation. Twenty more left for summer homes and farm work near Bloomsburg. Others will find places in the Cumberland Valley.

A market wagon containing Samuel Young and Mrs. Jane Alexander, of Baumgardner's Mills, Lancaster county, was struck by a train of coal oil cars at the Pennsylvania Railroad crossing on North Queen street, Lancaster, a few ago. The vehicle was demolished and Mrs. Alexander was thrown out and seriously injured. Three of her ribs were broken.

President Hays, of Washington and Jefferson College, presented his resignation to the Board of Trustees at their meeting. The condition of his health necessitates a change, and he will go to Denver, Colorado, having accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church of that city.

Dr. Charles Styer, who has just been elected Surgeon General of the Grand Army of the Republic, is a resident of the Twenty-ninth ward of Philadelphia. During the war he was surgeon of the Forty-fifth and Ninety-ninth Pennsylvania Volunteers, and afterwards was for twelve years a surgeon in the regular army. He is now commander of E. D. Baker Post, No. 8.

The Pittsburgh Telegraph says unknown masked men, one night recently, in a drunken freak, tarred and feathered Eli Green and wife of Springhill, Greene county, Armstrong Sexton and wife, living near by, and Sarah Roads. They also unsuccessfully tried it on John Pettit in the neighborhood, but were foiled, and crossing the river to West Virginia, they went through the same performance with several persons. There was no known motive for the outrage.

The Grand Prize of Paris Won by an American Horse.

PARIS, June 11.—The race for the grand prize of Paris took place to-day, and resulted in another victory for an American horse. Mr. J. R. Keene's bay colt Foxhall was the winner, with M. Le Ferré's ch. c. Tristan second and Count DeLagrange's b. c. Albion third. The contest was a very close and exciting one, especially near the finish. Tristan joined Foxhall at the distance and both ran a grand race home. Foxhall staying longer won by a head.

The grand prize of Paris is 100,000 francs in specie, added to a sweepstakes for colts and fillies foaled in 1878 of 1,000 francs each, 600 francs forfeit, 500 francs if declared out by the 1st of May, 1881. 380 subscribers.

It may be truthfully said that Foxhall was in front, throughout the race and despite all the efforts of Archer, who brought Tristan up with a great rush at the distance. Foxhall won by a head amidst tumultuous applause from the Americans, who seemed to go quite mad, and the turning of the stars and stripes from many drags. In the preliminary canter Casimira and Albion appeared to go best, although Foxhall was greatly admired. Ten ran.

Philadelphia Markets.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20, 1881.

Haunted Me.

A Workingman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.
