The Albany Dead Lock Broken. PLERIDGE G. LAPHAM ELECTED U. S. SENATOR

TO SUCCEED ROSCOE CONKLING.

On Friday last the Republicans of the New York Legislature succeeded in electing Elbridge G. Latham to the U. S. Senate to succeed Roscoe Conkling. Af-ter an ineffectual ballot the joint convention agreed to take a recess, and in the interval the Republicans met in caucus and nominated Mr. Latham as the candidate of the party. A majority of the stalwarts took part in the caucuses and of course felt themselves bound by its action. When the constitutions are stalled at four clalled in the constitution of vention reassembled at four o'clock in the afternoon a vote for Senator was taken with the following result:

Lapham. Porter

Necessary to a choice 68, The chair announced the election of Elbridge G. Lapham in place of Roscoe Conkling, resigned, and the joint as-sembly dissolved. Cheers for Lapham, Miller, Garfield, Conkling and Potter followed. The Legislature agreed to adjourn sine die on Saturday. In the Assembly a resolution was tabled that the $2,000 alleged to have been paid a member as a bribe and in the custody of the Comptroller of the State be handed over to the widows and orphans of persons killed at the new capitol. The bill passed to amend the constitution so as to make canals free, and maintain them by a general State tax. CONKLING TO HIS FRIENDS.

When Conkling received the telegram advising him of the election of Lapham at Albany he immediately sent the following telegram:

New York, July 22. Hon. James Armstrong, Member of Assembly, Albany:

The heroic constancy of the Spartan band which so long has stood for prin-ciples and truth has my deepest grati-tude and admiration. Borne down by office. Whenever half or more of the ballots shall contain instructions concerning any office, the delegates elected at such elections shall be held to be instructed to support the candidate having the highest number of votes for such office.

7. Each election board shall keep an accurate list of the names of all persons voting at such elections, when the list of voters together with a full and complete re-

The Ablany Fight.

THE DEMOCRATS REVIEW THE CONTEST AND ISSUE AN ADDRESS.

Albany, July 23, The walls of the Assembly chamber were this morning adorned with handsomely decorated and executed placards reading: "For President in 1884, Win-field Scott Hancock." Both branches of the Legislature met and adjourned sine die. The Democratic members of the Legislature, through their joint caucus committee, have issued an address, in which they say:
At great expense to the State and at

At great expense to the State and at great expense and inconvenience to the members of the Legislature the two houses of the Legislature have been forcibly in session for a length of time unprecedented in the history of this State and, as we believe, without example in the legislative history of any Commonwealth of the Union. The discords and quarrels in the Republican majority have separated us from our majority have separated us from our homes and business from the beginning of the year to nearly the closing days of the second month of summer, or for nearly two hundred days. The chief cause of this uncalled for detention was cause of this uncalled for detention was a quarrel, with the President of the United States on the one side and the Vice President and the two Senators from the State of New York on the other. The source of this discord was a question of official patronage or the spoils of office. The Collector of the Port of New York was forced to resign in the midst of his term of service from in the midst of his term of service from a place he was serving with general ac-ceptance to the public and appointed to a place abroad uncalled for by his to a place abroad uncalled for by his friends or by the public, in which he has no experience. This change, against which the merchants of New York protested in large numbers, was made in total disregard of every principle of civil service reform, and was not called for by any principle of political duty nor in the interest of the public service. The purpose of the act seemed to be to. The purpose of the act seemed to be to reward those who had been personally successful in securing the Presidential nomination and to punish those who had resisted a leading member and the members of the National Republican Convention claiming the right of a third term of executive service for a previous President. INSPIRED BY CONKLING. Referring to the resignation of the two Senators they say: The man who inspired this resignation was the senior Senator of the State, who had been tbree times elected to the United States Senate by one party of the State, whose longer service he now refused, and simply owing to the fact of the nominato the Senate of the one chief of fender who had opposed his ambition and wishes at Chicago and elsewhere. The useless resignation of these two men has cost the State not only a large amount of money, but what is more valuable, its honor, dignity and self-respect. Two factions, known by the vulgar but expressive names, "stal-warts" and "half-breeds," have governed the Senate, the Assembly, the Re-publican party and the State through the whole session. The people who money or other valuable thing, or accept the promise of any consideration or reward to be paid, delivered or secured to him or to any person for such candidate, as an inducement for his vote, upon proof of the fact to the satisfaction of the convention, such delegate shall be forthwith expelled, and shall not be recieved as a delegate to any further convention, and shall be ineligible to any part miniation.

14. Cases arising up to be deduce over all other business in convention until determined.

15. That the term of the convention and expected from them faithful and complete service. The appeals made to the people by the Democratic minority were met by the insulting declaration that the possible chance of Democratic Senators in Congress would be a public calamity to the State, and this after just electing Thomas C. Platt as the successor of Francis Kernan, and after following the succession with the choice of a man named Warner Miller, a member of the present and previous House of Reprevious country committee for the various boroughs and townships. sonal beneficiary of one of the worst monopolies in the country, and where he has supported that monopoly by his he has supported that monopoly by his voice and influence and with the threat that other public interests should suffer if his special interests in wood pulp and the manufacture of paper were not protected. One cause of the long session of the Legislature of 1881 has been the selection of candidates by the Republican caucus who are members of the present Congress. The most distinguished and capable men of the domthe present Congress. The most dis-tinguished and capable men of the dom-inant party not in public place, apart from Mr. Conkling, including men like Messrs. Fish, Wheeler, Rogers and oth-ers, who have served the State with ability, have had to give place to two men elected to Congress and their nomination made the excuse for passing a law to fill vacancies made by their elec-tion and for no other reason. These special elections thus provoked will be as untimely as they are unnecessary. The men elected cannot take their seats before December, whereas the general election takes place early in November and all the votes will be counted before Congress can meet.

AN ACT WITHOUT PRECEDENT.

This act is without precedent and ithout necessity and, morover, uncalled for and an enormous expenditure to the people of the districts and of the State, besides the expenditure for Federal marshals and inspectors and great inconvenience to the people by the special registry of voters and by the assembly of the people at unusual times

The whole Senatorial discussion at Albany resolves itself into the three most discreditable conclusions:

First. A mistrust of the people of the State on the part of the Republican majority in the Legislature.

Second. A quarrel over the spoils of office in the two or three Republican factions, with a practical contempt for every principle belonging to what is known and recognized as civil service. known and recognized as civil service reform.

Third. The abuse of power from its long use and misuse, until two of the least capable persons have been drawn from the popular branch of the Con-gress of the United States.

same district of the other faction with offering and paying him $2,000 for a Senatorial vote and the money was placed in the possession of a special committee and is now in the hands of the State Comptroller. Beyond this fact is the circulation of large sums of money by prominent Republicans reading the by prominent Republicans pending the Senatorial election and as many believe, intended to control the result of the election. The State of New York, with election. The State of New York, with its five millions of people, has been deeply wronged and disgraced, both by the Republican Senators' action in Washington and by the action of the Republican party in power at Albany. In the one place the Chief Magistrate of the government for daring to put in practice the principles of executive right and authority in the choice of a right and authority in the choice of a public officer nearly lost his life. This sad and terrible crime came not alone through the personal madness of a sin-gle man, but from that personal fanati-cism which was and is the fruit of a greed for public office and of a false and dangerous political education. Now, if ever, is the time to teach all men that public office is the property of the peo-ple and that places of official trust can only be rightfully distributed to men of only be rightfully distributed to men of noble purpose, of pure lives, of wise ex-perience and of unqualified fitness for the work to be performed. The Demo-cratic party of the State desire to in-culcate and enforce the doctrine with which the Democratic party came into existence, as when Mr. Jefferson declar-ed that the only qualifications for office rested upon the wise, safe and patriotic rested upon the wise, safe and patriotic platform of personal capability, person-al honesty and personal fidelity to the Constitution.

Death of the United States Supreme Judge.

PORTLAND, Me., July 25.—Justice Nathan Clifford of the United States Supreme Court died at Cornish at 9 o'clock this morning. Justice Nathan Clifford, who has been for more than a decade the senior mem-ber of the United States Supreme Court, ber of the United States Supreme Court, both in age and length of service, was born at Rumney, N. H., on the eigh-teenth of August, 1803. After a high school education he studied law and re-moved to Maine, where he soon made a figure in his profession and also in politics. He was repeatedly chosen to the legislature, and was twice elected speaker of the assembly before he was thirty years old. For the four years after 1834 he was attorney general of the after 1834 he was attorney general of the State, and for the next four a representative in Congress. President Polk made him attorney general of the United States in 1846, and he held this position for a couple of years, after which he was sent as commissioner from this country to Mexico and later made United States minister to that republic. Returning to Maine, he resumed the practice of his profession at Portland, and was so en-gaged when President Pierce, on the twelfth of January, 1857, commissioned him as a justice of the supreme court of the United States, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Benjamin R. Curtis. The judge was in Benjamin R. Curtis. The judge was in his fifty fourth year when he took his seat, but he was the youngest of the whole bench, except John A. Camp-bell, of Alabama, who resigned in 1861 to go with his state into secession. Indeed, Judge Clifford constituted one of the last links which connected the pres-ent federal judiciary with the period of the last Democratic administration.
