

A Noble Candidate.

The Character of the Democratic Nominee for State Treasurer Exerts Fraise from His Political Opponents.

Taking the character of Mr. Noble as a guide we are prepared to believe that no evil will follow it. If he is chosen to assume the custody of the State exchequer for the two years to follow the election, his well known integrity of purpose and business methods constitute a guarantee that the trust will be faithfully executed, and much as the necessity of elevating Democrats to places of trust would be regretted, it would be a lesser evil than that of perpetuating the rule of the bosses.—Pittsburg Dispatch (rep.).

The Democrats have nominated an exceptionally good man for State Treasurer, and no one need be sorry, for it should and will have the effect of demonstrating to the Republicans the propriety of laying aside dissensions and uniting for the contest, which we assure them will be no walk over. Unlike the Democrats elsewhere, the Pennsylvania specimen cannot be depended upon to blunder always, and the sooner the Republicans realize that he hasn't blundered this time, the better will be their prospects of victory.—Philadelphia North American (rep.).

ORANGE NOBLE has twice been chosen mayor of Republican Erie, and is a member of the present House, representing the same constituency. It is fortunate that the Democratic nomination fell upon one who possesses Mr. Noble's unblemished business and political integrity, and who is one of the ripest business men of the commonwealth.—Philadelphia Times (supporter of Wolfe.)

MR. ORANGE NOBLE, who has been selected by the Democrats of Pennsylvania as their candidate for the office of State Treasurer, is in every way qualified for the position. He is a good business man, and thoroughly identified with some of the most important industries of the State. The convention at Williamsport honored itself by putting Mr. Noble in nomination.—Philadelphia Record (ind.).

Gen. Hancock and His Servant.

From the Cleveland Herald.

Mr. Charles Brown, a resident of this city, at the commencement of the war was a slave in Falkland county, Va. He was pressed into the rebel service, but succeeded in escaping to the Union lines in October, 1862, and fell into the hands of Gen. Hancock at Camp Griffin, Va. The General was so well pleased with him that he asked Mr. Brown to remain with him in the capacity of his body servant. He did so, and was with the General for nearly three years, passing through the great battles in which the General was engaged. When the war closed, General Hancock wrote a personal letter to a friend in Washington recommending his old servant, first making him promise that whenever he should be out of a position he should let him know of it at once. Mr. Brown went to Washington, worked there for some time, and becoming restless came West, and after working for different people finally settled in Cleveland and began to follow his trade. Hearing that General Hancock was in the city, the guest of Colonel W. H. Harris, Mr. Brown called upon him on Sunday morning. He was informed by an aid that the General had gone to church. Mr. Brown stated that he was his servant during the war and expressed an earnest desire to see him. He was asked to take a seat and await the return from church. Soon a carriage drove up and the General alighted. The aid immediately informed him that his old servant who had been with him through the war was sitting on the lawn and desired to see him. General Hancock immediately proceeded to where Mr. Brown was seated, and recognized him long before he reached him extending his hand and rushed up grasped the hand of his old servant, who had been with him during so many trying scenes, wrung it with every manifestation of delight, while tears filled the eyes of both and neither of them spoke for some time. At last the General had Mr. Brown sit down and made him relate everything that the latter had done since the war, and again made him renew his old promise that if anything should happen to him he would inform the General, and that ample provision should be made for him.

Flying From the Floods.

THE DESTRUCTION OF THE SNY LEVEE COMPLETE—CAMPING ON HIGH GROUND.

CHICAGO, October 21.—According to dispatches from Quincy, Ill., the destruction along the Sny Levee is most complete. The break is now fully three hundred feet wide and is constantly cutting out the earthwork at either end of the crevasse. An immense volume of water is pouring through the opening steadily and spreading out over the country. The flood is slowly approaching Rockport, which is four miles from the river. People north and south of the break are hastily leaving their houses for places of refuge. Every road leading out of the bottoms is crowded with teams. Hundreds of cattle, horses and mules and other live stock are on the embankment, the owners not having time to get them to high ground. Large numbers of cattle have been drowned. The farmers, many of whom had hundreds of acres of fine winter wheat last week promising an immense yield, are camping along the bluffs with their families. Others have left everything and taken their wives and children to Quincy. The Indian Grove levee gave way on Wednesday afternoon, sixteen miles above Quincy, but the break is not very serious. Railroads in that vicinity will suffer severely from the flood. The switchmen at Hannibal have quit work, refusing to labor in the mud and water which fill the yards. Trains are discontinued on the Quincy, Missouri and Pacific division of the Wabash. On the Missouri side the bottoms are flooded back to the bluffs. The river just below the city is fully nine miles wide.

PROOF EVERYWHERE.—If any invalid or sick person has the least doubt of the power and efficacy of Hop Bitters to cure them, they can find cases exactly like their own, in their own neighborhood, with proof positive that they can be easily and permanently cured, at a trifling cost—or ask your druggist or physician.

—The above is from a very reliable farmer, whose daughter was in poor health for seven or eight years, and could obtain no relief until she used Hop Bitters. She is now in as good health as any person in the country. We have large sale, and they are making remarkable cures.
