Buy your blankets at Loeb's. Never be without a bottle of that pure, mild compound, PERUNA; take it with the first symptom.

Boots, shoes, the heaviest driving boots, the finest boots; the cheapest shoes, from $1 a pair; the finest warranted shoes, from $3 to $5 a pair, at Lyon & Co.'s.

All the children in Bellefonte are invited to call at Goldsmith brothers' "Beehive Store" and secure those beautiful illuminated picture cards.

Ladies coats, jackets, dolmans, circulars and ulsterettes, in endless variety, styles and colors, and prices lower than elsewhere at S. & A. Loeb's.

The largest stock of dress goods, cashmeres, flannels and dress flannels in all the latest styles and shades, and marked down to the very lowest price, at Lyon & Co.'s.

A little son of Samuel Sheffer, living near Morris limekiln, fell from a swing on last Monday, and the result was that one of his hip joints was broken. The lad is doing fairly.

Why is burying a man alive like a husband who neglects to keep in his family for the use of his wife and children Green's No. 1 and 2 Liver Pills? Because it is a grave mistake.

The very best production that can be had from first class stock and excellent workmanship in boots and shoes, at prices no higher than common eastern trash, are now open and for sale by S. & A. Loeb.

Mr. Robert J. Doak is confined to his residence in the West ward with a dropsical affection, and his condition is said to be quite serious. His numerous friends and acquaintances will be sorry to learn of Mr. Doak's danger.

Call and examine the stock of ranges and cook stoves at Wilson, McFarlane & Co.'s; also their line of single and double heaters. They have for sale the Welcome Home double heater, which has been thoroughly and satisfactorily tested in this community.

The largest stock of dolmans from $5.50 up to $25; the largest stock of ladies' coats from $2.25 to $15; the largest stock of children's coats, light and dark, and all marked in plain figures at only the lowest price we can afford to take, at Lyon & Co.'s.

Proudfoot & Co., the new firm of furniture dealers, have added to their enterprise the solemnly business of undertaking, and they are at the present time and have been for some days ready to undertake any matters of that sort. Their furniture will not be opened for a few days yet.

Bright's disease, now so common and considered incurable, has been successfully treated in the case of General Schenk by a straight milk diet. This remedy is so simple and safe that our friends who are suffering with the distressing complaint should not hesitate to try the experiment of placing themselves upon the healthful and palatable food from which General Schenk has drawn renewed life.

A change has been made in the management of the stores of Valentine & Co., Mr. David Moore having taken charge of the business. Mr. Moore assumed the duties of manager about two weeks ago and has now a handsome stock of new goods of every description. The change is expected to greatly improve and benefit the business, which will be reorganized, while new life already seems to have been infused into it.

That perfect baking and cooking stove, the "Pioneer," is for sale only by Wilson, McFarlane & Co. All superfluous ornamentation has been dispensed with to secure a first-class kitchen stove. For weight, strength and durability it cannot be surpassed. In purchasing this stove you are not paying for nicker trimmings and beautiful finish, but you are getting what is far better and what you need in a good cook stove—a good, reliable baker and cook.

Curtin street, which has never yet been opened east of the residence of Robert Valentine since being placed on the plan of the borough, is now being extended east from the residence mentioned, new fences are being built at present and the lots are being laid out and offered for sale. Mr. J. L. Spangler has already disposed of a number of these desirable lots and improvements have been commenced. Mr. E. M. Sturdevant has purchased two lots and proposes to improve them immediately, while several other parties have secured lots with the view of building. Curtin street is an especially desirable place of residence.

There is a strong probability that a furnace for the manufacture of steel will be completed in Bellefonte in the course of six months more. The furnace will be located on the site formerly occupied by the rolling mill of the Bellefonte Iron Company, and the initiatory operations looking to its construction have already been commenced. This laudable enterprise is supported by ample capital, but the gentlemen most prominently connected with it do not desire anything further made public at the present than the simple announcement that the people may expect this much to be desired manufactory. The future of Bellefonte is certainly bright, judging from the number of contemplated industries.

Rev. J. V. R. Hughes, formerly of Bellefonte but now a resident of Kilbourn City, Wis., has been appointed postmaster of that place. Mr. Hughes' failing health at one time compelled him to abandon the pulpit, but he subsequently recovered his usual vigor. The principal of the Bellefonte academy, Rev. James Hughes, is a brother of the postmaster.

Our little morning contemporary did not make its appearance the morning after the election. Some people thought probably it was ashamed to show its head after Noble beating both Baily and Wolfe in the usually staunch Republican town of Bellefonte. But that wasn't the reason at all, and the actual cause of the paper's non-appearance was the "pi'ing of a 'form."

Mr. James Pope, of Snow Shoe, was in town on Saturday last. Mr. Pope was at one time in the coal business, but he is now engaged in contracting and is a bidder for the construction of five miles of new track from Berwind, White & Co.'s collieries, which is to be controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Mr. Pope is a popular citizen and an agreeable gentleman.

The December number of the Century (late Scribner's) will be in large part a memorial of Dr. Holland and of President Garfield. It will appear November 19, the day the latter would have been 50 years old, and will contain a portrait of each by Cole, with material of unusual interest regarding both. Mr. Howells' new novel, "A Modern Instance," will begin in this number, and there will be several papers of adventure or of a curious character.

Mrs. John Welsh, an old colored lady of about 70 years, who lived at High and Ridge streets, in the rear of the jail, died about 6 o'clock on Sunday evening last at her residence. The cause of her decease was old age and general debility. She was very highly esteemed and respected by everybody in the neighborhood who knew her. Mrs. Welsh was the relict of John Welsh, who was once a constable in Bellefonte and who died about a year ago at an advanced age.

Ben Williams, a colored porter at the Brockerhoff House, the other night took the conceit out of a Philadelphia stone-mason who had been employed on the new Centre County Bank building and who had said, it is related, that no three men in Bellefonte, all at one time, could trounce him. On the night of the demonstration, which occurred in the hotel barroom, the stonecutter was "pickin' on" Ben, as he says, and then Ben let him have it in a pugilistic sense. Ben states that his muscular and scientific opponent was badly cut and bruised about the head and face, and that he departed from Bellefonte the next morning in greater haste than most people employ.

The sarcastic Altoona morning paper says that "a Bellefonte man who came here with half a notion to make the city his future home happened to see three funerals in one day, whereupon he ran home with a dismal tale about the unhealthiness of Altoona. He should have investigated a little, when he would likely have discovered that the three unfortunates whose funerals he saw had been visiting Bellefonte when they were smitten by the hand of death." Not much he wouldn't, either. People come to Bellefonte to be cured of their ills. There are never any epidemics here and no "malaria" (bad whisky), as there are in Altoona, and the Bellefonte undertakers are one and all contemplating removal to Altoona.

"Uncle Jim" Furey, of Tyrone, is as much of a humorist as ever, but he has his pathetic moments, too. Last Sunday morning one of a pair of little white bantam chickens about 6 months old—both of which were great favorites in the household and as docile as kittens, but with an independent don't care strut that compelled admiration of their taking ways—attempted to follow him into the house when he opened the door. Not observing the precious pet "Uncle Jim" unwittingly caught it between the door and the jamb as he closed the door, and life was crushed out of it before it could be extricated. Every member of the family expressed feelings of regret at the death of the saucy bantam, and "Uncle Jim" said he felt just like going up in the garden behind the hopen and having a good bawl.

A trestle now occupies a large portion of the street heretofore taken up by the track of the Bald Eagle Valley railroad at Tyrone. The grade of the ground track was very heavy, the rails being nine feet lower at a point near the bridge than at the other extreme, and freight trains were frequently stuck and invariably experienced great difficulty in getting over that portion of the road. Several streets are blocked by the trestle, but there is now no apparent necessity for further blockades of freight trains at that point. To the eyes of the unaccustomed observer the trestle looks like an inclined plane, but it is said to be about level. The trestle is probably an eighth of a mile long, and it was constructed during Saturday night and the fore part of Sunday nearly three weeks ago. This is considered rapid work, though, with the usual precision and attention to detail which characterizes the preparations for work to be performed by the employees of the Pennsylvania railroad, every piece of lumber was numbered and assigned its place beforehand.

LUTHERAN CONFERENCE AT CENTRE HALL.—The Northern Conference of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Central Pennsylvania was in session several days last week at Centre Hall. This organization includes all the Lutheran pastors and pastorates in the counties of Centre, Clinton and part of Union. The opening sermon was preached on Tuesday evening by Rev. J. A. Koser, of Pine Grove Mills. On Wednesday morning from half-past 8 to 9 o'clock devotional exercises were held, conducted by the venerable father, Rev. J. G. Anspach, of Millburg. From 9 to half-past 10 conference business received attention. At half-past 10 the discussion on "How to Study the Word of God" was opened with a carefully prepared paper by Rev. S. E. Furst, of Bellefonte. The discussion was carried on by members of conference in a thorough manner until time for adjournment.

Conference business engaged attention from 2 to half-past 3 in the afternoon, after which Rev. W. H. Diven, of Salona, read an able and instructive paper on "Revivals," which was further discussed by the members of conference until the adjournment.

In the evening a sermon was preached by Rev. A. R. Glaze, of New Berlin, on "Beneficiary Education," after which a collection for that object was lifted, resulting quite liberally.

On Thursday morning from half-past 8 to 9 o'clock devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. John Tomlinson, of Aaronsburg. From 9 to half-past 10 conference business was transacted. From half-past 10 to adjournment the discussion of the topic, "Quenching the Spirit," the discussion being opened with a thoughtful address by Rev. S. Henry, of Millburg. An earnest and impressive discussion followed.

In the afternoon business engaged conference from 2 to 3, after which an interesting "Children's Meeting" was held. Entertaining and profitable addresses were made by Rev. M. L. Furst, of Hartleton; Rev. J. A. Koser and Rev. P. A. Heilmann, of Lock Haven. The singing was good at this meeting, and as usual the children's afternoon proved very enjoyable and edifying.

On Thursday evening Rev. P. A. Heilmann preached the closing sermon, after which a short business session was held, followed by the closing exercises of conference. Conference then adjourned to meet in Bellefonte in April, 1882.

The business transacted at this meeting was of importance. All the sessions were harmonious, practical and edifying, and the reports on the state of religion were very encouraging. All departed with the feeling that "it was good to be there."

FARMERS THANKFUL FOR THE RAIN.—The rainfall of the past two weeks has had a much desired effect throughout the surrounding country, and the springs and creeks that had almost entirely dried up during the long-continued drought have been revived. The rain came too late, however, to save the crops and, consequently, to have any effect upon the prices of vegetables. The potato and turnip crops were curtailed from the effects of the drought, as well as many other articles of table produce, and although the recent rains will have a good effect in many other ways they cannot make up for the scarcity of provisions now that the season is over. Farmers say there is little to be hoped for in the prospect of a fall in prices, but while housekeepers may set their minds to dear marketing the coming winter they will at least have the comforting assurance that there is no probability of a further increase. Although the rains did not come early enough to save the crops the farmers are thankful that they were in here bare time to save winter wheat and rye, which would have suffered severely had it not been for the long-looked-for-come-at-last November showers. Fall pastures will also be improved by the present change of weather.

VENOR'S NOVEMBER WEATHER.—Venor, the Canadian weather prophet, whose prognostications are readable if not always reliable, says that "November of this year will probably enter cold and decidedly wet, but this condition will suddenly, after the first week, give place to open and genial weather nearly everywhere, with a disappearance of frosts even in northern New York and Canada for a marked period. We may expect some of the finest—at any rate most enjoyable—weather of the season during this month at New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Washington, and in Canada our 'Indian summer.' In western sections the fore and latter portions of the month are likely to be disagreeable, but I do not anticipate much trouble from snowfalls or blockades this winter until December. Should such occur, however, it will likely be found that the dates of the disturbances will be very nearly the same as those of the November of 1880. Possibly there may be a period of unusual warmth in proximity to the middle of the month. This month will be marked by periods of balmy and brilliant autumn weather, as in the year 1877."

The water was likewise turned off with the whisky on Tuesday (election day). We don't care so very much about sudden stoppages of whisky, particularly on election day, for on that occasion they are expected; but these sudden and too frequent stoppages of the aqueous fluid, without any previous announcement thereof to the citizens, are a decided and abominable source of complaint.

MISSING HEIRS—THE SEARCH FOR THE RELATIVES OF JOHN DUFFIELD.—A telegraphic dispatch printed in a Philadelphia newspaper of August 30 has occasioned great interest and doubtless considerable anxiety in a certain section of this county. The particulars contained in that Associated Press telegram were as follows, the dispatch being sent from Washington: "A communication has been received at the Department of State from Consul Baker, of Buenos Ayres, relative to a search for the heirs of John Duffield, of Goys, Argentine Republic, which states a letter had been received at the consulate from a gentleman signing himself J. H. Anderson. The letter was dated from the Campbell House, Bay City, Michigan, and the writer states that he was well acquainted with Mr. Duffield; that his heirs reside in the State of Maine and that he (Mr. Anderson) will look them up. Heretofore, in pursuance of the vague information on hand, the search for the missing heirs was confined to Mobile, Ala. It would now appear, however, that either by advertising or correspondence in Maine, or both, the representatives of the deceased may be at last discovered. It is understood by those who were acquainted with John Duffield that he was originally a sailor, and was connected with Captain Selfridge's Tehuantepec surveying expedition. He went from Central America down the west coast to Peru, whence he crossed overland to Asuncion, or rather Villa Occidental, Paraguay, where for many years he was engaged in commercial pursuits. Dr. Newkirk, of Goys, the locality where Duffield was murdered, wrote recently to Consul Baker that he (Dr. Newkirk) had received a letter from Hon. C. H. Washburn, formerly United States Minister at Paraguay and at present residing in San Francisco, Cal., wherein Mr. Washburn stated that he was well acquainted with Duffield, whose real name was Kelly. Since the receipt of the above dispatch the department has been informed directly by ex-Minister Washburn that he did know John Duffield very well, but affirms that he never wrote to Dr. Newkirk and that he never said or heard that Duffield's real name was Kelly. Consul Baker still later advises the department that the said Dr. Newkirk now writes that the assets of the estate have been delivered to the court to be turned into the treasury of the province of Corrientes. The heirs however can, by making themselves known, institute proceedings to recover the property."

The foregoing statement if thoroughly investigated and pursued bids fair to result in the enrichment of citizens of Centre county, Charles Jefferson Duffield, Joseph Duffield and Elizabeth Duffield, who live in Beech Creek and Eagleville. C. J. Duffield observing the dispatch in the newspapers he authorized Mr. John McGhee, of Beech Creek, to write to the State Department at Washington saying the description of the deceased answered to that of his uncle, John Duffield, who formerly lived in Maine, but who went South and was lost track of. The reply from W. Hunter, Second Assistant Secretary, was to the effect that the dispatch was authentic, being prepared in the department for publication with the view to discovering, if possible, the legal heirs to the estate of John Duffield, deceased, and that it contained a brief summary of all the essential and prominent facts in connection with the case which have been reported. The Second Assistant Secretary advises Mr. McGhee to write to the United States Consul at Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, making inquiry as to the estate and the will, at the same time acquainting the Consul with his purpose of endeavoring to establish the right and title of Jefferson Duffield et al. as heirs of the late John Duffield.

In order to advance the interests of the supposed Centre county heirs to this valuable South American estate Mr. J. L. Spangler, of this place, has been engaged to attend to the legal details of the case, and he has prepared a letter to Hon. E. L. Baker, American Consul at Buenos Ayres, stating that he is the representative of C. J., Joseph and Elizabeth Duffield, and he wishes to establish their right and title to the estate as heirs of John Duffield. The Eagleville and Beech Creek Duffields represent in their attorney's letter that John and Robert Duffield were born in Maine, the precise locality not yet being known. Robert removed to Rockingham county, Va., in 1837, and thence to Newport, Pa., where he died in 1871, leaving a widow, Elizabeth, and two sons, Charles Jefferson and Joseph Duffield. The sons, now about 80 years of age, assert that their uncle left Maine about 1857 or 1858 and proceeded to Virginia, but spent most of his time in Washington. They think he was aboard a vessel and that he enlisted in the army or had something to do with the service. Joseph alleges that he saw his uncle in the service in South Carolina in 1862. He was unmarried at that time and his height was about 5 feet 11 inches; complexion rather dark; weight 160 pounds; high cheekbones; brown hair; robust and healthy and always of a roving disposition. The young men have had no tidings of their uncle since 1862.

The letter to the Consul likewise makes a polite request that he will render all the assistance in his power to clear up the mystery surrounding the case in its existing state and to endeavor to have the estate—the exact amount of which has not to this time been ascertained—awarded to the rightful legatees. Thus the matter stands at present; but all interested can repose in the assurance that every step necessary to secure to the Centre county claimants their rights will be taken. It is to be hoped that if the Beech Creek and Eagleville Duffields are proved the legal heirs they may receive the legacy without delay or unnecessary trouble, and though doubtless considerable time will be consumed, owing to the fact that all matters relating to the estate have to be conducted by correspondence, this is what Mr. Spangler has earnestly set himself to work to accomplish.

NITTANY VALLEY RAILROAD.—In an endeavor one very wet night this week to ascertain something additional in regard to the fate of the Nittany Valley Railroad Company—an unauthorized report being circulated that it had gone to pieces—a reporter of this paper encountered a gentleman who had been originally connected with the first organization which, he said, was on a fair basis. Something afterward occurred by which a new organization was had, and then the gentleman in question and one or two others withdrew from the company. A gentleman largely interested in the future success of the corporation told the reporter afterward it had not "buted" at all, but that matters were very quiet at present. He had no doubt of the building of the road finally.

POSTPONEMENT OF OPENING THE GLASS WORKS.—The prediction of Mr. Richard Davis, the eminently practical superintendent of the revived glass works, that the works would be fired up and the first glass be made on next Sunday night will not be fulfilled, through no fault of his, however. Since the commencement of the repairs to the old building it has been discovered that it will be necessary to place a new crown on the furnace, and the consequence is the beginning of the manufacture of glass will be delayed for probably three days. The engaged employees will be telegraphed for when their presence is desired. It is sincerely to be hoped that once the works get started there may never thereafter be the slightest cessation.

CEREAL PRODUCTION.—We are indebted to the kindness of Colonel D. S. Keller, of the Census Bureau, for a copy of the tables showing the cereal production of the United States by counties, as returned at the census of 1880. In these tables we find the acreage and production of Centre county given as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Crop, Acres, Bushels. Rows include Barley, Buckwheat, Indian corn, Oats, Rye, and Wheat.

For the State of Pennsylvania the following are the totals:

Table with 3 columns: Crop, Acres, Bushels. Rows include Barley, Buckwheat, Indian corn, Oats, Rye, and Wheat.

According to these figures the average yield to the acre of each of these cereals for Centre county was as follows: Of barley, 14.55 bushels; of buckwheat, 17.59 bushels; of Indian corn, 35.71 bushels of oats, 24.12 bushels; of rye, 10.1 bushels; of wheat, 10.44 bushels; while for the entire State it was of barley, 18.56 bushels; of buckwheat, 14.59 bushels; of Indian corn, 33.86 bushels; of oats, 27.34 bushels; of rye, 9.24 bushels; of wheat, 13.46 bushels. The county is above the average of the State in buckwheat, Indian corn and rye, and below it in barley, oats and wheat.

THE STATE GRANGE.—The Pennsylvania State Grange will meet in the court house, Williamsport, December 13. The master of the State Grange, Leonard Rhone, of Centre county, and the secretary, R. H. Thomas, of Mechanicsburg, were in the city Thursday last to make the preliminary arrangements.

Mrs. Mary J. Moore, of Milesburg, one evening last week had a dangerous adventure which fortunately did not result seriously. The light in a kerosene lamp she was using became low and dim, and observing that the wick barely touched the oil she took the lamp in her hand and shook it vigorously for an instant, in order to resaturate the comparatively dry wick. Suddenly the lamp was enveloped in flame, but without dropping and with decidedly creditable presence of mind she hurried to the back porch of her residence upon which she dropped it and succeeded in quenching the flame without any damage of consequence resulting.

You will shortly be compelled to buy your winter clothing. Before deciding on what you will buy see what the celebrated Rochester manufacturers, Messrs. Stein, Adler & Co., have turned out this season. equal in fit, workmanship and trimmings to any custom made goods. Prices very reasonable. To be had only at S. & A. Loeb's who by their square dealing have did much to build up the large demand of this very superior grade of clothing.

The Bellefonte Building and Loan Association will offer at public sale a number of valuable properties at the Court House, on Saturday afternoon. Persons desiring to purchase will do well to give this sale their attention.

Mr. Albert Huston, late of the Bush House, will not return to Bellefonte—at least not to resume his former place at the hotel. A gentleman named Kesse, from Clarion, has been engaged to fill the vacancy, and he took charge on Tuesday.

Loeb's is the place to buy dry goods. Large assortment, low prices and good goods at all times.

THE COLORADO FORTUNE-SEEKERS RETURN FLEECE.—The prediction of Mr. Jonathan Bullock, blacksmith and wagon-maker of Milesburg, was fulfilled much earlier than even he anticipated. It will be remembered that on Saturday last his son Lewis and an equally adventurous lad named Harry Fulton "mysteriously disappeared." Bullock with $115 in his pockets and Fulton "dead broke"—and the understanding was that they had struck for Colorado. The father of young Bullock remarked, when he ascertained that his hopeful son had departed without his knowledge and with a "busted" companion, that he guessed the youngsters would be glad enough to return to old Milesburg before the cold weather was over. And sure enough they did, "alas! quite chaf-fallen." But it was not their original intention to do so, and their return was the result of the force of circumstances. Arrived at Pittsburg they thought they'd better examine the smoky city's elephant, and, of course unsuspectingly, they wandered into one of the numerous saloons which there abound and, we presume, called for a glass or two of beer. As the story is detailed, some one connected with the place somehow got an inkling that there was $115 in the crowd, and at once, with the assistance of confederates, of course set to work to get possession of the coveted wealth, and succeeded in doing so. The young men, it is related, under the circumstances became convinced that they had gone far enough toward Colorado, and having lost their fortune retraced their steps toward old Milesburg, reaching home last Wednesday. Now, boys, the next time you start for Colorado buy a through ticket, with "good only on this train" upon it.

"RUNNING ALONG NICKELY."—Though not a very early day to announce it, it is nevertheless a fact that the Bush House, under the management of that particularly competent hotelier Mr. W. R. Teller, presents these days and unusually animated and busy appearance that is a decided contrast to the view about that hotel in days not long gone by. The trouble with the Bush was that it changed superintendents too often, and such a proceeding naturally excites the distrust of the traveling public, whether it be the fault of the superintendents or other. "The hotel is running along very nicely," said Mr. Teller, in answer to a question of a curious companion, his face bearing a half-smile of entire satisfaction. When he informed his inquisitor questioner of the expenses of the hotel for help alone the latter was quite astonished at the sum—it is not necessary to give the figures here—and the inquisitor went away thinking that the hotel must be "running along very nicely" indeed.

We take all kinds of country produce—butter, eggs, lard, meats, potatoes, &c.—and give you our goods at the lowest cash prices, asking you only the lowest cent from the start. We don't ask you $3 more on a suit or a dress so as to come down $1 at Lyon & Co.'s.

The largest stock of dress goods ever brought to Centre county is now opened at Loeb's.

We have given the exclusive agency to Lyon & Co. for the sale of Elkin's celebrated fine shoes, every pair of which we guarantee. They are of the finest stock and workmanship, and we will make our guarantee good if any pair does not give satisfaction. M. ELKIN & Co.

SPRING TOWNSHIP, Nov. 8, 1881.

MR. EDITOR:—I wish to state for the benefit of all interested that the treatment which I received from Dr. Hoy for my injured limb has been entirely satisfactory. I was informed upon authority that such complicated cases of fracture of bone and ankle dislocation rarely gave a good result as to motion of ankle joint. In this case the motion is all that I could wish for and I attribute it to the care which I received in its treatment. The result being so gratifying I take pleasure in making this statement. Respectfully, JOHN SMITH.

Dr. Chapman said he could cure all disease with lanceol, calomel and opium. You can with PERUNA.
