Arbitration in Trade Disputes.

Senator William A. Wallace has been making an interesting argument in the Senate of Pennsylvania in favor of a bill introduced by him into that body providing for the submission of trade disputes to special tribunals created for the purpose.

It is much to be hoped that the system may take root in this country. Every employer and every workman who considers the wastefulness of strikes must be anxious to see some system established which will do away with strikes.

Of course the power of the law is limited. The law cannot hamper freedom of contract nor prescribe that men shall abide the decision of any other tribunals than the courts of justice.

Senator Wallace deserves the thanks of his fellow-citizens for having introduced and urged a measure which promises to attain this object.—N. Y. World.

A Mormon Reunion.

Conkling's Influence.

THE EX-SENATOR USING HIS FRIENDSHIP IN WASHINGTON FOR HIS OWN BENEFIT.

The fees of Roscoe Conkling are not confined to his legal knowledge. He still makes money out of his influence. His late visit to Washington lasted but a few hours and paid him $5,000.

Conkling came to Washington, saw the young man, got the paper and called on the secretary of the interior. Mr. Teller was glad to see Conkling, flattered and flattered at the honor.

The interests of the workmen of this state have been assaulted from several quarters in the Legislature this session. Measures devised to rob them of their right to make private contract and to dispose of their labor are thinly disguised as measures for their relief.

Of course the power of the law is limited. The law cannot hamper freedom of contract nor prescribe that men shall abide the decision of any other tribunals than the courts of justice.

Another Awful Chapter in the Tewksbury Tragedy.

Boston, April 10.—Governor Butler was present at the Tewksbury Alms House investigation to-day. Joseph A. Chase testified that he had worked for Miss Manning, and with her knowledge had taken bodies to the Harvard Medical School by order of the Marshes.

John H. Chase said that since his first testimony he had gone to Tewksbury with a detective and unearthed a coffin supposed to contain the body of Joseph Clark. The body had previously been sold, and the coffin, which was empty, brought to Boston.

Two poor women had offered money to witness, to put up a slab over their mother's grave, which he refused, but Marsh said he ought to have taken it. The body was afterward sent away.

PATIENTS FORCED TO BATH IN DIRTY WATER.

Boston, April 11.—In the Tewksbury almshouse investigation to-day Frank Barker, formerly in charge of the insane building at Tewksbury, said that the beds in the male wards were in a filthy condition. He had charge of the bathing of the male patients in a tank ten by fifteen feet and one foot deep.

Dr. Dean, a graduate of the Harvard Medical School, testified that when he was a student perhaps fifty bodies were used during the winter term. At this point a lengthy discussion arose over the admission of the evidence as to the disposition of the remains after dissection. The evidence was admitted and the hearing was then adjourned.

In the opinion of the Chicago Tribune "the Democratic party cannot touch the tariff question without going to pieces, and the party must take hold of it." No such danger threatens the harmony of the Republican party in the conflict over economic questions.

The Tribune and Inter-Ocean, of Chicago, and the Times and Tribune of New York, though representing far more radical differences on the tariff question than are found in the Democratic party, float on the capacious bosom of the Republican party without in the least disturbing its internal repose.

The editor of the Philadelphia Times is inclined to think that Michigan is undergoing a political change, and will soon rank as a Democratic State. Last year, the editor states, all the elements opposed to the Republican party united with the Democrats and were successful in electing their candidate for Governor. It was claimed then and has since been reiterated with some persistence that this result was due to the personal unpopularity of the Republican candidate. This appears, however, to be a theory which will scarcely bear examination...
