MANURING GRASS LANDS.—Farmers who have been hauling manure on grass lands during the winter should make a note of the following good advice from the Breeder's Gazette:

Another Opportunity Lost. When the keen-eyed applicant had named the point he wished to reach of the paper of which he was full owner and part editor, the pleasant superintendent looked up with an affable smile and observed:

Just What He Wanted. "Say, mister, ain't you the orator man what made a speech to us yesterday," asked a country bumpkin of a Newmarket politician a few days ago.

THE CONNECTICUT GIRL. "Where are you going, Mary?" "Across the street to lunch with Nellie Blank."

CONSCIENCE'S WHISPER. It was an Ohio man, who, when a terrible storm began one night rushed into the house of a neighbor and cried out:

CONSCIENCE'S WHISPER. "Jones, this is the ending up of the earth!" "I am afraid so," was the reply.

CONSCIENCE'S WHISPER. "And what shall we do?" "Make our peace with heaven."

CONSCIENCE'S WHISPER. The wind blew still stronger, the house began to shake, and the excited man exclaimed:

CONSCIENCE'S WHISPER. "Jones, you lost five bushels of wheat last fall?" "Yes."

CONSCIENCE'S WHISPER. "And you have your suspicions?" "I have. The man who took my wheat had better own up."

CONSCIENCE'S WHISPER. "Can you forgive him?" "I can."

CONSCIENCE'S WHISPER. "Well—" Here the wind suddenly dropped, and after a look through the window, the conscience-stricken man turned and finished, "Yes, if ever I meet him, I'll advise him to call around."

CONSCIENCE'S WHISPER. "Well, no—yes, I remember the subject of my remarks. But why do you ask?"

CONSCIENCE'S WHISPER. "Why, you said that you made the welkin ring, and I've tried all over town to get one big enough for Mariah's finger, and there ain't any big enough, and I thought as how I would come to yer shop and git ye to make her one of them thar welkin rings. She's a stunner, and it'll take lots of welkin ring to make one big enough for her."

The Centre Democrat. BELLEFONTE, PA. AGRICULTURAL. NEWS, FACTS AND SUGGESTIONS.

Every farmer in his annual experience discovers something of value. Write it and send it to the "Agricultural Editor of the Democrat, Bellefonte, Penn'a.," that other farmers may have the benefit of it. Let communications be timely, and be sure that they are brief and well pointed.

Chloride of Sodium. "Is common salt a fertilizer?" It is not; that is, directly. The value of this substance, which is a chemical compound of chlorine and sodium, is in its action upon other substances that are elements of plant food much needed by the growing crop.

Brightening Rusty Ploughs. A writer in the Home Journal advises the following treatment for a rusty plough: "Pour about eight ounces of sulphuric acid, as purchased at the apothecary's, into a quart of water; do this slowly and very carefully, for it will burn hands, clothing or almost anything else; also use an earthen or crockery vessel, rather than a tin or iron one. Apply this to the rusty surface several times, making each application as soon as the former one is dry. Then wash with clear water and repeat the process. Give some of the worst spots a rub with a bit of Bristol brick; wash again with water and wipe dry. Put a little kerosene around the bolts, and take the plough to pieces, scouring each piece to get off the remaining rust spots if necessary. This sounds like a formidable process, but the whole operation will not take an hour. Oil all exposed surfaces with kerosene when you set the plough away, and when you turn your spring ploughing, a few turns will finish off the balance of the rust.
