CANCER CURED.
No disease has so thoroughly baffled the skill of the medical profession as cancerous affections and as they have always been considered incurable, it has been thought disreputable to adopt their treatment as a specialty; and hence physicians have neglected their proper study. But of late years new and important discoveries have brought forth a course that now proves successful in any of its forms, with certainty, without the use of the knife or caustic plasters. We have a treatment that is comparatively mild. It is not poisonous, does not interfere with the healthy flesh, can be applied to any part of the body, even the tongue. We take nothing for our services until the cancer is cured. Address

Bolting From Blaine.
ALBANY, September 4.—The following letter has been sent by Mr. H. C. Hunt a member of the Grand Army of this city, and a well known Republican, to a friend also a member of the G. A. R.:
DEAR SIR: I have been known to you for many years as a most uncompromising Republican, and I am now going to surprise you by stating that for the first time in my life I cannot support the nominations of the Republican party. If there is any organization in the world to which I am attached it is the Grand Army of the Republic, and when I see that they are trying to use it for purely political and partisan ends, I believe it is time for an honest Grand Army man to rebuke such attempts to lead us like cattle to the shambles by either voting against the candidate or not voting at all. There is another reason—two in fact. Our party has nominated a man for Vice President whose record as a Grand Army man is not very creditable to our organization. He was virtually expelled because he thought so little of it as not to pay his debts. Then, again for the first place on the ticket our party has named a man who has been assailed as corrupt by the very best element in that party, and this very day there is no slightest defense to the charges brought against him. Therefore for this election at least I shall vote for the reform Governor—Grover Cleveland.

The Blaine Libel Suit.
AN ANSWER FILED WHICH REITERATES THE MATTER CLAIMED OF.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., September 4.—The answer of the Sentinel Company in the Blaine libel suit was filed in the United States Court this morning. The defense admits printing and publishing the article complained of in an issue of August 8, 1884, and denies that it was false in any particular. It sets forth that James G. Blaine was married to Harriet Stanwood at Pittsburg on or about March 25, 1851; that prior to that time during the courtship, Blaine seduced Miss Stanwood; that he at first refused to make reparations for the wrong done but being afterward strongly urged thereto and violently threatened with chastisement and punishment therein for his said wrong-doing and per chance repenting him of his evil, married her as stated; that in June following a child was born, known as Stanwood Blaine, which lived two or three years and was always acknowledged by plaintiff and his wife as their son, by reason whereof defendants say that the matters and things set forth in the article recited are true and the same being true they were published of and concerning the said plaintiff by defendants, as they justly and lawfully might do.
The defendants file with their answer a number of interrogatories, and require that the same be answered by the plaintiff under oath positively and without evasion, within such time as may be limited by the Court thereby, among which are the following:
State when you finally left Kentucky? If you at any time resided there? Where you went there? Where you were next employed? In what business or calling? That the maiden name of your wife was Harriet Stanwood? State when she finally left Kentucky and when and where you next met her (Give the State and place of your marriage, and the names of the persons besides yourself and wife who were present on the occasion? What acquaintance had you with Jacob Stanwood? What relation was he, if any, to the person you married, and what conversation or interview did you have with him before the said marriage concerning the same, and where did such interview if any occur, and what was said and done therein? Was not the first child of said marriage born on the 18th day of June 1851? Where did the said child die? Where was it buried, and if in any cemetery give the name of the cemetery? Was any tombstone or monument erected at the grave of said child giving its birth, and by whose direction was said tombstone erected? Did not said tombstone bear the following inscription relative to the birth of the child: Stanwood Blaine. Born June 18th, 1851? Has any portion of such inscription on said tombstone been erased since its erection, if so, what portion thereof? What acquaintance have you with a book called "Life of James G. Blaine," written by Russell H. Conwell with an introduction by Governor Robie of Maine, and published by E. C. Allen & Co., of Augusta, Me., in the year 1884? Were not the proofs of such work submitted to you for revision? Is not the statement upon the 68th page of said book as follows: "Miss Stanwood in March, 1851, became his wife, at Pittsburg Pa.," a correct statement of the time and place of your marriage? Did you not communicate to the author of said book, for his use in such work the name of the place of your marriage, as aforesaid?
The defendants anticipate being ready for an issue before a jury early in October.

THE GREATEST ELECTRICIAN OF THE AGE AMONG THE EXHIBITS
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—The greatest light of the electric world burst upon the exhibition last night. Not half a dozen people in the throng knew that the quiet gentleman in widower's weeds who bore the hustlings of the crowd so good naturedly, was the greatest inventor of the age, and that they were brushing so familiarly against Thomas Edison, popularly christened "The Wizard of Menlo Park," the flashing of whose genius met the eye wherever it might gaze. Mr. Edison was accompanied by his daughter.
While the "great wizard" was looking at the synchronous multiplex instruments he chatted for a few minutes with a Record reporter. "This," said he, "is the first electrical exhibition I have ever seen, although I have had large exhibits at all of those which have preceded it. It looks like a pretty big thing to me, and, when everything has been fully arranged, will represent in a very complete manner the progress of electrical scientific discovery and utility, but it will then only show but the most infinitesimal part of that which will be when but the half of its possibilities have been developed."

Mr. Edison declined to make any distinctions as to the merit or interest of the exhibits. He will return to Philadelphia next Monday to make a thorough examination of all of the exhibits remaining in this city several days. On some one of the evenings of his stay he will probably deliver a lecture at the exhibition.
The great show grows in interest every day. Probably two thirds of the lights were in operation last night and more of them will be in position to-day. The concerts of the Germania Orchestra afternoon and evening, have become a prime attraction. There is talk that they may be discontinued, but the general conviction is very strong that this would be a serious and costly mistake.

MINES TO BE ABANDONED IN OHIO UNLESS THE STRIKING MINERS YIELD.
COLUMBUS, O., September 4.—Superintendent G. R. Carr, of the Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo Road, has sent a long telegram of a friendly nature to Chris. Evans, the Straitsville District President of the Mines, Union, informing him that unless the striking miners go to work within a day or two at the rates offered by the operators all the mines in the district will be abandoned by the syndicate. Straitsville is the only mining town of consequence in Perry county, whose Sheriff has refused to ask for aid to take steps toward the protection of property. The operators have concurred to concentrate guards at the mines in Hocking and Athens counties, at two or three places, and hold the authorities of Perry county. This order has not been given by the syndicate but it is looked for in a day or two. A large number of miners in Straitsville own the property in which they live.
New York, September 4.—There is no present prospect of a settlement of the difference between the stonecutters and boss masons. The latter says they will continue their lockout until the men withdraw from the Amalgamated Trades Union and the former declared they will remain on strike until the bosses withdraw their demands. Yesterday the bosses notified the apprentices employed by the union that if they failed to return to work this morning they would never again be employed by a boss mason in this city. The apprentices did not return to work, and a lockout against them was declared.
St. Louis, Mo., September 4.—The drivers and the officers of the company agreed upon terms this afternoon, and the men will return to work tomorrow. The drivers will receive 11 1/2 cents per hour and the conductors 12 cents. The demand was for 15 cents.
Toronto, Ont., September 4.—The Seamen's Union has decided that wages shall be increased from $125 to $150.

Sullivan's Confession.
ADMITTING THE MURDER OF ELLA WATSON.
SALEM, N. J., September 6.—Sullivan told the story of the killing of Ella Watson to one of Pinkerton's detectives. The details are carefully guarded, but enough is known to substantiate the following story:
Ella Watson passed down the pathway, brushing almost Sullivan's sleeve as he stood at half past 6 o'clock talking with William Urion, near Elwell's store. There according to his own story, the thought came to him which led to the young girl's death, and which will lead him to the gallows. He left Urion abruptly and walked down the railroad in the direction of the Watson homestead as far as Prickett's cornfield, on the left side of the rails, into which he plunged to avoid being seen. He carried with him a terrible weapon in the shape of a country made billy—a "bell clapper," which Sullivan was fond of calling a "head skinner"—which was secured to his wrist by a strong cord. Where the cornfield stops a thick woods begins, and in the depths of this the murderer found a hiding place from which he could watch for the coming of his victim. Here he saw her leave Yorktown. When sure of his prey he hastened to a road leading to the railroad at this point. He slipped down a small embankment and ran to the road on the right of the rails, a quarter of a mile ahead of Ella Watson. He had not gone far before he saw the approaching team driven by Charles Sieklar, the last person except her slayer who saw the murdered girl alive. Quickly dodging into the woods he was in time to get out of sight, and when the vehicle had passed he cut a club, the much talked of pole with which the first murderous blows were struck. He concealed himself behind a clump of bushes on the left of the road and within twenty yards of where the deed was committed. He allowed his victim to go a few yards beyond his hiding place and then sprang from his lurking spot, club in hand after her. She heard the hurrying footsteps, gave one startled look behind and began to run. The effort was a hopeless one. The unfortunate girl was so much terrified to cry out, and in an instant the cruel club, well aimed, crushed down upon her head, knocking her bonnet off, and felling her to her knees. A second blow knocked her to the ground. The murderer's fingers were in an instant upon her throat, and in a moment her struggles ceased. Life had fled. Even this was not, however, enough. It was no incomplete job which this fiend in human shape had fixed upon. The victim might not be dead, after all. Then it was that the bell-clapper billy did its deadly work and with one fell swoop battered in the skull of the girl whose body was already a corpse.
Passion was succeeded by cupidity. Twilight had not yet faded away and, by what light remained the body was searched for the little money which the murderer knew had been paid for the contents of the farmer's basket from the Watson homestead. He found the silver coins knotted in a handkerchief. This secured the body was dragged to the bushes, where it was found, and, the foul crime thus completed, the perpetrator fled the dreadful spot, forgetting his wicked club, and plunged into the heavy thicket upon the opposite side of the railroad. Here seated upon a rail fence, which commanded a view up and down the road, he unknotted the handkerchief transferred the money to his pocket and threw the handkerchief under a bush. Sullivan then hastened in the direction of the house of Jones, the suspect. Within a few hundred yards of this he made a straight cut for the road to Yorktown, where he arrived at 8 o'clock, and purchased a watermelon with 10 cents of his horribly gotten money.
This is the story, and the crime which once appeared to be wrapped in mystery stands revealed in all its horrors. The confession is the result of a shrewd play upon the prisoner's ignorance by Pinkerton's detectives of Philadelphia.

MINES TO BE ABANDONED IN OHIO UNLESS THE STRIKING MINERS YIELD.
COLUMBUS, O., September 4.—Superintendent G. R. Carr, of the Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo Road, has sent a long telegram of a friendly nature to Chris. Evans, the Straitsville District President of the Mines, Union, informing him that unless the striking miners go to work within a day or two at the rates offered by the operators all the mines in the district will be abandoned by the syndicate. Straitsville is the only mining town of consequence in Perry county, whose Sheriff has refused to ask for aid to take steps toward the protection of property. The operators have concurred to concentrate guards at the mines in Hocking and Athens counties, at two or three places, and hold the authorities of Perry county. This order has not been given by the syndicate but it is looked for in a day or two. A large number of miners in Straitsville own the property in which they live.
New York, September 4.—There is no present prospect of a settlement of the difference between the stonecutters and boss masons. The latter says they will continue their lockout until the men withdraw from the Amalgamated Trades Union and the former declared they will remain on strike until the bosses withdraw their demands. Yesterday the bosses notified the apprentices employed by the union that if they failed to return to work this morning they would never again be employed by a boss mason in this city. The apprentices did not return to work, and a lockout against them was declared.
St. Louis, Mo., September 4.—The drivers and the officers of the company agreed upon terms this afternoon, and the men will return to work tomorrow. The drivers will receive 11 1/2 cents per hour and the conductors 12 cents. The demand was for 15 cents.
Toronto, Ont., September 4.—The Seamen's Union has decided that wages shall be increased from $125 to $150.
The Senatorial Conference representing the Democracy of Blair and Cambria county, by a unanimous nomination, have placed C. B. Jones of Blair county in the field as a candidate for State Senator. His Republican opponent is ex-Speaker Hewitt, of Blair. The election of Mr. Jones is claimed with much confidence.
—The season after the Holidays is generally dull with the Tailors. We are offering extra inducements in low prices. We have given large orders, and the new goods are now coming in. Leave your order now. MONTGOMERY & Co., Tailors.
—Wilson, McFarlane & Co., call attention to the only reliable Ready Mixed Paint in the market. The Pioneer Prepared Paint is not only superior to any Ready Mixed Paint sold but rivals pure white lead in its smoothness in working and durability. This paint is guaranteed by the manufacturers not to crack or peel within three years. The guarantee is not only good for replacing the paint but it will be put on if it should crack or peel within the time specified. It will be to your interest to call and see Wilson, McFarlane & Co., before purchasing either white lead or any other Ready Mixed Paint.

at all of those which have preceded it. It looks like a pretty big thing to me, and, when everything has been fully arranged, will represent in a very complete manner the progress of electrical scientific discovery and utility, but it will then only show but the most infinitesimal part of that which will be when but the half of its possibilities have been developed."
Mr. Edison declined to make any distinctions as to the merit or interest of the exhibits. He will return to Philadelphia next Monday to make a thorough examination of all of the exhibits remaining in this city several days. On some one of the evenings of his stay he will probably deliver a lecture at the exhibition.
The great show grows in interest every day. Probably two thirds of the lights were in operation last night and more of them will be in position to-day. The concerts of the Germania Orchestra afternoon and evening, have become a prime attraction. There is talk that they may be discontinued, but the general conviction is very strong that this would be a serious and costly mistake.
