A Historic Gavel for Cleveland.

Governor Cleveland has received the elaborate gavel made last winter for presentation to the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. It is composed of palmetto wood from South Carolina, a bit of the Charter Oak, and fragments of wood from Lincoln's log cabin, from the old elm of Boston Common, and from the torch Gen. Putnam carried into the wolf's den, petrified wood from Washington's tomb, and marble from the Roman palace of Julius Caesar. In accepting it Governor Cleveland wrote, "I esteem it of great value on account of its history and associations, and sincerely thank you for such an appropriate souvenir of an occasion so solemnly important to me and of extreme interest to all the people of the land." The solemnly important and extremely interesting occasion referred to was the late Democratic Convention, to the chairman of which the gavel was first given in trust for the nominee; though certain utterly unrighteous scoffers persist in saying that the death of Julius Caesar was meant.

Vanderbilt Congratulates Cleveland.

New York, Nov. 8.—William H. Vanderbilt has sent the following: Hon Grover Cleveland—My Dear Sir: I congratulate you and the people of the whole country upon your election to the Presidency of the United States. You owe your election, in my judgment, to the fact that the people believed you to be an honest man and not to any particular effort made by any faction of either the Democratic or the Republican party. Independent men who care more for good government than for parties or individuals have made you their choice because they were convinced that your administration would not be for the benefit of any political organization or favored persons, but for the interest of the whole people. This is just the result which is most desired. We have reached a time when party amounts to little. The country is above all, and it wants an honest government by honest men. The belief that we will find it in you has led to your election. Yours very truly, W. H. VANDERBILT. New York, Nov. 7, 1884.

Philadelphia Grows its own Wheat.

Pennsylvania does not do anything by halves remarks the Philadelphia Times. It produces more manufactured iron and steel than any other State in the Union and more coal and oil than all the others combined. In the matter of growing tobacco to solace the chowers and smokers it doesn't take a back seat either. It turns out more carpets than any other State, and there is scarcely an important industry in the country in which the Keystone State doesn't stand in the front rank. As to rolling up big Republican majorities—well, if there is any other State that wants to compete in that line they are respectfully notified that the race is a free-for-all.

One would naturally suppose, in view of the immense development of the manufacturing and mining interests of the State that agriculture would hold a secondary place in its list of great industries. With so many millions of workers to be fed, it would hardly be expected that bread enough for every hungry mouth would be grown on Pennsylvania soil. Marvellous as it may seem, however, the report collected by the official reporters of the State Board of Agriculture show the last wheat crop of the State to have been 23,000,000 bushels. This amount will furnish the bread for the entire population of the State, the seed for the next crop and leave a surplus of three quarters of a million of bushels for the people who can't grow their own wheat.

This is an astonishing exhibit and one of which the people of the State have reason to be proud. A State that can devote so great a portion of its capital and energies to its mining and manufacturing interests as Pennsylvania does and still be able to feed its own population, must be a prosperous State indeed, all croakers to the contrary notwithstanding. And Pennsylvania is going to beat its present record. It has any amount of lands yet untitled, upon which abundant wheat crops will be grown in the future, no matter who is President.

A Science of Memory.

Washington has a "teacher of memory," who says: "In a few lessons I enable one to memorize the most difficult things without an effort." "How can that be done?" asked a Star man. "Oh, it's a matter of association according to a system I have worked upon for twenty-five years. It is all based upon the alphabet and numbers. I take a person and in a few hours get them so that they can repeat or reproduce a long poem which I have read to them twice or, at most, three times. They can repeat it backward or forward or give you any line you call for by number. I had a boy about twelve years old who, after learning the system, went to hear Beecher and Cook lecture and afterward repeated the lectures to an audience without having taken a note. He repeated Beecher's lecture at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms on New York avenue. Of course he did not give every word the lecturer used, but he covered every point in its regular order, just as the speaker had done, curtailing it sufficiently to be able to give in half an hour what it took an hour to deliver originally." "Do many come to you to have their faculties cultivated?" "Yes, a great many of all classes. Some students, reporters—more particularly official reporters of the Senate and House—lawyers and preachers. Preachers and lawyers particularly; the former to acquire an aptness in memorizing their sermons and the latter to memorize authorities and dates. Orators also, who memorize their speeches. "Then there is another class—the department clerks and persons preparing for civil service examinations. Before going in for an examination many of them come to me to learn to memorize dates and events, location of rivers, historical, statistical and practical facts, etc. "I had a navy officer here not long ago, who was preparing for an examination for promotion, and he perfected himself in the system so that he could without difficulty remember anything he desired. "There is an old lady between seventy and eighty years old, who, with her daughter, has taken instructions, and she says that she finds no difficulty in remembering and repeating all that she reads. She says she can take two poems she has read and repeat them alternately, a line from each.

CANCER CURED. No diseases have so thoroughly baffled the skill of the medical profession as cancerous affections and as they have always been considered incurable, it has been thought disreputable to adopt their treatment as a specialty; and hence physicians have neglected their proper study. But of late years new and important discoveries have brought forth a course that now proves successful in any of its forms, with certainty, without the use of the knife or caustic plasters. We have a treatment that is comparatively mild. It is not poisonous, does not interfere with the healthy flesh, can be applied to any part of the body, even the tongue. We take nothing for our services until the cancer is cured. Address D. J. HULBERT, Eagleville, Centre Co., Pa. —Wedding cards and all kinds of printing at the CENTRE DEMOCRAT OFFICE.
