

REPRESENTATIVE WOODWARD:

The House having under consideration, House bill No. 21, entitled an act to extend the minimum, School term of six months, John A. Woodward one of the representatives from this county spoke as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I had not intended to say a word upon this bill, but as the gentleman has referred to my own county, I simply desire to endorse in the most emphatic manner all that he has said. While in some few districts, possibly this might work as an improvement, in the great majority of the districts in my county the passage of a bill of this kind would operate as a hardship. The population which I have the honor to represent is largely agricultural and consists chiefly of farmers—small farmers, who do a large portion of their work by the assistance of their children. In the planting of their crops in early spring and the harvesting of those crops in the late fall they are obliged to keep their children at home; they find it an absolute impossibility to send them to school in the late weeks of the spring or the early weeks of the fall, and enjoy the privileges of the present five months term. I am certain that I represent a great majority of the people of my county; therefore, when I appeal to this House not to compel them to maintain a longer term or lose the appropriation for the State.

There is no district in the entire State, where a six or eight month term could not be maintained at the option of a majority of the people in that district. It is only necessary that they shall elect a school board with that understanding. We have frequently passed bills here which recognized the different circumstances of the different portions of the Commonwealth, by having in them a local option clause. Now I am not here to advocate the local option idea, but since this feature of local option is already incorporated as an element in the very matter we are talking of—since the central of this matter already exists in the board of directors, I appeal to the House to let it remain there, where it belongs.

The imputation has been made by my friend on my extreme right, that those who oppose this bill oppose it from mercenary motives; at least that is what I understood him to say, that it was because thereby the rate of taxation would be increased. Now, I have to say that neither the gentleman who cast that imputation upon us nor any other gentleman in this House will go any further than I will go in any measure tending to increase the efficiency and importance of our public schools. If the gentleman who has charge of this bill, will formulate a measure to levy the tax paid now by either individuals or the appropriation of the State, and arrange that increase so that it will aid us in an increased efficiency of our common schools by paying higher salaries to teachers, and thereby securing better qualifications, leaving the question of the length of terms where it is now, in the hands of the people, I will go as far as he or any other member dare go. It is, in fact, for the efficiency of the schools that I am pleading, and not against them. It is for the efficiency of teaching—the best methods of educating our young people, that I am speaking and not against such a system. I am for a measure—any measure that will promote the welfare of the young people in our schools, but not in favor of a measure that is advocated by the teaching population of the State, simply for the purpose of adding one more month to their meagre salary. Whenever the gentleman will formulate a bill that will secure the advantages I mention, I will aid in its passage. Let him introduce a measure that will so apply our school tax that they will increase the efficiency of our schools by securing teachers who are teachers, teachers who are qualified to teach as they should be, and I will go for the bill full length in its support. I am for the welfare of the schools, heart and hand. I say Mr. Speaker that in voting against this bill I vote because I believe it to be a bill against the interest of our common schools, adding thereto an increased length of term, and adding to the inefficiency of the system. It is as efficient now as it can be made without an increase of taxation. You may double the taxes as I said before, if you will apply it properly, and I will support you, but I must resent the imputation that I oppose the bill because it would increase my taxes or the taxes of any other man. It is not generous, and it is not right to make such a statement."

It certainly is refreshing to have a representative who can express his views on questions that are under consideration in the legislature. Mr. Woodward took the proper view of this question. As the school law now is a district financially able, can have the schools open ten months in the year. To have passed a law compelling the directors to keep the schools open six months in the year whether able or not, would have been ruin to some of our small townships. Mr. Woodward was right in speaking, working and voting against the passage of this bill.
