A NOTICE TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN TO VAMOOSE.

WASHINGTON April 17.—President Cleveland to-day issued the following proclamation:

WHEREAS, By an executive order bearing date the 27th day of February 1885, it was ordered that all that tract of country in the territory of Dakota, known as the old Winnebago reservation, and the Sioux or Crow Creek reservation, and lying on the east bank of the Missouri river, set apart and reserved by executive order dated January 11, 1875, and which is not covered by the executive order dated August 9, 1879, restoring certain of the lands reserved by the order of January 11, 1874, except certain described tracts, townships numbering 108, north range, 71 west; 108, north range 72; west fractional township, 108 north range, 73 west, the west half of section 4, sections 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, and 33, of townships 107 north range, 70 west, fractional townships 107 north range 71 west, 107 north range, 72 west, 107 north range 73 west half of township 106, north range 70 west and fractional township 106, north range, 71 west and except, also all tracts within the limits of the aforesaid Winnebago reservation, and the Sioux or Crow Creek reservation, which are outside of the limits of the above described tracts and which may have heretofore been allotted to the Indians residing upon said reservation or which may have heretofore been selected or occupied by the said Indians under and in accordance with the provision of article 6 of the treaty with the Sioux Indians of April 29, 1868, be and the same is hereby restored to the public domain, and where as, upon the claim being made that said order is illegal and in violation of the plighted faith and obligations of the United States contained in sundry treaties heretofore entered into with the Indian tribes or bands, occupants of said reservation; and that the further execution of the said order will not only occasion much distress and suffering to peaceable Indians, but retard the work of their civilization and engender among them a distrust of the national government, I have determined after a careful examination of the several treaties acts of congress and other official data bearing on the subject aided and assisted therein by the advice and opinion of the attorney general of the United States, duly rendered in that behalf, that the lands so proposed to be restored to the public domain by said executive order of February 27th 1885, are included as existing Indian reservations on the east bank of the Missouri river, by the terms of the securing article of the treaty with the Sioux Indians, concluded April 29, 1868, and that, consequently, being treaty reservation, the executive was without lawful power to restore them to the public domain by said executive order, which is therefore, deemed and considered to be wholly inoperative and void.

And whereas, the laws of the United States provide for the removal of all persons residing, or found upon Indian lands and territory without permission expressly and legally obtained of the interior department, now, therefore, in order to maintain inviolate the solemn pledges and plighted faith of the government, as given in the treaties in question, and for the purpose of properly protecting the interests of the Indian tribes as well as of the United States in the premises, and to the end that no person or persons may be induced to enter upon said lands where they will not be allowed to remain without the permission of the authority aforesaid, I, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, do hereby declare and proclaim the said executive order of February 27, 1885 to be in contravention of the treaty obligations of the United States with the Sioux tribe of Indians, and, therefore to be inoperative and of no effect; and I further declare that the lands intended to be embraced therein are existing Indian reservations, and, as such, available for Indian purposes among, and subject to the Indian intercourse acts of the United States. I do further warn and admonish all and every person or persons, now in the occupation of said lands under color of said executive order, and all such person or persons as are intending or preparing to enter and settle upon the same thereunder, that they will neither be permitted to remain or enter upon said lands, and such persons as are already there are hereby required to vacate and remove therefrom with their effects within sixty (60) days from the date hereof; and in case a disregard for voluntary obedience to the laws and treaties of the United States and this admonition and warning be not sufficient to effect the purposes and intentions as herein declared, all the power of the government will be employed to carry into proper execution the treaties and laws of the United States herein referred to.

In the testimony thereof I hereto set my hand, and cause the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington this 17th day of April, one thousand eight hundred and eighty five, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninth.

THE HUNTINGDON COURT INVESTIGATING THE TRAGEDY.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., April 15
The trial of John Gardner, for the brutal murder of old George Warfield, on the 14th of January last, was begun this morning at 9 o'clock.

The details of the murder are briefly told. In the afternoon of the above date, Mr. Warfield sent Gardner with his horse to get some corn at a neighbor's named Brown, requesting him to return early, that he might see to put the horse away. Late in the evening, Gardner returned, and the old man complained of his delay. Gardner flew into a rage and struck him a terrible blow on the head with a big club. The old man fell senseless to the floor, and died in the early morning following. Gardner cowed the family by threats of killing them should they expose him. An inquest was held on the dead body by Justice James F. Thompson, of Mooresville, when the Warfield family all testified that the old man died from the effects of a fall. A quiet funeral took place at Petersburg on the 17th. Mrs. Warfield being the only member of the household attending. After the funeral she stopped at the house of David Cornelius, a neighboring farmer and there gave vent to her pent-up grief by telling the facts. Gardner was arrested for the murder in the evening and lodged in jail here the next day. On the 26th a post-mortem examination of the body was made at the Petersburg cemetery, and a second inquest held at Mooresville, when the family retracted their former testimony and told the facts as they had happened.

Warfield was a humble but highly respected farmer, 77 years old and lived in Diamond Valley, in West township, a lonely and barren district, notorious for the poverty and depravity of its inhabitants. His family consisted of aged wife, with her two daughters by a former marriage, and Gardner, who after marrying one of the daughters, came to live with Warfield without permission. He was quicktempered and quarrelsome and rendered the old man's life miserable. With one Samuel Loudon, then courting the other daughter, he was imprisoned in February of last year for beating, tying and attempting to freeze the old man by exposure, and for selling his personal property. Gardner had no occupation. He is a man of medium height, 35 years old, with Auburn hair, and mustache, smooth shaven chin, florid complexion, deep set eyes, prominent cheek bones and heavy wrinkles across his forehead. His sister, wife and infant child sit beside him within the bar. He is represented by R. M. Speer, Esq.

The hours this morning were occupied in empanelling a jury. It composed of Van Buren Hurst, Henry Tocht, Joseph Cross, W. H. Knox, J. H. Chamberlain, Dorsey Cronistes, John Fenstermaker, John Goodman, John Snyder, A. R. Lynn, James P. Watson and John T. Ansaugh.

At 11 o'clock District Attorney, Geo. B. Orady delivered a very impressive opening speech for the prosecution. Mrs. Sarah Warfield, widow of the deceased victim, was the first witness called. She was very nervous and somewhat incoherent in her testimony, but though quite illiterate and ignorant, she gave a pathetic account of her sorrowful loss.

MRS. WARFIELD'S STORY.

"When John came home that night, pappy was in the kitchen shaving shingles by candle light. He said 'John why didn't you come back sooner? You know I can't see to bed that mare."

John just said, 'You shut up, or I'll break your old gourd.'

"Then Gardner walked across the adjoining room, twenty-five feet, and took out of a closet a thick piece of stove wood, four feet long, with a knot on one end as large as a coconut and with this he struck the old man with both hands upon the side of the head.

"It just cracked when he hit him," she continued, "like you would knock a beef down. He struck him hard enough to kill a beef. It just cracked like if you would strike a board. Then Gardner says, 'Don't tell me away.' And he charged us not to tell at all how he was killed. Tell that he went up round the hill for a load of wood, and slipped on the ice and hurt his head! He told me and Lizzie that. 'Don't give it away for how will my wife and child get along,' he said."

On cross-examination Mrs. Warfield declared that she was afraid of her life when Gardner was about and therefore she had concealed the real cause of her husband's cruel death. "Pappy wasn't in a bad humor at all, when he spoke to John. He first said it is a queer thing that you couldn't get that corn quicker." After Gardner struck him, he put the stick of wood in the stove."

The witness testified that fear of Gardner induced her to swear falsely at the first inquisition. "At Cornelius's after the funeral, Mr. Cornelius said: 'What's wrong?' I was trembling all the time. I says: 'I can't tell.' They ask me: 'What was it?' I up and told Mr. Cornelius, 'Gardner killed pappy.'"

Elizabeth Warfield, daughter was next placed on the stand. She manifested surprising ignorance, but in the main corroborated her mother. Annie Striel, of Mifflin county, followed, but could give no material evidence.

Dr. Luffer, of Willsontown, a graduate of the Baltimore College of Physicians and Surgeons, then gave some clear expert testimony. All of the witnesses were subjected to a most searching cross examination by Mr. Speer.

William Caldwell, a puddler, of Logan, while hauling cinder out on last Thursday the buggy upset, and the red hot material coming in contact with some water exploded, burning him quite severely. The top of his head, back of the neck and one hand suffered most.—Free Press.

The inhabitants of Milroy were greatly excited on last Saturday by learning that a portion of Dr. Macley's farm, situated about one-fourth mile of Milroy, had started on its way down to China. The opening is about 45 feet in diameter and 75 to 80 feet deep. The cause of the earth sinking is a mystery.—Free Press.
