

STATE COLLEGE.

The crops on the College and Experimental farms are in a flourishing condition. Farmers can see very plainly the effect of different fertilizers by examining the experiments on the farm.

It would pay any farmer the time given if he were to go over the different experiments with Supt. Patterson. What fertilizer produces the best crops? Is the question for each farmer to settle. By careful inspection of what is now in progress here, this could soon be determined.

The College Campus is growing more beautiful every day.

Mr. Corrigan has just finished a new walk and has widened the drive on the corner from the hotel to the road. The walk is now located between two rows of trees. It is shaded so completely that it is cool and pleasant, any time in the day.

The people at the College are waiting anxiously for the railroad to be completed to Bellefonte.

Trains run to Lemont now regularly, and some freight is delivered there.

Mr. John Corrigan has just perfected arrangements for starting a back to convey passengers from Lemont to the College. This promises to be a great convenience to the College community. Mr. Carrigan intends, we are informed, to deliver all express packages at the houses of persons instead of leaving them at some point in the village. He is also determined to carry passengers at such a low rate that the people of the village can afford to make frequent visits to and from Bellefonte.

Mrs. Herman's new house is in rapid process of completion and when finished will be one of the most delightful houses in the vicinity.

Mr. John Corrigan has commenced work on the foundation of his new house. This is to be a large and commodious building which no doubt will afford excellent opportunities for persons wishing accommodations during the summer season.

Mr. M. D. Snyder and Prof. Z. T. Osmond are painting their houses as fast as possible and will soon have them ready to occupy.

Students feel that commencement is drawing near and that the work of the year is soon to close.

It has been found out at last where the meanest people on earth live. They reside somewhere near Curwensville, and seem to delight in stealing flowers from the graves in the cemetery. Such a class of demons should be caught and punished.

The railroad will be finished to Ansonville inside of three weeks. It is expected that trains will be running before the first of July.

A dozen members of the Bar, including Judge Furst, of Bellefonte and Stenographer Reber, of the same place had a trout dinner at the Windsor on Thursday last. The dinner was given by Messrs. Orvis & Snyder, and a general good time was had.

Robbers of the amateur type are around. Sorely shot and powder is cheap enough to use in giving these fellows a reception.

Horace Patchin is building a thirty-five hundred dollar barn at his home in Burnside. It will be a grand structure.

A regular riot was indulged in by the Hungarians working on the railroad at Ansonville, Monday of last week. Several of them were hammered and bruised pretty badly, but none seriously. Beer was the trouble, they couldn't get enough.

The German-English Lutheran church at Reynoldsville, was dedicated on Sunday last. Rev. Hine, of Pittsburg preached in German in the morning, and Rev. Engelder, of the St. Louis Seminary, preached the dedication ceremonies in English in the afternoon. The Presbyterian choir furnished the music for the occasion.

On Saturday evening 23d ult, John Biggins was shot at, by John McCabe. As a result of the shot, a quantity of beer at the brewery, in the outskirts of the town, and afterwards McCabe, became quarrelsome. The party tried to shake him. On starting for home, he requested that Biggins go with him, and they had not gone far until he brandished a revolver and shot him, as above stated. On Monday a warrant was issued for McCabe, charging him with carrying concealed deadly weapons, assault and battery with intent to kill. The hearing was on Tuesday evening before Justice Galliger, who having heard all the evidence in the case bound McCabe in the sum of $500 bail for his appearance at Court, to answer charges preferred against him.

Indians and Canucks

GENERAL STRANGE HAS THREE ENGAGEMENTS WITH BIG BEAR.

BATTLEFORD, June 4.—Only one courier arrived here since General Middleton left. He reports that Gen. Strange had three engagements, in the last of which one man was killed and three wounded. Big Bear sent a flag of truce to General Middleton, but the bearer was killed by a shell. Gen. Middleton has arrived three miles south of Big Bear's camp. Big Bear is reported to have gone north.

MEDICINE HAT, June 4.—Sergeant Jackson in charge of a detachment of rangers furnishing protection to the men of the Galt Railway, while scouting came on a band of thirty or forty Indians on foot, about thirty miles south of Medicine Hat, evidently in position for a night attack on the Railway men and stock. Thinking them Bloods who are still loyal, Jackson made friendly signs. They responded by leveling their rifles at him. Jackson took cover with his horse. Several volleys were fired, Jackson standing his ground till his ammunition was exhausted.

He then returned to camp and reported to Major Stewart, who, with every scout left immediately, in pursuit, and after traveling all night they reached the point of attack on Jackson where evidence was found of his plucky defense.

The trail of the Indians was found on Pigeon creek. Stewart has now started in pursuit, but the proximity of the border will probably take them out of reach of attack. A large number of Bloods are off the reserve, moving north and east, which has necessitated the moving out of Captain Coltain from Fort McLeod with 20 mounted men, in the direction of Stewart's district to reinforce him if necessary. Several small bands have been seen in the vicinity of the herd of Cypress Mountain, which are moving in the direction of the boundary.

The distance from Cypress Hills to Leth Bridge is covered by patrol parties, who will render impossible a junction of the Southern and Northern Indians.

The Bedford Gazette tells of an attorney who drew up a tight note requiring the signer to waive all relief and exemption laws and agree to the sale of the clothes and effects of the family; that after the sale of the personal effects, the services of the debtor and his family shall be sold until the note is satisfied; that in case suit is brought, the debtor to pay attorney fees board bills, hack hire, saloon bills and miscellaneous expenses of the creditor and his near relatives, while suit was pending and finally, the creditor agrees to live on corn bread and surghum molasses until the demands of the note are satisfied, with interest at 10 per cent. The creditor wanted a clause added making the note a lien on any disease that might break out in the debtor's family, but the lawyer suggested that the note was pretty strong, and the creditor concluded to risk it.

Death in A Mine.

A NUMBER OF MINERS LOSE THEIR LIVES BY FIRE DAMP.

LONDON, June 3.—A dispatch received here this afternoon from Durham says that fire broke out in the Philadelphia colliery, situated near that city, at noon to-day. Three hundred miners are in the pit, and all attempt so far to subdue the flames or render assistance to the imprisoned men have failed. Great excitement exists, and it is feared that the majority of the entombed miners will perish. A large force of men is at work at the colliery trying to rescue them.

3 P. M.—A Durham dispatch just received states that the colliery on fire is the property of the earl of Durham, and is known as the "Margaret" pit. It is now feared that all the men and boys within the pit will be lost. Their number is placed at 350. The excitement in the neighborhood of the burning colliery increases momentarily. The relatives of the imperiled miners crowd around the mouth of the pit, weeping and wailing in a most heart rending manner. The origin of the fire is unknown. It is not believed an explosion occurred, as none was heard. The flames were discovered at noon, and in a very short time the vicinity was black with colliers, their wives and children. Usually the mines have two shafts, but the fire has evidently cut off escape by both. The wives of the imprisoned miners are weeping and calling on God to save the lives of the loved ones below.

The scene of the explosion is in the midst of a thickly settled mining district in the Newcastle coal regions. The earl of Durham operates a number of colliers. The mine was working with a full complement of men and the fire occurred at a time when all were busily engaged.

To Much Confidence.

New York, June 3.—About 10 o'clock Cashier Baldwin, of the bank of the Manhattan company, 46 Wall street, handed to Manager Camp, of the New York clearing house, a letter stating that the paying teller of the bank was missing, and that there was a deficit of $160,610.42 in his accounts with the bank. The capital of the bank was $2,050,000, and the unimpaired surplus, after deducting the above loss, was $925,000. The statement was signed by D. C. Hays, president of the bank. The defaulting officer is Richard S. Scott, who has been in the employ of the bank more than twenty years. He has been a faithful clerk, and, though living on a generous scale, it was not considered that he was too extravagant.

The default was not suspected until after Scott had failed to report for duty yesterday morning. A message was sent to his house and Mrs. Scott said she had supposed Scott was at work and she seemed much surprised at his non-appearance. This led to an examination of the books, and the cash was counted. It took till 10 p. m. to do this, and the result was the finding of the deficit. President Hays says: "He had charged us with just that much more gold. By this, of course, the books were made to balance exactly, but an examination easily revealed the deficit. I think he took the money in a lump, and very recently—perhaps yesterday." Scott is about 44 years old, and is a large, handsome man. It is conjectured that he has gone to Canada, but the detectives have not yet begun work on the case. The Manhattan company, with one exception, is the oldest banking institution in this city. Its charter was granted in 1799. Its loans are between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000. Its directors are very wealthy men. It is a state bank and issues no circulating notes.

The Great Iron Strike.

Pittsburg, June 2.—The Iron strike situation remains unchanged. No signatures to the scale have been obtained since yesterday, and both sides are anxiously waiting developments. Secretary Weeks, of the manufacturers association, was in receipt of his daily telegrams from all centres of the county, and at one o'clock he reported that no further move had been made by the manufacturers outside of Pittsburg. At Youngstown the contest is more exciting than here. All the mills there and throughout the Mahoning Valley, with the exception of one at Sharon, are closed. The manufacturers send word that they are firm, and that they will not sign the present scale. On the other hand the workmen in that section stand as firm as a rock. Notwithstanding these reports of determination coming from both sides and from various sections, there are many, a majority, perhaps, if those directly interested who believe the strike will be of short duration. Never in the history of the two associations have the differences been so light. Concessions have been made on both sides, and it is generally believed that with but little trouble, the whole affair which now causes 65,000 men to be idle can be amicably settled.

Affairs at Plymouth.

It is pleasing to know that the people of Plymouth are now able to see the end of the awful epidemic which has afflicted that town for some months past and transferred from earth to eternity some its best and most up right citizens and caused others weeks of weary illness bordering upon death. At least the people believe they now see the end—that in a month or so, when the people at present ill shall have recovered, the epidemic will be over and health, activity and prosperity will once again reign in the borough. This belief is founded mainly on the fact that for some days past the number of new cases is so small as to be almost unnoticeable, while the death rates has also been light, and at the same time the number of convalescents considerable. There are not more than half so many people real sick now as there were three or four weeks ago. Then the canvass of the several wards showed that there were 960 persons confined to their beds. To-day there are not more than 450, though a few others are as yet not very strong. The most interesting spectacle now is to watch the patients who have recovered go about the streets on a pleasant afternoon. They manifest a weakness, a lassitude and exhibit a paleness of features that tell only too plainly the terrible ordeal through which they have passed. Their step is slow and unsteady, their gaze somewhat vacant, their every action so peculiar as to make the effects of fever unmistakable.

Yesterday there was but one death, though that was a sad one, that will be very much regretted. Mrs. Rave wife of Fred Rave, the jeweler, died at ten o'clock in the morning. She was a comparatively young woman, beautiful, intelligent and amiable. She had been sick about six weeks. She leaves two or three children. Mrs. Rave has relatives and many friends residing in this city, who are very much grieved at her untimely death.

There were three new cases reported yesterday, all of them residing in the lower portion of the town. These people live in such a filthy condition that it is feared now that the disease broken out among them it may spread to a considerable extent. They do not heed the admonitions of the physicians and fail to purify the excreta of their patients, as do other people. There is great danger in this, not only to themselves, but to their neighbors and the community in general. What is most needed in Plymouth is a Board of Health, with power to compel the establishment and strict observance of sanitary regulations.

The relief work goes on in about the manner previously noted in these columns. Some fault has been found, and not without reason, because no itemized account of expenditures has been published. This duty should at once be attended to by the committee.—News Dealer.

Saved in Time.

CHICAGO, June 3.—During last night's storm Henry Carmody, bridge tender at the Halsted street bridge, was the hero of a performance that probably saved the lives of a number of people. In the midst of the blinding wind and rain he had closed the bridge, through which a vessel had passed, and stepped into his shanty. A street car bound north dashed upon the bridge, and as it neared the center of the structure Carmody glanced out of the window, and was horrified to see the bridge slowly swinging open. The driver had his head ducked down to ward off the force of the storm, and was apparently unaware of the fearful consequences of his neglect and the danger ahead. Carmody took in the situation at a glance, dashed out of the bridge house and ran at the top of his speed across the bridge toward the car. Reaching the advancing team, he grabbed the horses by the bits and sang out to the driver to put on the brake. The car was stopped about ten feet from the end of the rails and over the muddy waters of the river. The driver, in haste to get across, allowed the team to travel at a rapid gait. A horrible catastrophe and loss of life was only prevented by Carmody's nerve and prompt action.

Ward Pleads not Guilty.

New York, June 4.—Ferdinand Ward, who has been indicted by the grand jury for larceny in the first degree in stealing $1,500,000 worth of bonds and securities from Marine National Bank just prior to its failure, was brought down to-day from Ludlow Street Jail on the writ of habeas corpus granted by the Court yesterday and arraigned in the Court of Oyer and Terminer. He pleaded not guilty and his case was postponed until the 15th instant. Ward, after the date was fixed for his trial, was remanded to the custody of the Sheriff and taken back to jail.

An exchange says: "It is worth remembering that no newspaper is printed for one person any more than a hotel is built especially to please one guest. The Harrisburg Independent truthfully says: When every town and borough in Pennsylvania take advantage of their natural facilities for manufacturing, and every city in the same State uses its surplus capital more largely for this purpose, Pennsylvania will be the most flourishing manufacturing locality on the continent and her people and her people the most prosperous. And the more this business is done by individuals instead of colossal corporations, the better for the people.

I have used about one bottle and a half, and can say I am almost a new man. Have had the catarrh about twenty years. I induced him to try a bottle, which he did, and the one bottle of PERUNA and one bottle of MANALIN has given him more relief than all the other medicines he ever used."

Mr. Robert Grimes, Rendville, Ohio, writes: "My wife has been an intense sufferer from chronic catarrh, and after every other remedy had failed she commenced to use your PERUNA and MANALIN. They have helped my dear wife more than anything she has ever used. She has now taken two bottles, and is so much better that she will never quit its use until she is entirely well. It has wonderfully improved her sight. We think PERUNA and MANALIN will cure any disease."
