More Outlawry.

We learn when the home sanctuary of James Sunderlin, of Bell township Blair county was invaded by three masked ruffians, on last Saturday night a week (19th), it proved a failure. While Mr. Sunderlin, wife and a daughter were enjoying their evening feast something like a dog scratched at the door attracted the attention of the inmates of the house, and after being repeated the old gentleman went to the door to drive the dog away. As he opened it three outlaws rushed into the house assaulting the inmates. Mr. S. succeeded in knocking one of the rascals down with a chair and crippling the second one, the daughter calling from the head of the stairway; "father, shall I bring the gun down?" Yes, he exclaimed, remarking: "Clear out, you rascals, I know every one of you!" At this point they left without accomplishing their undertaking. The only joke in a case of this kind is that there was no gun in the house. The remark of the daughter and the affirmative answer of the father, no doubt, expedited the business. No money was found. We have heard of no arrests being made.

Fight With Cannibals

BRUSSELS, Oct. 3.—Dispatch received from the Congo gives further details of discoveries by Lieutenant Wisemann. He found the banks of Kasai River down to its junction with the Congo more thickly populated than any other portion of Africa. For twenty-eight hours he had to negotiate between crowds of ferocious cannibals belonging to the Bakoutous tribe. Men and women gathered in thousands on the river bank, shouting, yelling and gesticulating furiously. The women were more ferocious than the men. Finally the Bakoutous attacked the expedition in fleets of canoes, the women beating their breasts and throwing spears. Lieutenant Wisemann and his men repulsed them after a hard-fought battle, which lasted four hours. They killed hundreds of men and women. The entire region traversed was found to be very rich in ivory and rubber forests. The Kasai is a noble river, being in some places five miles wide. It flows into the Congo nearly 400 miles below the point indicated on the maps.

Another Monument at Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Oct. 8.—About eighty survivors of the 11th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, (Gray Reserves), accompanied by a number of friends arrived here last evening, and this morning they dedicated their monument at Round Top. The exercises opened with prayer by Chaplain B. R. Miller. General James W. Latta delivered an oration, in which he gave a history of the regiment. Colonel Peter C. Ellmaker presented the monument to the Battlefield Memorial Association, and it was received on behalf of the Association by J. M. Krauth, of this place. The exercises were interspersed with music by Post No. 9, G. A. R. band, and singing by the Regimental Association, and concluded with the benediction by Rev. Mr. Miller. This afternoon there was a regimental reunion and banquet. The party left this evening on a special train.

Popular Feeling in Somerset.

SOMERSET, Oct. 2.—There is great feeling here at the developments in the South Pennsylvania Railroad investigation. Vanderbilt's perfidy, his son-in-law's $3,000,000 deal and the sacrifice of the people's interests to gratify corporate greed and selfish purposes have aroused intense indignation. It looks to the mountaineers as if the attorneys for the South Pennsylvania were but the attorneys for Vanderbilt. They are certainly not doing anything to defend the rights of the people whose interests in the construction of that railroad is to be sacrificed in the proposed deal with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Public sentiment here sustains the Attorney-General in his efforts to vindicate the Construction of the State.

Yesterday Alderman Rose took depositions in two suits brought by the Commissioners of Centre county against Blair county. It seems that John J. Cooney and Isaac Fields, who are now inmates of the Danville insane asylum, were received as citizens of Centre county, and the expense of their keeping charged to that county. Believing that both men are citizens of this county, the Centre county Commissioners obtained a rule to take evidence in the matter. David F. Fortney, Esq., of Bellefonte, appeared before the Alderman in the interests of the Centre county Commissioners, and Lawyer Bumbaugh for the Commissioners of this county. A number of witnesses were examined in both cases. The testimony established the fact that Cooney was a resident of this city. He came here from Bellefonte, where his parents still reside, and worked at his trade as a plumber for several years. While here he married an Altoona lady, who was one of the witnesses. Mr. Cooney, up to the time of his affliction, was a steady going, industrious and intelligent young man, and highly respected. The Blair county authorities will not make a contest in this case. The other case is not so clear, and further testimony in regard to it will be taken at Bellefonte some time in the near future. —Tribune.

Railroad Notes.

The movement of freight on the Pennsylvania Railroad is unusually heavy at this time. The number of freight cars passing Columbia on Friday was 1659 east-bound and 1973 west-bound.

The delay caused in the consummation of the proposed pool of passenger rates is attributed to the fact that a number of local tickets at a low figure are afloat in New York between that city and Buffalo.

Lehigh Valley Railroad officers have no knowledge of a proposed extension of the line and the improvement of its coal property, and deny that the recent reduction in the dividend rate was from such a cause. Should the Pennsylvania Railroad extend its Schuylkill Valley line beyond Pottsville connections may be established, however, with the Lehigh Valley.

No Publicity for Marriage Licenses

Register of Wills Rex, who is Clerk of the Orphans Court, and consequently the legal dispenser of marriage licenses, applied yesterday to the Court for instructions in regard to the advisability of giving the names of the applicants for publication. After consultation a majority of the Judges decided that such undue and apparently unnecessary publicity to the matrimonial intentions of members of the community would be injudicious and unjust to the parties interested.

Iron Workers Resume

READING, Pa., October 5.—The Keystone Iron works, in this City, resume operations to-day, after a continued stoppage of nearly two years. The resumption is due, it is said, to the improvement in the iron trade. The works, when running full, give employment to 100 hands.

The leaders of the Salvation Army at Nanticoke, who were arrested for obstructing the streets, and refusing to pay a fine, were sent to jail. The entire police were required to quell the mob which demanded their release.
