The Relatives of the Imprisoned Miners. "I am the wife of Oliver Kivler, one of the imprisoned miners of Nanticoke," said a lady of middle age who stepped into the News Dealer office, yesterday.

"Who are your relatives?" a News Dealer reporter asked. "My husband is Oliver Kivler, who is supposed to be in the first chamber, or the one nearest the cave. Then there are Frank and Oliver Kivler, his brothers, Edward Hargraves, my brother, Isaac Sarbar, John Sarber, John Hawk and John Schutt, my cousins."

Mrs. Mary Kivler, who spoke the words quoted above, was accompanied by two other ladies Mrs. Josiah Kivler wife of the man who escaped almost miraculously and exhausted from the mine on the day of the accident, and Mrs. Daniel Van Flossen, a sister of the Kivler brothers.

I feel sure that my husband and the other men are yet alive, Mrs. Mary Kivler went on to say, 'and I want you to state in the paper that the Company's officials are not making the proper efforts to rescue them.

They should have put down a shaft. Upon what do you base the belief that your husband and the other men are still alive?

"I think that when the rush of sand and water came they were up in their chambers thirty-five feet above the gangway. There were two mules in the vicinity and it is more than likely that they went to the highest possible point. The men surely killed the mules and are still living on their flesh. If they could be reached in another week I feel that my husband would be restored to me alive."

Let us hope that she may not err in this belief. Should the imprisoned men be brought out alive, what a day of rejoicing and thanksgiving there would be in the Wyoming Valley.

"Have you obtained any money from the relief committee yet?" asked the reporter.

Oh yes, she replied. A few days ago Mr. Brader, the treasurer gave me $25 in money and a store order for $25 more. He has been very kind to me.

Mrs. Kivler then went on to state in reply to the reporters questions that her family consisted of three children, the eldest being only five years of age, that her husband was always kind to her, that they had been married six years, that he was a man of excellent habits and worked every day that work was obtainable.

On the morning of the accident he appeared unusually gloomy and she thinks he had a sort of premonition that something was going to happen. He kissed the little ones and after leaving the house he returned to say good bye to herself. There was a strange look, as of sadness in his eye, and though he expressed no feeling or fear, it is her belief that he apprehended danger.

Mr. Morgan, the superintendent of the mine, said yesterday that the rescuing party had passed the third counter door, and were now very close to the cure which leads to the fatal chamber. He thinks that if nothing happens, the men will be reached in a few days, but he is of opinion that they are all dead—in fact they died within an hour after the accident.

Fullman Owns The Church. A MINISTER WHO PREACHES AT PULLMAN WILL NEVER DO IT AGAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Somewhat of a sensation has been created by the reports and remarks made at yesterday's meeting of the Chicago Presbytery in regard to the desperate struggle of the churches at Pullman for existence, owing to excessive rentals, etc., charged by the Pullman Company.

The pastor of the Presbyterian church at that point, the Rev. T. S. McCaslin, appeals for aid from his congregation. It was $750 behind on the last year. It pays the Pullman Company $1,200 rental for the church and besides that is compelled to pay it $2.25 per 1,000 feet for gas and $186 for steam heating.

Mr. J. McLean, an elder of the church, said that since he had gone to Pullman to live he had grown poorer, and had not bought a suit of clothes for two years.

The Rev. Mr. Swayer said: "I preached once in the Pullman church but with the help of God I will never preach there again. The word 'monopoly' seems to be written in black letters over the pulpit and pews. It blazes forth from every window, and seems to burn between the lines in the hymn-book. I thought the organ groaned 'monopoly,' 'monopoly,' in all its lower tones."

The Rev. W. R. Scott, of the Reunion church, which is heavily in debt, said he would soon resign.

The Presbyterian ministers pledged their respective churches to bear a portion of the debt.

FELL 100 FEET.

A Perry County Man Has a Remarkable Escape From Death. The Newport (Pa.) News says that on last Friday John Reisinger and Lemuel Campbell were walking along Big Buffalo creek together, about three miles west of Newport, and at McGilligan's rocks amused themselves by starting large stones down the hillside to hear them splash in the waters at the base of the precipice.

The distance is not less than 100 feet, and may be 125. While Reisinger was in the act of starting a small rock he unconsciously stood on a 'rolling stone,' which sent him head long over the precipice. He is a man about 25 years old and weighs 190 pounds. He struck the water feet foremost and shot to the bottom of the stream, through six feet of water, in that position and bounded to the surface again. Stunned and somewhat bruised, he succeeded in swimming to the shore from which he had fallen. His comrade was almost paralyzed with alarm and expected to find Reisinger's body mangled and lifeless in the stream.

Messrs. Henry S. Lenig and Daniel Rapsomes were then in the "bott m," only a short distance away. To them Campbell hurried and communicated the facts of his comrade's misfortune. Taking the check lines from their horses, they hastened to the imperiled man's rescue, but because of the perpendicularity of the declivity he was not approachable. He dragged himself to a point several yards distant from where he had had such a terrible fall and then his rescuers were enabled to reach him with the aid of the check lines, which were dropped over the rocks to him. He took a firm hold on them and by the trio's united strength was pulled up the side of the rocks. He was then placed on the back of a horse and conveyed to the home of his stepfather, Mr. Jacob Kepner, of Juniata township. Dr. Campbell, of this place, was sent for, and found his patient badly stoved up and somewhat bruised and a bone in one of his feet broken, but not otherwise injured.

MURDEROUS BURGLARS BREAK INTO A FARM HOUSE. PITTSBURGH, January 15.—Early this morning three masked men appeared at the house of Samuel Robinson, four miles south of Ligonier, and demanded admittance. Being refused, they shot several times through the windows and finally forced their way in by breaking the door down. They then demanded money, which they supposed was concealed in the house. Robinson told them he had nothing, whereupon they beat him until insensible. They then ransacked the house, but secured nothing and left in disgust. Robinson is still unconscious and will probably die. A party of tramps seen in this vicinity a few days ago are supposed to be the assailants, and if caught may be lynched.

A Lad Frozen to Death Near Johnstown. Willie Krumscheit, a lad aged 13 years, who made his home with his uncle, William Hendrick, in Daisyville, a suburb of Johnstown, his parents being connected with a traveling show in the old country, was frozen to death on Saturday night while on his way from Johnstown to Daisyville. The lad was employed as a door keeper in a Johnstown coal mine, and sometimes remained over night with a young friend in Johnstown. He started home on Saturday evening, but his aunt was not alarmed at his failure to arrive there, supposing he had remained in Johnstown. His body was found in the snow on Monday evening. He was in a kneeling position, and his hands were clasped on his breast in the attitude of prayer.

At the Duncannon wreck it will be remembered that William Noel the engineer floated two miles down the river and after being rescued was taken to a house along the railroad where he remained all night. For that little display of humanity it is said the resident of the house has sent a bill of $5 to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. What a big heart!—Democrat & Sentinel.

Francis Murphy seems to have accomplished his greatest work in Youngstown, which is ablaze with temperance fever. Ohio has been the victim of so much political temperance, it affords a grand field of common sense work.
