The Generous G. A R.

An Exchange says: The effort now being made to raise a handsome fund for the benefit of the dependent widow of General Hancock, has called attention not only to Hancock's generosity but to the generosity and open heartedness of other distin-and rendered all the assistance possible guished army leaders. All were generous and liberal. The truih is that the good soldier is of a generous disposition. And he can be generous in other ways than with his money. This is shown in the lives of all of our great soldiers. They were not only generous to friends, but likewise to foes. It was said that General Sherman was ungenerous when he ordered his batteries to open at Atlanta, thereby endangering the lives of women, children and non combatants. But, was he? Had he not given ample time for all such to get out of the city. and did he not know that they were kept there in hope that he would not attempt to reduce the place because of their presence? Looked at from a war standpoint it was one of the most generous acts of his life. In going over the long list of generals who were brought to the front, either by meritorious conduct or the influence of friends, one cannot fail to notice that in almost if not quite every instance where their star sank instead of rising higher, their failure was due to selfishness-a lack of generosity. They cared for themselves. their dreams were of triple stars upon their own shoulders, oaken wreathes upon their brows and pages of history blazoned all over with their names. hich to them was but onother name o glory. On the other hand, those

They envicd not each other but fraternized as brothers working in a common cause-The gonerosity of our greatest soldiers was made apparent to their subordinates and to the rank and file, in many ways, and that without intending to do so As it was only the unselfish, generou and kindly disposed officers who made heir marks, enjoyed the confidence of their men and won substantial victories for their flag, so it was that the generous-hearted, unselfish private, who thought not of personal glory, and was not dazzled by the glittering tinsel of rank, but sought to render honest service to his country, who became the model soldier. This same spirit pervades the ranks of the Grand Army, and to it is due the wonderfully strong fraternal feeling that exists among the members of the order every where. It does not stop at the blue, but reaches over to the gray. Those who are possessed of an ungenerous, or selfish spirit, find the post an uncongenial place, just as they found the camp and bivouac. Neither do they find pleasure in renew. ing the marches, and singing around the humble repast of pork and beaus. Probably there is not another association in existence where there is such a strong fraternal feeling as there is in the Grand Army of the Republic. It has no selfish ends to gain, no political axes to grind, no religious dogmas to sustain-nothing but to perpetuate the fraternal spirit that made the armies so efficient, and gilded army life with such bright and lasting colors.

The Coke Strikes Ended

PITTSBURGH, February 20.-The strike o" the coal miners and coke drawers of the Connellsville region, which comprises all of Fayette country and the greater portion of Westmoreland county and which has been in progress thirty-, four days, is ended. The strikers have won after much bloodshed and sufferng. The shutting down of iron furnaces all over the west owing to the scarcity of coke and its consequent remarkable advance in price has compelled the coke producers' syndicate, which controls a majority of the works in the region, to succumb to the wants of their men. Fatal Accident at Flowing Spring.

On Monday morning last when the

Williamsburg train which leaves tha town at an early hour, arrive | nea Flowing Spring the engineer, Mr. S . der, discovered a dark object on the track which he at first took for a log wood. It was too late to stop the 'r. 1 in time to avoid striking it, although a effort was made to do so. When M: Snyder got out of the engine to learn what he had struck he found a man tightly wedged under the pilot. With some difficulty he was extricated and it was discovered that the form was that of Joseph Reed, aged about 18 years, he was otherwise badly cut and bruised. | ers. Dr. Brown, of Mines, was on the train The unfortunate man was brought to town, where he died at 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

The general impression is that Reed was intoxicated at the time of the accident. He was the third son of Mr. Geo. Reed, the stone mason .- Register.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 22, 1886. Mr. EDITOR:

It has been an interesting week at the National Capital. Congress has settled down to hard work, and has probably accomplished more during the week than during any preceding week of the session. The Fritz John Porter bill occupied much of the time of the House during the early part of the week, and on Tuesday the bill was passed by a vote of 117 to 113. Not one Democratic vote was cast in the negative, and but sixteen Republican votes were cast in the affirmative. The House has thus declared that Gen. Porter was free from blame when, at the second battle It is the cheapest, costing less for reof Ball Run, in 1862, he disobeyed the orders of a superior officer, and then the decision of the court-martial which found him guilty was wrong. The attendance of members during the debate was unusually large, and but few seats were vacant. Although the speeches were for the most part tiresome, the interest taken by the general public in the proceedings, was manifest by the crowded galleries. The good business.

Senator Edmunds on Thursday last, having obtained the indorsement of General to transmit certain papers relating to the Duskin case, submitted the reit should not be called up for action in the Senate until Monday next, in order that the Democratic minerity cou'd have time to formulate their reply. The resolutions are three in number. The first declares the action of the Attorney General in refusing to furnish information when called for by the Senste, was reprehensible. Th second declares that where the Senate calls for information regarding removals from ffice, and the information is not furnished the Senate will not confirm the apointee. The Coal Trade.

[Coal Trade Journal.] All that can be said in regard the Anthracite coal trade is that it is no worse than it was a week ago. There is Educational Bill was continued during no buying for future wants based on the possibilities of this vast interests being put upon a sound basis and being managed in a business-likeway. Dealers and consumers have so often been fearful of taking any risk, even under the suggestions that a real genuine combination is likely once more to take place, and is loudly and extensively talked about. There is no question that coal is in demand, for there has his proposed report from Judiciary Com- al. eady been an increase over last year mittee, on the refusal of the Attorney taken care of, and this fact shows that Anthracite is a commodity that can and will be taken in increasing amount port to the Senate, but it was agreed that Prices are low, and the information on hand shows that individual operators are not inclined to run at present prices, and some have already shut down-Last year at this date there was a good demand for coil, and Grate and Egg were quoted at $3.15, Stove $4.00, Chestnut $3.15, and Pea $2.10, f. o. b., for the free-burning coals. At present one may quote rates $3.25 @ $3.35 for Stove, $2 90 for Egg and Broken, $2 95 @ $3.10 for Nut and and $2.00 for Pea coal, of the free burning varieties, to get at any prices, and we quote $3.70 for Broken, Egg $3 40, Stove $3 65. The toils on Anthacite has been kept up far above what soft coal was carried for to competitive points, and it therefore is necessary that there should be an adjustment of the two inwork. The suspensions were made pend. terests. One hears that the Pennsyl. ing action by Congress on the Deficiency vania Company would accede to any arrangement which might be made for this year; while they will not combine as the saying goes, they will co-operate to preserve fair prices at tide. He then shot himself in the head twice the microscope showed round crystal He is insensible and will probably die. Poverty is believed to have been the cause of the terrible tragedy.
