

At a regular meeting of Peters Brothers Post of Unionville, No. 263, Department of Pennsylvania, G. A. R., it was ordered that the handsome portrait of Gen. Hancock which graces the walls of the Post-room, be appropriately draped for six months, and also by a unanimous and rising vote, that the following memorial tribute be placed on the minutes:

We have scarcely had time to recover from the shock occasioned by the death of Grant and McClellan till we are told that Hancock too has gone. How can we express our sorrow and regret? Words cannot do it. Down deep in the heart of every true comrade there is a feeling of sadness and loneliness on account of the loss of comrades of the war which is now increased by the departure of Hancock. When shall we look for another? There was only one; the brave, the gallant, the dashing, the "superb," shall we attempt to speak his praises? Let a grateful country do this. Shall we speak of his bravery and sublime heroism on the field of battle? Unborn millions of America will do this when they point to Gettysburg where he shed his blood. We will not call him a Knight, for the "ancient days of chivalry" and "Knighthood," dwindle into nothing, and the titled rank of nobility becomes tame and empty when compared with the regal splendor of his patriotic achievements.

By his peerless courage and the brilliancy of his dash in battle, he established a Knighthood peculiar to himself and to the cause for which he fought. No gladiators sword ever flashed half so brightly as his when he unsheathed it for union and freedom. The love of country which impelled him to ride through the tempest of fire and in to the "jaws of death," secured him a niche in Columbia's temple of fame which her sons will ever view with patriotic pride and which will invite to emulation the future soldier of the republic. In correct military bearing and real martial grandeur, with all the glitter and tinsel of war (which are its recognized accompaniments) tempered with genuine love and zeal for the Flag of the Union, General Winfield Scott Hancock was never excelled. As a man he possessed traits of character which were exemplary in the highest degree, generous almost to a fault. Kindness of heart in the relations of husband, father and friend, and a forgiving spirit toward those whom he believed had done him a wrong.

Farewell Hancock, valiant son of the Keystone. Thou hast preceded us to the camp on the otherside, where hundreds of thousands of comrades gather around to greet thee. Thy name and memory will be ever enshrined in our affections.

A. W. HOMAN, Post Commander.

Wilkes Barre News Dealer of March 15th says. Many of our readers will remember the history of an engineer and his engine published in these columns a few months ago describing how a Lehigh Valley locomotive with its engineer went on the Erie Railroad and taught the folks up that way the value of a good hard coal burning engine. It is of this same engine and her engineer that we have now to relate one of the saddest events that comes within the line of duty.

Engine 202 made so good a record in her trial on the Erie road that the Lehigh Valley people wanted to test her capabilities on the their road. Engineer Moore received orders on Friday last to take his regular run to Elmira on that day and to leave that place on Saturday morning a head of train 7, that arrives in Wilkes-Barre at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, proceed to Easton, where his locomotive was to remain until Monday morning, at which time Mr. Moore was to have taken the fast train between Easton and Jersey City. Mr. Moore passed this city on time yesterday afternoon and proceeded on his fatal journey to Easton. No thought of danger crossed his mind as he approached the iron furnaces at Hockanqua. The furnaces are situated on the bank of the Lehigh river and close to the line of the L. V. tracks. The iron ore is conveyed to the cupolas over bridges across the tracks of the railroad and up to this time were supposed to be high enough to clear all engines of the railroad that passed beneath them. Though some oversight of the designers of engine 202 at Sayre the stack of the locomotive was too high to pass under these bridges, and as she swept along over the rails and approached the bridges at a rapid rate of speed, the top of the smoke-stack came in contact with the bridge, breaking it from its base and sending it crashing into the cab. The fragments struck brave Tom Moore and killed him instantly at his post of duty. He never spoke nor moved when picked up. A contusion over the right brow was all the apparent evidence there was of injury, but upon moving his body it was discovered that his left thigh was broken close up to the hip joint. His fireman, James Anderson, escaped with a few slight scratches from the flying splinters.

A Philanthropic Enterprise.

The Marion Tract Society established in this place for philanthropic work in the way of publishing non-sectarian religious literature is now issuing an eight page monthly journal, printed on fine paper, well gotten up in neat and attractive style, and filled with earnest religious articles, instructive and inspiring. Each number of the paper contains one of the best sermons by Rev. Drs. Steele, Talmage, Spurgeon, or some other eminent divine, which alone are worth more than the price of the paper. It is the unselfish determination of the originators, who give their entire time without compensation, to extend the influence of the pure reading which they furnish from Nova Scotia to California. The excellent paper is sent to subscribers at only 25 cents a year, and two page tract for ten cents a hundred or one dollar for fifteen hundred, postage free. For distribution in Sunday schools and elsewhere these will accomplish great good, at little expense.

Such an enterprise as this, established and conducted by thoroughly competent and reliable parties, should have the hearty cooperation of Christians, and all who wish to advance the cause of right and justice. Of course they cannot accomplish what is in their hearts but to do without such cooperation, but with it the influence of the good reading sent forth from the Marion Depository will be felt from one end of the continent to the other. They also pledge themselves to give all profits for free distribution of tracts and papers among neglected throughout the country, which class they are making a great effort to reach and benefit. They will send sample copies to every list of names sent to them. Address Marion Tract Depository, Saratoga Springs N. Y.

Fatal Accident.

We are sorry to chronicle another fatal accident which occurred Monday morning at the paper mill of D. M. Bare & Co., at this place and which resulted in the death of Lyman C. Dick, one of the paper-makers. Mr. Dick had just gone to work. One of the belts on which is known as the "knocker" was broken, and he, endeavoring to remove the belting which was wound around the pulley without stopping the machine. In his endeavors to do this he was accidentally caught in the gearing and carried around a shaft sustaining terrible injuries. His right arm was severed near the elbow, his entire side bruised and crushed and his right leg broken and mangled in a horrible manner. After being taken out he was carried to his residence which he died an hour after the accident. He was conscious and was able to talk intelligently to the last. Dr. Stayer was called and immediately responded and did all possible to alleviate the terrible suffering which he endured. Mr. Dick was a young man of considerable intelligence, and was aged 26 years. He leaves a wife and two children, as also his parents and two brothers, to mourn his sudden and awful death.—Altoona Tribune.

Miners on a Strike.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 15.—What may spread into a general strike begun at various mines along the Baltimore and Ohio and Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Youngbushen railroads to-day, between 500 and 600 men going out. The most important strike was at W. L. Scott's mines, at Scott Haven. The miners in mines 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 struck this morning for sixty cents a ton for all coal shipped east. The miners say they will stand with the Irwin Station miners and all of the east-bound district until they get the price demanded. They also say that after the convention in Pittsburgh on Tuesday they will demand three cents a bushel for all coal shipped west and to the lake trade. That convention will be attended by delegates who will cause a general demand for three cents per bushel for west-bound coal. The diggers at Clemmens & Co's mines, on the Baltimore and Ohio road, and the Dravosburg mines of Stone & Co., also struck to-day for check weighmen. Several hundred men are out.

The large commodious trans-atlantic steamer, the Oregon, was run into on last Sunday morning off Sandy Hook by a schooner and was sunk. The Oregon was the most powerful and fastest of the trans-atlantic vessels, and has frequently made the run from Queens-town to New York in six days, nine hours and forty-two minutes. The passengers were all saved and taken on board the schooner.

The Executive Board of the National Federation of Miners and Miners' Laborers, in session at Oscola, on the 15th inst, issued the following official circular to the laborers of District No. 3:

We take pleasure in this officially notifying you that the miners and mine laborers of all regions comprising District No. 3 are of a unit in their action. The situation in the various regions at the hour of issuing this circular, briefly reviewed, is as follows: The miners and mine laborers of the Clearfield, Pa., region are all out to-day and have expressed their determination, in mass meetings, to remain out until the advance is granted. At Irwin, Pa., every man employed in and about the mines has been idle since last Monday, March 8, and remain determined to secure the advance. The Meyersdale, Pa., men are all at work, having been granted the advance demanded. They have notified their employers that no more men are to be employed there until the trouble is settled in all of the regions contending for the advance, also that the output of the region will be restricted to what it was previous to the present trouble. They have also decided to contribute the ten cents per ton advance received to the fund of the district in order to enable its officers to conduct the suspension to a successful issue.

The Georges Creek, Md., men are out solid for the advance and have been since March 8. They feel confident of the ultimate success of the Federation's demands. All those in the Elk Garden, Va., region are now out and remain a unit for the advance. Those at Pocahontas, Va., are also out and remain firm for the advance. Unexpected, and as it said to their credit, the miners of the Broad Top and Postage, Pa., regions have recognized the importance of working in union with their fellow-workmen of District No. 3 and have ceased work. They also demand an advance of ten cents per ton. Thus, you will perceive, brothers, that the suspension is now complete and general. The coal markets will soon be empty and the result will be a strong demand for coal. The operators will thus be enabled to advance the price of coal and can then grant your demands without injury to themselves.

We will not refuse credit to responsible parties for goods on 30 days' time—this we consider cash—and when we grant this we want it distinctly understood that at the expiration of that time the account must be paid. We don't intend to exhaust what little profit we have made by sending statement after statement to each one that owes an account that is due, but will send one, and to avoid offense and misunderstanding we explain publicly in this manner what we mean, so don't ask for credit unless you fully intend to live up to our terms.

NOTICE.—I desire the public to understand that the rumor circulated to the effect that I intended closing out my business, is an infamous falsehood, and the parties so circulating the same are doing so to the detriment of their own business and not mine, as I intend continuing in the furniture business one door east of my old stand on Bishop street. Not Symptoms but the Disease.

It would seem to be a truth appreciable by all, and especially by professors of the healing art, that to remove the disease, not to alleviate its symptoms, should be the chief aim of medication. Yet in how many instances do we see this truth admitted in theory, ignored in practice. The reason that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is successful in so many cases, with which remedies previously tried were inadequate to cope, is attributable to the fact that it is a medicine which reaches and removes the causes of the various maladies to which it is adapted. Indigestion, fever and ague liver complaint, gout, rheumatism, disorder of the bowels, urinary affections and other maladies are not palliated merely, but rooted out by it. It goes to the fountain head. It is really not nominally, a radical remedy, and it endows the system with an amount of vigor which is its best protection against disease.
