The tipstaves in the court room make more noise trying to keep order, than any one else. If they see a man smiling, they will come back and knock their clubs down on the floor with such a force that you think the house is coming down. To exercise a little more judgement on the part of some and not so much bull dog authority would do better.

Mrs. Lawrence Brown is a fine performer on the piano as was clearly shown on Tuesday evening at the concert. Many wished they could have heard her perform as instrumental piece. She is a very pleasant lady and her unpretentious air and graceful actions are qualities always to be admired. The singing of Mrs. Blanchard, was very highly complimented. She has a sweet musical voice and under good control.

Spring Mills and Penn Hall always have been educational centres, and this summer they have three schools in successful operation. Profs. Krise and Hosterman are two of the instructors. The former we are personally acquainted with and can speak in the highest terms of him both as a thorough scholar and a gentleman. He is a veteran in the profession, and one of the teachers Centre county can justly be proud of. Those who are preparing to teach, will do well to attend his school.

The old saying that "when you have a good thing keep it," will apply with equal force to public entertainments. When you give to the audience something which they appreciate, it is customary to spoil the effect by an encore with something inferior, and they will continue to torture the audience until the applause dies entirely away. This was avoided to a great extent at the recent concert. It displayed exceedingly good taste upon the part of the performers.

CONCERT.—Perhaps the largest audience ever assembled in Humes' Hall at one time was that of Tuesday night, the occasion of the concert for the benefit of the organ fund of the Presbyterian church of this place. The stage surely was never so handsomely decorated with flowers and tropical plants as it was upon this occasion. The programme was too lengthy for us to make special mention of each feature and those who participated. The concert upon the whole was good. The expectations of some were perhaps raised too high, hence they suffered a slight disappointment. The exercises were opened by a few remarks from Hon. Judge Furst, after which Mrs. Packhurst, of Birmingham Seminary, followed with an instrumental selection. The Huntingdon Quartette composed of the following gentlemen: Messrs. Brown, Shumaker, Dobson and Dorris, rendered a selection from the opera "Little Tycoon," entitled "On the Sea." Miss Tracy one of the teachers of the Birmingham Seminary, rendered a number of vocal solos and assisted in duets and other selections. She has a very strong voice and shows considerable cultivation. The Bellefonte Quartette, composed of Mrs. Blanchard, Dr. Harris, Messrs. Blanchard and Fred Reynolds, rendered a plantation melody, in fact they rendered a number during the evening which always met with hearty applause. Mrs. Lawrence Brown presided at the piano with grace and skill. The duet by the Guy sisters and a solo by Miss Lillie Aikens, all pupils of the Birmingham Seminary, were well received. The Huntingdon Quartette then favored the audience with a selection from "Mascoot," which delighted the audience very much and won a number of encores.

A quartette composed of Miss Tracy Mrs. Packhurst teachers, at Birmingham Seminary, and the following pupils Misses Kyle, Guy sisters and Lillie Aikens, was very good. Mr. Craemer presided at the piano for the Huntingdon quartette. By some accident the baggage belonging to the Birmingham performers was delayed at Tyrone until the 8:55 p. m. train, and some changes and delay in the program was caused, otherwise the affair passed off very nicely.

JUSTICE PREVAILS.—Not in many years has a case excited such intense interest in this community as that of the commonwealth vs. Miss Alice Heaton. From the impaneling of the Jury down to the motion of Dist. Attorney Heinle, for the discharge of the prisoner and a verdict of not guilty, the court house had been crowded, and the interest in the case kept increasing. It was evident when the evidence of the Commonwealth had closed that a conviction could not be had. When the defense put witness after witness on the stand to testify to the defendants good character and proved by her physician and mother, the physical impossibility of her being guilty, it was simply piling up testimony that left no doubt as to the innocence of the lady. Miss Heaton's evidence was that of a young lady conscious of her innocence, jealous of her good name, it was the story of a brave, honest, christian woman and carried conviction with it. During the entire trial she had never lost courage. Not until the tumultuous applause of the crowd in the Court room, the great jury of the county pronounced her guiltless, did she give away, and then the tears refreshing as an April shower moistened the honest face of a terribly maligned girl. "Not guilty." Truth is right and will prevail. And what of the old father and mother who have watched so anxiously the progress of the whole miserable farce? Joy is in their hearts their old age is free from the shame of a stigma on the fair fame of a loved daughter. The result is what was fore shadowed in the evidence. The District Attorney, Mr. Heinle, won laurels in the conduct of the commonwealth's cause and performed his duty manfully. When he realized the lady's innocence he gladly asked for her discharge and a verdict of not guilty. He did his whole duty, and the cheer that greeted his motion was as much for the faithful officer as for the innocent girl. Of the counsel for the defense the verdict is well done. Col. D. S. Keller and Judge Orvis fought, not for mercy, but for justice, and they won.

Many were the eyes that were wet with tears of joy in that court room. Gray haired fathers, hardened men and youths, wiped eyes which had long been strangers to tears. Justice has been done to the lady, and she comes forth from the fire, pure and innocent. The miscreants who hatched the vile conspiracy are still at large. Justice will surely overtake them yet. We congratulate the Court, the Jury, the District Attorney, and the Counsel for the defendant on the glorious termination of this case. May it be many years before such another disgraces our community.

J. W. Bitner, of Blanchard, favored our office with a short call on Monday. Mr. Bitner is a very pleasant gentleman and we are always pleased to have him call.

Ex-Commissioner Campbell of Furguson township was made foreman of the grand jury. Mr. Campbell is a very popular man in the county and has many friends in Bellefonte.

Mr. Archey Moore, constable of College township was in town on Monday making his report for that office. Archey is also one of College townships successful school teachers having taught the Lemont school for two terms.

Bellefonte is a beautiful place, in fact we think it is the prettiest place in Pennsylvania and especially is it so at this season of the year, when the trees along the well shaded streets are in leaf and the hills surrounding the mountain city are arrayed in their beautiful robe of green, the mountains shedding their coat of dead leaves and budding forth in the various shades of green dotted here and there with the dogwood tree falls of white blossoms, the pure sweet fragrant mountain air, and the never failing spring of the best water in the State, are a few of the advantages bestowed by nature to make Bellefonte a lovely place. Then in the town proper we have a never failing supply of stores of all description, many of which will compete with the city stores. First class hotels, elegant churches and some of the finest and most comfortable residences that could be desired. Some people complain of our hilly streets, well while we have several little grades, they only add to the beauty and picturesqueness of the town. It is a picture of beauty to stand on the Court House steps and look down High street, lined on either side with large handsome trees, the branches almost meeting, or look out Allegheny, another well shaded street. Oh, we have it—a thing of beauty there is no mistake.

A very valuable horse belonging to Mr. Andrew Tibbits, of near Unionville became very sick and after a few hours of intense suffering, died. Mr. Tibbits opened the animal to learn the cause and found in a sack on the liver a round stone as large as a large sized cannon ball, the weight of which was two pounds and nine ounces. The stone is the formation of the various properties of the blood and to all appearance is a stone. Dr. E. L. Miller of Unionville, who attended the Medical Association here on Tuesday had the phenomena in his possession.

Misses Clark, Carrie Quigley and Cora Snyder, three of Eagleville's handsome young ladies, sojourned in our town this week. Mr. N. Bally of the News, thinks he would like to live in Eagleville for a short time. Hold on Newton, two weddings in the News office would deprive three individuals of single blessedness, and that is too much of a sacrifice at one time.

The Italian who was convicted for stealing a watch was arrested and lodged in jail without a warrant or legal authority, was tried and convicted, sentenced to one year in the penitentiary. Being entirely overcome with remorse, he attempted to kill himself rather than to go to penitentiary. The Judge then taking into consideration that it was his first offense changed the sentence to six months in the county jail, went to bed and dreamed over it and then concluded to again change it to one year in the penitentiary.

The Campaign is drawing nigh and as a natural consequence aspiring candidates are heard from. Among the few county offices to be filled this fall is the office of District Attorney. We have for a time been aware of the intention of our esteemed friend, Mr. J. Calvin Meyer, to become a candidate for that office, but were not authorized to make a public announcement of the fact until of late. Mr. Meyer is well and favorably known to nearly all our readers, being a son of Hon. J. G. Meyer, of Aaronsburg, which town he is proud to call his home. It seems there fore but natural for us to make the first mention of his candidacy and we do it cheerfully. Several years ago he entered Adam Hoy's law-office in Bellefonte, and by close application and hard study has arrived at a point where he can see success ahead, and now figures as one of Centre county's rising young lawyers. He is of sterling character, natural ability and genial disposition and is in every way fitted for the office and worthy of support. It may also be said that he is a genuine democrat and was an active worker in his party ever since he cast his first ballot.

The above from the Millheim Journal is a well deserved compliment to our fellow townsman Mr. J. C. Meyer. The adage that "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country" may be true with the prophets, but Mr. Meyer is held in high esteem in all parts of the county by those who know him. He is a young man of good, moral, and legal qualifications and in every way suited for the office to which he aspires, and we feel confident that his announcement will be favorably hailed by all his friends.

There is no reason why the operators should not pay the advance asked by the miners. The consumers have long been paying it to the operators and it is but just that the miners should have it. There is no class of men who run more risk of life than the poor miner, who daily toils in the bowels of the earth for less than the man who works by daylight. There is scarcely a day passes but we read of some mine caving in, being flooded, a fall of coal, or some other horror, and hundreds of the poor unfortunate men sent into eternity without a moment's warning. These are the men who are offered no protection, are not so much as living wages, for the risk they continually undergo. The operators sit back in rich and costly furnished palaces, and demand that the poor man shall either work and keep his family on a mere pittance or their places will be filled with car loads of pauper laborers from foreign countries.

The Italian who stole a watch from Mr. Richard some time ago, or as he said made a mistake and put the wrong watch in his pocket, was tried on Tuesday and convicted and sentenced to one year and six months in the penitentiary. As soon as the Judge passed the sentence he immediately drew from his pocket a fork and plunged it into his breast five or six times before anyone fully realized what he was doing. He was taken to his cell, and as soon as put in he said he could find enough of things to kill himself with, and rushed to the window knocked out the glass and tried to cut his throat with a piece of it. Sheriff Walker seized him and put the hand cuffs on. He will be taken to the Penitentiary, with two negro boys and an other white boy.

During the time they were closed he spent several years in Pittsburg but soon returned to Bellefonte.

The first session of the April term of court began on Monday, Judge Furst presiding with associates Judge Smith and Munson. The forenoon session was devoted to hearing petitions and other matters usually presented at the opening of the session. The constables from various townships made their returns and many were able to get back home the same day. The afternoon session was largely attended. The jurors and witnesses were exceedingly numerous; out of 24 Grand Jurors drawn 22 answered to their names. Henry C. Campbell ex-Commissioner was chosen foreman. Of the traverse jury there were forty-five reported out of forty-eight. The first important business before the court and which caused as much anxiety as anything, was the applications for licenses. The entire afternoon session was devoted to the hearing of the evidence. The decision of the court will be made known this morning. The Grand Jury brought in the following bills:
