A Butcher's Fatal Confidence.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 24.—The report comes from Hutchinson, in this State, that several persons have died there suddenly, and that the people feared an epidemic. An investigation shows that the victims had been eating pickled beef containing poison. The butcher protested he had never sold poisoned meat, and to prove the assertion gave some to his children, who quickly died. The above is current on the streets of neighboring towns, and it is said that the excitement in Hutchinson runs high because the man gave his children meat which was suspected of containing poison.

The following is Col. D. H. Hastings speech delivered at the close of Camp Murray, at Roaring Springs, as taken from the Altoona Times.

MY FRIENDS:—I would say to the good people of this town and valley, that the cordial, hearty and magnificent reception given this regiment has been properly appreciated by every member of the regiment. While many inducements had been given us to encamp elsewhere, the generous citizens of Roaring Spring and vicinity brought us to the beautiful grove, showed us the many advantages of the location and then said, you shall occupy it free. With my accustomed modesty I asked if they could furnish an engine to pump water, and ice and wood for camp purposes. All were granted. We would have asked for more, but we didn't have the "cheek," and now feel satisfied they would have given it. I am now sorry we did not have more "cheek."

In my return my cordial thanks for their magnanimous treatment. When the country's call was sounded no section responded more patriotically than the inhabitants of Morrison's Cove and none left more of their friends on the field of battle than these good people, Gentlemen, I am aware that before we came here many of you were afraid that we would outrage the Christian sentiment of this good community, and that some members of the National Guard might disgrace his company, his regiment and his flag. I would say to these good people that the Fifth Regiment is composed of gentlemen, the flower of the counties from which they come. I hope that in the future you will never have cause to look with suspicion upon our citizen soldiery; and if I have the say the regiment will come back on receiving an invitation. We must not forget that this is a camp fire. While many of us were not in the war of the rebellion, not being old enough at the time, we can remember the hurried meetings, the glittering bayonets, and the excitement attendant upon the departure of the brave boys who answered their country's call—the Roaring Spring boys, we mean. I like to hear the stories of the G. A. R., and some of them are whoppers. The G. A. R. fought the last war, and the National Guard is now being instructed to fight the next one.

Lee Slaughters and John Carr two young colored men of Huntingdon have been on bad terms for some time back. On Thursday Carr attended campmeeting at Lloydsville and returned home under the influence of liquor. He went to Slaughters, residence and was trying to induce Mrs. Slaughters to accompany him to a dance when Slaughters appeared upon the scene. A fight ensued during which Carr was cut several times with a razor. One cut is across the abdomen seven inches in length, and another eight inches long, is on the right hip. Slaughters escaped with a dislocated shoulder. He was lodged in jail.

Over the Horseshoe Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 24.—Carlisle D. Graham, the hero of the barrel trip to Niagara Falls, was walking along the narrow ledge at the edge of the Whirlpool Rapids pointing out hero worshippers the points where he thought he met with the worst experience. He said that he did not have as much nerve now as he had then.

"What are your plans for the future?" asked your reporter, who saw him tonight at the Mineral Springs Hotel.

"I shall go through again early in August. The feat is more hazardous than I thought it was, and the trip is simply tempting death."

"But you will make money out of it?"

"Why shouldn't I? It's worth $10,000 even for a poor man to take these chances."

"When are you going over the big cataraet?"

"I intend to begin making experiments in a few days. The barrel I have got now would kill me, and I am experimenting on a new and improved one. I shall study the currents carefully and make thorough experiments. A barrel or cask will be sent over every day for a given length of time and if two out of three are picked up within reasonable time I will take the chances."

—MOST EXCELLENT.—J. J. Atkins, chief of Police, Knoxville, Tenn., writes "My family and I are beneficiaries of your most excellent medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; having found it to be all that you claim for it, desire to testify to its virtue. My friends to whom I have recommended it, praise it at every opportunity."

A CAPTAIN'S FORTUNATE DISCOVERY.—Capt. Coleman, schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and N. Y., has been troubled with a cough so bad that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner.
