The "Journal of Education" devotes nearly the whole of its issue of September 30 to the subject of Temperance Instruction in Public Schools. It pleasantly says, "We can afford to be intemperate on temperance for once."

We shall be glad when a similar law is enacted in all our States, for we are ready to echo the words of Miss Francis E. Willard, who, speaking of this subject, says, "The wisdom of beginning with the beginners is the crowning wisdom of the plan."

This temperance education, then, goes to the root of the evil. It goes back of the drinking customs of society back of the saloons. Its aim is to restrict the traffic by restricting the demand. Why should it not result, if not immediately, yet before very long in the doing away in large measures with the demand?

Thus, in the matter before us society has the right to protect itself against the evils of intemperance. But, in the nature of the case, in so doing it comes into conflict with the appetite and with the greed of some of its members. Liberty, in the one case of gratifying appetite, and in the other case of satisfying greed, is interfered with.

The tendency of this hygienic instruction in the schools is to bring forward a generation who shall be so self controlled that they shall not be drinkers. When there are no drinkers there will be no sellers of intoxicants.

NEWPORT, R. I., October 21.—The matter on board the training ships Saratoga and Portsmouth was settled this afternoon by a deputy collector boarding the vessels and collecting from the officers the duties due on the contraband articles found by the inspectors who have been on board the vessels ever since their arrivals and to the possessions of which they had severally made declaration.

No Cause for Alarm.

ST. PETERSBURGH, October 21.—The Journal de St. Petersburg says there is no real justification for the fall in Russian securities and the nervousness on the Bourse owing to the condition of the Bulgarian question.

A Gentle Stimulus

It is imparted to the kidneys and bladder by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is most useful in overcoming torpidity of these organs. Besides infusing more activity into them, this excellent tonic endows them with additional vigor, and enables them the better to undergo the wear and tear of the discharging function imposed upon them by nature.

THE PUBLIC ROAD LAW.—It is a general doctrine of law in the country that the land in the highways belongs to the owners of land lying along each side. The farm generally extends to the middle of the road, and the public has only the right to pass and repass in an orderly manner, and keep the road in repair.

THE CAT TORPEDO.—Cat torpedoes rank high among the happy thoughts of men who have brought great intellect to bear upon this subject. Cat torpedoes are to ordinary Fourth-of-July torpedoes what howitzers are to pistols.
