SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11 .- James T. Noon, a prominent young lawyer of Santa Rosa, and formerly President of the Land League of this city, was killed last Friday morning by John Baileff and Al Reed, to wellknown citizens. The two men suddenly entered the office of their victim and, apparently without a word of warning, began firing at him from a revolver. Noon made a desperate resistance, closing with his murders, and when people rushed in the three men were found struggling in a heap on the floor of the room, which was full of smoke from the discharges of their weapons. The deadly struggle was still going on, while beneath the men were seen three large pistols, of which nearly every chamber had been emptied. The carpet was covered with pools of blood. Chairs and tables were overturned and books and papers were scattered about. The walls and door were perforated with

Every evidence pointed to a terrible fusillade, although the only witnesses of it were those who had been engaged in it. Noon had two wounds in breast and side. The only words that he spoke were, "Take them off me." He died soon after the arrival of an officer. The murderers have since kept a most careful silence regarding their deed and its cause. Baileff only letting fall the remark that Noon deserved his fate. The latter is well-known in San Francisco, and was a classmate and intimate friend of some of the most prominent local judges here. He was only twenty-eight years of age, and of handsome and very imposing pres-

Dying in the Snow.

DES MOINES, IA., November 18.-The storm continues with increased severity to-day. The railroads in the northern part of the State are blockaded. The Chicago and Rock Island passenger train No. 2 was snow-bound west of here at midenight. All the Chicago trains are snow-bound on the west end. While the snow plow on the Fonds narrow gauge road of the Wabbash sy-s tem was pushing through a drift near Panora, yesterday, three trackmen, Mr. Farrow and his son, and Joseph Davis, were struck and so badly injured that Farrow and his son died last evening. Davis had both legs broken and was otherwise severely hurt. The storm was so blinding that the men could not be seen by the engineer. The storm is over in the region of Sioux City.
