

WATER THE BEST.

A man with brick-colored whiskers entered the Harris street saloon the other day, and leaning one greasy coat sleeve on the mahogany, exclaimed:

Gimme some of the best you've got. The man behind the bar set a glass of water on the counter.

What's that? asked the man with the brick-colored whiskers.

That's water, replied the proprietor. What do I want of water?

You asked me for the best I had, and there it is, continued the bar-keeper. —Chicago Herald.

CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS.

Julia, did that young man who called on you last evening kiss you just before he left the house?

Why, mamma could you hear. I heard enough; too much for my own peace of mind. How often have I told you to beware of these men? Your conduct is inexcusable.

I wasn't to blame, mamma. We were standing at the front door, and his mouth was real close to my face, and before I knew it—

That will do. I see you have no excuse to offer.

Yes, I have, sobbed Julia. What is it, pray?

His mouth—was awful close to my face—and I didn't know—it was—loaded.

We dislike to discuss family matters in our columns, as everybody knows, but the story that Jeff Tarleton is telling around town about our difficulty last Tuesday night is a lie such as nobody but a dirty coyote would be guilty of. We have heard of him and his gassing at Dan Geeghen's saloon. The facts are that we told this red-headed slouch to stop keeping company with our daughter. When we returned home last Tuesday night about 11 o'clock we found him just leaving our front porch. There were words, and we admit that we called him a greasy tramp. When he made a pass for us we grabbed him by the whiskers, and when he broke away we kicked him in the small of the back, and the only regret now is that we did not break his backbone. The lie that he tells is that we drew a gun, which he snatched and then ran in the house. Nobody saw the fracas and of course he can lie, but John Haggood, across the way, heard the salute that we gave him as he claved the gravel down the street. Don't come our way again, Jefferson.—Kirkpaoo Sentinel.
