the sun shone brightly, illuminating the already happy faces of the children who have looked forward to the day with great expectation. Appropriate services were churches, with large numbers in attendance, At the Methodist church the services began at 2:30 o'clock, the choir rendering an anthem, followed by Hymn 10 by the school. Then the superintendent offered an appropriate prayer. Sixteen children and three adults participated in tles' Creed was a pleasing exercise by the or Prof Reeves. intant class.

ly rendered and very enjoyable.

The crown above the cross was perhaps the most attractive exercise by the childwhen completed was crowned by another little girl, who occupied a position above the cross. The little ladies did their parts well, and repeated the prescribed sentences distinctly. Temperance by Eddie McGarvey and music by the choir preceded Dr. Monroe's remarks, who thoroughly explained the object of children's day, Rowith recitations, rendered in good style.

Responsive exercises by Miss Sallie Walkey and class, a recitation by Lorie Heisler and singing by the infant class, followed, and then the beautiful exercise, "The Christian Graces," took place. Ten young ladies, each carrying a shield and flowers, assembled on the stage. On each shield was inscribed the particular grace exemplified by the holder.

Miss Fannie Twitmire sang a touching solo, which was rendered in that lady's usual effective manner. Lessons from the flowers, scripture quotations and the benediction closed one of the most interesting and successful observances ever held in

The day was also fittingly observed by the Presbyterians. The exercises were held in the church, which was handsomely decerated with flowers of every description, tastefully arranged on and about the platform of the pulpit. On either side of the pulpit, elevated to some height was a beautiful white lily. A box of handsome a special collection was taken up, and while this was in progress, Miss Chestie dropping."

Rev. Dr. Laurie had made special preparations to preach to the children, and chose for his subject "Growing." The text was from Eph. 4:16. To make it more impressive and instructive, his remarks were in the form of an object lesson, having as objects to illustrate what he desired to inculcate into the minds of his youthful hearers, a piece of flint, a piece of coral, an alligator's tooth and two branches of a tree, one entirely straight and the other exceedingly crooked, and with them he illustrated some fine points in the growing of a child into manhood.

In the afternoon at 2.30 o'clock the Sabbath school, together with the congregation, assembled in she church to witness the exercises prepared for this day. The arge choir which rendered some choice usic, was seated on the platform of the pulpit and was surrounded by bouquets of select flowers. The exercises consisted in singing and responsive readings conducted by the superintendent, J. W. Gephart.

Gov. Beaver, who for a number of years was superintendent of the school, then addressed the audience. In the course of his address he said while in Harrisburg he taught a class as large as the entire Sabbath school in Bellefonte and went to a school of 1500, but for many reasons that he stated none would be so dear to him as the school in Bellefonte. He took many striking illustrations from the scriptures to show that the children baptised is a part of the church, and should be brought up under strict religious trainings so as to be ready to do the Master's work. These remarks were well received by parents and the children.

After some responsive reading, singing and prayer the services closed by the ben-

Mr. Hunter was uncommunicative on account of the "rheumatism" and Mr. Wolf was a little worried because of that telephone. He was somewhat comforted, however, when he fell in with a gentleman of his own name, and a valuable half hour was spent in trying to establish a relationship. Sheriff May, of this county, and Allison White, Esq., one of Clinton county's best lawyers, and Hon. J. W. -The Boston Herald makes the following good suggestion: "One gallon of whisky costs about $3, and contains, on the average, sixty-five ten cent drinks. Now if you must drink whisky, buy a gallon and make your wife the barkeeper, then when you are dry, give her ten cents for a drink. When the whisky is gone she will have, after paying for it, $3.50 left, and every gallon thereafter will yield the same profit. This money she should put in the saving bank, so that, when you have become an inebriate unable to support yourself and shunned and despised by every respectable person, your wife may have money enough to keep you until your time comes to fill a drunk-

An orange seed that she had swallowed lodged in the small intestines and inflammation resulted. She was taken ill last Thursday. No attempt was made to save her life by a surgical operation. She was buried on the following Wednesday. There was a similar case in this city a year or two ago. Dr. Paddock was the patient. A council of physicians decided that his death was inevitable, but Dr. Carleton, now dead, undertook at the patient's request, the operation of cutting the seed out. He performed the operation in a few moments and Dr. Paddock re-
