A Settler's Suicide.

WASHINGTON, D. D., June 29.—A deplorable instance of the result of land-grant railroad persecutions of settlers has been brought to light in the case of E. L. Logwood, a settler on land withdrawn for the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad in California. Logwood's homestead entry was allowed by Commissioner Sparks, the land having been excepted from the railroad grant by prior settlement claim. The Company did not oppose the settler's proof, and under the rules of the Department it could not thereafter antagonize his claim. But the attorneys for the company filed an appeal to the Secretary of the Interior, submitted arguments and notified the settler of their action, although they knew that an appeal did not lie in the case. The settler was not willing to purchase his home from the railroad company, which had no right to the land, but relied upon the Land Office to protect him. Commissioner Sparks rejected the company's appeal and ordered a patent to be issued to the settler. Then the attorney for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company appeared with an appeal and printed argument, which he sent to the settler on the ground that the land was also within the indemnity limits of the Southern Pacific Railroad. This appeal was rejected by the Commissioner, for the reason that the land being within the granted limits of the Atlantic and Pacific could not be claimed by the Southern Pacific, a ruling well known to the latter company, and as the case before the office was one between the settler and the Atlantic and Pacific the Southern Pacific was not a party and had no standing as an appellant. These proceedings and the dilatory motions of the railroad company's attorneys consumed much time. The case was, however, finally cleared of all encumbrances, and a patent was issued to the settler and delivered to his attorney at Washington, who forwarded it to California. This gentleman has just received a letter from the administrator of Logwood's estate, who says that upon the receipt of the brief of the attorneys of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company Logwood, became dependent and perhaps insane. At all events, Logwood, he says, wound up by committing suicide, saying that he might have a show with one railroad, but could not possibly beat two.

This case is regarded at the Department as emphasizing the necessity for the contemplated action of the Department, under the order of the President in the Gilford Miller case, to remove the grasp of the railroad companies on public lands within railroad indemnity under indemnity withdrawals which as stated by Commissioner Sparks in his annual report to Congress, are used to compel settlers to purchase railroad waivers or relinquishments when the companies have no right to the land.

A Woman Killed.

It is with sorrow and deep regret that we are called upon to chronicle a terrible accident and loss of life following hard upon the close of the great celebration. Two sisters Carrie and Maggie Dursham, both of Lewisburg, attended the celebration here, witnessed the fire-works and repaired to the P. & E. depot, to take Erie mail East, which leaves here in company with many others for the arrival of the train, the sisters became separated, Maggie having walked across the tracks to the Gresh House, while Carrie remained on the depot platform a few minutes previous to the arrival of Erie mail, special train laden with G. A. R. men, westward bound came along steaming rapidly with no intention of stopping. Just as the train was about to pass the station, Carrie attempted to cross the tracks to join her sister, on the opposite side, when she was struck by the locomotive, hurled about fifty feet against a large bill board and fell to the ground a lifeless form. The engineer saw the accident and succeeded in stopping the train a short distance above Broadway. The lifeless form was raised from the ground and taken back to the depot when it was found that her neck and one leg was broken. Her death must have been instantaneous. Why she attempted to cross the tracks in front of the rapidly approaching locomotive is not known. An inquest was held and a verdict rendered in substance as noted above. The remains were taken to Lewisburg for interment. —Milton Argus.

Dr. McGlynn Excommunicated.

New York, July 9.—The Catholic News tomorrow will have the following:

To the Very Reverend Clergy and Faithful Laity of the Archdiocese of New York: Be it known that on the 4th day of May, 1887, the Sacred Congregation of the Propaganda admonished Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn, late rector of St. Stephen's Church in this city, that he had already rendered himself liable to ecclesiastical censure by disobeying the positive command of the Sovereign Pontiff, given January 17, 1887, wishing, however, to deal leniently with him the Sacred Congregation refrained from inflicting censure, and, offering him a further opportunity to be heard in his own behalf, gave him a final and peremptory order to present himself in Rome within forty days from the receipt of the letter containing such order, under pain of excommunication to be incurred ipso facto et nominalim.

This letter was duly delivered to Rev. Dr. McGlynn, and, as he allowed the days of grace to pass unheeded, it became our sad duty to notify him that he had incurred by his own act this penalty of excommunication by name, whereby he is cut off from the communion of the Church, from its sacraments and participation in its prayers, and, should he persevere in his contumacy, deprived of the right after death to Christian burial.

It has become also our duty to the clergy and laity of our charge, which we do by these letters, that Rev. Edward McGlynn is excommunicated nominalim, with all the penalties attached to this censure by the canons of the Church.

TUSSEYVILLE.

W. J. Wagner left Monday morning for Boalsburg, where he opened school the same day.

The people here are well pleased with the hospitality shown towards them by the people of Centre Hall, on July 4th and 10th.

The Bremen band Tusseyville, expects to hold a festival, July 29th and 30th. The proceeds to be used in getting uniforms. More next week.

Last week one day while J. A. Sweetwood, our road supervisor, had a gang of men on the road near John Lees'. Mr. Lee brought out a bucketfull of cider for the men, but before the men got to drink any of it the hogs got at it and drank it. The result was the hogs got drunk and the men remained sober. This should be a warning not to drink that cider.

S. H. Ditzell will open his select school in the Tussey Sink school house west of Tusseyville Monday, July 18th.

Rev. W. T. Auman of Millheim, a student in Franklin and Marshall College, preached a very able sermon in the Reformed church at this place Sunday July 3d.

Last week one evening a young gentleman from Spring Mills stopped at Tusseyville and inquired where it (Tusseyville) was. The writer would advise the gentleman to keep sober after this.

On the Fourth of July two of our young folks were made man and wife, the parties being William Taylor and Miss Della Colyer.

Adam Krumrine one of our enterprising farmers lost a good horse last Saturday.

Among the sick this week are Mrs. Elizabeth Gettig, Mrs. Sallie Kifae and Mrs. William Mulbarger.

Quite a number of our singers accompanied Prof. Bierly to Centre Hall last Sunday to attend the Children's Day, in the Evangelical church at that place.

The farmers have commenced harvesting, but the wheat is poor.

Miss Carrie Lawyer of Earlstown, spent a few days with her cousin Miss Blanche Deitzell last week.

Mrs. Amanda Spangler of Centre Hall, is staying with her mother-in-law a few days this week.

Sunday morning July 3d dawned very bright and with it began the preparation of the children and others, who wended their way to Zion's church Tusseyville, where Children's Day was observed by the Evangelical congregation. The following programme was given:

Promptly at 9:45, sweet notes from the organ told the people that the appointed time had arrived, after which the annual address by the pastor Rev. J. M. King, subject, Little Things, a solo entitled Tell it Again by Prof. Alfred Bierly, declamation by Naomi A. Swabb, Open Door; Minnie Colyer, The Blessing of Song; Annie E. Stover, One by One; select reading by Maude King, No Sects in Heaven; essay by Blanche Deitzell, Our Everyday Needs; The Starless Crown, by Minnie King, The Philosophers Seals, Lenora V. Swabb; Farewell Mother, Annie E. Horner; Father William, or a Moral Lesson, by Paul D. Swabb. In the evening Rev. King delivered an address on obedience. A collection was taken up which goes for the support of the Japan Mission of the Evangelical Association.

Miss Annie Dinges of Centre Hall presided at the organ throughout the day. She is a fine player and has made many friends at this place.

A Boy's Awful Death.

POTTSVILLE, July 12.—The fire in Ott's colliery is still raging though water and culm in great volumes are being poured into the mine. The ground about the mouth of the slope is caving in and serious apprehensions are entertained of the sinking of the engine house. Young Eddie Ferguson, a son of the outside boss, the lad who discovered the fire first, met an awful death at the scene this afternoon. He brought his father's dinner to him, and in crossing the floor of the engine room the charred boards gave way and the boy was precipitated into the burning mine. The recovery of the body was impossible, as even had it been possible that it escaped instant annihilation, the outburst of the flames caused by the collapse of the engine house rendered the approach to the opening out of all question.

St. Louis, Mo., July 11.—Interest in the President's Western visit has intensified and spread over the State since his letter withdrawing his acceptance of the invitation to visit St. Louis. The citizens have determined to bring a strong influence to bear on him and a number of letters have been received by Mayor Francis from persons in various parts of the State urging another appeal. Accordingly, with the idea of obtaining a more general expression of opinion, the Mayor has issued an address to the people of Missouri requesting every county to appoint one or more representatives to join a St. Louis committee and to accompany it to Washington to bear the invitation. The committee will probably start from here next Monday and reach Washington about the time the President shall return from New York.
