Miss Dauvray's Brother Arrested.

NEW YORK, October 14.—Adolph Gibson is in trouble. Adolph is the brother of Helen Dauvray, the actress, who has just married John M. Ward, the base ball player. He was arraigned at the Yorkville Police Court this morning on a charge of criminal assault preferred by Mrs. Ann Allen, a domestic in the house No. 49 Park avenue, which is the joint residence of Mr. Gibson, Miss Dauvray and her sister, Mrs. Clara A. Helm, who own the house. The offense is alleged to have been committed in the house at four o'clock yesterday morning, when all the family were in Philadelphia attending the Ward-Dauvray nuptials, and there was no one in the house excepting the accused and the complainant.

Mrs. Allen, who has two children in an institution and whose husband is in Nova Scotia, is a small plump woman, twenty-two years old. She says that two weeks ago Gibson took some liberties with her, which she resented, while she was engaged caring for a sick child. On Tuesday last Gibson insulted her again on a staircase in the house and resisted him so forcibly that his eye-glasses were broken in the encounter. She told a servant in the house about it and told her she was afraid to sleep upstairs because there was no lock on the door. Annie slept on the top floor and the servant she spoke to slept in the basement. The servant told her that if Gibson tried to annoy her again to ring a bell connecting with the basement and she would come to her assistance and with that assurance Annie continued to occupy the room.

At 4 o'clock yesterday morning she says Gibson entered the room. He gagged her most effectually by thrusting the bed clothing into her mouth, nearly smothering her. She struggled successfully for nearly an hour, and then, with her body a mass of bruises, and her strength nearly or quite exhausted, she became helpless. She left the house as soon afterward as she was able, and is stopping with a friend at No. 322 West Forty-fourth street. She applied at once for a warrant for Gibson's arrest, and he was arrested by Officer Ketchell, of the Yorkville Court squad. Lawyer Elias G. Levy demanded an examination for Gibson, which was set down for the 24th inst. by Justice Murray.

Helen Dauvray's sister, Mrs. Clara A. Helm, gave the house No. 49 Park avenue as security for her brother's appearance, and he was released. He pleaded not guilty, but made no further statement.

A Texas Car Jumper.

EL PASO, TEX., October 16.—The body of another of the robbers who attempted to rob the express car on the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio road was brought in yesterday. It appears that when the robbers blew open the express car they called upon the messenger to come out. A clerk of Wells, Fargo & Co. was with Messenger Smith, and when the firing commenced they extinguished the lights in the cars. At the command of the robbers they came out, Smith leaving his revolver just inside the door. The robbers searched them and ordered them to re-enter the car and light it up. Smith climbed back and at the same time seized his pistol and shot the foremost robber, who was following him, killing him instantly. The messenger then got his gun and fired upon the other robber as he was trying to place the dead body of his comrade on the engine. The robber, apparently wounded, ran out of sight. His body was found the next morning less than fifty yards from the scene. The robbers are unknown here.

Pronounced a Hoax.

NASHVILLE, TENN., Oct. 16.—The story telegraphed from Memphis to Chicago News about the attempted wrecking of the president's train by burning a trestle is hoaxed and laughed at by the correspondents who have been with the president during his trip. They say nothing of the kind occurred at any time. The president and Mrs. Cleveland spent the day quietly at Belle Meade mansion, the guest of General Jackson. Accompanied by their hosts, they took a stroll over the beautiful farm, visiting the deer park. While they stood upon a knoll taking in the enchanting beauty of the scene a drove of more than two hundred deer were driven past them in review.

To Speak English or Go.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., October 16.—The Union Coal Company issued orders to their mine foreman to remove all persons working in the mines who are unable to speak and understand the English language. Through the inability of men not understanding English, orders are frequently misunderstood, causing serious accidents and endangering the lives of all. The Hungarians and Poles will not suffer most.

The Knights in Convention.

SHAMOKIN, Oct. 16.—The Knights of Labor convention which convened here to-day was attended by three hundred delegates representing the employees of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad. The work performed by the convention was the definite settlement of the color blind test. The present action of the company in reference to color blindness was favorably regarded. The convention passed resolutions condemning the action of the coal operators in their treatment of the striking miners. The members contributed liberally themselves and called upon the National assembly to furnish $20,000 for the support of the strikers, and asked the citizens of the Lehigh region to withdraw support from the Lehigh Valley railroad until matters had been amicably settled. The members expressed themselves as pleased with the existing relations with their employers. Adjourned to meet at Elizabeth, N. J., Dec. 13.

The President's Trip.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., October 15.—For the past two days a series of unfortunate happenings has accompanied the president's progress, terminating in the sudden death of Judge Elliott on the platform at the reception of the President, while the latter was replying to the address of welcome. The first accident occurred yesterday morning just before the train passed through Mountain Grove Mo. Great preparations had been made to fire salutes. A few minutes after seven o'clock, while awaiting the train, a fruit jar filled with powder exploded, fatally injuring two young men named Beckwith and Clark. The train did not stop, and the party passed on ignorant of the sad accident.

The President was virtually mobbed on his arrival here last night. Never before was he so jammed, squeezed and crushed in any of the crowds that have awaited him and when he retired last night it was with a feeling of utter weariness. The presidential party started from the hotel at 10 o'clock this morning, and in half an hour reached the large stand in the centre of Court Square. It was surrounded by 50,000 people, and upon it stood the reception committee, gathered around Judge Henry T. Elliott, of the Chancery Court who had been selected because of his age and his prominence in the community, to make the formal address of welcome. He had only a few moments before finished his remarks and was listening to Mr. Cleveland's response when he was overcome by the heat. The spot was an exposed one and the sun was very strong. The judge sat down and in a few seconds fell from his chair. Dr. Bryant, the President's traveling companion, assisted by Postmaster General Vilas and Colonel Robert F. Looney, caught him as he was in the act of falling to the platform.

Several gentlemen of the entertainment committee who were seated in close proximity aided in the efforts that were being made to restore him to consciousness. Three or four of the ladies spread their fans and did all in their power to revive him. Water was thrown in his face and stimulents administered. Dr. Kennedy Jones came to the assistance of Dr. Bryant and the two worked with the prostrate and unconscious form, but without avail. President Cleveland, who had just finished his address, stood looking at the efforts that were being made to revive the venerable jurist, with sad and sympathetic countenance, while Mrs. Cleveland seemed deeply affected. The presidential party had left the platform before Dr. Bryant sadly arose from over the body and turning to an acquaintance, remarked: "Let us join the President's party." In answer to the inquiry, "What is the matter with Judge Elliott?" Dr. Bryant responded: "He fainted and his not yet recovered consciousness." This was said to dispel the shadow of gloom that otherwise might have been cast upon the festivities had the true condition of the stricken man been made known. The President is greatly shocked by the intelligence of the death of Judge Elliott, whom he met for the first time yesterday. He expresses the warmest sympathy with the bereaved family.

Dr. Bryant says he found no signs of life when he reached the unfortunate man's side, but he said nothing until he was relieved a few minutes later by two local physicians. To these he said the judge was dead. The immense multitude who witnessed the incident did not realize that death had come among them. They made a rush for the exposition building where the reception was being held, leaving to the few friends of the judge the sad duty of carrying his remains across the street, from where they were soon afterwards taken to his home on Shelby street.

In a Living Tomb.

NEW YORK, October 17.—A four-story building in course of erection at 443 East One-hundred-and-Fifteenth street, to be used as a school house, tumbled in this afternoon about 4 o'clock, and many workmen were buried in the ruins. The building had reached the fourth story. It was intended as a Parochial School for the parish of the church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel. At the time there were over twenty men on the building at work, and they were all buried in the ruins. The search was at once commenced, and at 6 o'clock this evening six dead bodies had been taken from the ruins.

Four men were taken out seriously wounded and almost suffocated. The supposition is that there still are fourteen men underneath the debris. Most of the workmen were engaged in the lower part of the building at the time of the accident. The side walls fell in immediately after the front wall gave way.

The workmen were all Italians, and the school house was intended for the education of Italian children. Hook and ladder companies and numerous citizens are searching the ruins for the men still unaccounted for. There are no sounds to be heard from the wreck, and it is supposed those still buried are all dead.

Burned to Powder.

CHICAGO, October 13.—Special dispatches to the Chicago papers to-day, as to the extent of the Chicago and Atlantic horror, confirm the Associated Press report direct from Koutz the day of the disaster.

The Inter-Ocean has a particularly significant interview with Dr. C. H. McClure, of Boon Grove, who with Dr. McKee, of Koutz, was active in attending the sufferers at the wreck, in which he says: "Those remains which were recovered are of persons who were sitting on the seats near windows, and fell outwards when the charred frame work fell to pieces, but those who were sitting inside and whose remains fell on the rails were burned to powder, and not a vestige of them, except perhaps a few pieces of bone, would be found. The heat between these rails was sufficient to have calcined and destroyed all the remains. In such a heat, when the charred mass cooled it would go to powder by embers falling on it, and nothing would be known of them."

"I was told by one of the wreckers that he saw little heaps of bones, and this was corroborated by the statements of others, and doubtless that was all that remained of those who fell between the tracks, for when heat is sufficient to make the rails underneath red hot, and to warp and bend in every conceivable shape, it is almost intense as in a crematory."

AT LEAST SIXTEEN CREMATED.—Dr. McClure states the number burned to death as "at least sixteen or eighteen." Of the wounded he speaks definitely, and his total is even higher than the press estimate. Dr. McClure says: At Miller's hotel, in Koutz, after the accident, there were seven ladies and ten men, making seventeen in all. I got the name and address of the lady mentioned in the press report as having done the most heroic work at the wreck, helping others to escape. Here it is: 'Mrs. John Wensinger, Carey, Wyandotte county, Ohio.'

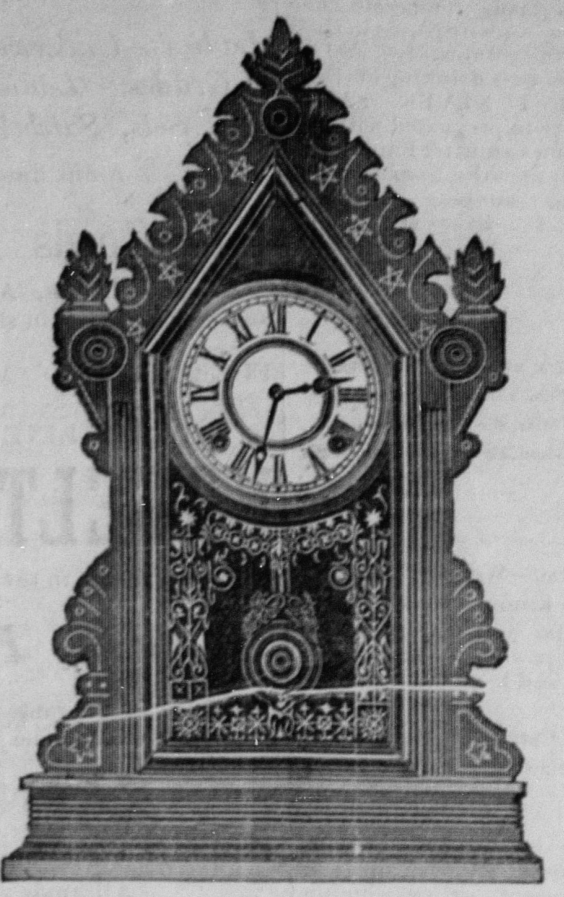

J. A. Frederic, who lives at Koutz and failed to get aboard the train at Hammond, said he knew there were over fifty passengers aboard the train when it left Hammond.

The Daily News has a special from Wabash, saying: Lew Thorn, a well-known traveling man, interviewed the porter of the rear Pullman car on the train wrecked at Koutz. The porter stated that the tickets in possession of the conductor showed that nineteen passengers were missing. The porter himself counted fifteen bodies, all burned to a crisp.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Chauncey M DePew, the New York Central President, whose prediction of a panic owing to too much real estate, speculation and railroad building caused such a sensation yesterday, arrived here at 1 o'clock this afternoon on a special train. He says the interview telegraph to the Herald was exaggerated. The speculation is only in a few Western boom towns and railroad excessive in those localities only. The several outlooks of the country is brilliant, he says.
