Horrible Tragedy.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct.—A shocking tragedy occurred in the suburbs of this city at 10 o'clock this morning. About a year ago Henry Shaffner, a widower, about 44 years of age, married Mrs. Smedley, a widow, aged 56. Shaffner was comparatively well off, but of a enourous and morose disposition, and the couple never lived harmoniously. Mrs. Shaffner had left her husband several months ago on account of abuse, and had intended leaving him again to-day. They occupied a small dwelling at 741 Walnut street alleppa. This morning the next-door neighbors heard the couple quarrelling and shortly afterward the report of several pistol shots. Rushing in they found the door of the upstairs room locked, and breaking it open, discovered Mrs. Shaffner lying on her face in the garret stairway with a bullet wound in the back, and as if by her husband lying upon her or shot in the mouth. Both were dead. Near the body of Shaffner lay a revolver with four chambers empty. The victim leaves a family of children.

Cambria County the Scene of a Terrible Tragedy.

Another murder has been committed in Cambria county, making three which have occurred within less than ten months. The first was the killing of Samuel Gregg by George Aukerbauer, on December 25, 1886, in Gallitzen; the second was Michael Kunz man, who was killed in the same town on March 26, 1887, by Jacob Wilson; and now a third added to the list. Tunnel hill is a suburb of Gallitzen, being distant from it a half mile or more east. Thomas Stanley's house stands near the Blair county line, and to his home on Tuesday Stanley went much worse from the numerous potatoes in which he had indulged. On his arrival he began quarreling with his wife and, it is said beat her. To escape from her enraged and liquor maddened husband, Mrs. Stanley fled from the house to go to a neighbor's. Her husband followed and with a double-barreled gun which he took with him shot her in the left side, from the effects of which she died half an hour afterward. At the time of the shooting the murderer was in Blair county while his victim was in Cambria county.

The news of the awful tragedy soon spread, and officers quickly arrested the murderer, and the same night lodged him in jail at Ebensburg. Stanley is about 55 years of age, while his wife was 50. Both had been married before Mrs. Stanley's former name having been Mrs. Dillen. She leaves three sons, all of whom reside in the neighborhood of Gallitzen. The murderer has two grown up sons and one daughter. The deceased was respected and greatly liked by all who knew her, and her tragic death has caused a deep sorrow throughout the entire community. A post mortem examination was made of her body yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Stanley was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic church at Gallitzen, and her funeral will take place this morning.

A Frightful Explosion at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Oct. 19.—A terrible explosion of natural gas occurred here to-day with frightful effect. When the explosion occurred the guests in the Hotel Albermarle became panic stricken and several were slightly injured in making their escape from the building. A number of persons, who were confined to their beds with typhoid fever, were carried from the hospital to places of safety. The exposure may seriously retard their recovery. Fifteen persons in all were injured, five of them it is feared fatally. A complete list of the injured so far as learned is as follows: Jacob Diao, hurt internally, badly bruised and one leg and arm broken, will die; Thomas Yanlan, badly burned about the head, legs and hands, injuries may prove fatal; Mike Mabrasi, Italian, severely burned about the hands, face and back, may die; Henry Blake, colored, injured internally, will die; H. T. Fellick, injured internally, and face badly cut by flying glass, may not recover; John Felick, cut by glass about the face and hands, nose cut almost off; Leon Kachurki, employee of D. T. Reed, injured in the back; Gus Batte, a member of Engine Company No. 1, struck in the face by falling timbers, injuries not serious; an unknown woman was blown into the gutter and severely hurt; G. G. Nichols, editor of the People's Advocate, was blown into the middle of the street and severely cut and bruised, not dangerous; John Mulberry, colored, fearfully burned about the head, face and hands, may die; a colored man was slightly burned about the hands and face; Michael Humphries, arms and head severely burned, will recover; Charles Meyers, broken shoulder blade; Joe Ceadine, Italian laborer, burned about the head and shoulders, and injured internally, very seriously.

A careful inquiry made at the scene of the disaster this afternoon shows beyond doubt that the explosion was caused by the ignition of the Peoples Company gas while workmen were making a connection in the basement of Feick's establishment.

Professional Window Gazers.

Two young men who spend the day and a large part of the evening on Chestnut street are paid to do so. They are both well known figures, and generally they travel together. They are professional window gazers. The young men, in common with everybody else, know that to attract a crowd to a window, all one has to do is stop and gaze into that window. In a short time ten or a dozen people will be gazing with him. They were down to hard pan—on their uppers, so to speak.

One of them went to the proprietor of a mens furnishing house on Chestnut street and told to him that for so much a week he would guarantee to attract more attention to his window than all the displays that could be laid out. The proprietor was struck with the idea and gave it a trial. As a consequence there was a crowd at his window nearly all the time. The young man would walk up to the window with his friend and stand gazing there until a crowd of a dozen or fifteen were standing with them. To keep the crowd moving he would walk away and that started a break in the crowd. The performance was repeated every ten or fifteen minutes. The young man went to other stores along the street, unfolded his plan and pointed out the success of it. In a short time he had the whole street from Ninth to Broad on his beat, and he had to take his friend to partnership and he makes plenty of money.

If other window gazers do not get on to the idea and into the business these two originators will shortly establish branches of the "Gazers" in other cities.—Philadelphia News.

A Murderer Lynched.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 22.—A mob of two hundred men attacked the jail at Delphi, Carral county, early this morning to reach Amer Green, who is charged with murdering Miss Luella Mabbit. Green had until Wednesday been in prison at Michigan city, as a precaution against lynching, but that day he was brought to Delphi.

The sheriff had taken no precautions when the assault was made and only had the deputy sheriff to assist him. The mob hammered in the wooden door and twenty masked men demanded the keys of the jail proper. This was refused and with a hammer and cold chisel the mob brokethe locks and forced open the doors. Green wrenched off a piece of water pipe and tried to defend himself, but he was overpowered and taken from his cell. He was placed in a wagon and driven out of town in the direction of Walnut Grove, where the murdered girl lived. There the execution took place.

Still More Mysterious.

PHILADELPHIA, October 23.—The Rahway murder mystery grows more mysterious. Two or three days ago the clothing and jewelry of the girl who was murdered last March were positively identified as those of Annie Ingram who, after being married in Scotland, came to this country where she indulged in a couple of marital ventures the last being with a tramp weaver named Frank Credeford. Credeford was arrested here on Friday night on suspicion of being connected with the woman's murder. When he was brought into the police court yesterday, there came also Annie Ingram herself, alive and well. It then came out that the pair had separated not long after their marriage, and that about two months ago Annie, without having resorted to the formality of a divorce had again indulged her propensity for taking husbands by marrying James Melchman. The prisoners were allowed to go, but Chief Wood cautioned the woman against taking any more husbands until she was a widow in every sense of the term.

ASTONISHING what a lot of letters are written from Democrats to the Republican ring organ and all written in that office. We rather suspect that a "Bald Eagle Democrat" and an "observing Democrat" are one and the same man and letters of his name if properly put together spell Feidler.

Death of ex-Sheriff Rowan.

PHILADELPHIA, October 19.—Ex-Sheriff William Elwood Rowan who for many years had been a prominent figure in politics, died at his residence this morning. He was elected sheriff in 1885, and shortly after became insane and was removed from his office by the governor last winter.

The Monument to McClellan.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—It is not likely that the monument to the memory of General George B. McClellan will be erected this year. The fund now amounts to $7,000. This will purchase a larger shaft than the McClellan plot in River-view cemetery, at Trenton N. J., will accommodate and it is the intention of the Trustees of the fund to await the arrival of Mrs. McClellan from Italy. She will decide whether to accept a larger plot of ground which the cemetery company has offered on which to erect the monument.

Hon E B. Washburne Dead

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Hon. Elihu B. Washburne died here to-night, the result of an apoplectic stroke received about a month ago. Mr Washburne was born at Livermore, Me., on September 23, 1836. His grandfathers were Revolutionary soldiers, and Israel Washburne, his father, was a man of simple habits, and firm convictions and sterling integrity, while the career of his sons reflected honor upon him. Israel, the oldest, was for ten years a Representative in Congress from Maine, twice Governor of the State and for twelve years Collector of the Port of Portland; Cadwallider sat in Congress from Wisconsin for ten years, served during the war with courage, coming out a Major General, and for two years was Governor of his State; William, the youngest of the seven brothers, one of the most enterprising and successful business men in the great Northwest, was a Representative in Congress from Minnesota, and till another, Charles A., was Minister to Paraguay for seven years by the appointment of President Lincoln.

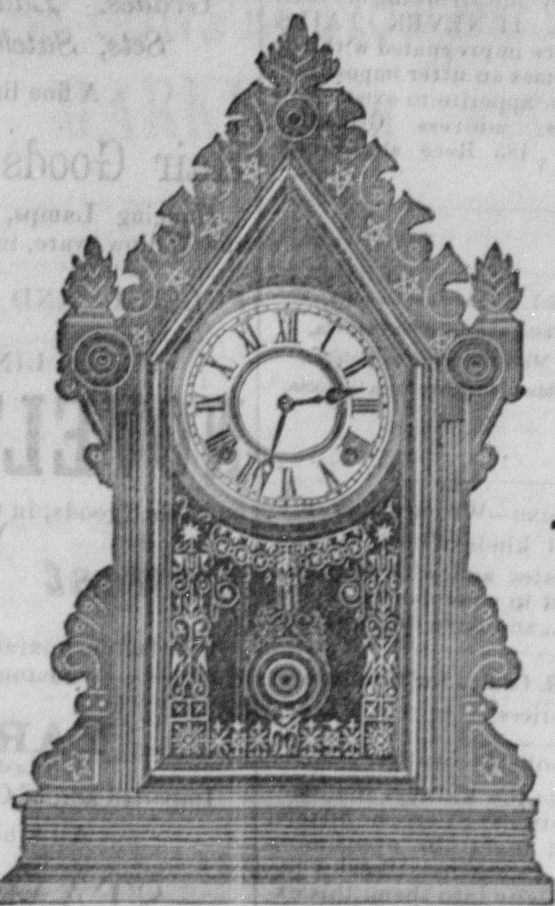

Elihu, the third in age, owed much of his education to an apprenticeship in a printing office, though before seeking his fortune in the west he attended the Cambridge (Mass.) Law School. In the early summer of 1840 he was at Gaiena, Ill., where he quickly succeeded in his profession and went to the front in politics as a Whig. In 1852 he was first elected to Congress, and was continuously re-elected seven times until he had become "the Father of the House." He took a front rank in the discussion of all the questions that arose during the great epoch in history covered by his terms of service in Congress, from 1852 to 1868. He was early in the late war instrumental in having Colonel U. S. Grant named as the first of the nine Brigadier Generals to whom Illinois was entitled.

When General Grant was first elected President he chose Mr. Washburne for Secretary of State without consulting him about it. He did not desire the place, but accepted and held it for a month, when he resigned, and was succeeded by Hon. Hamilton Fish. Mr. Washburne was soon afterward appointed Minister to France, a position which he held when the Franco-Prussian war broke out, and his discharge of his duties under the trying circumstances which surrounded himself quitted Paris when the Comunique came—terms no small or unknown part of the history of that great struggle.

Since his return from abroad Mr. Washburne had made his home in Chicago, quietly resting after twenty-five years of laborious public service. His habits were simple, and his library was his favorite resort. It has been said of him that he came out of Congress at the end of his sixteen years' term and reviled by the lobby.
