—A SOUND LEGAL OPINION—E. Baird, bridge Munday Esq., County Atty., Clay Co., Tex. says: Have used Electric Bitters with most satisfactory results. My brother also was very low with Malarial Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life.

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters. This great remedy will ward off as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequalled. Price 50c. and $1, at J. Zeller & Son.

Frightful Collision in the English Channel.

133 LIVES ARE LOST.
LONDON, November 20.—The Dutch steamer W. A. Schollen, which left Rotterdam yesterday for New York, was sunk by a collision with the steamer Rosa Maria at 11 o'clock last night ten miles off Dover.

The Schollen carried a complement of 230 passengers with the crew. The steamer Ebro rescued ninety of the crew and passengers and landed them at the Sailors' Home Dover. One hundred and forty of the passengers are missing. One passenger and child of the party brought to Dover were found dead from exposure. It is hoped that passing vessels have rescued the missing ones. Boats have left Dover bound in all directions for the purpose of saving life and property if possible. The Rosa Maria is anchored off Ramsgate with her bow stove. Up to 5 p. m. twenty-two bodies have been landed at Dover.

WAKENED ONLY TO DIE.

Immediately after the shock was felt, the Schollen's passengers, all of whom had retired for the night, rushed on the deck in their night gowns. The boats were promptly ordered to be lowered, but it was found that only two were available. The three others were useless and were not lowered. Water rushed swiftly through the hole in the bow and a terrible scene ensued. The panic-stricken passengers uttered piercing shrieks and many fell upon their knees and prayed aloud. Little children clung to their mothers, who themselves were shrieking with terror, but the steamer's officers were cool and self-possessed, and remained on the bridge to the last. A number of persons procuring life belts leaped into the sea. Within twenty minutes of the shock the Schollen was engulfed. All those who had put on life belts floated and were rescued by boats from the steamer Ebro, which cruised around until 5 o'clock in the morning. Many of the rescued lost their wives, husbands, brothers, and sisters. The survivors were supplied with clothes and everything possible was done to ensue their comfort.

132 DROWNED OR MISSING.

According to the latest statement there were 210 persons on board the Schollen, leaving 132 drowned and missing.

SEARCHING FOR BODIES.

The body of River Bell has been identified. No bodies were recovered during this morning because the tide was running to the Eastward, but many were brought back with the ebb. Darkness prevented the recovery of more bodies but many boats and tugs have been put to sea on the chance of picking up others in the morning. Many of those whose bodies have been recovered look as though they had been frozen to death.

The Sham of the World.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage says: "One of the great trials of the newspaper profession is that its members are compelled to see more of the shams of the world than any other profession. Through every newspaper office, day after day, go all the weaknesses of the world—all the vanities that want to be puffed, all the revenges that want to be reaped, all the mistakes that want to be corrected all the dull speakers that want to be thought eloquent, all the meanness that wants to get its wares noticed 'gratis' in the editorial columns in order to save the tax of the advertising columns, all men who want to be set right who never were right; all the cracked-brained philosophers with stories as long as their hair and as gloomy as their finger-nails, in mourning because bereft of soap—all the bores who come in to stay five minutes, but talk five hours. Through the editorial and reportorial rooms all the follies and shams of the world are seen day after day, and the temptation is not to believe in God, man or woman. It is no surprise to me that in this profession there are some skeptical men; I only wonder that newspaper men believe anything."

The Coming Postmaster General.

Don M. Dickinson, who seems to have "the call" now for postmaster general, is described as a man who at first sight might be taken for an Episcopal rector, but who, on closer inspection, shows signs of sharper contact with the world than a religious teacher has. His face is sharp but not lacking in flesh. His eyes are keen, giving him the appearance of being always on the alert, and when he smiles his thin lips uncover a fine set of teeth. The first thing noticed about his smile is the amount of ivory in it. He is rather tall, and not conspicuously slim, and his suit of black is scrupulously neat. He is quick in his movements and affable in his manners. He is of the old Dickinson family of Massachusetts, and is a son of Asa Dickinson. He was born in Auburn, N. Y., and went to Michigan with his parents in his early youth. He was educated there and graduated in law in 1869. He practiced with his brother, who, leaving the state, turned all the practice over to him. Since then he has built up a large practice. His reputation is that of a reliable lawyer, and his practice is said to yield from $40,000 to $50,000 per year. He was a Greeley man, and in 1876 was chairman of the state democratic committee. In 1884 he was chosen a member of the national committee which worked for the election of Cleveland.

A Woman Probably Murdered.

PITTSBURGH, November 17.—A Chronicle Telegraph Youngstown, Ohio, special says: Early this morning workmen discovered the nude remains of a young woman lying in a shallow pool of water just outside the city, near the track of the Hazleton & Leontia railway. The remains were identified as those of Mabel Patterson, alias Nellie Shipley. Yesterday morning she was arraigned before Mayor Steele on a charge of drunkenness, and discharged on promising to leave the city.

Last night she visited several saloons, in company with a stranger, but the parties assert when last seen she was not intoxicated. The girl was 20 years of age and lived in Warren, O. Her clothing was found near the naked body. Its condition indicated a struggle, and that after being choked to death her body had been thrown in the pool of water. A searching investigation is being made by the coroner.
