The verdict was then handed to the clerck by the foreman. Emanuel Robbins, then handed it to the Judge. His Honor after opening and reading it, then returned the paper to the clerk who also read it and said : Gentlemen of the Jury, you find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree. So say you all." The securely manacled. The entire evidence as reported daily is too lengthy for publication, so we only publish that which is most interesting to our readers. It is said to have been fair in all its details, and every reasonable doubt thrown in favor of the defendant, but against this the evidence was so conclusive that only one ballot was required by the jury to arrive at a verdict of murder in the first degree. -This is the country where anarchism can't flourish unmolested; when parties accept our government and freedom as their protection, whether they are foreigners or not, they are bound to accept the laws also. And when they commence to preach their crazy ideas and attempt to trample upon our Republican institutions, they find that we are not only a liberty loving, but a law abiding people, of this they have had strangled evidence.

-The story is a short one, but the lesson taught is good. He would not invest his money at home, was of no use to his town, or his fellow-man. Wanted to make money by the thousands, saw "millions in it," every place but in Bellefonte. Invested-bottom dropped out of Santa Barbara. Oh, Santa Barbara, where art thou? The Old Man had a Gun.

CINCINNATI, Dec., 7 .- A special from Piqua, Ohio, tells of a terrible tragedy at a farm house, two miles from that city, on Monday night between 9 and 10 o'clock, While Mr. John H. Wolfe was sitting at home with his two sisters. they were alarmed by the sound of heavy strokes on the front door. The door soon gave way and Mr. Wolfe sprang to the door of the sitting room. locked it and braced himself against it just as it was assailed in the same man-

One of his sisters ran for the loaded double-barreled shot gun and placed it in her brothers hands just as the door yielded and revealed two masked mep. the foremost of whom leveled a revolver at Mr. Wolfe. The revelver and shot gun were discharged almost simultaneously. The robber's aim missed and shattered a glass on the table. Mr. Wolfe's shot took effect and the remaining robber seized his wounded companion and dragged him off.

Mr. Wolfe's second barrel hung fire. He then bolted and barricaded the doors, unable to call help and afraid to leave the house. After a horrible night he went out in the morning and found the dead man not twenty yards away. In the afternoon the coroner removed the mask and found a young man, supposed to be a canal boatman. A sharp butcher knife was in his possession. No clew has yet been found to his companion. Murder and robbery were undoubtedly intended.
