

PLEASANTRIES.

THE PRETTY GIRL SWEARS OFF. That I've done wrong my conscience tells; Henceforth, while reason holds her seat, I'll give up eating caramels.

A NARROW ESCAPE. "Speaking of mushrooms and toad-stools, gentlemen," chined in the leveller, "a friend of mine not long ago gathered a quantity of what he supposed were mushrooms, and took 'em home. His wife cooked 'em, and the whole family ate heartily of 'em."

TIMELY ASSURANCE. "You needn't be afraid of disturbing me, John," said the calm voice of Mrs. John at the hour of 3 o'clock a. m.

LITTLE SMILES. The rabbit is timid, but no cook can make it quail.—Puck.

"The rich," said a Jew, "eat venison because it is deer; I eat mutton because it is a sheep."

A choking sensation.—The latest gag.—New Haven News.

A fit climax.—When a hysterical cat breathes a valuable vase.—New Haven News.

There is something very funny about a pig's tail. Probably because brevity is the soul of wit.—Puck.

The Baltimore American remarks that every age has its gladiators. Yes, even the sausage.—Atlanta Constitution.

For delicious titillating anticipation, ending in blank, empty nothingness, an unsuccessful proposal of marriage may best be compared with one of those sneezes that won't come off.—Puck.

Nothing will turn a woman's head so completely as a bonnet that has passed by.—Puck.

SAUSAGE-GROUNDING POETRY. If you go to the theater Or the opera Or the concert You will always get up Two minutes before the curtain goes down And rush out of the house as if

It were on fire. The man who can write a play that will keep Chi-cho audience seated until the curtain comes down really will make a fortune.—Chicago Mail.

Early Rising.

Early rising is sometimes a good thing, and then again it is not. It depends very much on what your business is, and what is your temperament. If you are a newspaper carrier or milkman, or if you are a factory hand or farmer, you will have to get up early; so you will if you live in the country and must take an early train into town.

Many a child who needs sleep in the morning is persistently started out of bed by its parents to its permanent detriment of body and mind.

And again, many a parent who needs sleep in the morning is persistently started out of bed by its early-rising child, to the parent's discomfort, and to the detriment of both parent and child.

To "rise with the lark and lie down with the lamb" is unquestionably a good rule for the lower orders of creation, but some of us are very different from both larks and lambs, and need different hours of getting up and lying down.

The best thing for each of us to do is to do the best thing for each of us—whatever that may be; and not to let lambs and larks settle the rule for us severally.

"Jersey Justice" in Africa.

A few words, now, on the fetich doctor, or medicine man, the N'ganga of the negro, who is also priest, physician, and chief justice. If any one in the village dies, the negroes, who cannot comprehend that any one should die a natural death, believe that he must have been killed by enchantment or by the evil influence of some other person; in short, that another person was the cause of his death. It is N'ganga's business to find out who this person is. He consults with the spirit by moonlight, and communicates the result of his interview to the people. The accused person is then subjected to the trial by cross. Cross is the bark of a large tree, and contains a very strong poison. The delinquent is forced to drink a solution of this bark, which has been prepared by the N'ganga. If he vomits the draught up immediately he is innocent; but if it remains in his stomach he must die. In this case the negroes never wait for the operation of the poison, but fall upon him with sticks and stones, or drive the life out of him in some still more savage way. The issue of the trial by cross is of course with the N'ganga, and if the delinquent can pay enough, that functionary will probably save his life.

"My love, I'm happy to inform you I've insured my life." Mrs. H.: "Then you ought to be ashamed of such a selfish action. Insure your own life, indeed!—it doesn't matter about a life, it's up to you."

Organs and Pianos.

The Cabinet Organ was introduced by Mason & Hamlin in 1861. Mason & Hamlin Organs have always maintained their supremacy over all others, having received Highest Honors at all Great World's Exhibitions since 1867.

The Improved Mode of Stringing Pianos, invented by Mason & Hamlin in 1862, is a great advance in piano construction, experts pronouncing it "the greatest improvement in pianos in half a century."
