

REFUSED TO GIVE TIPS.

A QUARANTINE OUTRAGE AT NEW ORLEANS.

Mrs. Warren C. Uckles, daughter of Col. Isaac McNulty, of New York city, passed through Washington Tuesday night on her way from Costa Rica, via New Orleans, to New York.

She was traveling alone and gives an account of her experience in New Orleans, which she is confident she would never have been obliged to endure but for her unprotected situation.

Her husband is a wealthy coffee planter on Costa Rica. Mrs. Uckles, having lived on the island for some time, resolved to visit her father in New York, and accordingly sailed for New Orleans on the steamer Foxhall.

A FUMIGATING OUTRAGE.

Arriving at the quarantine station on the Mississippi Jetties, on Thursday last, the local officials came aboard to fumigate the baggage of the passengers. Opening the trunks of Mrs. Uckles they proceeded to fumigate their contents by the steam process.

Mrs. Uckles was forced to submit to the outrage, but managed to save a few articles by threatening to throw them overboard rather than have them ruined. She declares that it was quite openly intimated to her that a few tips would save her wardrobe, but she was too angry to attempt such pacific measures.

RUINED DRESSES.

Wringing the water from her ruined dresses, Mrs. Uckles repacked them as best she could, intending to make a complaint to the customs authorities upon her arrival at New Orleans. When the vessel reached its dock, however, she was just in time to make the Northbound train.

A YOUNG LADY MISSING.

Fashionable circles of Walnut street are terribly excited over the sudden and mysterious disappearance of Miss Catharine Augusta Hay from the residence of her sister Mrs. W. S. Fox, on Twentieth street, between Walnut and Chestnut.

A CONGRESSIONAL AIR-SHIP.

The House committee on ventilation and acoustics to day instructed its chairman, Mr. Landes, to report to the House a bill appropriating $150,000 to be paid as a bounty to A. de Bane, when he shall have completed and successfully demonstrated the practicability of his invention of an air-ship.

The House committee on ventilation and acoustics to day instructed its chairman, Mr. Landes, to report to the House a bill appropriating $150,000 to be paid as a bounty to A. de Bane, when he shall have completed and successfully demonstrated the practicability of his invention of an air-ship.

News About Town.

It is the current report about town that Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs is making some remarkable cures with people who are troubled with Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Any druggist will give you a trial bottle free of cost.

In Germany during a year are made 640,000 real meerschaum pipes, 500,000 imitation meerschaum and 220,000,000 wooden pipes.

LAST SEEN GETTING ON A CAR.

The last trace of her was lost when she boarded a Chestnut street car at Nineteenth and Chestnut streets to go to the Ferry on her way to her father's house. Inquiry was made at the Market street ferry, but the gate man couldn't say that he remembered any one answering the description of Miss Hay in the big crowds which constantly cross on the boats.

Telegrams were sent to friends in other cities asking for any information of Catharine, but no clue to her whereabouts was discovered. By chance Mr. Fox read a paragraph in a newspaper giving an account of a young woman who was found at the Union Dep't in Omaha, Neb., who was wandering aimlessly around and was supposed to be demented.

SEVERAL FALSE CLUES.

When he arrived in Omaha he found the woman was much taller and stouter than Miss Hay. He hurried back to this city on the next train. While he was away the police were notified and Central Station detectives were detailed on the case. Photographs were sent and the description telegraphed to all the principal cities and a thorough search of the hospitals and asylums in this city and Camden was made no trace of the young lady was found.

Elopers Sure Enough.

"There had been an account of an elopement in the morning papers," said the commercial traveler, "and I was thinking of it when a couple drove up to the country hotel and registered, 'Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So.' I winked at the boys and said: 'Here's for a joke.' The old hotel keeper was a very dear friend of mine and took my word for gospel truth, so when I said: 'Look out for 'em! I think I know 'em, and they are eloping and they are not married,' etc., you ought to have seen the old fellow. He scowled and lifted his chin, and wagged it up and down half a dozen times, sort of as though he was thinking it over, and then he walked off. All the other boys in the house were put on to the job and we agreed to watch the old man and see what he did.

KILLED BY TOUCHING AN ELECTRIC WIRE.

In Stuben Park, N. Y., a broken wire from some unknown cause hung from an electric light wire and extended nearly to the ground, terminating in a sort of crook. Several young men standing around dared each other to touch it. Finally Thomas Murphy, aged 16 years, a tinner apprentice, reached for the wire with a short stick immediately, as his companions say, he seemed to be drawn toward the suspended wire and then fell down. He died in a few minutes.

Teapot and Panich Bowl.

Afternoon teas are filling up the remaining days of the season at Washington and the depot and punch bowl still "draws" as the theater people put it. A lackadaisical youth who was making eyes and saying awful things in a languid way to a pretty assistant at a reception was handed a glass of punch to change the conversation. Tasting the compound, he rolled his eyes up, and said: "This punch is a symphony." He was only equalled by a Kansas man who was taken to one of Mrs. Cockrell's receptions, and being given her famous punch did not know whether it was a symphony or not. In fact, he did not know what a stiff was that he was drinking, as he was the total abstemious man. He was shy as well, and seeing that every one else had a little glass cup of the famous looking liquid he took one too. The poor man thought it was some kind of tea, and the bowl seemed more innocent to him than a bottle. He remarked to a friend afterward that it was very nice, but that he believed that it made him feel very queerly. One hostess has introduced this winter the fashion so common in Paris of having hot punch. She is an original woman all around, though, and caps the climax by giving her hot punch at her Sunday evening receptions. —"Husham" in Globe-Democrat.

Farmers in the Senate.

The remark is current that "Judge Reagan of Texas will be the only farmer in the senate," but it is probably the most doubtful. There are numerous other senators who have farms. They do not work them personally, nor depend upon them for a living, nor yet derive any special pecuniary profit from them. But they neither do Mr. Reagan. His wife runs the farm and says they lose money on it; for the soil is too sandy to raise any crops, and the sand is too poor to make into glass. —New York Tribune.

The Sowers and Catacombs.

The prefect of the Seine allows 850 excursionists a day to visit the sewers and catacombs in aid of the sufferers from the floods in the south of France.

CONTROL OF THE EYES.

Something That Is Particularly Necessary in the City of New York.

The greatest secret of enjoying existence in New York is that one must be absolutely the master of his own eyes. Hungry Joe, the arch confidence operator, used to say that he could distinguish a stranger by his hat or shoes. The idea that these betray men is so deep rooted that many strangers always buy New York hats and shoes as soon as they arrive, while others who expect to come often to town order these wearables from city shops. But you can get correct hats and shoes in any largosity, and off styles in the Bowersy.

But whatever one looks like he must control his eyes or life will be a perpetual torment to him. Our dukes and Anglo-American society carry the thing too far. They go about forever looking over every one's head, or else staring with a dead and live glassy look, insulting alike to whomever they glance at and to their own intelligence. This they think "the grand air" and their admirers dub it aristocratic. A well politician the other day said that the leader of a certain political faction was "gitting 'ristocratic." I asked him how he was showing this.

"Oh," said the leader, "he has a tired look, and he don't seem to see you 'less he wants." But by eye control I mean the seeing of everything without being seen to do so. This necessity is bred by the horde of street landlits that prey upon every man out of doors. Their number is legion and their ways are the ways of brigands. If a man lets his eyes fall on a boy who utters a peculiar street cry he is apt to have from two to six nervous leaps for him. He is so many human catapults. As he steps from a hotel, theatre, depot or club, if he allows his eyes to wander an instant he will be at once surrounded and hemmed in by cabmen, each seeking his custom, even by violence. If he turns his head to look at the mendicant who addresses him he may not be able to get rid of the fellow for a block. Resting the eye for an instant on a group of well dressed men (who may be interested in a "quiet game"), or on a boisterous drunkard or a voluble crank, may prove to have very annoying results. I was talking the other day to a lady whose receptions are very popular, and I remarked that people commented very curiously on the difference between her manner in doors and her carriage on the street. In doors she was all affability and unassuming ease, and out of doors she was a poker.

"It's all put on out of doors," she said: "it goes on with my bonnet and wrap. I was in endless trouble as long as I yielded to my inclination to be natural and careless. Some adventures that I had were quite alarming. I can tell you. But now I am on my guard as long as I am out of doors." —Minneapolis Tribune.
