He was for some years a clerk in one of our tusiness houses here and became a student of the Poughkeepsie business college, here be overworked himself doing in a few weeks what is set down for months. His system became reduced pud he contracted a cold which rapidly developed into consumption.

Still on the Strike.

It is now five weeks since the Puddlers at the Bellefonte Iron and Nail works struck and for four weeks the nailers, helpers and all others employed about the works have been idle. They have been forced to see their little sav: ings go out each day with no prospects of an income, and want staring them in the face. As the merits of the strike we know nothing, but the practical experience of years on the part of organized abor has been that strikes are absolute failures and never pay. Not only are strikes an injury to all concerned in them but to the entire community: There is no tyranny greater than that of a labor organization which forces its members to strike whether they are willing or not and the man who is subject to the dictation 'of any man, set of men, or organization is certainly not a freeman in the sense of an American freemen. Every man should stand on his rights as a citizen and work for the best wages he can get, for whom he pleases, where he pleases and be respensible to no man. We don't believe any good will come of the present strike and we know that many persons are almost destitute through it.

The Hudtingdon Sand-wich.

Huntingdon is a delightful town on the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad it is the seat of the State reforma tory and the Huntingdon Saddwich. this article is imposed on hungry trav elers who are unfortunate enoungh to be taken in by the millifluous cry of "here's your fresh ham sandwiches. In a long and varied experience with culinary mysteries, we have never trok; led anything so akamantine in character as the Huntingdon sandwhich, fiirm as the rocks of our native hills no tooth ever indented its glossy side 'or profan. ed its interior. As for ham, there is nothing but the tradition of Noah's second son about this Huntingdon ar: t) give it its name. Butter there is nor e. and the interior looks as dry and darch. ed as a Huntingdon hotel. Dear 'read' never buy a Huntingdon sandwich to

Decoration Day.

The following order has been issued the Republic, under date of May 4th.

Time's ceaseless march brings us again to Memorial Day, and bids us make due preparation for its fitting observance. Twenty years have joined the irrevocable past since our lamented comrade, John A. Logan, then Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic suggested that the day be consecrated to the memory of the de. parted soldiers of the Union. The beautiful and appropriate ceremonies then insugurated have become, year after year, more impressed upon the loyal hearts of the people, and with a reverant gratitude for the inestimable results-national unity and honor-all rejoice to observe and participate in the patriotic duties incident to the oc: casion. As members of the Grand Army we should appreciate the fact that the duties of the day are imposed upon us by the principles of our association and that in no other manner can we more fitingly and effectively perpetuate, the memory and history of our heroic dead, than by relinquishing our usual avocations for a time, and lay our an: nual tribute upon the graves of our de: parted comrades. We should remem: ber the sacredness of the duty thus de: volving upon us, approach its discharge in a becoming manner. Let our conduct be such as to bring no reproach upon our loved organization, but en: deavor to win respect and admiration, and make its observance a work of love and a duty for all time to come. Let ic dead, carrying with us the choicest flowers of spring time, and with them the flag they helped to save from dis: honor, garland the passionless mounds above them, and thus teach by our example that devotion to country and flag is worthy of imperishable remem:

II. It is recommended that each Post attend Divine worship on the Sabbath preceeding Memorial Day, and join in thanksgiving to God for contin: ued per ca, prosper to and happiness. By command of Department Com:

-"The Flemings" a base ball club christinized by Mr. Willis Fleming, went to the State College on Saturday morning last and played the second nine of that place, when the boys arrived home aboet 8 o'clock on Saturday evening th-y drove in front of Fleming's tailoring establishment and made the appouncement that the score stood 11 to 7 in favor of the "Flemings."

-Robert Larimer, a former compositor on this paper, but now employed on the Clearfield Republican, spent several days with friends here. "Bob", ss was his familiar name among the old 'comp's' in the office drove from Clearfield, and when he arrived his horse showed signs of sickness and sure enough it was sick, a.d on Friday morning at 2 o'clock the animal died, and his horseship has gone to horsekingdom.

-Vincent Bayer had a little excite ment on Monday but not a monopoly of that article however as it occurred on the streets. His horse took fright at something and started to run Vince could not hold him so he jumped out of the wagon and "let her go gallagher" The horse and wagon brought up at the Centre County Bank Ibuilding. Result, frightened horse and broken shaft.

-The high school commencement promises to be an unusally interesting affair and the patrons of the school should turn out in force. The progress of the public schools during the last year justifies the highest praise. The corps of teachers cannot be excelled and progress is the watchword, Our school facilities are now of the best and while we are in debt considerably the success of the schools will reconcile the most captious to the additional expense entailed

The Great Event of the General Conference Now On.

AMBITIOUS METHODISTS.

After a Little Routine Rusiness the Ballots Are Distributed and Voting Begins-The Candidates.

New York, May 23.—Bishop Mallalieu opened the Methodist Episcopal conference at the Metropolitan Opera house, Senior Bowman offered a fervent prayer and the business of the conference began.

Rev. Dr. Flood, of Erie, moved to take up the report of the committee on miss ere it was left off the day before. A motion to refer the matter to the committe laid on the table. The discussion of the re-

Dr. Flood advocated the election of a bishop both for India and Malasia, giving as his reason that these countries desired it

Flood said: "Presto! Change! I believe in sudden conversion, but I think conviction should precede it." He moved that the question be laid on the table, and it prevailed Gen. Clinton B. Fisk moved that a special ession of the conference be held on Thursday evening, the subject for debate to be temperance and the legal prohibition of the liquor traffic. The motion was carried. The order of the day, the election of bishops, was then taken up.

Bishop Andrews called out the list of first class tellers and distributed them throughout the aisles, and the balloting at once began. Almost from the first day of the conference he interest of delegates has centered about the elections. Five bishops and a missionary bishop are to be elected, book agents at New York and Cincinnati, editors for nearly a dozen papers, and secretaries, one each for several important church societies.

Excitement was, in fact, so intense at various times among delegates that some days ago charges of "log rolling" were made, and it was only through the earnest efforts of some of the conference leaders that dissensions were prevented.

As each bishop largely controls the operations of several hundred ministers under the itinerant system practiced by the Methodist church, that part of the election has held the closest interest of the delegates.

The strongest candidates among the dele gates for the bishoprics have been the follow

J. H. Vincent, D. D., of Plainfield, N. J. wman, D. D., of New York; J. N. Fitzgerald, D. D., secretary of the Mission ciety; A. J. Kynett, D.
