- Mark Brown, of Milesburg, died Saturday last and was buried in the cemetery at Curtin's. He was born January 10, 1838.

-The Democratic Club room is ornamented with a handsomely framed eagraving of President Cleveland and wife, the gift of J. L. Spangler.

-M i J. L. Spangler was made a memher of the Executive Committee of the Democratic Club League of the United States. The selection could not have been improved on.

-Mr. C. P. Hilder has just completed a job of painting 3,632 feet of picket fence surrounding the tenement houses belonging to the Collins' Brothers, opposite the old fair ground, and within a short distance of their furnace.

-Lucas Hill, a small mining town a short distance from Snow Shoe, cele-Inated the glorious Fourth by having a free fight; men, women and even the children took a hand in the fracas. Several arrests have been made and others are threatened unless some satisfactory settlement can be made.

-Daniel Sampsel, formerly a Gregg fownship charge, who moved to this place last Spring, died in the poor house Sunday of last week. He was 70 years of age, and was well known throughout Penns Valley. He was a soldier in the late war and belonged to the 2nd cavalry, 48th regiment.

-J. I. Condo and daughter Maggie. David Burrell and his daughter Maggie, and Nathaniel Brown attended the G. A. R. Union at Gettysburg. They are all Republicans but they speak in the highest terms of praise over the fraternal spirit which existed between the Blue and the Gray. They couldn't have listened to the gush and slobber speeches of Generals Gobin and Taylor.

Death of Joseph Hazel.

As the hand on the dial closely approached the hour of ten Monday evening, July 2, it marked the close of John Hazel's earthly life. Deceased was 26 years old. He took sick Thursday previous to his death and remained in an unonscious condition up to the time of his demise. His death is attributed to a general breaking down of a once powerful constitution. He was a young man possessed as it were of more than ordinary physical powers, and had he not exposed himself as he did to all kinds of whether he to-day would be living and his life could have been carried up to the three score and ten. "Joe," as he was best known in the community in which he resided, was a good-natured young man and had hosts of friends in the neighborhood in which he resided, loved and respected by old and young. But what was once a robust, stout, hardy young workingman is now sleeping beneath the green sod in the Catholic cemetery. Poor "Joe," may he sleep in peace. Deceased leaves an aged mother to mourn the loss of her only companion. The rest of the children, three daughters, who are married are in different states in the West, several brothers reside in different parts of this State. But we can only say to the aged mother-put your trust in the Great Creator of the Universe, and when your days are numbered you will follow as you expressed it, your poor Joe to that beautiful land from whence there will be no parting.

The funeral took place Wednesday, July 4, from the residence of his mother about two miles from this place, and was one of the largest we have witnessed for some time.

-Saturday last, after a short illness, Ex-Treasurer D. A. Musser, of Millheim, expired. The cause of his death is not known the physicians in attendance not being satisfied as to the disease, and no autopsy being hell they must remain in the dark. Mr. Musser was one of the best known men in Penns Valley; a man of more than average intelligence, largely interested in the business and industrial interests of his section and identified with its progress. He was a kindly gentleman and much given to unostentatious charity. In politics he was a sterling Democrat and had been honored by his party by political preferment. His purse was always open to those in need and his heart to the appeals of charity. His death is a great loss to his community. He was perhaps sixty or sixty. two years of age and when we last saw him in excellent health, up until almost the last moment of his life he was perfectly clear in his mind and fiftee minutes before he died the Millhiem band serenaded him, Mr. Musser keeping time with his foot. His attendant asked him if the music annoyed him and he indicated that it did not. Some time before his death his jaws became locked and he could merely whisper. In a few moments after the band left he suddenly threw up his hands and expired.

has long since been called from earth, departed this life at the ripe age of 82 years, 3 months and 6 days. This venerable christian mother in Israel, was baptized in infancy and received into the Lutheran church at an early age. She was a consistent member of the church of her choice and a regular attendant upon the public services up to the time of her disability. She was confined to her room and chair for several years. She bore her infirmity with christian patience and resignation. During her last illness though suffering much she bore her pain with the fortitude of the faithful. She was a kind mother and affectionate wife, a sympathetic and helpful neighbor and friend. She leaves two children-a son and daughter, to mourn her demise. What is their loss is her eternal gain.

A mother has been called from her home on the earth to the regions of glory where all is sweet mirth. She was summoned to come where sorrow is unknown and gladly she went to her heavenly home. Dear children weep not for her who has been taken from you. She is resting, peacefully resting till all shall Х. awaken.

Millheim Centennial.

Millheim borough was founded in the year 1788 and on Wednesday, July 25th. 1888, its citizens will celebrate the one hundredth birthday of their beautiful and prosperous little village. Following is the program arranged for the occasion:

Tuesday evening, the 24th, a jubilee and praise service will be held in the Evangelical church, and will be conducted by the resident ministers.

Weddesday, the 25th, there will be a morning salute of ten guns and dress parade of band, to be followed by a parade at 10 a.m. Contrasts 1788-1888-Young America-the thirty-eight States -Goddess of Liberty-Novelties-Industrial display-Fire Department-G. A. R. Post-Bands and Drum Corps-Citizens on foot and in wagons. At half-past one o'clock Prof. C. K. Sober will give a free exhibition of his fancy shooting-blue rocks, and at half-past two a mass meeting will be held and addressed by eminent speakers. In the evening at eight o'clock there will be a torchlight procession and illumination of the town. Balloon ascensions and a grand display of fireworks will conclude the exercises.

A number of minor amusements will be added to the general features of the day.

Ex-Governor Curtin, Hon. S. R. Peale. Hon. Chas. Wolf and other distinguished guests have been invited and are expected to be in attendance.

Arrangements have been made with the railroad company for the sale of excursion tickets from Bellefonte, Lewis burg and intermediate points, July 24th and 25th, good to return July 26th.

My First Visit to Bellefonte.

It was on the 4th Monday of August 1814, my father was summoned to attend the Court as a Juror, and to save the Mrs. Eva McBride, whose husband expense of keeping a horse all week in town, he concluded to ride part of the way, and as my older brothers were needed at home, he took me behind him, on Bunny our pet horse to bring her back. For short a trip as this, it was not considered necessary to make any change in my clothing, and I was mounted barefoot and without coat behind my father. When we reached the county road leading past Potters Mills to Bellefonte, we met Judge Potter, and his son William W. Potter, the first an associate Judge of the Court, and the latter a practicing Lawyer. It was a pleasent day, and we jogged along, my father and the Judge talking about the early settling of the country. The Turnpike road was not then made and the road to Bellefonte passed through Earleys town about one mile west of the old Fort, and entered the gap in Nittany mountain about one and a half miles west of Centre Hall. When we reached the mountain, father said that was as far as he intended to take me, and he would walk from there to Belle fonte, Judge Potter insisted on his rid ing all the way, father refered him to my barefeet and patched trousers, and that my mother would complain. The Judge said the barefeet and patched trowsers should not prevent me from seeing Bellefont, and insisted that father should not dismount. Of course I took no part in the controversy, but was on the Judges side, and when father yielded I was delighted. After entering the mountain, the only house we pass, ed was Wm. Riddles at the foot of the mountain on the Northern side. John Fureys and Thomas McClellans, and intersected the road leading from Belle font down Nittany Valley about one fourth of a mile East of the town, and we did not get out of the woods until we got near where the Catholic church now s. The Potters stoped at Miles' Tavern on the corner where the First National Bank is and father at John McKees. tavern on Thomas Reynolds corner. Bellefonte had no pavements and compared with Bellefonte of to day, the difference would be about as great, as the difference on that day between me and a boy dressed in a neat fitting suit of clothes with his hair cut bias.

While waiting for dinner father sent me up to the Diamond to buy some ap. ples which were selling out of a wagon. It was War times, and Bellefonte was a recruiting station, I saw soldiers in uniform and heard the drum and fife. all very interesting to me. After dinner mounted in the saddle on Bunniewith the stirups dangling below my barefeet, I turned my face homeward. Between Bellefonte and the mountain Bunnie cocked her ears and moved suddenly to one side, at the same time I and saw a very large Rattle Snake, the Spring Mills.

Mr. Eisenhart Sr. of Shamokin visited his son R. G. Eisenhart week before last. Will Gettig, a student at Central State Normal School has returned home.

Thomas Decker of Lock Haven, formerly of George's Valley, is doing the millwright work at the Allison Bros. saw mill.

Mr. Bergstresser, photographer who has been operating at Spring Mills for the last month has moved his tent to Potters' Mills.

Miss Mary Duncan, who spent last winter with the family of her brother Robert Duncan in Florida, spent a few days visiting friends in this place lately.

Mrs. Robert Duncan expects to take up housekeeping in Philipsburg, at which place her son Allie is clerking in the Banking house of Wm. Duncan. Mary Duncan will make her home with them

Miss Lou Duncan will remain in Milton where she has been engaged in teaching for several years.

Wallace is still with the P. & E. R. R. Co. at Sunbury.

Robert Duncan remains in Florida where he is employed by a phosphate Co. If he decides to make that state his permanent home, Mrs. Duncan will return after the warm season is over.

I have mentioned all these facts concerning this family because, like the Potters, their ancestors were among the errly settlers of this valley, and I am frequently asked by people concerning their whereabouts and welfare.

Wm. A. M'Clellan is learning tostick type in the "Times" office. He expects, however, to teach school this winter.

Isaac Underwood has left the service of the creamery Co. He will engage in selling machinery and creamery supplies.

Many families were taken by surprise and were unight. drinking water on Tuesday night.

-The celebration of the Fourth Bellefonte was not the most lively, but it was just as patriotic as any in the country. Three bands of music made the urchin shout while torpedos and fire crackers made both night and day hideous. The Bell efonte band, Undine hose company and the Howard band gave a street parade in the afternoon and during the day and evening a festival was held in the Court House yard for the benefit of the band.

-R. A. Gardner, of Lock Haven, and James I. Gardner, of Beech Creek, were callers at our office on Thursday of last week. Both gentlemen are subscribers to the DEMOCRAT and pay in advance. The young man remarked that he "always liked to pay in advance as he then knew whose paper he was getting." Did it ever strike you that way dear reader? When you pay in advance you are getting your own paper. When you don't you are getting the printer's paper.

-Andrew Curtin, Jr., has for the last three years given the little folks of Curtin and the adjoining streets a grand Fourth of July treat in the shape of fire works. Wednesday evening last between fifty and one hundred little folks gathered on the porch and in the yard to watch the display. It was unusually fine and a happier lot of children could not be found in town. "Drew" and Lawrence Brown manage the fire department and doubtless enjoyed the fun. The children are loud in their praise of Mr. and Mrs. Curtin.

-Hon. James Gilliland, of Washington, D. C., brother of Hon. Samuel Gilliland, now over eighty-five years of age, is visiting his daughter Mrs. Wright, of Milesburg. We give in this week's issue of the DEMOCRAT Mr. Gilliland's recollection of his first visit to Bellefonte and Milesburg. Mr. Gilliland was at one time prothonotary and during the war was commissioner for Pennsylvania at Washington. He was appointed to that position by Ex-Governor Curtin although Mr. Gilliland was a Democrat. He looked faithfully after the interests of Pennsylvania soldiers. Mr. Musser had a large circle of friends throughout the county. He leaves several sons and daughters to mourn his loss. His death was a terrible shock to his family and the community.

In Memoriam.

Died at Houtzdale on the 19th of June, 1888, William W. Williams, in the 42nd year of his age. He leaves to survive him a widow and three children, two brothers and an aged mother. He was eight years of age at the time of his father's demise, and from that time up to his death he has faced the stern realities of this life with unflinching courage and a brave heart and by energy and industry he succeeded in gathering about him a sufficient amount of this world's goods to make his family comfortable. He was a man who possessed business tact, was industrious and honest, was a good neighbor and those who knew him best say he was one of the best citizens of the town in which he resided. He was a member of the M. E. Church. Rev, Colburn, pastor of the aforesaid church, preached the verse of the 37th Psalm: "Mark the perfect man; behold the upright, for thee and of that man is peace,' Deceased had many relatives in Centre and Clearfield counties who will be pained to hear of his death.

- Harrison Shope, a young man residing in Altoona, was stabbed to death by an Italian. The body of young Shope was brought to Milesburg for interment. The Italian is in jail in Hollidaysburg. Young Shope was under the influence of liquor at the time and had been wrestling with a companion and threw him Shope ran after him. Shope caught up with his companion as he supposed and grappled with him, but saw his mistake and said "you are not the man I am after," but the Italian plunged his knife into Shope with fatal results.

- Monday night an enthusiastic meeting was held by the members of the Democratic Club in their rooms in Reynolds' bank building. Hon. John Orvis, president of the club, called the meeting to order. After the preliminary business C. Bower, who in company with J. L. Spangler and W. F. Reber had attended the National Club Convention at Baltimore, was called on for an address. Amid great applause Mr. Bower arose and addressed the meeting in a neat speech. He stated that there had been thirty-two hundred persons in attendance at the convention; that delegates had been there from every state in the Union, and, withal, it was about the most energetic meeting he ever had attended. Other speakers, upon whose merits we shall not dwell, as they are so favorably known, were J. L. Spangler, D. F. Fortney, Hon. John Orvis, and James Scofield.

It was decided that two members of the club each week be selected to prepare themselves on some subject and address the meeting on Monday evenings. funeral sermon from the text the 37th Cal Meyer and Will Singer were appointed to talk before the meeting next Monday evening.

-The out-look for the Fall trade in the celebrated Apollo Ranges at McFarlane's hardware store is already very flattering and dozens of people are in every week looking at the samples. This heretofore king of ranges has been enlarged and improved within the last six months which fact will place it still further ahead of its would-be competitors. It takes less fuel to cook with this range than any other making it by far the most economical to use. No. twice, the fellow then ran away and 138 has been added to the line of styles and is a beauty that every one should see before buying.

-Anna Katharine Green, the celebrated author of "The Leavenworth Case," begins a new story in the Pitts. burgh Sunday Dispatch on July 8. The Dispatch is a wonderful interesting pasite I there ever since the war. Captain labor, are blowing their nasal organs on per, securing best writers and fallest "Democrat" and we conclude to the news at any cost.

first I had ever seeen, and supplied me with another item of news, to carry home to those who had not seen as much of the world as I had.

When I got home my mother was greatly relieved. I was absent so long beyond the time expected, she was fearful some evil had befallen me. When informed that I had been to Bellefonte with patched trowsers and barefooted she expressed much dissatisfaction and surprise that father had not turned me back as he intended. This closes the narative of my first trip to Bellefonte and only interesting because of the time which has elapsed since it was made. THE FIRST TIME I SAW MILESGURG.

It was either in the winter of 1815 or 1816 I don't receilect which. My brother Joseph Adams took me with him on a sled loaded with flower to the Milesburg Forge, then owned by Joseph Miles and Joseph Green. Mrs. Adams a widow woman whose husband was a cousin of my father, lived at Milesburg in a house not far from the Presbyterian Parsonage in which you formerly lived. This letter was written to his daughter Mrs. Wright

We stayed over night at her house (she had a son and daughter unmarried about the age of my father and mother who frequently visited us,) and kept our horses at Mr. Green's who kept a tavern near the parsonage. There was Baptist preaching that night, in a small school. house. Squire James Alexandrew led the singing. There were a number of Presbyterians living in Milesburg then. Squire Foster an elder, Blairs, Loves, Adamses &c. The snow was deep, the weather cold and the sledding good. I cannot think of any persons living there now, who were there at that day.

On our return home a New Foundland dog followed us, and we never heard of his owner I named him Pencil. He was a favorite with all the family. I had him trained to do many things that other dogs could not be learned, my brother John commenced teaching school in Milesburg when he was 17 years of age. I went several times to see him while he was teaching. He boarded with the Adamses.

-Miss Emma Haupt, one of the handsome compositors of this office, severed her connection with this institution Saturday last. We are sorry to loose her as she was one of the best as well as most correct compositors to be found in any printing house in this section. She has worked on the DEMOCRAT steady for three years.

- McFarlane & Co. request us to say that sine the manufacturers of the celebrated Apollo range have enlarged it the sales have been doubled. It always was a "dandy" and since the improvements have been added it is just the most perfect kitchen queen it is possible to find. It requires the least fuel to run it and this fact alone makes it the cheapest stove to buy.

-By request, Rev. J. W. Bedford, Snow Shoe, preached a sermon to the Odd Fellows of that place on last Sunday night a week. The text was taken from Philippians 4-4.

Mr. Bedford discoursed eloquently for fourty-five minutes, showing the objections that are raised against Odd Fellowship, and also showing the benefits that are derived from the order.
