as was the political history of the voters who sent me here before their appearance at the polls. I did not decline their suffrages on account of their antecedents, and if 6,500 of them oculd afford to forget their Democracy and give that district to a Republican I can in my turn forget the origin of this bill in the consideration of the question whether it is in the interest of my district and in the line of laughed at by some, sympathized what I claimed in the canvass to b the belief of my party and my own belief. There is something better none. And now it is conceded by than Republicanism or Democracy, and that is common honesty. I have bill will be passed by the house in insisted, over and over for years in my a short time. He has seen his bill district, that the Republican party was committed to tariff reform. I have attacked, in the canvass, my Democratic opponent for doing exactly that which gentlemen here propose that the Republican party should do. If the gentlemen in charge of the party interests on this floor propose to abandon the position which I and others have defended and insisted upon, it is not fore me to criticise their wisdom; but I can not recognize their authority to make me give up the convictions which were good Republican doctrine when I adopted them and to break promises which I feel bound in honor to fulfill

I can not as yet know in what shape this bill will come before us for final action. I believe that it should be amended in many particulars before it is passed, and I have submitted and shall submit some amendments which seems to be necessary. I can not as yet substitute will be offered or if there in Congress. be one what it will cover. This much, however, I know now, that whenever I have an opportunity to vote for any measure which seems to offer the relief which I believe my people are entitled to have, and which I have myself for years insisted should be given them, I shall not fail to vote in there interest and for my own convictions, with out regard to the consequences of my vote to myself. Mills is a Happy Man

Representative Mills, of Texas, is the happiest man in the House, and he has good right to be. He has maintained from the time his tariff bill was first presented to the House that it would pass; he was with by some, and believed by all, friend and for alike, that the endorsed by most of the State Conventions and dy the great National Convention of his party. Is not all this enough to make a man happy?

The President has vetoed another batch of private pension bills, and accompanying one of the vetoes was a letter of some length, which must have brought blushes of shame to the face of more than one member of the House and Senate Pension Committees. He fully explained his position in regard to this class of legislation, and proved conclusively to the mind of every unprejudiced reader that he is not unfriendly to the soldier nor his widow. The great number of vetoes have been caused by the careless manner in know whether or not a Republican which these bills have been passed

> The Republicans are not dwelling in unity Repre-entatives Cannon, of Illinois, and Kelley, sometimes called "Pig iron," of Pennsylvania, have been at daggers' points, and over what? The tariff. Cannoa believes in free sugar and a bounty for the American manufacturer; Kelley believes in a high protective tariff, and wants to know why such an idea is not just as ap plicable to the sugar planter of Louisiana as to the eastern manufacturer. Kelley wanted to read Cannon out of the Republican party for daring to have an idea outside of protection. The Democrats of the House, who are, with half a dozen exceptions, completely united in favor of revenue reform, enjoyed the wordy duel between the Republicans.

The house is working very hard to finish up the business before it; the Senate is taking things in its usual leisurely way. Last week it was in session on'y two days.

Now that the Republicans of the Senate are confronted with the necessity of getting up a tariff pill offer it as a substitute for the Mills bill when that measure gets to the different idea as to what is best. They are realizing the old adage that 'it is easier to criticise than to

The report that Postmaster General Dickinson had written a letter protesting against the railway mail employes being placed under the provisions of the civil service law was entirely without foundation.

Mr. Cleveland spent the Fourth in his office, at the White House, hard at work over a lot of bills. In the evening he drove out to Oak

The House has passed the Hol-man substitute for the Senate railroad land forfeiture bill. The Senate bill forfeited 5,627,436 acres. Mr. Ho'man's substitute forfeits 54,225,696 acres A slight difference.

Among the thousands of Democrats who attended the Baltimore convention of Democratic clubs and afterwards came through Washington was Hon. James Winans, mayor of Janesville, Wisconsin, and who is understood to be the Democratic nominee for Governor of that State this year. In reply to questions as to the prospect of Democratic success in Wisconsin, Mr. Winans said: "We shall make a vesy strong effert to carry the State this Fall for Cleveland, Thurman, and tariff reform. The effort is already under way. Our Democratic clubs are strongly organized and numerous. We shall push them in every direction, and shall make the first strong and united effort to carry the State since the Tilden and Hendricks campaign. The Republicans have been growing weaker there for years, and their present attitude on the tariff is the last straw. Our people, irrespective of party, are tired of being mercilessly taxed for manufacturers." John Sherman is still growling about the alleged purchase by Alger of fifty of the former's Southern d legates to the Chicago convention. It will probably take Sherman a long while to recover from the loss of his money and expectations. If Alger bought any Southern Sherman delegates, it is extremely probable that he was the second
