

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Have you been to the museum? The Penna State College Glee Club will perform next Friday evening.

John Lobb expects to open up his clothing store in Brockerhoff block in a few days.

Italians were arrested at Lock Haven for receiving mail that did not belong to them.

Don't forget your dues on subscription. We would like to hear from delinquents.

The flagging ball team for 1889 is the subject of considerable talk among some of our local ball tossers.

It has been remarked with considerable truth, that Bellefonte's policemen are more ornamental than useful.

Miss Catherine Dinges, a sister of Jacob Dinges, died at Woodward, on Wednesday morning, March 20.

The opening days of Spring have started the street commissioner to cleaning up the thoroughfares of this town.

Subscribers who change their residence this spring should notify us, if necessary to change their post office address.

Mr. E. C. Krumrine, of Lewisburg, formerly of Spring Mills, was in town on Monday. He is engaged in lumbering in the south at present.

Rev. Russell Conwell, will deliver the Memorial address at Phillipsburg, May 20th. Will Bellefonte have as renowned a speaker on this occasion?

F. P. Blair has rented the room vacated by Graham's shoe store, on the corner of the Brockerhoff House and is having the same fixed up in fine style.

If you want to know why James Scoville can sell harness at such startling prices, read a card in another column headed "Bargains in harness."

Men's, boys' and children's ready made clothing from Jacob Reed's Sons, Philadelphia. Full line of shirt waists.

Montgomery & Co.

Capt. Austin Curtin has gone to the Huntingdon reformatory to accept his appointment there. If we ever get there, we know the captain will take good care of us.

Every convict who enters the Huntingdon Reformatory is required to be vaccinated. Many of the youths are complaining of very sore arms in consequence.

The unsightly frame frame sheds in front of several business houses on Allegheny street were removed this week and made much to the appearance of the buildings.

The Lock Haven Express suggests a baseball league of clubs from Altoona, Phillipsburg, Clearfield, Tyrone, Bellefonte, Ridgway, DuBois, Renovo and Williamsport.

Out of 5,000,000 pieces of baggage handled by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company last year only three pieces were lost. A good record for the proverbial baggage smasher.

It is said that one pound of banana contains more nutriment than three pounds of meat. And yet meat will build a man up, while a small piece of banana will bring a man down.

Front fishing season begins on the 15th of April instead of the 1st, as many suppose. A sharp lookout should be kept for any parties who fish out of season, and have them brought to time.

Rev. Land, pastor of the Reformed church, at Centre Hall, filled Rev. Snyder's pulpit on Sunday morning and evening. He delivered two interesting discourses and was listened to by large audiences on both occasions.

Messrs. Aaron Harter, engineer, and W. F. Campbell, head miller, of the Kurtz & Son flouring mill at Centre Hall, burned recently were callers at this office on Saturday last. Mr Campbell expects to locate in Bellefonte, having accepted a similar position in Gerbrick & Hale's mill.

Last Thursday evening Messrs. D. F. Fortney and Col. D. S. Keller addressed an amendment meeting in the opera house at Phillipsburg. An immense audience was present and from what the Phillipsburg papers say is correct, they made able addresses; they can do it.

One week ago Charles Nier, of Scranton, ran a needle in his foot. Surgeons sought in vain for it. Nier was taken to the plant of the Suburban Electric Railway and his foot held near one of the dynamo. In fifteen minutes the needle was drawn out.

That ancient dame, Belva Lockwood, gave the people of Tyrone a harangue last week. Spare us, dear girl.—CENTRE DEMOCRAT. Yes; Bro. Kurtz, Belva and the remainder of enlightened humanity have decided to spare you to your ignorance.—Tyrone Herald.—Why in thunder didn't we keep quiet; we always give ourself away when we say anything. A SURE REMEDY FOR THE WORKINGMEN?

The Same Old Complaint Coming from the Laboring Classes—Low Wages—No Work—What is Wrong?

In last week's issue of the Bellefonte Republican an article appears, of some length, and purports to be from the pen of an oppressed laboring man. He makes the same old cry we have heard in years past and is a repetition of the same old story: the laboring man does not receive enough wages to live decently, clothe and keep his family and send his children to school, and that there may be no work at all. We give here some selections from the article:

"There is no one more earnestly interested than the writer in the welfare of the laboring man. That he should have regular but not too arduous labor at living wages is something we earnestly desire. What is meant by 'living' wages? We take it to mean that sum which will enable people to live comfortably and in a way conformable to this age of civilization."

Then he estimates at some length that the necessary yearly, expenses of maintaining a family of six children decently amounts to $578, not including any luxuries.

Then he comments upon the condition of labor in this section in the following manner:

"Do men receive sufficient wages to live thus as they are evidently intended to live? We tell only the real truth as it was told us on Saturday and we cannot discredit the evidence. There are men, the fathers of families working at the manufactories in Bellefonte who receive only $1.10 per day—less than $350 per year. To make it worse, owing to long periods when the factories are partially closed down, they are forced to be idle, greatly reducing even the $350. Such men cannot live like men. Do you wonder that they become discouraged and commit crime? Is it strange that the spirit of anarchy is increasing? But there is no spirit of anarchy among the faithful and honest working men in Bellefonte. There is a just complaint a questioning as to why such things should be so. They tell us that there have been reductions of wages without any corresponding reductions of the selling price of the products. They ask for protection not only in tariff, but against the rapacity and oppression which they experience from those who should be interested in them and whose welfare they would gladly take an interest."

"To be sure, they are sometimes told that the reason for low wages is because the factories are not making money. They would be willing to believe this could they see any signs of economy in the personal expenses of employers. But they know that while such expenses are large—almost princely—the bank accounts and investments of such employers suffer no diminution. Lost in wonder at the condition of affairs, experiencing their own want, they make an effort at self-protection, and surely the times are ripe in this country for instant measures in their behalf. Who will be their true Moses and deliver? They detest socialism and anarchy as much as do their employers, but it is not in the nature of any man to feel oppression forever without murmur, complaint and an effort to correct the wrong."

Have the laboring classes forgotten the lessons of the last Presidential campaign? Do they not know that they now enjoy more protection (?) in this most favored and enlightened land than any where else on the face of the globe, China excepted? Have they forgotten that they are now reaping the glorious (?) results of almost thirty years of high protection—to American monopolists? Have they forgotten the prosperity and promised in the recent Presidential campaign should Harrison be elected the "high protection policy" of the Republican party be endorsed?

"WHO WILL BE THEIR MOSES?"

Certainly they remember these things and have been looking forward for the new era, promised by J. Wesley Gephart, in his letter last fall to the laboring men. Wesley made great predictions and wrote with greater fluency than good judgment and instead of being authority on economical questions like that of "labor" and "protection" he has made himself the subject of laughing stock among intelligent men and the object of contempt among the laboring classes to whom he promised higher wages and better times if they voted and helped to defeat Cleveland! Cleveland was defeated, but the promised prosperity comes in the shape of depressed markets.

The working men are oppressed harder than ever and cry out from every quarter for relief. To any of them in this section who took stock in that little epistle and are now crying for relief would say apply to J. Wesley Gephart for an extra copy of that campaign document and boil it down for tea. It is a sure cure. For all ailments known to the laboring classes would suggest a dose of "Gephart's Panacea."

"A POEM IN STEEL SPRINGS"

Mrs. Harrison and the Patriotic Bustle-makers of America.

The great bustle manufacturing industry of America is now getting its full share of protection in encouragement. The bustle policy of the new Administration seems to be no half-way, halting affair. A manufacturing company in Marion Iowa, advertise the fact that Mrs. Harrison wears a perfect poem in steel springs and cream satin presented by them to her, and for which they hold her receipt dated February 11.

A bustle architect in Shelbyville, Ind., published a letter of acknowledgment and thanks from Mrs. Harrison's Secretary. The second bustle is described as "of medium size, covered with fine white satin, and it is a work of art."

A Connecticut artist announces that he has received from Mrs. Harrison a "most graceful acknowledgment" and letter of thanks for the most wonderful bustle ever constructed by human skill. It is of "blue satin, trimmed with rich lace, and furnished with gold mountings, all of the metal parts which are exposed being of gold.—New York Sun.

A TEMPERANCE LECTURE.

A Warning to all Young Men.

During the night Charles Cleary was incarcerated in the Emporium jail waiting the authorities to conduct him to the Clinton county prison, where in all probability he will be executed within its gloomy walls for the murder of Policeman Paul, this youthful criminal, brooding over his crime and its awful consequences, thinking of his parents whose hearts he had broken, of his family suffering such crushing sorrow and grief and the awful end of his young life—in the very anguish of his soul he exclaimed: "Whiskey! Whiskey! Whiskey!!!" "What a temperance lecture? What a sermon for the young man, who like Cleary, indulges in drinking the "liquid death" only occasionally. With Charles Cleary the die is cast and there is no help for him, but with you, young man, there is yet an opportunity to escape from the terrible curse sure to follow this drinking habit.—Emporium Press.

Precious Petticoat Stolen.

A special from Wilkes-Barre says: John Morris of that city, refused to put the savings of a life time, $1,254 in a bank as he thought it would not be safe, and his wife sewed the money in her petticoat. On Saturday night three masked men entered his wife's bed room, gaged her stole the petticoat from under her pillow and then escaped.

Morris was not at home at the time the robbery was committed, having been invited out to see some neighbors. It is thought there is a conspiracy, and William Standish has been arrested. The wife identified him as one of the men in her bedroom.

Baby Hunting in a Stable.

Mr. Arbutle, who won fame as "Baby Bunting," has traded off the elegant residence he lately completed in Brooklyn for some flats in New York City, and is now living in his stable, sleeping and taking his meals there. The stable is a palace, and Mr. Arbutle is not sleeping in a manger nor in the hay mow, but has a downy couch upon which to slumber and dream of new conquests.

Bargains in Harness.

The largest stock of harness, single and double, collars, bridles, whips, etc., in this section of the state, can be found at Schofield's harness rooms, on Spring street. Over $200 worth of whips to select from and an immense stock of harness leather for sale. Being Overseer of the Poor, of Bellefonte, and having purchased these goods with borough funds, can offer them at reduced rates; am willing to give the citizens of Bellefonte the benefit of the deal. Cheap harness at Schofield's.

—On last Friday evening, while in the parlor of the Bush House, the porter stepped in the room and informed us that those apartments had been engaged by another party and politely asked us to vacate, which we did. A few moments later Rev. Elliot, of Unionville, appeared, also Mr. Newton Hess and Miss Maggie McWilliams, both of Pine Grove Mills, and occupied the parlor. What took place we don't know, but on the hotel register was: "Mr. and Mrs. New-E. Hess, Pine Grove Mills." If we were not permitted to witness the ceremony but had to skip, will extend congratulations to the young couple, with the best wishes for their future prosperity.

—Miss Puella Dornblazer, of Clinton county, has taken to lecturing for the benefit of the Prohibition Amendment cause. We think that if Miss Puella would employ herself in some other way towards helping the Amendment it would be better. If you want to disgust an average man let him hear a rank, female temperance crank—conceding nothing, jumping at conclusions, and radical to the core, they accomplish little and disgust many. If some of these female agitators would split their skirts back and in front and then sew the edges on each side, together for pantaloons their garments would be more appropriate and becoming.

THE SCREW PROPELLER.

Claimed to Have First Been Made at Milton.

From last week's Miltonian we clip the following which will be of interest to our readers:

"The Philadelphia Times in commenting upon the recent death of Captain John Ericsson, ascribes to him the invention of the screw propeller. Right here without any disparagement of the great Captain, the Miltonian wishes to make note that in 1820-30, seven years before Ericsson invented his screw propeller a citizen of Milton, Mr. John Patten, invented a screw propeller for a canoe, which worked admirably, although the power was applied by hand to a crank. This first screw propeller was built by Mr. Stoughton Chapin, who, though quite aged, distinctly recalls all the circumstances connected therewith. After Mr. Patten conceived the idea of applying the propeller, to be worked by steam power, to canal boats and to avoid the "wash" of the banks, placed the screw in the bow. An experimental trip was made in such a boat, from Milton to the Cross-cut (4 miles below) and back, and although the principle was thought to be correct in theory, practically it was believed to be too slow. Financial assistance, or lack of interest, in what was believed to be an impracticable appliance, robbed Mr. Patten of his just claims as the inventor of the greatest water propelling power of modern times, and Milton of the honor of having such an inventor for a citizen. It is curious, too to note that afterwards, when Ericsson, in 1837-38 gave a trial trip with a screw propeller in presence of the British Admiralty, their lordships solemnly rejected it because the motive power was in the stern—the only excellence it had over that of Mr. Patten's."

CAUGHT AT LAST

HOW A HUSBAND CAUGHT HIS MAN.

A Faithless Wife at Montandon Keeps Company With a Young Man and is Caught—An Interesting Meeting.

A sad event recently took place, in Montandon, a mile east of Lewisburg, a few nights ago—sad for people who take a right view of such occurrences, although very funny to thoughtless news tattlers. A highly respectable young gentleman and his wife became citizens of that village say a year or more ago. The gentleman's business required his absence from home very often, night as well as day. A suspicion crept into the neighborhood's minds that during his nocturnal absence, his wife manifested symptoms of unfaithfulness. After this suspicion "took root," a closer vigil was kept up, and the proof of it became undeniable. The suspicions reached the husband's ears, who scarcely believed it but he determined to test the truth of it by strategy. Therefore, he laid a plan that could hardly fail to satisfy him as to whether she was guilty or not. He told her that, as business was not very urgent, he would take the opportunity to visit his mother at Logansville, in Sugar valley. Towards evening he started on his alleged journey. He said he would stop at the Baker House before leaving for Logansville, having some business to transact in Lewisburg. He came to the Baker House, and awaited unwelcome but not unexpected news. In a short time Montandon rang up the Baker House by telephone and the unfaithful wife inquired if her husband was there. The clerk answered that he was. He waited a little while longer, when the same inquiry came from the same source. The gentleman instructed the clerk to answer, "No he has started for Logansville," which was not the case, but served as a detective ruse. Milton then rang up, and the unfaithful wife wife telephoned to a young man to come down the coast was clear, or words to that effect. The husband remained at the Baker House until he supposed the young man had time to reach Montandon. He then went home. He found the door locked and his night key of no use. He then rapped quite distinctly, but received no response. He next threw himself against the door, and though it was strong and heavy, burst it in. He was met near the door by the destroyer of his peace. The sight of him fired the gentleman's wrath to an uncontrollable heat and he backed him up against the wall, and pounded him in a dreadful manner, causing blood to flow freely, bespattering the wall and the villain's person and clothing. A neighbor hearing the racket, seized his revolver and ran in to see what was the matter. He understood the situation at once and was gratified to see the rascal punished; but fearing serious results unless the matter was soon stopped, he persuaded the infuriated man to desist. He did so; but as a parting salute, he seized a coffee-pot, well filled with coffee, and belting on the cooking stove, and crushed it against the victim's face badly damaging his nose. The frightened countenance smeared with blood, confusion, streaming coffee and grounds gave the suffering fellow and interesting appearance. He darted out of the door, however, and disappeared. The faithless wife jumped to the ground from a second story window, and took the earliest train for parts unknown. The injured husband, we learn, made immediate application for a divorce.—Lewisburg Chronicle.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Proposed by the citizens of this Commonwealth by the General Assembly or the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for their approval or rejection at a special election to be held June 18, 1889. Published by order of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in pursuance of Article XVIII of the Constitution.

Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, that the following is proposed as an amendment to the constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof.

AMENDMENT. Strike out from section one, of article eight, the four qualifications for voters which reads as follows:

"Twenty-two years of age or upwards, he shall have paid, within two years, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months, and paid at least one month before the election," so that the section which reads as follows:

"Every male citizen twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections.

First. He shall have been a citizen of the United States for at least one year.

Second. He shall have resided in the State one year (or if, having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the state, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election.

Fourth. If twenty-two years of age or upwards, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months and paid at least one month before the election," shall be assessed, so as to read as follows:

Every male citizen twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at the polling place of the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere.

First. He shall have been a citizen of the United States for at least thirty days.

Second. He shall have resided in the state one year (or if, having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the state, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election. The legislature, at the session thereof, after the adoption of this section, shall, and from time to time thereafter may, enact laws to properly enforce this provision.

Fourth. Every male citizen of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a citizen for thirty days and who shall have resided in the state one year next preceding an election, except at municipal elections, and for the last thirty days a resident and not elsewhere, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere for all officers of his precinct or absence of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district, and the legislature shall have power to provide in the manner in which he may offer his vote, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere for all officers of his precinct or absence of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district, and the legislature shall have power to provide in the manner in which he may offer his vote, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere for all officers of his precinct or absence of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district, and the
