ELPHIA LICENSES. Large Mumbers of Applications Refused by the License Court. PHILADELPHIA, May 14 .- In the first thirteen wards the liquor license court has knocked out seventy-one licensed saloons. The decisions were handed down by the license court to Clerk Peltz, but the manner of doing this did not dispel either the hope or fear with which the anxiously awaited hour was anticipated. In fact no announcement was made at the time, the crowded gathering being told that they could learn the results from the evening newspapers. The evening papers published complete lists of the licenses granted and the ap-plications refused, and they were engerly consulted, not alone by those directly concerned, but by all classes of citizens, who manifested intense interest in the matter. The decisions in these cases are taken to indicate that the high license law will be as rigorously enforced as heretofore in this city. In the thirteen wards there were 513 licenses granted and 680 applications refused.

In 1887 there flourished in this city 5,773 saloons, and the number was in 1888 reduced to 1,258. This year the number is likely to be about 1,000.
