Rhode Island Rejects Constitutional Prohibition.

RETURNING TO LOCAL OPTION.

The Majority Over 5,000 More Than the Amendment Through-History of Prohibition in the State.

Providence, June 21.—In common phrase, Rhode Island went wet yesterday, but that expression falls short of the true meaning of the vote. It means that people are tired of a constitutional enactment which is not supported by public opinion, which is not enforced or enforceable, and which has practically meant free rum for three years, a great loss in revenues and widespread injury to business. It means, also, stringent restrictions of the liquor traffic by legislative enactment, a return to local option, and in this city, without doubt, high license, a lessening of the number of saloons and the extermination of low drinking places.

The Canvass.

The general assembly which took its seat three weeks ago at Newport was elected or the issue of resubmission, and much of the battle was fought at the April election. The time for the actual work of the repeal campaign was brief and was utilized almost entirely in dis-semination of printed matter. The Prohibitionists were the only ones who held meetings, but none of these caused much enthusiasm. Matters were very different from the whoop and rush which carried the amendment three years ago, and the result of which astonished even its promoters.

Women at the Polls. Women were at the polls, but it is safe to say very few votes were cast for reasons of sentiment or gallantry. operation of the ballot reform bill had been postponed until after this election on account of the difficulty in putting it into immediate use, but it is not probable that bribery was attempted.

The Vote. The total vote in yesterday's election was 28,449 for repeal of the prohibitory amendment, and 9,853 against repeal. The amendment is therefore repealed by 5,469 more than the required three fifths of the total vote.

by a vote of 15,113 to 9,230. The vote in this city was 11,919 for repeal, 2,940 against repeal. The official amendment of the vote will be made some time between July 15, when the official count must be completed, and

The amendment was adopted in 1886

The large increase of the vote over that of 1886 is due to the adoption in the interim of the seventh amendment providing for manhood suffrage.

Kennedy, Jones, Dawes, Judge O'Neal and Lampson, speaker of the house of representatives. Kennedy shows the greatest strength, but Lampson and Dawes' delegates are sanguine. There is a growing sentiment for For-aker, and if nothing sets in to counteract this he will undoubtedly be renominated, Lampson getting second place.

Beer and Music Divorced in Missouri. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 20 .- Governor Francis yesterday dealt the saloons of Missouri the most severe blow they have ever received when he signed the Newberry bill. The bill prohibits music, cards, dice, billiard tables, bowling alleys and boxing gloves in saloons, and will go into effect July 1. St. Louis and Kansas City saloons will be most seriously affected, and about 3,000 of them will have to change their style of opera-

BURKE IS THE MAN.

The Winnipeg Suspect Positively Indentified as the Mysterious Williams by Martensen, the Expressman.

Winnipeg, Man., June 22.—The link connecting Martin Burke with the Cronin murder was completely established when Martensen, the expressman who hauled the furniture to Carlson's cottage, ar-rived here and identified Burke among fifty-two prisoners and citizens who stood in a semi-circle in the jail yard. The identification was complete and beyond all doubt. Martensen walked before the men and picked out his man at the first glance. Chief Hubbard, of Chicago, has been notified to this effect. Burke stood the ordeal well. He never flinched and and maintained the stolid demeanor that has characterized his actions since his arrest.

Burke's Intellect Is Dull, Burke was arraigned before Judge

Bain under the extradition act. The case was enlarged until Wednesday next, at the request of counsel for prosecution, who desired to have time to bring witnesses from Chicago. The evidence adduced before the Chicago grand jury will be submitted here.

Burke was spruced up considerably and looked better than he did in the police station. He took the proceedings as a matter of course, and did not appear to evince any interest therein. Chief to evince any interest therein. Chief McRae says Burke's intellect is dull, and that he is not capable of showing any feeling.

Spotted at First Sight. When Mastersen passed down the line Burke stood twentieth, his hands in his pockets and his eyes averted. Mas-tersen glanced quickly in his face, marked his number on a slip of paper and passed on, examining the faces of the other men. After completing the investigation he returned to where the officers and counsel were standing and held a whispered conversation. Counse Howell was heard to remark: "We are satisfied: we will not want anybody else to identify the prisoner, but be positive of the number.

Chief McRae says they now have clear sailing, and he now believes there will be no further difficulty in presenting sufficiently strong evidence to secure send them away this week. Burke's extradition.

The President Signs Burke's Extradition. WASHINGTON, June 25 .- The president on his return from Cape May last evening signed the warrant for the extradition of Martin Burke. Owing to some technical requirements, however, the state's messenger, Mr. Baker, was not able to leave with it last night, but got away this morning at 11 o'clock.

FIRE AT JOHNSTOWN

ing a report that Gen. Cameron was Flames Threaten the Ruins of the Stricken City.

TWENTY-FIVE HOUSES BURNED.

The Flames Started in a Boys' Bonfire and Extinguished After a Hot Fight Lasting Over Two Hours-The Panic Stricken Populace Prepare to Desert

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 25.—It was only due to the direction of the wind that the remains of Johnstown were not entirely wiped out by fire yester-day afternoon. The blaze began with the First ward school house, which stood on the bank of Stony creek. That building stood on the upper side of the dismal waste which the torrent of water swept clear across the town. Close by the school building, all jumbled up together. were about thirty buildings, some of them in a good state of preservation and inhabited. Next to these houses was a street, the only one not yet cleared of debris, and on the opposite side was a wide stretch of ground tightly packed with frame buildings in all manner of decrepit attitudes. Still further above were some of the best preserved buildings in the site of the stretch of the ings in the city.

The Populace Panic Stricken. Had the wind carried the flame in the opposite direction, fire would have de-stroyed what the flood had left; as it was the fire caused a veritable panic in the immediate neighborhood, as it enveloped one house after another in rapid succession. One of the abandoned houses had been a hardware store and the explosion of a keg of powder in it sent the burning roof flying in fragments, thus increasing the danger.

Men were put to work smothering the bonfires that stretched across the open space, with earth and in this manner cut off the fire line of communication to the threatened buildings, whose occupants were already moving the remnants of their furniture. This banking the bonfires with earth and the veering of the wind so that the burning embers were carried into Stony creek ended the danger in this direction.

A General Stampede.

On the other side the fire met no op position until it had reached the ruin packed street. The militia and a gang of laborers worked hard at clearing the street and then tore down a number of houses on the opposite side. By this time the streams of water from the fire engines had their effect and the fire was under control after burning for two hours, and twenty-five or thirty houses

The whole population of the valley turned out to watch the conflagration. and so general became the belief that everything remaining would go up in smoke that in all directions people were loading their effects on wagons prepara-tory to fleeing to the hill. The money loss will be about $35,000. The fire was caused by three small boys setting fire to a pile of rubbish.

There is but little doubt but that the wage scale as adopted by the convention and submitted to the manufacturers will be accepted by the latter without alteration.

The difference between the employer and managers of the Carnegie Home stead mills remains unsettled and will probably so remain until July 1, the end of the present scale year. There is now no prospect of an amicable adjustment of the differences between the managers and their employes, and a strike is almost certain to occur at that time.

Jones & Laughlin signed the scale of the Amalgamated association for the American Iron works. This is the first firm to accept, but other signatures are
