NEW ORLEANS CITY HALL.

Testimonials from Old Confederates.
Arrangements for the Obsequies Tuesday Complete—New Orleans in Mourning Garb—Mrs. Davis's Appreciation of the Many Mourners.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6.—Jefferson Davis, the ex-president of the Southern Confederacy, died 12:45 this morning. The announcement of the event created a profound sensation in this city, and was immediately telegraphed to all the leading cities of the south.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—The death of Mr. Davis had been expected for any time within the last month. Four weeks ago while traveling on a river steamboat he caught cold and his condition became so serious that his physicians refused to allow him to return to his home in Mississippi. Mrs. Davis was sent for and immediately joined her husband and remained with him constantly until the end. Mr. and Mrs. Davis were as devoted to each other as when in their youth they eloped to be married.

Sketch of His Life.

The leading features of the dead man's life are too well known to need reproduction, but a brief sketch follows:
Jefferson Davis was born June 3, 1813, in that part of Christian county, Ky., which now forms Todd county. Soon after his birth his father removed to Mississippi, settling near Woodville, Wilkinson county. He received an academic education and was sent to Transylvania college, Kentucky, which he left in 1832, having been appointed by President Monroe a cadet in the military academy at West Point, where he graduated in 1835. He remained in the army seven years.

In 1835 he began his eventful political career, and in 1844 was one of the presidential electors of Mississippi to vote for Polk and Dallas. The following year he was elected a representative in congress, and took an active part in the discussion of important questions. While he was in congress the First regiment of Mississippi volunteers, then enrolled for service in Mexico, elected him their colonel. Overtaking the regiment at New Orleans, on its way to the seat of war, he remained with it until the expiration of the term of its enlistment. He distinguished himself in the battle of Buena Vista, Feb. 23, 1847, where he received a severe wound, but remained in the saddle until the close of the action. This wound caused him considerable trouble throughout the remainder of his life, and indirectly hastened his death.

In the Thirty-sixth congress, which met in 1839, he was the recognized leader of the Democrats in the senate. His name for years had been frequently mentioned as a candidate of the Democratic party for the presidency. At the convention for the nomination of president in 1860 he received many votes, although his friends announced that he did not desire the nomination. Every schoolboy is informed as to the part Jefferson Davis took in the secession and the war that followed. Since the close of the rebellion Davis has remained most of the time at his rural home in Mississippi.

No Honors at the War Department.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—In accordance with the opinion of Secretary Proctor, no notice of any kind was taken by war department officials of Mr. Davis' death. The flag which has always been lowered to half mast when an ex-secretary dies, floated as usual from the top of the flag staff.

Lying in State.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 8.—Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock the doors of the municipal building where the body of Jefferson Davis is exposed were thrown open and thousands of citizens thronged into the broad passage and were escorted into the council chamber, where they were permitted to look on the features of the illustrious dead. It was an endless stream of ladies and gentlemen and little children. Every walk of life was represented.

Decorators are now at work all over the city and business houses and private residences are being draped in mourning. The entire city now wears a mourning dress.

The Funeral Arrangements.

The mayor and all of the city officials were present all morning watching the arrangements for the funeral as they were made. The program agreed on embraces a funeral procession, which will include all the civic and military organizations in the city.

The corpse will be conveyed to the Metairie cemetery, two and a half miles from the heart of the city, and the procession will march the entire distance. All the committees in charge of the arrangements for the obsequies will meet during the evening. The body was photographed this morning by Charles H. Adams, who also took a view of the death chamber and the interior and exterior of the city hall. The pictures will be issued in a history of the obsequies shortly to be published.

The widow of Jefferson Davis has written a card for publication, stating that it is a physical impossibility for her to answer the thousands of telegrams of condolence that have poured in from all parts of the United States. She, therefore, takes this means of expressing her appreciation of the profound sympathy exhibited by so many of Mr. Davis' friends to his bereaved and grateful family.

Approve Secretary Proctor's Action.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—The number of people passing into the city hall to view the body of Jefferson Davis was not diminished by the rainy weather. Many strangers are arriving in the city to join the ranks of the mourners.

The city officials say that under the peculiar circumstances of the case Secretary Proctor's reply to Mayor Shakespeare's announcement of Mr. Davis' death was very graceful and gave evidence of a kindly spirit.

The Picayune says: We are strongly led to the conclusion that the secretary of war so far from intending wrong has adopted what he believed and what we believe was a wise and conservative course in the premises.

In response to a telegram from Gen. Gordon, at the head of Confederate veterans, Governor Nicholls has appointed a committee to take charge of the fund to be raised for Mrs. Davis and her daughter. By midnight it was calculated 100,000 have passed the bar. Among those who came were the foreign consuls, the pupils of the high school and many Catholic priests and other clergymen.

Henry E. Searle Dead.
LONDON, Dec. 10.—A dispatch from Adelaide, South Australia, announces the death of Henry E. Searle, champion sarsman of the world.

LIQUOR SOLD TO MINORS.

An Important Interpretation of the Pennsylvania High License Law.

DOVERSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 9.—A case involving an important and interesting point in the liquor laws was decided here in the court of quarter sessions. One day in October last Charles B. Yost, landlord of the Wormansville hotel, this county, went away from home on business, but before leaving particularly cautioned his wife not to sell to minors or persons of intemperate habits. During the evening Edwin F. Holden and William Keeler, two youths aged about 19, entered the barroom and asked for a pint bottle of whisky. Before selling the liquor Mrs. Yost, who waited upon them, inquired of one of the boys, "Are you of age?" He replied, "Yes, ma'am, I am." Mrs. Yost then sold him the whisky.

Judges Yerkes in charging the jury said that where the landlord issued instructions to his agent or bartender not to sell to minors, to persons visibly intoxicated or to habitual drunkards, and the bartender disobeyed those orders, the landlord could not be convicted if the jury believed such orders to have been issued in good faith. In this case the fact that Mrs. Yost had been deceived by the young men falsely claiming to be of age added another extenuating circumstance. The jury rendered a verdict of not guilty.

THAWING OUT CARTRIDGES

Proves a Fatal Employment for Workmen Near Bradford, Pa.

BRADFORD, Pa., Dec. 7.—D. Tutolo, an Italian, was instantly killed, and G. Marhotta, also an Italian, and G. Moganis, a young Hungarian, were badly injured by an explosion of dynamite cartridges at Howard's Junction, four miles from this place.

The men were working on the Bradford and Johnstown railroad and went to a shanty to thaw out the frozen cartridges. The dynamite exploded, blowing the shanty to pieces and instantly killing Tutolo. He was horribly mangled and was almost unrecognizable. Moganis' clothes were torn from his person and he was badly hurt about the face and neck. Marhotta was brought to this city and is now lying at the Boylston street infirmary and will die. Moganis will recover.

To Shorten the Erie Route.

CARBONDALE, Pa., Dec. 9.—The Erie company has had for two years a corps of the finest surveyors and engineers running lines for a proposed shortening of their road between Honesdale and a point about two miles above Carbondale. It is now said there is no doubt that the project will be carried out. It will shorten the main line of the road seventy miles between Susquehanna and New York and avoid the heaviest and most expensive grade—that between Lackawanna and Deposit. To do this a tunnel will have to be made through the Mosaic mountain, but as rich beds of coal underlie this mountain the company expects to derive a double benefit from the work. The engineers will forward their final report to the Erie officials soon.

Verdict Against the Allentown Terminal

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Dec. 8.—The most important case that occupied the attention of the court last week was that of Jacob Geisinger vs. the Allentown Terminal railroad. It was for damages done to the former's farm, and he recovered $6,000. When the new railroad began its operations it took six acres of Geisinger's land for a "cut" near the East Penn junction. A commission appointed by the court to assess the damages awarded Geisinger $3,300, but he refused to accept that amount and brought suit for damages.

Man and Tree Come Down Together.

CATAWAUGA, Pa., Dec. 6.—Henry Fritz, of Treichler's Station, aged 24, met with an accident that will probably cause his death. He and several other men were at work at Berlinsville cutting down trees. The men cut a crotch in a tree that was over 45 feet high, and Fritz climbed to the top of it to fasten a rope to pull it down when the tree fell, carrying Fritz with it. Fritz had his jaw, shoulder and hip broken and also received internal injuries. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital, at South Bethlehem.

Killed His Father and Himself.

NAZARETH, Pa., Dec. 5.—People here were startled this morning upon hearing the report that William Hoffeditz, of this place, had been shot and killed at Butte, Mont., by his son, Arthur F. Hoffeditz, and that the latter had then committed suicide. William Hoffeditz had a wife and one son living at Nazareth, two daughters at Bethlehem and one at Mauch Chunk. The remains of father and son will be brought to Nazareth for interment.

A Historic Mansion Burned.

CARBONDALE, Pa., Dec. 5.—The Meredith homestead, familiarly known as Belmont, in Mount Pleasant township, Wayne county, was destroyed by fire. The dwelling was one of the handsomest in this region, and notwithstanding that it was the oldest structure in Wayne county, it was still well preserved. The building was built by Samuel Meredith, the first treasurer of the United States, in the year 1817.

An Electrical Apparatus Manufacturer.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 9.—A company for the manufacture of electrical apparatus in Scranton was organized here. Among prominent Scranton capitalists interested are William Connell, Henry Belin, Jr., W. T. Smith, L. N. Kramer, A. E. Hunt, E. B. Sturges, George Sanderson and H. J. Anderson. It is expected that the work will be ready in three months.

A General Road Law.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 7.—Governor Beaver has appointed the following commission to report a general road law: David McCargue, Pittsburg; Jacob Bollard, Conneautville; Cyrus Gordon, Clearfield; H. S. Goodwin, South Bethlehem; Samuel R. Downing, West Chester. These act in conjunction with three senators and five representatives.

Insists on Powderly's Arrest.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Dec. 10.—Ex-Representative Callaghan has again sworn out warrants charging T. V. Powderly and two local members of the Knights of Labor with conspiring to defeat him at the recent election.

Killed Mrs. Friend.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 10.—Marion Crowell, under the influence of liquor, went to Dunbar and in cold blood murdered his friend, Joseph Porter. He then came to Connelville and gave himself up.
