But how the two behaved,
One could not tell, it was so dark,
Had it not been for the remark
"O George, you must get shaved!"

"Crazy Lot," Saturday Jan. 17.

The attendance at the temperance rooms continues to be as large as ever.

"Crazy lot" company will appear at Garman's Opera House Saturday evening.

Sheriff Ishler was under the weather several days last week. He attributes the trouble to a change of drinking water.

The new are light system when in operation causes the telephone to rattle as though they were frying pork in the exchange.

Harry Schroyer will move his carpet store to the room occupied by Green's grocery, Crider's exchange, on the first of next March.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Bolger, of Woodbury, Blair county, Pa., died last week, the deaths occurring 24 hours apart. They were both people of advanced age.

The Y. M. C. A. is closed owing to a lack of funds. During the past few years the contributions have been falling off until it was impossible to meet all obligations.

A report was in circulation about Lock Haven, Monday morning, that there had been a large fire in Bellefonte which destroyed the Bush Arcade. Strange how such reports get about.

Last Friday was a sort of big day at the Garman House—Corney Garman, the manager, was presented with a bouncing 10lb baby girl by his good wife, and they all agree that it is a little jewel.

In order to make necessary repairs about their works the Collin's furnace will be closed down for several weeks. This plant has been in continuous operation for some eighteen months which is considered a good run.

David Bay, a consumptive, of Williamsport, is one of the patients in the Pennsylvania hospital, Philadelphia, who has submitted to injections of Dr. Koch lymph. His condition is slowly improving and he is confident of a permanent cure.

Mr. Robt. Seeds, the enterprising implement man of Tyrone, Pa., was in town on Monday and dropped into our sanctum for a short rest. He is a great democrat and was on his way home from the Jackson Banquet, held at Philadelphia, last Thursday.

A musical convention will be held in the Reformed church at Aaronsburg, commencing February 19th. It will be under the direction of Prof. W. T. Meyer, of this place. Two concerts—Thursday and Friday nights. This convention promises to be one of the best of the season.

The editor of the Curwensville Review, in referring to the present mining difficulty, says that "the baleful influence of men who have no interest in the miner's welfare beyond pocketing their salaries as district organizers is what keeps the miners poor and discontented." Is this charge correct?

Mr. W. F. Reber, of Bellefonte, court stenographer, of Centre and Huntingdon counties, was tendered the position of Assistant Executive Clerk, under Gov. Pattison. He would like to accept the position and would like to remain in Bellefonte which will be impossible and is debating in his mind as to what he will do.

A farmer named Joseph Smith, of Jerseytown, Columbia county, came to Williamsport the first of the year in answer to letters received from a swindling concern in that city. Smith had $250 in his possession when he arrived in the city at seven o'clock in the evening. The next morning he woke up in a corn field and with only $2 in his pocket. He went home a sadder and, let us hope, a wiser man.

Mr. Frank L. Hutter, printer and bookbinder, of Harrisburg, was in town on Monday and Tuesday and appeared to have some very important business on hand with supplement-suppresser Jimmy and the new board of County Commissioners. He was here to make that board believe that $400 worth of blanks had been ordered and ought to be paid. Feidler is now trying to drop out of the arrangement altogether—a sort of a change of base.

A friend of ours just informed us that McFarlane's are selling off their heating stoves at cost. They don't make any fuss about it, but people with the cash can get bargains there. They are doing this to make room for their new stock of Apollo Ranges, and Regulator Cook Stoves now coming in. The Apollo Range is growing in favor every day with the people who use it. No one should be without it nor buy a stove or range until they have examined it.

MORE ABOUT THOSE BLANKS.

JIM, FEIDLER CAN'T WORK HIS SCHEME.

The Democratic Commissioners will not accept Feidler's blanks—What John D. Decker has to say about the matter—Another sly game.

Last week we gave our readers an account of the attempt of Jim Feidler to work the county treasury for a $400 bill of printing. In the next issue this fellow comes out in his paper and denies the whole charge. This supplement suppresser is as slippery and slimy as an eel and can wiggle out of any hole if you give him a chance. He denies that Henderson authorized him to furnish the county with stationery; part was printed in the Gazette office and the balance by Frank Hutter, book bindery Harrisburg, for Feidler. The work done at home was finally accepted, for certain reasons, but the balance was not, which amounted to over $400 on which there was a percentage of about $85 clear money for Feidler and Henderson and that is the reason Decker refused to accept the work. The supplement suppresser dodges the charge by speaking only of the $80 of work done at home and forgets to mention the Hutter blanks ordered by them.

JOHNNY DECKER WRITES.

On Monday we received a letter from ex-commissioner Decker, which explains the whole affair:

CENTRE HALL, Jan. 12th, 1891.

MR. KURTZ:

Dear Sir—I am ever so much obliged to you. I did not read your paper of last week but others told me what you had in it—it is all truth. Let them have all that there is in the case. Henderson did do his utmost best to get me to sign that $400 dollar bill; but I did not sign any except the $82 dollar bill, as I did not want to stick Mr. Cassidy and C. P. Hewes. If they got anything else in they obtained it by fraud—that is Strohm and Henderson. Strohm and (Jim) Feidler were at that work.

Send me your paper—I can't take Feidler's (the Gazette) any longer.

I will see you when I come over.

Yours,

JOHN D. DECKER.

Now let Jim Feidler deny that he was in cahoot with Henderson to work a job on the taxpayers of the county. Decker's letter mentions it and denounces it as "a fraud." The package of stationery has been in the express office-at this place the past few weeks and the commissioners will not accept it. They don't want to have any dealings with men like James Feidler whom you must continually hold at arms length for fear of him lifting everything moveable. He failed to work the steal under the Republican board. He has the stock on hand and is anxious to dispose of it. When the new board organized, he tried the following plan.

On Saturday night Jan. 3, about 10 p. m. the following conversation occurred between Feidler and Strohm over the wire. The new board was to be organized the following Monday.

BY TELEPHONE.

Hello—"Is that you, Strohm?"

Ans.—"Yes."

"Are you alone in the office?"

Ans.—"Yes."

"I want you to get hold of that south-side man (Conn-elect-Goodhart) early on Monday morning when he arrives; see that you are sworn into office early; enter that contract on the minutes; when 'that south-side man' comes up you see that he is sworn in. You two will be a majority, without waiting on Adams; then you can pass that bill. You can do without Adams. Jim, will you attend to it?"

Strohm appeared surprised and tried to explain that he "could not speak for Mr. Goodhart."

Feidler answered—"Jim, you stay there and I will be up to see you."

This is the substance of the conversation as near as can be related and gives the facts. Now if there was no job why did he attempt such a game, his own words over the telephone that night convict him of the charge yet like a crouching cur he answers only by a denial. He can't work the man from "the south side" because he is too good a Democrat to pull for the Gazette. Frank Adams has no favors to extend in that direction and his bill won't pass them.

As the commissioners will only deal with an honest man, Feidler has appointed Mr. Hutter to act for him. Hutter now claims that he had the contract for the printing for the county, instead of Feidler, but the minutes in the coms. office have no record of such dealings with either. Hutter presented a bill for the same but no goods were received from him. Feidler is trying to help Hutter, and Hutter wants the bill passed to help Feidler out as he has good reasons to be afraid of Feidler ever paying him, Hutter. Monday and Tuesday was spent by Mr. Hutter running to and fro at the coms. office and the bill has not passed at this writing.

22—In the next issue of the Gazette you will see a full and sweeping denial of all the above charges—a la G. W. Delamater. Assignment may follow.

Country Editor in the City.

Newspaper men, like all mortals, have a weakness to see their names in print. For that reason we clip the following from Saturday's Philad. Inquirer:

Charles R. Kurtz, of Bellefonte, editor of the Centre Democrat, is in town stopping at the Lafayette. Editor Kurtz worked hard to turn Centre county in the Democratic column in the recent election with abundant success. He was present with all the other true Democrats at the grand banquet at the Academy on Wednesday night to Jackson.

THE MAJOR SPANKS THEM.

How Unruly Convicts are Treated in Huntingdon Reformatory.

As is well known, Major Robert W. McClaghry, recently warden of the state penitentiary at Joliet, is now the successful warden of the state reformatory at Huntingdon, Pa. He has conceived and adopted a new system of punishment for such institutions, which will doubtless provoke extended discussion at the next World's Prison Congress.

One day the sharp-eyed Major, detecting one of the inmates in violation of the rules of the shoe shop, picked up a leather sole at hand and treated the astonished offender to a thorough and impressive spanking. The effect was so wholesome and touching that it came to the Major as an inspiration that he had stumbled across the ideal nineteenth century system of punishment. He adopted the process at once and is charmed with its success.

For fear that exaggerated reports of the punishment might reach the public and accusations of undue severity follow, he concluded to confer with the higher authorities in relation to it. He interviewed the governor of Pennsylvania and explained the plan and its workings to him. The governor was convulsed with laughter, and said: "Major, I heartily congratulate you on having struck the keynote, and I assure you that the good people of this Commonwealth will sustain you in this 'war measure.' I promise you the backing of the National Guard, if necessary, in your poetic plan of spanking reformation into your rebellious subjects."

He then called upon the chairman of State Board of Charities, an old-time Quaker, and explained the situation to him. The Quaker chairman smiled broadly and said: "Major, they deserve thanks, and should go on with thy noble work. It reminds me of my sainted mother, who has been in heaven many a year. It was her favorite method of correction, and I tell thee, major, she did it well. It is proper and humane, and I approve of thee handsomely spanking the boys into submission and obedience."

The Major returned to his reformatory thoroughly convinced that his improved process of punishment would receive general approbation. So now the weekly spanking school is a feature of the institution, and the Major's own strong right arm wields the avenging leather. The result is quite beneficial, and the infractions of the rules are less frequent and flagrant, as the inmates have a wholesome dread of the shame, disgrace and stinging pain of the Major's orthodox spanks.

Found His Wife a Corpse.

There was a startling death in Philipsburg on Thursday evening last, on South Second street, near the Haven A. M. E. church, the victim being Mrs. M. E. Boyle and the particulars of which are thus related by the Philipsburg Journal: "The husband, Hugh Boyle, returned to his home at the usual hour for supper to find that quiet reigned supreme. Not finding his wife at home he lighted the fire in the basement, as is his habit. Thinking that his wife was down shopping he patiently waited in expectation of her return. Having occasion to go up stairs he found her on the bed. On trying to awaken her as he thought she was asleep and she not making any movements in response, he was alarmed, and soon learned that she was sleeping the sleep of death. He sent at once for medical aid, and the doctors declared that death had seized the poor woman as his prey fully three hours previously. The family came from Scotland many years since, and are well known in this city, particularly in the immediate neighborhood of their residence."

To Weigh the Mails.

Orders have just been issued by the Second Assistant Postmaster General of the United States, directing that all the mails handled on the various railroads be weighed by the railroad officials, beginning on January 15th, and continuing until March 25th. The weight during that time will form the basis for the contract price to be paid the railroads by the government for carrying the mails until the next weighing time is ordered, which will be in about four years.

Out of One Jail Into Another.

B. S. Schwartz, who has just completed a term in the Centre County Jail, was arrested upon his release and taken to Williamsport, on Saturday, on a charge of forgery. The crime for which he is held was the forging the name of J. G. King to a promissory note for $250. He was held for court.

Gorman's Minstrels.

Next Tuesday evening our people will have an opportunity to hear Gorman's Minstrels. This band of musicians is one of the best combinations of its kind on the road. They have a fine band and will give a street parade at noon of that day. Don't fail to hear them.

"Crazy Lot"

That is the name of the company that will appear in Garman's opera house next Saturday evening. The company includes expert gymnasts, fine dances, comedians, first class actors. A matinee in the afternoon.

MARSHAL DILL DEAD.

A History of the Well-Known Democrat.

Andrew H. Dill, United States Marshal for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, died early Sunday morning at his home in Philadelphia. He was unconscious at the last, and apparently suffered little pain. The members of the immediate family, his brother, Wm. H. Dill, and his law partner, Morrison Beale, were at the bedside at the time of death. There will be funeral services this morning at 10 o'clock, and the body will be taken to Levisburg, for interment on Wednesday.

Mr. Dill was a native of Baltimore, and was born January 18, 1839. His father was a Methodist clergyman and moved his family to this State when Andrew was quite young. He graduated from Dickinson College in 1855 and was admitted to the Bar three years later, his first office being opened at Gettysburg. Later he went to Huntsville, Alabama, where he remained until 1869, when he returned to this State and opened an office at Clearfield. In the same year he was elected to the lower House of the State Legislature, and in 1870 to the Senate. He was nominated by the Democratic party as its candidate for Governor in 1878, but was defeated by Henry M. Hoyt. He was appointed to the Marshalship by President Cleveland to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Marshal Kerns in 1887, and in 1888 was re-appointed for the full term. The immediate cause of death was Bright's disease accompanied by blood-poisoning.

Nearly Frozen to Death.

Joseph Hall, living at Beaver Mills, was in Philipsburg on last Wednesday, and started home in the evening pretty well intoxicated. Mr. Jas. Ardell, who also lives at Beaver, saw Hall leave town. Later in the evening Mr. Ardell drove home and stopped at Hall's to see whether the old man had got home all safe. He found he had not arrived, and Mr. Ardell, with some other men, went back to look for him. They found by the tracks in the snow that the sled had left the road at McCord's and the track led down the Forge Run railway. They followed the track until they came to where the horse and sled and man had upset and tumbled off the railway down the mountain. The horse was dead, and old man Hall was almost dead. He was taken home, and by rubbing and bathing and other means of resuscitation was restored to consciousness, and will come around all right with the exception of some frost bites. He had gone to sleep in his sled and the horse had wandered down the railroad and stumbled over the cliff. Hall was too much intoxicated to know anything about it. He would have frozen to death in a little while if he had not been rescued.—Philipsburg Ledger.

Three Deaths.

On Monday morning Mr. Frank Pile, aged about 30 years, died at the home of his father, Colonel Eyre Pile, on Allegheny street. Frank was a most estimable young man. For a number of years he clerked in the store of S. & A. Loeb and while there made many warm friends. His death, which was caused by consumption, will be lamented by all who knew him.

WILLIAM MORRIS.

On Sunday afternoon, Mr. William Morris, of Milesburg, departed this life for the realms of the unknown. Deceased was a brother of Squire J. Irvin Morris, and was aged about 35 years. He had been ailing for some time and his death was the result of a complication of diseases.

DANIEL LUTZ.

On Sunday morning, Mr. Daniel Lutz, a middle-aged farmer living near Zion, got up to shut a stair door when he dropped dead from heart failure. He was well known by most everybody in Bellefonte and surrounding community and was always held in high estimation by all his acquaintances.—News.

The Delamaters Arrested.

The Delamaters, including the late Republican candidate for Governor, have been arrested by the County commissioners of Crawford county, for embezzlement of the county funds. The charge made by the Commissioners is that they accepted $50,000 of the county's money for their bank knowing themselves to be insolvent at the time. Each of three members of the firm were required to give bail for court in the sum of $10,000.

After an Appropriation.

It is said that Dr. Atherton of Penn's State College, is at Harrisburg, at present for the purpose of having the State make an appropriation of $200,000, to complete improvements about that institution. That is a nice sum of money and there is little doubt but that it would be judiciously expended. The Penn's State College is slowly blossoming into one of the leading schools of the country.

This office is stocked with a complete outfit for doing all kinds of poster work. New type, new material just added. If you want an attractive sale bill try the CENTRE DEMOCRAT—our prices are reasonable.

On Tuesday noon a small fire at the residence of ex-treasurer Goss caused some excitement, but little damage was done.

Lovers of fine horses would do well to visit the stable of Graham & Co. There they can see nine head of as fine looking and number one draught horses as you would wish to see. We are told they wish to dispose of a couple of teams.

ANON.

The Wrong Fellow.

Charles Noll was in a box last Saturday. A young lady passed him at the post office and cast daggers at him with her fierce eyes. Next she braced up in front of him clinching her fist remarked: "I know you; you don't make a fool of me. Your name is Aust. B—; you insulted me last night at the dance, so you did. I'm going to arrest you, so I will. Your name is Aust. B—, aint it?" Poor Charley began to quake and tried to beg off. Said that was not his name; that she was on to the wrong fellow. She then gave him a severe tongue lashing and she only desisted after he called several witness who proved a "halibut" and cleared up to the wrong fellow; instead of the said Aust. B—she was talking to one of the most inoffensive and gentlemanly lads of the town who would risk his life rather than see a young lady insulted. Noll says he was never in such a stew in all his days, and is of the opinion that some one must have borrowed his face to attend that dance. He is completely non-plussed.

A Rational Campaign.

From the New York World.

The plan of campaign outlined to the democratic congressional committee by Chairman Kerr, of Pennsylvania, is a rational one. It looks to a "campaign of education" extending over all the year, whereby the voters are to be informed as to democratic principles and policies through the medium of their local newspapers. This is obviously better than the old plan of dumping a lot of speeches and documents into the mails a month or two before the election. But while the committee is telling the party editors what congressmen are doing, they should themselves keep an eye on the independent democratic press to learn what the public is asking and expecting. Elections cannot be carried from Washington.
