COFFIN NOTICES AGAIN CURRENT.

Mine Bosses in the Vicinity of Girardville and Shenandoah Receive Warnings in the Old Familiar Form-A Tea Peddiar Has a Narrow Escape.

GIRARDVILLE, Pa., Feb. 7 .-- For several weeks past a number of mine bosses and prominent citizens have received anonymous criminal communications similar to those received during the reign of the Molly Maguires. During the reign of terror, mining bosses particularly, seemed to be the objects of hatred to the worst members of the community, and in the language of the times, they were among the first to re-ceive coff a notices. Rumor, ever busy, never before had so much attention be stowed upon her utterances, but in spite of all the ferocity and horrid wickedness attributed to the members of that society, nothing that was related or ever imagined, was as bad as the reality.

THE WIRES ARE SNOWBOUND

Consequently Auburn Has a Big Fire with No Fire Alarm.

AUBURN, N. Y., Feb. 9 .-- A violent snow storm set in about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and continued without abatement until midnight. The snow was wet and soon loaded the wires to such an extent that the telegraph and phone wires began to break down in all directions, and large numbers of fruit and shade trees were broken down by the wind. The snow is frozen to the wires, and they are thirteen inches in circumference.

The buildings of the old Sheldon works were being fitted up as a forge works took fire, and owing to the demoralization of the fire alarm circuits no alarm could be sent in. The buildings, together with the machinery, which was being set up by the forge company were totally destroyed. Loss estimated at $10,000.

MINERS SAVED.

The Three Imprisoned Men at Nanticoke Rescued.

HEMMED IN BY THE WATER.

They Are Found Alive-For Days and Nights They Went Without Food or Drink, and Neither Moved Nor Closed Their Eyes in Sleep. Rejoicings at Their Rescue.

NANTICOKE, Pa., Feb. 10.—The three miners, John N. Ripeer, William Cragle and Michael Shelank, have been rescued. These mer, it will be remem-bered, were imprisoned in the Grand Tunnel colliery last Wednesday by a flood of water which broke upon them from an underground working which the foreman, Thomas Lewis, let loose upon them by a blast, and from which three others narrowly escaped. The men were found yesterday morning, the steady working of the pumps having reduced the water sufficiently to allow men on rafts to float across the gangway and reach the place where the men

Joy at Their Rescue.

They hailed their rescuers with glad shouts. They were suffering tetribly from thirst, but said they did not feel severely the pangs of hunger, although all three were very weak. They were wild with joy when their rescuers reached them, and hugged and kissed them frantically. Milk was at once given them as nourishment. They were carried upon improvised stretchers across the water upon the shoulders of men who waded. The place where they found sale ty was but six feet above the height reached by the water, and this small space at the head of a cross J. A. Shipman, a prominent lawyer of heading was their only refuge until Kearney, Neb., was arrested charged with help came. The men neither slept nor forging notes and mortgages aggregating moved from their narrow quarters. moved from their narrow quarters. They were taken from the mine to their home shortly after 6 o'clock. The little village is wild with joy over the escape of the men. How the Miners Were Rescued. The men were found in an almost exhausted condition from their 115 hours' imprisonment, and will require care to bring them through. Their sufferings have been intense, but they were buoyed by the hope of being rescued, and the outcrop working being fairly well ventilated they were able to secure enough pure air to keep them alive. The great pumps used to clear the water from the inundated portion were run to their utmost capacity, and during the night the water receded very much. When at a point sufficiently low in the morning a raft was hastily constructed in the workings, and on this the rescuing party managed to get through the gangways to a point in the vein, where the coal had a pitch of forty degrees. The raft was turned into the cross heading, and the men were found up above the water sitting on a cross timber or piece of logging, whither they had gone immediately after they discovered the water coming in upon them on Wednesday.

Before they had advanced many steps the water was up to their necks and they were carried along by its force. Being aware of the pitch in the vein, they happily selected the only point in the workings where they could have gone in safety and perched themselves on the timbers high above the flood. Their only lamp lasted three hours, and from about 6 o'clock Wednesday they sat on this timber in total darkness, without a morsel to eat, until their rescue.

Two of Them Were Crazed.

Two of the men became crazed at times, and with the greatest difficulty their single companion managed to keep them from leaving the cross heading during the long, weary hours that in tervened. Their position was beyond all description, and but for the knowledge that their liberated companions in despair. Intense excitement prevails, and the company is praised on every Uniontown. Pa., has issued a circular to hand for the exhaustive measures they took to rescue the unfortunate men.

The Nanticoke Disaster.

NANTICOKE, Pa., Feb. 6.—The water which broke down an old working in the Grand Tunnel company and flooded the gangway, carrying a number of workmen along, reached an elevation of 600 feet in the mine. Three of the men, John Riner, William Cragle and Mike Shelarski have not since been heard from, and they are believed to be drowned. It is possible they may have escaped to an old airway off from the point they were working at, and Inside Superintendent Reese and Mine Inspector Williams have hopes of rescuing them alive if the water can be reduced by pumping.

That Little Tickling

In your throat, which makes you cough once in a while and keeps you constantly clearing your throat, arises from catarrh, and as datarrh is a constitutional disease the ordinary cough medicines all fail to hit the spot. What cough medicines all fail to hit the spot. What you need is constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla. Many people who have taken this medicine for scrofula, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, and other troubles, have been surprised that it should cure this troublesome cough. But to know the actual cause of the cough is to solve the mystery. Many cases of consumption can be traced back to the neglect of some such slight affection as this. Consumption can be controlled in its early stages, and the effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla in purifying the blood, building up the general health, and expelling the scrofulous taint which is the cause of catarrh and consumption, has restored to perfect health many persons on whom this
