If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. A Boston lady, whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below: "In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me by their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I had taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, knew what it was, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other. When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." Mrs. ELLA A. GORF, 61 Terrace Street, Boston.

Items of Real Interest Presented in Condensed Form.

WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS DO AND SAY

A Chapter of Accidents, Crimes and Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There in the State and Flashing Over the Busy Fires.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., June 15.—Quarterly commencement of the Lehigh University opened Saturday. The inaugural sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. E. W. Donald, rector of the Church of the Ascension, New York city.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—Fire was discovered in the main building of the immense abattoir, at Thirty-second and Arch streets, and resulted in the total destruction of the group of buildings, sheddings, etc., which studded the acres of ground.

READING, Pa., June 15.—The banks of this city have decided not to observe the Saturday half holiday under the recent act passed by the legislature. They allege that to close at noon on Saturday during the summer months would seriously interfere with business.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., June 15.—While Robert Stratton, aged 20, of North Coventry, Chester county, was forcing a cartridge into a revolver with his knife it exploded and the bullet penetrated his groin. A physician probed for it, but was unsuccessful in extracting it. It is believed the wound will prove fatal.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—The woolen goods manufacturing firm of Seville Schofield, Son & Co., of Manayunk, are seriously embarrassed financially, and the firm has in contemplation an assignment for the benefit of creditors. The firm consists of Seville Schofield, William S. Schofield and William M. Somers.

ERIE, Pa., June 15.—The body of Capt. William Clarke, the keeper of the life saving station who was lost in the surf while assisting the Badger State, has been brought in. It was washed up three miles from where Capt. Clarke lost his life. While not a button was torn from his clothes, his fine $300 watch was missing. It is believed that the body was robbed.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 16.—The board of returns judges of the Republican primary election met yesterday and adopted the majority report of the investigating committee, which elected H. C. Brubaker judge and defeated Judge Livingston. The Livingston members withdrew, and will meet next Monday, and will probably place Judge Livingston on the ticket.

CARLEISLE, Pa., June 16.—A large and enthusiastic Republican convention met here yesterday and nominated the following county ticket: Sheriff, Lafayette Woods, of Mechanicsburg; director of poor, Isaac Pechart; jury commission, Dr. A. R. May; coroner, Dr. J. C. Davis, delegates to state convention, J. M. Shearer, of Pine Grove, and J. N. Young, of Mechanicsburg.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 15.—William Evans, a married man, 40 years of age, was instantly killed at the Conyngham mine. In some unknown manner he fell through the narrow space between the carriage and the side of the shaft. He struck the bucket and bounding off, fell to the bottom of the shaft, 300 feet below. His body was terribly mangled and mutilated.

READING, Pa., June 16.—The mysterious disappearance of Beatrice Wagner, aged 11 years, is puzzling the police officials of this city. She left her home last Saturday afternoon, and since then all trace of the girl has been lost. She had $2.70 in her possession. The family came to this city from Wilkesbarre six weeks ago. Her relatives fear that she has been enticed away.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., June 15.—What is supposed to have been a spontaneous explosion of mill dust occurred in G. W. Hipple's planing mill, and the fire which resulted caused the destruction of the plant, together with a large lot of finished work. Workmen were thrown down by the concussion and many of the men were more or less burned by the flames. The loss will reach $50,000.

EASTON, Pa., June 16.—Joseph Searfoss, aged 15 years, and his brother, aged 11 years, sons of Joseph H. Searfoss, of Reigsville, took a stroll along the canal there, the former carrying a gun loaded with coarse shot. The gun accidentally discharged, the entire load entering one side of Frank's body and coming out on the other side. Frank died half an hour later. Joseph and his parents are prostrated with grief.

READING, Pa., June 16.—Two serious accidents occurred to cherry pickers in this city, one of which, it is believed, will prove fatal. George E. Whiston, aged 17, fell from a cherry tree a distance of thirty feet, striking upon his side and back. He sustained internal injuries and is suffering with hemorrhages. His condition is critical. Dan Shaffer, aged 10 years, son of George Shaffer, fell from a cherry tree and broke his leg below the knee.

READING, Pa., June 15.—Snakes seem to have overrun many parts of the Schuylkill valley. A rare monster called a "king snake," fully six feet long, with a head shaped like a double crown, and with brilliant crimson spots over its black head, which terminate with a deadly sting at the tail, has appeared on J. K. Gilbert's farm, near Straoustown, bringing great consternation with it. All efforts to kill or capture it have so far been fruitless.

A little daughter of Frederick Milard, of South Birdsboro, whom she considered a beautiful living plaything in the front yard, and was in the act of picking it up with her fingers when her father came up and dispatched it. It proved to be a wampum snake, a deadly cross between a copperhead and a rattlesnake.

A squad of men representing a Philadelphia museum caught a great array of live snakes the other day along Sacony creek. One of the party was bitten on the finger by a copperhead and another by a rattler, and both are expected to die.

Mrs. Joseph Ruppert, an aged lady near Hamburg, was severely bitten in the foot by a copperhead while walking in her garden. Her leg is terribly swollen, and she suffers excruciating agony. Frank Danfert, a laborer near Lansdale, handled a big copperhead with the intention of charming it, but the angry monster sunk its fangs repeatedly into his hands, and he is now dying. The number and size of snakes that have been killed this month are simply enormous.

BARDSLEY PLEADS GUILTY.

His Defalcations Now Foot Up a Total of $1,035,000.

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—John Bardley, ex-city treasurer of Philadelphia, was brought up from Moyamensing prison in the regular prison van and arraigned in the quarter sessions, before Judges Fell and Wilson, on seven separate indictments charging him with loaning money as a public officer, deriving gain from the deposit of public money and converting public money to his own use. Bardley pleaded guilty to every count of the indictment, but in such a low voice that few could hear him.

It was then arranged that the 24th inst. should be set for hearing the evidence for and against Bardley, and the court could then weigh it and pronounce sentence.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—The anxiously awaited opinion of the supreme court as to the legality of the election, of Mr. Richard G. Oellers by city council as city treasurer, or the appointment of W. Redwood Wright by Governor Pattison, was handed down yesterday. The court stood four to three on the decision. It ousted Mr. Oellers from the position, and confirmed the appointment of Wright.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—John Bardley proposes to make a full and complete statement of his transaction with public funds when he appears in court. He made this statement to a friend who visited him in prison.

Mr. Bardley's defalcations now foot up $1,375,000. Of this the state loses $942,000 and the city $554,000. In addition to this Mr. Bardley has managed to cover up or lose $300,000, which he made since he became treasurer, making a grand total of $1,635,000 that he has gotten away with.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The statement prepared by Comptroller Lacey and sent to Mayor Stuart of Philadelphia, on the course pursued by him with the Keystone Bank of that city, was made public here last night. The statement includes the letter of Bank Examiner Drew of June 24, notifying him of the $100,000 defalcation of Lucas, the late president of the bank. In this letter Mr. Drew explains the account of the manipulation of the accounts of the bank, Lucas, with the assistance of Marsh, the former cashier of the bank, abstracted large sums of money from the bank to use in speculations in real estate. Marsh, he reported, was ignorantly led into these transactions and promised Lucas when the latter was on his death bed to continue the deception under the representations that the money abstracted would soon be returned to the bank for the result of Lucas's enterprises. Accompanying this letter was a preliminary statement of the bank's condition, which left the capital stock of a half million intact, and a net surplus of $35,819.

CHESTER, Pa., June 15.—A few minutes after 3 o'clock on Thursday morning a delapidated coupe drawn by one horse reached the outskirts of the north-east end of this city. Officer O'Toole saw the rig in the central part of the street and he halted the driver, who said he had brought the two men from Philadelphia, and that they wanted to go to South Chester, but meant they would walk the rest of the way. After a while the thought struck him that they must be crooks or, perhaps, Marsh. The cabman was found at a livery stable, getting his horse fed, but he refused to talk because it was none of his business giving "loads" away. He admitted having been given $12 for his trip, and that was all he could get out of him.

H. H. Yard Surrenders. PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—H. H. Yard, who was arrested in Trenton on Friday last, on the charge of conspiring with John Bardley to misuse city and state money, came to Philadelphia from his Jersey home yesterday, surrendered himself to Magistrate Pole, waived a hearing, and was held in $10,000 bail for trial.

Heat Expanded the Rails. GILTON, Wis., June 16.—Passenger train No. 3, on the Milwaukee and Northern road, left the track about six miles south of this city. The wreck was caused by the heat expanding the rails and throwing the track out of gauge. The baggage car and two coaches jumped the track. The following were injured: Richard Wagner, German Stadt Theatre company, Milwaukee, back hurt; Mrs. C. F. Dutton, of Milwaukee, slight injury in the side. Several others were more or less scratched and bruised.

The Forepaugh Estate. PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—The account of Mary G. Forepaugh and John A. Brown, executors of Adam Forepaugh, was adjudicated by Judge Ferguson in the orphans' court. Under the will one-half of the residuary estate goes to the widow and the other half is held in trust for the son, Adam Forepaugh Jr. $275,969.13 was divided between them. The same division was made of the real estate, appraised at $300,000. About $30,000 income accruing since Mr. Forepaugh's death was also paid from time to time.

The Brown Murder Trial. MEDIA, Pa., June 12.—The case of the commonwealth against Frank Quinn, who with his three companions, George and Alfred Gell and John Crispe, was charged with the murder of William Brown in the labor riot at Chester on April 1, was resumed before Judge Clayton. There was a one sidedness in all of the testimony of the witnesses, with the weight in favor of an acquittal of the defendant on the ground of self defense.

Woolen Mills Ablaze. PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—The great woolen mills of Charles Spener & Co., in Germantown, known as the Leicester mills, caught fire at 12:25 this morning in the woolen storage department, and in a few moments the big structure was enveloped in flames. After over an hour's battle the fire was gotten under control, but not before the third floor and the stock it contained were destroyed. The loss will be about $30,000, fully insured.

The Express Collides with a Freight. SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—A collision occurred between the Los Angeles express and a freight train at Port Costa. The locomotives of both trains were badly smashed, and the mail and express car on the passenger train were demolished. Brakeman Jordan, of the freight, was killed, and Engineers Moore and Abbott and both firemen were injured. It is reported that a large number of passengers were injured. C. S. Sprague, mail clerk, was killed and two other mail clerks apparently hurt.

A TOUGH TOWN.

IT WAS NEWTON, KAN., NOW A NICE AND ORDERLY CITY.

For Downright Cruelty and Cold Killing It Had No Equal—The Gun Settled All Disputes—It Was Death to Be Marshal.

Nobody ever knew of a tougher town than Newton, Kan., was in the early days of its existence. Nobody knows of a more lovely or more peaceable city than that same place is today. In the spring of 1871 the terminus of the Santa Fe railroad was at Emporia. It was determined to build to a point seventy-five miles further west. The object was to catch the Texas cattle trade. On the 14th of April, 1871, the writer reached the banks of Sand creek. Two men were found camped there. There was not a foot of lumber in what is now Harvey county, Kan. These men were the pioneers of the town that Capt. John Sebastian afterward named Newton.

Six weeks later there was a population of nearly 2,000. The history of the town for its first eight months is a story of lawlessness and blood that has never been equalled on this continent. Other places, mining camps and cattle towns, have kept up the music of the pistol a greater length of time, but for downright cruelty and cold killing Newton wears the belt. As soon as it became known that Newton was to be the end of the railroad for a year, and that it was to be a cattle shipping point, whisky sellers, gamblers and thieves flocked there by hundreds. Of course many respectable men, seeking legitimate business, went there, too, but the great majority of the new comers were dangerous.

PREACHING IN A GAMBLING DEN. They migrated there for the purpose of robbing the cowboys and cattlemen. For months it was a never ending battle between these law breakers on the one side and the men who knew no law on the other. From first to last thirty-six were killed with their boots on. At least a dozen gambling houses had places on the main street, keeping their doors wide open day and night time, Sunday and all the time. One of them, the "Gold Room," was capable of holding 500 or 600 people. Every known kind of gambling was practiced. A sight was seen in this place one Sunday night that is not often witnessed. A Methodist preacher went to the scene of the place, "Doc" Thayer, and requested permission to hold divine services. It was granted, and with every gambling table running, the bar serving out its liquid hell, that preacher, the Rev. Mr. Hahn, stood up and told the story of the Mass of Nazareth. Before he had finished his sermon a quarrel arose at one of the card tables and a man was shot. A detailed account of the killing and murders is not intended. If a gang of cowboys rode into town the smallest provocation would set their guns going, and going to kill.

A bond election was held. Several special constables were appointed for election day. One of them was a Texan named Martin. At the polls there was a quarrel between a big Irishman, who went by the name of McCluskey, and the special constable, Martin. The result of that quarrel was the death of eight men and one woman, and the wounding of just an equal number. After the election was over McCluskey and Martin met in the Lone Star saloon and renewed the quarrel. A proposition was made and accepted to go out on the street and settle it with the fist. Both men laid off their belts and started for the street. Martin, however, had a gun hidden in his boot, and just as the door was reached he went down after it, intending to kill the Irishman; but McCluskey was too quick for him, and taking the gun away from him, shot him dead. McCluskey gave himself up and was acquitted. Martin had a host of friends, and they vowed vengeance on his slayer.

THE "BIG KILLING." The death of Martin led to what has always been known as the "big killing" in Newton. There were three dance halls across the railroad track in what was known as "Hyde Park." In one of them the "big killing" occurred. McCluskey was a hanger on at one of them. Martin's friends swore they would kill him and all that took his part. Martin's friends got the worst of the fight. It was known by both sides that the fracas was likely to happen on a certain night. The engagement took place accordingly. McCluskey was killed early in the fray, two holes through his neck and enough head scattered around through his body to make any one who slugs him up after a while imagine that he has struck a paying lead mine. A man on the McCluskey side shot nine of the long horn crowd and did it in a novel way. Knowing that the fight would occur, this man, Riley by name, went prepared to make himself felt. He had four six shooters on him. At the first pop of a gun he deliberately walked up to a Texan and shot him in the eye; then running his two arms between the arms and body of the dead man, he made a human barricade and shot at will from a safe ambush. After the fight ended he went out, mounted a horse and left. The dead at the big killing were speedily disposed of, the wounded taken care of.

BOSS OF THE "SIDE TRACK." Mike Fitzpatrick kept a dive that he called the "Side Track." The unlucky chap that got in there found himself side tracked until his money was gone. Some of the decent people were bold enough to protest against some of his robberies, among others a prominent merchant. Mike did not like any interference with his business, and one morning he loaded himself a little fuller than usual with his vile whisky and started out to do a little slaughtering. The merchant was sought, but happened to be out of the store. Mike went up the street terrorizing everybody and walked into a saloon. There he saw the city's police judge, George Halliday, and without the slightest provocation or a word of warning he shot him through the heart. The marshal, Jack Johnson, had been advised that Mike was on a raid and had started to capture him. Seeing Mike coming out of the saloon, Johnson took a rest for his Winchester rifle on the well curb and shot him down. This was Newton's last killing. In an hour afterward the citizens had formed a league and the suspicious characters were notified to leave. They left. Only a few incidents are mentioned; only a few of the shootings are noted. Tom Carson, a nephew of old Kit Carson, was sent for and came to take the marshaling of the town. He stayed three weeks. The toughs had it in for him, and to save his life he skipped. "Wild Bill" (J. H. Hickox) tried to be marshal. He couldn't do it. Marshal King was killed in the discharge of his duties, and altogether it was the toughest town on record.

The person who sees the lovely city today, the county seat of one of the best counties (Harvey) in the state, with its business, its opera houses, its street cars, gas and water works, and talks with its law abiding and well awake citizens, little dreams of the scenes of blood witnessed in its infancy.—Omaha Herald.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

PROMOTING TEMPERANCE.

The agency of the railroad companies in promoting temperance is not generally appreciated. They employ 680,912 persons, not counting those who mine the coal and iron, make the rails or locomotives, or build cars and carriages by the road. The freight and passenger traffic of the country is practically controlled by 600 of these corporations, and of these 600 no less than 375 prohibit the use of intoxicating liquors by their employees, among the number being most of the largest companies. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers uses its influence in the same direction. "Whenever a member of the order is known to be dissipated," says Mr. Arthur, long the head of the organization, "we not only expel or suspend him, but notify his employers," and during the last year 375 members were expelled for this cause. This is only one illustration of the way in which practical business considerations are operating to promote the spread of temperance. They simply cannot afford to employ a man who is liable any day to get drunk and precipitate some terrible disaster. In like manner other employers find that it pays them much better to hire a man who is not in the habit of drinking than one who may be intoxicated when his services are most needed, and between two applicants they give the preference to the one upon whom they can depend. The average workman thus comes to see that it is "money in his pocket," in more senses than one, if he keeps out of the saloon, and the moral is not lost upon him.—N. Y. Evening Post.

Liquor Habit Cured. By administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific. It is manufactured as a powder, which can be given in a glass of beer, a cup of coffee or tea, or in food, without the knowledge of the patient. It is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an incurable impossibility for the liquor habit to enter. Cures guaranteed. See page book of particulars free. Address: GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 155 Race St., Cincinnati, O., June 15.

—If you want to buy strawberries leave your order at John Bauer's fruit store, High street.

—If you intend to buy a new suit of clothes don't fail to call at the Philad. Branch.

—Some things are pretty evenly divided in this world for instance, an exchange says: "Two-thirds of the church members of this country are women," the infidel sneeringly remarks. Is there anything about that to be ashamed of? Here is another fact: Out of 45,000 convicts in our state prison more than 45,000 are men.

About Spring Fever. Who hasn't suffered from this disease? We say disease advisedly, for such it is. It is a general relaxation of the system that makes the victim averse to exertion. Unless the constitution is keyed up when these symptoms appear, some acute malady attacks the most venerable point and life is endangered. A good stimulant promptly and properly used soon tones up the weak spots. Leading physicians of the land invariably recommend the use of Pure Rye Whiskey in such cases. Max Klein's "Silver Age" and "Dunnesque" Rye Whiskies are sold under a sworn guarantee of purity so that the consumer takes no risk—"Silver Age" at $1.50 and "Dunnesque" at $1.25 per full quart bottle. Mr. Klein also keeps the largest and choicest stock of Brandy, Wines, etc., in Pennsylvania. Goods sent by express everywhere. Write for Catalogue and price list (mentioning this paper) to Max Klein, 82 Federal St., Allegheny City.
