

Peculiar

Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most valuable of the best medicines of the Kingdom. It is the only medicine of which can be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unobtainable. Sarsaparilla itself is the "greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in its "good name"—there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of other sales abroad. Peculiar in its preparation, which is not held so easily to the confidence of all classes of people. Peculiar in the brain-work which it represents, Hood's Sarsaparilla combines all the knowledge which modern research has brought to itself developed, with many years practical experience in preparing medicines. Be sure to get only Hood's Sarsaparilla.

YOUTHFUL CHURCH WORKERS

Decennial Convention of the Society of Christian Endeavor.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 10.—Sunny days, balmy air, hospitable homes was the welcome of the city of Minneapolis to the throngs of Youthful Endeavorers who trooped into town yesterday. The multitude is even larger than the hard working local committee had counted on, and even now it is apparent that the influx of visitors and delegates to this, the decennial convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor will pass the 15,000 mark set for it, and that the convention will be the largest in the society's history.

The largest single delegation to arrive was the New England train bringing 500. On this was Father Endeavor Clark, as he has been lovingly dubbed by the society he founded. He is the president and head of the movement.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the thousands assembled in the great auditorium of the exposition building. Frank B. Daniels, as chairman of the committee of 1891, called the immense assemblage to order and delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the committee. Then there were addresses of welcome on behalf of the Minneapolis and St. Paul pastors, and eloquent responses.

At last night's session Rev. O. H. Tiffany, D. D., of this city, presided, and after a service of praise the annual report of the united society was presented by General Secretary J. W. Bann, of Boston. Then the annual address of the united society was delivered by Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, of Boston.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 13.—Fully 15,000 people were in attendance at the closing session of the great Christian Endeavor convention last evening, 2,000 being compelled to stand, also an overflow meeting of 3,000 people were conducted just across the street in the open air.

The exercises were opened by the reading of the scriptures by Rev. W. F. Landon, president of the Minnesota union, after which prayer was offered by Rev. J. D. Decker, D. D., of Philadelphia. After the unanimous adoption of the report of the resolutions committee Rev. B. F. Bolte, chairman of the committee on nominations, offered the following list of officers, which were elected unanimously: President, Rev. Francis E. Clark, Boston, and a long list of vice presidents, among which were the following: Rev. H. C. McEwen, New York; Rev. R. E. Caldwell, Louisville, Ky.; Rev. Joseph A. Warden, Philadelphia; Rev. William Patterson, Toronto, and Rev. J. L. Parsons, St. Louis.

The closing address on the "Secret of Power" was delivered by Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D., pastor of Bethany Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, (Postmaster General Wanamaker's church), who also conducted a consecration service after which the benediction was pronounced and its great convention stood adjourned sine die.

THE LAUNCH CAPSIZED

And Three of the Four Occupants Found a Watery Grave.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Three men were drowned by the capsizing of the naphtha launch Ella at Long Beach. They were Louis Cameron, of East Rockaway; Reed B. Dennis, of Brooklyn, and George Norwood, of Flatbush. Cameron owned the launch.

The party left Long Beach at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in charge of Louden S. White. The boat was caught in the breakers at the mouth of the inlet and capsized on the bar, her four occupants being thrown into the water. White succeeded in reaching a buoy, and for three hours he clung to it while passing craft had failed to notice him, until he was sighted by the crew of the Jessie D. His three companions, he says, sank soon after the launch was capsized.

A rowboat containing three young men from Jersey City—Alexander Binion, John Toscher and James Bretton—was capsized off Sixth street, Hoboken, and all three of the men drowned. None of the bodies have been recovered.

William's Farewell to Victoria.

LONDON, July 14.—The kaiser returned from Hatfield house yesterday afternoon and returned to Windsor, whither he was escorted by the Life Guards. The queen met him at the entrance to the castle and led her imperial guest to her private apartments, where she embraced him with much warmth. After an hour's conversation the queen bade him an affectionate good-bye, and the kaiser took his departure for London. Here he joined the kaiserin and proceeded with her to the railroad station, where she took a train en route for Edinburgh, to remain a month at that place with her children. The kaiser expressed himself as delighted with his visit to Hatfield.

The German emperor was entertained at dinner last night at the home of Lady Dudley, where he met a choice company of titled guests.

His Life for His Son.

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., July 13.—P. W. Barney, superintendent of the Lake Champlain Transportation company, was drowned near the Kenesaw Fourteen Mile island, on Lake George, yesterday afternoon. While Mr. Barney and his boy were on the lake shore the little fellow lost his balance, and with the cry of "Father, save me" on his lips, pitched into the water. The father threw himself first into the lake, grasped the boy, and with the lad still in his arms, was drawn ashore by two men who chanced to witness the accident. A glance sufficed to tell the story. The forehead of the superintendent had been crushed in by projecting rock which he must have struck under the water.

More Election Frauds on Trial.

JERSEY CITY, July 14.—The trial of John P. Murray, Oscar C. Stringham, Thomas E. Smith and Martin J. Flynn for ballot box frauds while serving on the election board in the Fifth precinct of the Second district of Jersey City in the election of 1899 was begun before Judge Lippincott in the Hudson county court house. Five election boards have already been sentenced to eighteen months in state's prison for ballot box stuffing in that election.

Death Ends a Vacation.

BEVERLY, N. J., July 13.—One of the saddest drowning accidents that has occurred for some time took place in the Delaware river at a point about a mile below here. By the capsizing of their canoe, Samuel M. Leiper, real estate editor of the Philadelphia Times, and Thomas S. Kelly, also of Philadelphia, were both thrown into the river, and before help could reach them Leiper was drowned.

A FEAR CRAZED BOY.

Phittable Scenes at a Philadelphia Coroner's Office.

YOUTHFUL MURDERERS' TERROR.

One of the Juveniles Becomes So Fright Stricken Over the Terrible Charge Against Him That He Is Removed to the Hospital for Treatment.

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—The sad spectacle was witnessed at the coroner's office of two lads, the elder barely 16, who were present on the serious charge of having taken human life. The younger of the two was Joseph Fitzmaurice, aged 14 years, of No. 1313 South Front street, who stabbed John Sobieski, a Pole, aged 26 years, living at No. 77 South Front street, in the leg with a Barlow knife on Friday night at Front and Mead streets, from the effects of which he died the next day at the Pennsylvania hospital.

When Fitzmaurice was brought into the office his mother became hysterical, and at the conclusion of the case, when he was remanded by the coroner to a hospital to await the action of the grand jury, she grew nearly frantic.

Overcome by His Mother's Grief.

The poor lad was overcome by his mother's grief, and was only saved from fainting by the hurried application of restoratives. He trembled violently, and, unable to give vent to his feelings, in tears, gazed with dry but agonized eyes at his mother, who followed him, vainly calling his name as he was led back to the patrol wagon.

The evidence in the case showed that as Sobieski was passing Front and Mead streets on Friday on his way home from Harrison's sugar refinery, where he was employed, he encountered Fitzmaurice and his companions, who began to tease him. Sobieski finally resorted by attacking them, and had caught one of the boys, when Fitzmaurice drew a knife from his pocket, and, according to his story and that of his companions, threw it at the Pole. Sobieski then went to his home, with the blood streaming from the wound. It was subsequently sent to the Pennsylvania hospital.

Another Youthful Murderer.

The excitement created by Mrs. Fitzmaurice and her son had barely died away when the case of Thomas Crooks, Jr., aged 14 years, who died at the Episcopal hospital on Saturday, from the effect of a pistol shot inflicted earlier in the day by James Crossett, 16 years old, of 107 West Lehigh street, was called.

According to the story of Theodore Grace, aged 11, Thomas Mason, 11 years, and George Elliott, 12 years, the three lads, together with the dead boy, were playing in the Fairhill square on Saturday afternoon when Crossett came along and asked Crooks to go for a cent's worth of cigarettes for him. Crooks retorted laughingly that he would go if he could keep the change.

"You won't go far," replied Crossett, at the same time pulling from his pocket a 22-calibre pistol, and pointing it at the boy's head. There was a sharp report, and Crooks fell to the ground mortally wounded. He was taken to the Episcopal hospital, but died soon after admission.

His Composure Forsook Him.

During the hearing of the testimony, both in his own case and that of Fitzmaurice, Crossett had not manifested any feeling. When called to the witness stand he gave his testimony in what appeared to be the coolest and most unchalant manner. As he was leaving the witness stand his composure gave way, and he tottered in a dead faint and would have fallen but for the protecting arms that were thrown about him.

It was with extreme difficulty that he was finally restored to consciousness, and he was carried into the rear apartment to recover. After a lapse of over a half hour an effort was made to have him sign his name to the inquisition sheet. Piteous moans escaped from his lips, and as he took a seat he trembled violently. The tremors increased, and both arms and legs twitched convulsively.

An Alarming Condition.

His condition now grew so alarming that Coroner Ashbridge said: "This is no place for that boy. He needs immediate attention. I will confine the case. Take him at once to the Episcopal hospital for treatment, and let the doctors there telegraph me when he is ready to come here again."

As the boy was borne from the room to the waiting patrol wagon the spectators shuddered as they caught sight of the face. The moaning monotone had become almost a shriek, the poor lad's eyes were dimmed with fear and his mouth was distorted. He made wild gestures with his hands, and the expression of his face was that of a maniac.

It is said that ever since Crooks' death Crossett has been brooding over the affair, and has expressed himself in mortal terror lest he would be hanged.

Philadelphia's Ex-Treasurer, Begging the Term of Imprisonment.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—John Bardsley began his fifteen years in the Eastern Penitentiary yesterday afternoon. The transfer was made on the order of District Attorney Graham, who had accepted of the prisoner's request for a respite of a few days in which to settle up his business affairs.

As soon as the prison officials find out what Mr. Bardsley can best do in the way of work and his ability to perform labor he will be given employment.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Postmaster General Wanamaker appeared before the Bardsley investigating committee yesterday afternoon and asked to be allowed to testify. He explained his connection with Lucas in the Reading stock deal, showing that his actions were perfectly business like. Bardsley's statement that Lucas had obtained $200,000 from him for Mr. Wanamaker was without the slightest foundation. Mr. Wanamaker read letters from Comptroller Lacey and Assistant Secretary Nettleton to show that he had never from the start delayed the appointment of a receiver for the Reading Bank. Editors William V. McClain and Robert McWade, of the Public Ledger, also testified. H. H. Yard refused to testify, and the committee will take action to compel him to do so.

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—Failure of the committee to verify once a week the cash account of Bardsley, and the failure of the common law to provide for the issuing of a writ of habeas corpus in case of an official default, were the causes assigned by the judges of the court of common pleas No. 1 for refusing to grant the writ of certiorari asked for by the city against the ex-city treasurer's property. An attachment was issued against H. H. Yard, who was held to be in contempt of court in refusing to appear before committee investigating committee to be sworn and testify as ordered. Two receivers were named for the Reading Bank, Bank Examiner Dray was forwarded his resignation to Comptroller Lacey.

DEATH TRAP FOR TWO.

Fatal Upsetting of a Bateau in a Ferry Slip.

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—Mrs. Mollie Carpenter, 30 years old, wife of William Carpenter, a hickster, and her son, 7 years old, living at 630 Division street, Camden, were drowned in the Delaware river last night. Mr. Carpenter, with his wife and son, started out early in the evening to take a moonlight row. They rowed their bateau as far as the docks of the Pennsylvania Ferry company at the foot of Federal street, when Mr. Carpenter rested on his oars to allow his boat to be pulled to the slip for Philadelphia.

When he dipped the oars to pass the slip one of the oar locks broke. Looking up he saw the steamboat Pennsylvania entering the slip into which they had drifted and saw the great danger. As he uttered the cry of warning the big boat struck the bateau. Mrs. Carpenter was sitting in the stern, grabbed her son, while Mr. Carpenter got a firm hold of the rudder of the Pennsylvania. He heard his wife scream, and when he turned his head he saw her go over the side of the little craft and disappear beneath the swell from the wheels of the ferry boat with their son in her arms.

Veterans in Camp.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 14.—Camp Captain Maloney, Department of Pennsylvania, G. A. R., is the center of attraction here. Yesterday afternoon there was a reunion of the Twenty-eighth and One Hundred and Forty-seventh Pennsylvania volunteers and Knapp's battery in the hall of Reno post. Last night the Twenty-eighth Pennsylvania and the above named battery, together with the department officers, were entertained at the residence of W. E. Sprague. The One Hundred and Forty-seventh Pennsylvania were entertained at the residence of Captain N. B. Byres.

Died in the Doctor's Chair.

BRIDGEMONT, Pa., July 10.—Coroner Long is investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of James Dawson, aged 35 years, who died in the office of Dr. C. H. Mann, while under the influence of ether. Dawson, a single man, was employed in a mill, and had a finger lacerated, necessitating amputation. Dr. Mann etherized him. Shortly after Dawson passed into unconsciousness the doctor noticed that he was sinking. He died in a few minutes. Dr. Mann says he courts the most rigid investigation.

They Took No Inferior Goods.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., July 14.—The jewelry store of Howard Fitzsimmons was broken into by prying of a window shutter in the rear, and the large safe door opened by boring holes around the lock, which was thrown. Nearly $22,500 worth of watches, diamonds and other jewels were taken. The work was evidently that of experts, who took no watches with filled cases nor any stones but the genuine ones.

Powderly Will Not Serve.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 14.—General Master Workman Powderly has declined Governor Pattison's appointment as one of the Pennsylvania commissioners of the World's Fair. He says that the office would interfere with his other duties, besides he does not wish any unbecoming alliance with any political party particularly at this juncture when he is getting ready to wage his reform at the constitutional convention.

Union Men Called Out.

LEBANON, Pa., July 14.—All the members of the Amalgamated Association, several hundred in number, employed in the mill and bolt works here, were called out last night on account of the company refusing to sign the scale of prices of the association. The sixteenth bolt rolling mill was started yesterday with a number of non-union men.

Big Fire at Foster, Pa.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 14.—The Exchange hotel, the Delaware, Lockwood and Western Depot, Mrs. U. A. Tingley's millinery store, Dr. Johnson's drug store and Mrs. Rhoda Case's dwelling house, together with two barns, were burned at Foster, twenty-five miles north of this city, yesterday. Loss, $20,000.

Fatal Accident in Danville.

DANVILLE, Pa., July 13.—Joseph Hinson and Joseph Keefe, who engaged in tinning the roof of the hospital for the insane, fell to the ground a distance of sixty feet. Hinson was instantly killed and Keefe died a few hours after from the injuries he received.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Mrs. Packson is the charming mayor of Kiowa, Kans., and was no sooner sworn into office than she did what her predecessor and the police officers had said was impossible. She closed the saloons so tight that her own husband couldn't get a tonsil-tickler and when he went along with a committee of the boys to ask her to let up a little she answered "No" with an emphasis which shook the filling out of their back teeth. Mr. Packson might be her husband, but he wasn't running that city while she was around.—Times.
